In order to make these proposed changes, Teets said there will also be certain reductions in the budget. For example, there will be four fewer teaching positions in 2008-09, with 16 positions budgeted at Step 1 of the salary schedule based upon retirements and existing vacancies. Additional textbooks will also not be purchased other than the already approved commitments to the CTE program.

There will be a 15-cent increase in the cost of paid lunches in order to support the Food Services budget, and a reduction in school lunch hours at various schools will need to be implemented as well. This is all because of the declining participation and higher costs, according to Teets.

Services to continue include:

•school allocations for supplies and equipment;

•academic coach program;

•other transportation for bands, athletics, etc.;

•pre-school program, and support for teachers through staff development;

•number of nurses and nursing assistants;

•data-driven instruction;

•the collaborative transition program with Appalachian Crossroads;

•Family Support Worker Program;

•academic intervention programs during and after school and in the summer;

•advanced placement testing;

•replacement of musical instruments;

•replacement of computers; and

•robotics and LEGO programs.

The funding for specific school maintenance projects is continuing at a level of $220,200, and funding for equipment of schools under operation of plants is continuing at a level of $76,700.

The increase in state-aid funding totals $133,341. Other state funding increases by $20,832, and other federal funding increases by only $1,650. The decrease in Title V funding totals $9,675, and decrease in Medicare funding totals $179,897.

Dr. Teets plans to ask the county commissioners for a local appropriation increase of $2,393,806 for the operating budget, an additional $4,192,071 for school construction, and an additional $880,000 for post-retirement insurance benefits.

Dr. Teets also noted the many accomplishments of the Garrett County school system, including the fact that the system was one of only three in the state of Maryland that achieved AYP (Annual Yearly Progress) for 2007; that the local system is the first in the state to earn accreditation in all of its pre-school, kindergarten, and Head Start programs; and that both county high schools recently placed among the best in the nation for overall quality.

The Board of Education will hold a special meeting next Monday, Feb. 25, beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the BOE office building in Oakland to review and take action on the proposed operating budget.

Lakers Whip Wesleyan JVs, But Ousted From Tourney By Rockville

Hitting a dozen three-point shots and 44 points between them, Dale Taylor and Shawn Greenfield led the Garrett College Lakers to a 94-66 blowout of the West Virginia Wesleyan junior varsity Sunday afternoon in Buckhannon.

It was the final game of the regular season for the Lakers, who entered the Maryland JUCO Conference tournament Tuesday night, but were then eliminated from the tourney by Montgomery Rockville, 74-72.

Dale Taylor finished with 25 points against Wesleyan on Sunday, with 21 of those being recorded on seven long-range baskets, while teammate Greenfield hit five three-pointers and finished with 19 points.

Also reaching double figures for Garrett were Terrance Taylor with 13 points and Glen Izevbigie with 11.

The Lakers took control of the game moments after the opening tip-off, racing out to a lopsided 56-26 lead by intermission.

The Wesleyan squad had five players finish in double figures, led by Jordan Watson with 13 points. Matt Metcalf recorded 12 points, all from three-point range, while Grant Burton, Joey Leech, and Zack Boudek each contributed 10 points.

The Lakers took a 17-9 overall record and a 10-7 mark into Tuesday's JUCO tourney, seeded #7, while Montgomery Rockville came in as the #10 seed.

CATCHING LOTS OF AIR in the photo above is Garrett College Laker Terrance Taylor, captured in the process of dunking the ball for two against Montgomery Rockville Tuesday evening in an opening-round game of the Maryland JUCO Tournament. The Lakers came up a few points short, however, as they were upset by the Knights, 74-72, in the final seconds of the game. Also in the photo at far left is Shawn Greenfield, who led the Lakers in scoring with 19 points. Driving the ball against a Rockville defender below is Southern High alum Joe Tressler. The Lakers' season is still not over, as they will enter the Region XX Tournament next Thursday. Photos by John McEwen.

Garrett held the lead through most of the first half, and was on top by seven, 34-27, at intermission, after Vladimir Nikolov hit three straight three-point shots in the closing minutes.

But the Knights closed the gap down the stretch, led by Donte Nicholas, who recorded only three points in the first half, all on free throws, but would go on to finish with a game-high of 25.

Rockville was still down by 10 points with about five minutes to play, but took a lead in the final minute of action.

Greenfield hit a bucket to give the Lakers a one-point lead, then stole an inbounds pass, drew a foul, and hit a pair of free throws to put the Lakers up by three, 72-69, with just 14 seconds to play.

Octavious Hinnant answered for Rockville with a 25-foot three-pointer to knot the score at 72-72 with under 10 seconds to play. The Lakers then turned the ball over on the inbounds play with five seconds left, which set up the game-winning bucket by Nicholas, who scored off a lob pass with three seconds left.

Greenfield led the Lakers in scoring with 19 points, Terrance Taylor finished with 15, and Vladimir Nikolov chipped in with nine points.

Also reaching double figures for Rockville were Julian Armstrong with 12 points, Hinnant with 11, and Bertner Alortore with 10.

"We played in spurts, but got complacent when we would get up by 10 or 11 points," GC coach Dennis Gibson said. "We also went just 13-for-23 at the foul line, and that just doesn't get it done in the playoffs."

Gibson added, "Rockville did a great job, though. We played well against Nicholas in the first half, but just couldn't contain him in the second half, and there is no doubt that he was the difference in the game."

The JUCO tournament will continue this weekend, with the championship game slated for Sunday.

The Lakers' season is still not over, however, as they will enter the Region XX Tournament quarterfinals at Hagerstown Community College next Thursday.

Ram Cagers Stymied By Sentinels; Stem Drops 32 Points On Spartans

The Southern High School boys' varsity basketball squad was handed a big 62-49 Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference home-court loss by Fort Hill Friday before dropping a 72-36 win on Bishop Walsh to bring its season mark to 10-8.

Southern held on for the ride Friday evening as the Fort Hill Sentinels mustered a strong defensive performance and stormed to a 62-49 victory. The Rams had some foul trouble, as they were hit with 15 to Fort Hill's eight.

The win makes Fort Hill 19-2 overall, and the Sentinels clinched at least a tie for the AMAC title with a 12-0 record and two games to go.

Ram Romp Leads To Crushing Of Tucker County And Frankfort

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team netted two recent victories as the Rams first pushed an uneven, 62-54, attack on the Tucker County Mountain Lions last Thursday, then edged a very determined Frankfort squad, 68-67, in overtime Monday night. Southern was slated to host Bishop Walsh Wednesday night, but the game was postponed when Garrett County schools were dismissed early.

The Rams downed the Mountain Lions, 62-54, last Thursday at Garrett College, where Southern took control early with a 17-12 first-quarter lead en route to a 35-24 halftime advantage and a 52-35 margin heading into the final stanza.

Ram junior forward Shayna Sweitzer fueled the attack in scoring and rebounding, with 24 points and six boards. Senior forward Brittany Boyce put 18 points on the board, while junior wing Kerry Conroy added 13.

Lyndsey Nestor recorded a game-high 27 points for Tucker (16-2), and Anna Hebb and Stephanie Bennett each scored 12 points.

Southern won the jayvee game, 39-25, behind Claire Wilkinson's 14 points.

Monday night's contest in Oakland was another Ram romp, as Southern jumped to a 68-67 success after a period of overtime.

The two evenly matched teams were neck and neck at halftime after Southern made up for a three-point first quarter deficit, and the Rams were ahead 44-39 in the fourth quarter before locking again at 58-all at the end of regulation play.

Ram junior wing Torie Bosley hit five golden field goals, each being from outside the three-point line, and she was 7-for-10 on foul shots to register 22 points. Sweitzer added 18 points and six rebounds, and Boyce scored seven points to go with five boards.

The teams were also similar at the foul line. Southern finished 22-of-36, while the Falcons (12-7) made 21-of-35. Three hoopsters from Southern and two from Frankfort fouled out in the very physical clash. The win puts Southern at 15-4.

Sophomore Anna Keefer scored 12 points for Southern in its 40-25 victory during the jayvee game. Allie Lantz finished with 12 for the Falcons.

Upcoming schedules for make-up games and play-off dates were not received in time for the press run today.

Eric Diamond led Bishop Walsh (10-14) with 15 points.

James Loffert provided 17 points in a 49-34 Bishop Walsh junior varsity win, and Joe Kisselovich recorded 19 for Southern.

Gibson Fuels Huskies' Wins Over BW, Hampshire; Fall To Keyser

High School boys' basketball got off to a promising start this week for the Northern varsity squad when Hampshire fell victim to a 61-50 Husky run on Friday, and Bishop Walsh came out on the bottom of a 62-59 Husky win Saturday, but the conditions clouded when the Huskies went into a whirlwind Monday night, and the Keyser Golden Tornados swept up an 83-55 win in a make-up game.

Northern led a uncommonly balanced offensive attack on the Hampshire Trojans in Friday's contest, with three Huskies recording within ballpark scores of each other. Gibson and Smith collected Northern's seven shots from behind the three-point line.

Northern led 16-7 after one quarter, 35-18 after two, and 51-27 after three. No further details were received.

Senior forward Kory Gibson led the way with 17 points, followed by fellow senior forward Dustin Platter with 16 and senior guard Jeff Smith with 13.

Just when it seemed Gibson had scored all he could in one game, he hit one more basket to up his season career points. Gibson put up a season high 42 points, 10 of which were the Huskies' final points, in Saturday night's contest at Bishop Walsh to lift the Huskies to a 62-59 triumph.

Gibson's 12 baskets included all seven of the Huskies' three-pointers, and he was good on 10 of 17 free throws.

Bishop Walsh was led by Alex Trivanovic's double-double with 16 points and 17 rebounds. Dylan D'Atri contributed 15 points, and Eric Diamond had nine.

Northern broke a 52-all tie with 2:10 remaining in the game when Gibson hit two threes in a row. He then sank four free throws to prevent the Spartans from challenging a comeback.

The Spartan jayvees ran away with a 49-40 win when Dillon Dunn scored 17 points and James Loffet, 11. Matt Gibson and Tony Humbertson each recorded 10 for the Huskies.

The beginning of Monday night's make-up contest at Keyser was a hard fought affair, but the Huskies fell behind in the second quarter as Keyser cagers Preston Hartman, Jeremy Green, and Wes Washington played a numbers game, each racking up double-doubles in an 83-55 Keyser win.

Ram Grapplers Win Region Dual Title, But Fall In State Tourney

The quest for a Maryland dual state championship title in wrestling was dashed for the top-seeded Southern High School team on Saturday when the Rams were edged by fourth seeded Glenelg, 34-33, in the 1A/2A semifinals, hosted by Southern.

The Rams coasted into the state semifinals by rolling over visiting Williamsport, 72-6, and Mountain Ridge, 41-25, to win the 1A/2A West Region crown last Thursday.

In the lopsided victory over Williamsport, the visiting team's only individual win was that of Robbie Mies, who won by pinfall in the 160-pound division.

Recording pin victories for the Rams were Matt Armstrong in the 103-pound division, Josh Arnold at 119 pounds, Nicholas Brant at 130, Jakob Scheffel at 135, Davey Sweitzer at 140, Kody Lewis at 152, Nick Farmer at 171, Ryan Bennett at 189, Ryan Fitzwater at 215, and Sean Sisler in the heavyweight division.

Winning by technical fall for Southern was George Scheffel in the 125-pound division, while Jordan Skipper gained a major decision at 145 pounds, and undefeated freshman Lex Ozias won by decision in the 112-pound bout.

Getting pins for the Rams against Mountain Ridge were Armstrong, Brant, Skipper, and Sisler, while George Scheffel won via technical fall, and Ozias, Arnold, Jakob Scheffel, and Farmer all won by decision.

Earning pins for the Miners were Stephen Whetstone (145), Nathan Payne (189), and Noah Devore (215).

Mountain Ridge defeated South Carroll, 41-25, to earn a spot in the finals against the Rams.

The victories upped Southern's perfect streak for the season to 16-0; however, that mark was finally tarnished by the one-point loss to Glenelg in the state dual event.

Lex Ozias (112) upped his personal record to 31-0 for his freshman season by pinning Nick Caffrey in just 51 seconds.

Defending state champion George Scheffel (125), a sophomore, recorded a 7-4 decision over state tournament runner-up Brian Marcoux, taking his personal record to 30-1.

Jakob Scheffel, also a freshman, won a 10-1 major decision over Craig Brinzda in the 130-pound division.

Jordan Skipper (145) followed with a 17-0 technical fall victory over Mike O'Leary.

Ryan Bennett (189), also a freshman for the Rams, gained an 8-4 decision over Jon Mullinex.

Sean Sisler then pinned Derek Patrick to win the 285-pound division.

Getting pins for Glenelg were Brandon Conway (119), Danny Birchner (135), Tim Chase (152), and Zack Cross (215). Zach Gerber (103), Chris Stinnett (140), and Alex Hufnagel (160) were decision winners.

Owings Mills, seeded second, topped Rising Sun, 34-26, in the other semifinal, and went on to edge Glenelg, 35-33, to win the state dual title.

The Rams, under head coach Dave Taylor, will compete in the Bi-County Tournament this Saturday at Fort Hill in Cumberland. They will enter the regular West Region tournament the following Friday.

Washington irritated the Husky offense as he provided 15 assists, grabbed three rebounds, and swiped one steal to go with his 11 points in the victory. Hartman recorded 19 points and 10 boards, while Green tallied 18 points, 10 rebounds, and three steals for the Golden Tornados (11-9 overall, 6-7 AMAC).

Gibson led the Huskies with a game-high 23 points, and Smith had 13 of his own. The two paired up to hit all seven three-point buckets for Northern, with Gibson getting four and Smith, three.

The win in the jayvee game went to Keyser, 50-33. Wes Stallinbarger scored 23 points in the win, while Steven Holtschneider finished with 11 for Northern.

Northern (9-10, 4-7 AMAC) will play on Friday at Mountain Ridge and will host Fort Hill Tuesday evening during the Huskies' senior night. Both games have starting times of 6 p.m. for the jayvees and 7:30 for the varsity teams.

SHS's Taylor Places In State Track Champ.

Samantha Taylor of Southern High School tied for fourth place in the pole vault at the Maryland High School Indoor Track and Field State Championships, held Monday in Prince George's County.

This makes her the first athlete from Southern to ever place at the state event, doing so in spite of battling a case of the flu that day, according to Coach Steve Cosner.

Cosner said that she also competed in the 55-meter hurdles, but tripped over the third hurdle in the semifinals and thus did not qualify for the finals.

The 3,200 relay team from Southern, consisting of Kim Stephens, Jennifer Cosner, Katie Gindlesberger, and Brittney Scheffel, placed eighth, recording a school record time of 11 minutes, 24.92 seconds.

Other SMC members who qualified and received participation awards were Hunter Park, Alec Horner, Erik Fike, Devan Hamrick, Corey Horner, Austin Sines, and Brad Clary.

The club will travel to State College, Pa., to compete in the Nittany Lion State College Tournament on Sunday.

ON THE BALL – Monday night's meeting between the girl dribblers of Northern High School and Mountain Ridge ended in a 74-56 victory for the Huskies. Husky Girls Pick Up Win Over Miners After Loss To Falcons

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team hit another bump on the road to season record perfection last Thursday evening as the Huskies came out on the short end in a 68-66 running match at home with Frankfort, but the Huskies bounded back into the winning column Monday night as they whipped Mountain Ridge in a lopsided 74-56 triumph. Wednesday night's game at Fort Hill was postponed when Garrett County schools implemented an early dismissal.

Frankfort (11-5, 9-3 AMAC) held the Huskies by the reins through much of the first half, maintaining a lead of 18-11 after one quarter and 38-33 at halftime. Northern appeared to gain some control in the third quarter, but Frankfort went on an 18-point shooting spree in the final quarter, and held the Huskies scoreless for 4½ minutes to come back for a victory.

Kaitlynn Fratz entertained the crowd by scoring 31 points for the Huskies, 23 of which came in the second and third quarters. Kasie Fratz recorded nine points, and Justine Harvey scored eight and collected 16 rebounds.

Frankfort's Aria Whiteman scored a team-best 18 points, and Diane Dayton tallied 16 points for the Falcons as she sank 10 of 11 shots from the foul line in the fourth quarter. Mariah Miller contributed 16 points in the win.

The Husky jayvees were downed by a tight 38-36 tally. Savannah Hose and Morghan Snyder led Frankfort with 12 points apiece, while Terra McKenzie and Morgan Brosnihan scored 13 points each.

Monday evening's clash at the Igloo was all Mountain Ridge until the final minutes of the second quarter when Kaitlynn Fratz sank a long shot at the buzzer as the Huskies jumped to a 31-23 halftime lead.

After being hustled by the Miners in a 15-9 opening quarter, the Huskies turned to a trapping zone defense that forced turnovers resulting in a 22-8 run and the eight-point halftime advantage.

In the second half, Northern took a 10-point, 53-43 advantage into the fourth quarter when Mountain Ridge scored the next six points to trail by four, 53-49. The Huskies pressured again, outscoring the Miners 21-7 for the 18-point victory.

Wiley had a big night with 16 baskets and 20 points after going 4-for-5 from the free-throw line. Katilynn Fratz added 15 points to the Northern offensive effort, Justine Harvey contributed 13, and Danielle Brenneman finished with 11. Harvey pulled in eight rebounds, Adria Graham led the team with five steals, and Kaitlynn Fratz provided five assists.

Mountain Ridge (11-9) was led by Danielle McGinnis's 20 points on 10 baskets. Jenna Delaney scored 14 and Madi Nightengale recorded 11. Delaney and McGinnis grabbed seven boards apiece.

The Huskies now sit at 14-5 overall and 7-5 in the conference.

Robotics Team Robot Bound For Annapolis

Garrett County's FIRST Robotics Competition Team 1629, the Garrett Coalition, completed work on this year's robot, Meshach 4.0, earlier this week. It was shipped on Tuesday, bound for temporary storage in Annapolis. It will rejoin the team for the Chesapeake Regional at the U.S. Naval Academy from March 13 to 15. From there, the robot and the team will travel to Cleveland, Ohio, for the Buckeye Regional, scheduled for March 20 to 22.

This year's game is called "Overdrive." The playing field is in the form of a racetrack, and there are four 40-inch inflated balls that start out on a 6-1/2-foot high overpass.

During competition, two competing teams of three robots each must remove the balls from the overpass and transport them around the track for points. Extra points can also be earned by hurling the balls over the overpass on each lap.

"Meshach 4.0 uses an ingenious system of springs and pneumatic cylinders to pick up the ball and launch it over the overpass," explained Phil Malone, team coach. "The robot is extremely compact and can hold the ball tightly while racing around the track. Most people are astonished when they see such a small robot launch the large ball over 10 feet in the air."

This year's test track and robot were built with help from the team's industry partners, Beitzel Corporation and Garrett Container Systems. The Garrett Engineering and Robotics Society (GEARS) provides the location for the team to practice, with help from the Economic Development Corporation and business sponsors like Phenix Technologies.

The Garrett Coalition team includes students from both Northern and Southern high schools. Rivalries are put aside for the purpose of competing in the FIRST Robotics Competitions. Their team flag states "Two schools, one team."

Malone explained that the Garrett Coalition team has shortened its name to GaCo.

"GaCo sounds like gecko, so we've adapted the two school colors into a stylized gecko shape colored in red and blue," he said. "The gecko, named Sticky, has been adopted as the team's new mascot, and its image is prominent on the shipping crate. We also use Sticky on our T-shirts and other team material."

Malone explained that it's critical that all teams ship their robots on the same day. If the shipping date is missed, the team is eliminated from the competition.

A FedEx pickup was scheduled at the GEARS building on Tuesday between 1 and 4 p.m. However, by 4:30 p.m., the truck hadn't arrived. After several frantic phone calls, the truck showed up at 5 p.m.

"They couldn't get the crate loaded because the lift wasn't working," Malone said. "After loaning them a battery charger, the problems were resolved, and the shipment left at about 5:30, much to everyone's relief."

HEADED FOR ANOTHER COMPETITION – The Garrett Coalition (GaCo) team completed preparation of their new robot, Meshach 4.0, for their next competition, which is the Chesapeake Regional in Annapolis from March 13 to 15. The team will also travel to Cleveland, Ohio, for the Buckeye Regional, which is scheduled for March 20 to 22. Pictured above, seated, are Jeffrey Trautwein, NHS; and Jacob Bramande, SHS. Behind them, seated, are Dan Nordic, Garrett Container Systems; and Phil Malone. In the third row are Blake Harman, NHS; Emily Rosser, NHS; Stephanie Lee, SHS; Mitch Hall, NHS; Devynn Brant, SHS; and John McGettigan, SHS. In the back row are Larry Mullenax, parent; Zach Trautwein, NHS; Cheryl Gnegy, Garrett County Board of Education; Jared Arnold, SHS; Don McGettigan, parent; Chris Wood, NHS; Sarah Storck, SHS; Brian Bramande, SHS; A.J. Storck, SHS; and Chuck Trautwein, Garrett County Board of Education. Not present for the photo were J.P. Law, Andrew Beitzel, Dylan Beitzel, and Shaun Adams, all of NHS.

READY FOR THE JOURNEY – Despite a few challenges, the GaCo team robot, Meshach 4.0, began its journey this past Tuesday for the Chesapeake Regional in Annapolis from March 13 to 15. From there, it will travel to Cleveland, Ohio, for the Buckeye Regional from March 20 to 22. Pictured above is the crate containing the robot. Below, the robot is being loaded by Phil Malone (inside crate) and Josh Hinebaugh.

REACHER CAN CARRY A LOT OF WEIGHT

For people that cannot reach certain heights because they are in a wheelchair or they do not want to risk stepping on a stepladder, an aluminum reacher is an excellent tool. Users simply pull a trigger towards them, put the out-of-reach item in the reacher's jaws, release the trigger, and take the item down. The reacher can not only grip objects easily, but it can also carry something as light as a feather or as heavy as a brick (some with as much as a 5-pound maximum). Because it has a comfort grip handle with a bottom pivot trigger, people with weak hands can use it effectively. The reacher itself is lightweight and stores easily.

Assistive devices, such as this reacher, may be needed to accomplish many of the tasks of daily living. TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., provides a full array of home care and personal care to assist our clients. We offer comfort and security with concern and respect. If you would like more information or wish to schedule a consultation, please call us. Our caring staff is available for 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Each care provider is employed by Tender Loving Home Care – which relieves clients and families of burdensome tax obligations. Our adult clients are primarily elderly, requesting non-medical assisted living at home.

P.S. Some reachers feature a magnet embedded in the rubber tip at the front so that metal items too small to be gripped can be picked up.

MERCURY AND HEALTH

Q. In the news lately there has been a lot of concern about mercury. What's so bad about it?

A. The concern, which is entirely real, is because mercury is a neurotoxin, meaning a chemical that adversely affects the nervous system. That hazard has only been recognized in the last century, even though mercury has been known and used for 10,000 years.

Mercury is a metal that is liquid at room temperature, which makes it unusual. It will solidify if cooled down enough (to minus 39°C), but being a dense liquid makes it useful.

Mercury is ideal for use in barometers (to measure atmospheric pressure). Under standard conditions at sea level, the weight of the atmosphere will support a column of mercury 760 millimeters high (about 30 inches). You hear weather reporters on TV report the barometric pressure in "inches of mercury." As you rise in altitude, the normal atmospheric pressure decreases; "standard" pressure in Garrett County is about 28½ inches. It is similarly possible to determine the atmospheric pressure by measuring the height of a column of some other fluid, but if you chose water, for instance, the column would be 34 feet high. What makes a mercury barometer a convenient size is that mercury is the densest liquid that exists.

Mercury is used in thermometers as well. Increasing heat expands a narrow column of mercury enough to show a change of just a fraction of a degree. For many years, fever thermometers were made using mercury, so that a very accurate body temperature could be reported to the doctor.

Those are the good uses of mercury. But it does other things, too.

In centuries past, a bowler hat could be shaped by turning it upside down and filling it with mercury, and letting it sit around for a week or so. It was eventually noticed that the hat-makers who did so were extremely nervous individuals, indeed somewhat irrational. Lewis Carroll's book Alice in Wonderland contained a character called the Mad Hatter, and this drew the public's attention to this anomaly. Eventually, medical investigations showed that it was breathing near the open vats of mercury that caused their condition, and eventually the adverse effects of mercury on the nervous system were confirmed.

Parents used to let their kids play with little drops of mercury, but no more. Today there is a serious effort to keep mercury from getting inside the human body. Once in a while decades ago, a child would bite off the stem of a thermometer, getting a small amount of mercury in his/her stomach. To minimize that risk, modern fever thermometers use a different expanding liquid.

Small quantities of mercury are contained in coal (about 50 parts per billion), and when the coal is burned to make electricity, mercury is released into the atmosphere. The trouble is, more than a billion tons of coal are burned annually in America, and so about 50 tons of mercury go into the air every year. Mercury in the environment finds its way into rivers, lakes, and oceans. It's taken up by small fish, which are eaten by bigger fish, and thus the mercury gets concentrated.

The way our bodies acquire mercury is by eating fish. Several decades ago, some people on islands near Japan became ill from mercury, and soon grocery stores banned swordfish for a while because they contained mercury. Further investigation revealed that those people ate an unbalanced diet exceptionally heavy in certain fish. But in countries where fish is just a normal fraction of the diet, the small amounts of mercury are not a health hazard.

Most people are not affected by ingesting small amounts of mercury. However, pregnant and nursing women and very young children should avoid mercury-containing fish (swordfish, albacore tuna, etc.), because even small amounts of mercury might affect the developing nervous system. In the absence of better medical knowledge, it's wise to be cautious.

Releases of mercury are declining. Modern coal-fired power plants are equipped with scrubbers, which take out several pollutants, and gather up some of the mercury before it escapes from the generation plant. Scrubber technology is constantly improving, and other nations are beginning to control mercury as well.

Both federal and state agencies pay attention to mercury content in local fish populations, and issue recommendations about how often to eat fish. Deep Creek Lake is monitored for mercury, but no fish have been banned because of it.

Broad Ford Elem. Math-A-Thon Now Under Way

Broad Ford Elementary School will be sponsoring a St. Jude Math-A-Thon to benefit the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, the world's premier pediatric cancer research center.

The fundraising, which began on Feb. 18, will run through mid-March. Each participating student will complete math problems in a "fun-book," and donations may be made at a flat rate, or by donating a specified amount for each correctly answered problem.

"Our goal in holding this event is to help the children of the world who are stricken with diseases like cancer, AIDS, sickle cell disease, and other catastrophic illnesses," said Suzanne Sincell, coordinator of the event and principal at Broad Ford Elementary School.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is internationally recognized for its work in finding cures for catastrophic illnesses among children. Founded by the late entertainer Danny Thomas, and based in Memphis, Tenn., St. Jude shares its research with scientific and medical communities around the world. No family ever pays for treatments not covered by insurance companies, and families without medical insurance are never asked to pay.

St. Jude is financially supported by ALSAC, its fundraising organization, through events such as the Math-A-Thon. Persons interested in making a donation are asked to call Broad Ford Elementary School at 301-334-9445. For more information about the fundraiser, persons may visit www.mathathon.com.

CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH MONTH

SIPPY CUPS AND YOUR CHILD'S TEETH
by Cynthia A. Heselbach, RDH
Garrett County Health Department

As soon as teeth appear in the mouth, decay can occur. One of the risk factors for early childhood decay (sometimes called baby bottle tooth decay or nursing mouth syndrome) is frequent and prolonged exposure of a baby's teeth to liquids, such as fruit juice, milk, or formula, which all contain sugar.

Tooth decay can occur when a baby is put to bed with a bottle. Infants should finish their naptime or bedtime bottle before going to bed. Because decay can destroy the teeth of an infant or young child, you should encourage your children to drink from a cup by their first birthday.

Many training cups, also called sippy or tippy cups, are available in stores. Many are "no spill" cups, which are essentially baby bottles in disguise. "No spill" cups include a valve beneath the spout to stop spills. However, cups with valves do not allow your child to sip. Instead the child gets liquid by sucking on the cup, much like a baby bottle. This practice defeats the purpose of using a training cup, as it prevents the child from learning to sip.

Don't let your child carry the training cup around. Toddlers are often unsteady on their feet. They take an unnecessary risk if they try to walk and drink at the same time. Falling may occur while drinking from a cup, which has the potential to injure the mouth.

A training cup should be used temporarily. Once your child has learned how to sip, the training cup has achieved its purpose. It can and should be set aside when no longer needed.

For sipping success, carefully choose and use a training cup. As the first birthday approaches, encourage your child to drink from a cup. As this changeover from baby bottle to training cup takes place, be very careful: what kind of training cup you choose, what goes in the cup, how frequently your child sips from it, and that your child does not carry the cup around.

Talk to your dentist for more information. If your child has not had a dental examination, schedule a "well baby checkup" for his or her teeth. The American Dental Association says that it is beneficial for the first dental visit to occur within six months of the appearance of the first tooth, and not later than the child's first birthday.

Two new non-credit courses, "Coaching for Supervisors" and "Creative Thinking," geared toward employees, managers, and owners of small businesses are set to start in March at Garrett College.

"Both courses are designed to change the perspectives of the participants and broaden their approach to challenges in business and in life," a college spokesperson said.

"Coaching for Supervisors," scheduled for March 10–31, will cover the traits of effective supervisors who coach as well as lead.

Topics during the four 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. sessions include coaching for performance, management versus leadership, coach versus doer, delegation, importance of goal setting, motivation, forms of feedback, recognition, coaching myths, and the return on investment of coaching.

The instructor for this course is Jeannette Rudy-Fitzwater, First United Bank and Trust senior vice president/director of human resources.

"Creative Thinking" is a one-day session to be held 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on March 19 at the McHenry campus.

Participants will gain an understanding of how the development of independent thoughts can contribute to the collective group process. Techniques taught may be applied to professional and personal challenges.

This course is offered in conjunction with the Maryland Institute for Workforce Excellence.

Vitamin C and Green Tea

Unlike some other vitamins, vitamin C (ascorbic acid) cannot be made in the body. It is, however, found in many foods including citrus fruits and juices, tomatoes, broccoli, leafy greens, strawberries, and potatoes. This vitamin plays an important role in the growth and repair of body tissues, especially skin, bones, and teeth. Green tea comes from the plant Camellia sinensis. It has antioxidant activity and had been used in Traditional Chinese Medicine to treat numerous ailments.

A recent study showed that taking vitamin C or drinking citrus juices with green tea increased the amount of catechins absorbed from green tea. Catechins are responsible for most of green tea's antioxidant activity. However, these substances are unstable in non-acidic environments, such as in the intestines, causing only a small amount to be absorbed into the body. Drinking acidic citrus juices or taking vitamin C causes the catechins to remain stable, and allows more of them to be absorbed. This may enhance the health effects of green tea. More research is needed to fully evaluate the effect of supplementing green tea with vitamin C.

A Painted Smile

"The whole world loves a clown." Why? Could it be the huge smile that makes us feel happy? That smile is painted on to make an impression, but the clown's true emotions aren't revealed. We don't know what's going on behind that painted smile.

Some of us present an image to the world and keep our true feelings hidden. We might be laughing on the outside while suffering pain and depression. We might fool others with a pretend smile, but what do we do when we're alone with our despair? How can we help the pain in our hearts?

We can spend time with God every day and learn to lean on Him and give Him our sorrows. We can worship at His House joyfully each week and cultivate a happy heart; Proverbs (15:13) says, "A happy heart makes the face cheerful." Then our smile can be a real one, not a painted smile!

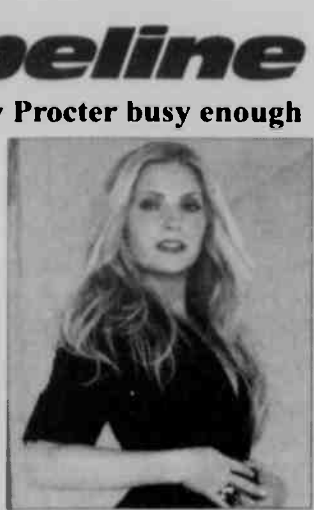
Keep Learning



The Italian phrase "Ancora Imparo," which means "I am still learning," is said to have been uttered by Michelangelo when he was 87 years old. Some might find it more than a little ironic that such a genius and true Renaissance man as Michelangelo would still be learning near the end of his life – he died at the age of 88 – but it was precisely his insatiable curiosity and desire to keep learning that made him the great artist, inventor, and engineer that he was. Think of how much poorer the world would be if he had refused to paint the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel simply because he thought of himself primarily as a sculptor and didn't want to stretch his talents. And, when you look at his great sculptures, such as the Pieta and the David, you can readily understand why he thought of himself primarily as a sculptor. But fortunately, he was willing to continue to learn and expand his knowledge and talents. The universe is inexhaustible; there is no end to the writing of books or the acquisition of knowledge, or the making of art. And while his thought should give us pause and even humble us, it should also equally excite and interest us. What a wonderful journey of exploration and adventure we are on! Keep learning. There is a whole universe out there just waiting to be discovered!

A wise man will hear and increase learning, and a man of understanding will attain wise counsel.
New K.J.V. Proverbs 1:5

'CSI' cases keep Emily Procter busy enough

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Emily Procter

Q: Has Emily Procter of "CSI: Miami" been in any other shows recently? Perhaps a Hallmark movie? –Diane Graifemberg, Dallas

A: Her weekly role on her CBS series has kept her quite busy, the writers strike notwithstanding, so the actress has done virtually no outside work since the show's 2002 debut. However, she appeared opposite Martin Lawrence in the 2006 big-screen comedy "Big Momma's House 2."

Q: Several years ago, I enjoyed watching a series on NBC about a freshman senator from California and the trials and tribulations he faced. Might you know the name of the series and whether it is available on DVD? –Mark Caltagirone, Reading, Pa.

A: It was "Mister Sterling," which aired in 2003. Josh Brolin, James Brolin's son, who's had a great movie run lately ("No Country for Old Men," "American Gangster," "In the Valley of Elah"), played the title role in the relatively short-lived show that also featured Gerald McRaney and Portia de Rossi. We know of no plans for a DVD release of the series.

Q: This is related to a recent question you answered about newsman Lee Cowan. For many years, I have admired Chip Reid, but I have suddenly noticed that he has not been on for some time. Is he no longer with NBC News? –Robert Browne, Mount Vernon, Ohio

A: In a sense, the two correspondents traded networks. Cowan left CBS for NBC just before Reid departed from NBC to go to CBS, where he has been on the Capitol Hill beat since September. For three years prior to that, he had covered Congress for NBC, so he has remained on familiar turf both figuratively and literally. In fact, for the first half of the 1990s, Reid was a local television reporter in Washington, D.C.

Q: My favorite show, "Studio 60 on the Sunset Strip," just disappeared. Will there be any more episodes or replays? –Sharon Thayer, St. Croix, Virgin Islands

A: There definitely won't be more episodes, indicated by NBC giving the show a very long hiatus last season and letting it finish up only after the television year had ended. Another clue: "Studio 60 on the Sunset Strip: The Complete Series" – the DVD set's official title – is available from Warner Home Video. No network is planning repeats as far as we know.

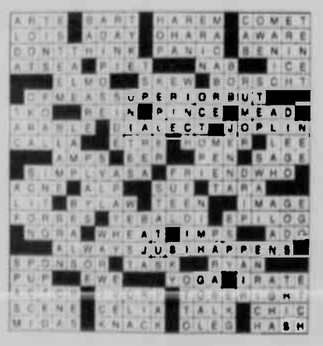
Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Those who study such things say that baboons can only throw underhanded, never overhand.

• It was British playwright Oscar Wilde who made the following sage observation: "Only the shallow know themselves."

• Baseball is the national pastime, and even those you might not immediately think of as sports fans can get caught up in the excitement. Take composers, for instance - they're generally thought of as a rather stuffy lot, right? Well famed composer John Philip Sousa was an avid fan. In fact, at the request of Judge Kenesaw Mountain, major-league baseball's first high commissioner, Sousa composed the march "The National Game" in 1925.



• Are you a turophile? I certainly am! "Turophile" is just a fancy way of saying "cheese-lover."

• Weddings are universal. In all countries and cultures, all over the world, there is a ritual of joining people together in a lifelong bond. Of course, they don't always do it in exactly the same way. In India, for instance, as a part of the Hindu marriage ceremony the parents of the bride wash the bride and groom's feet with milk and water. Seems like an odd way to start out a relationship with your new son-in-law.

• Most people are aware of the fact that scorpions have eight legs, but you probably didn't realize that they also have eight eyes.

• Those who study such things say that India was once an island. It was some years ago, of course — about 50 million years ago.

• On March 2, 1904, Theodor Geisel, better known to the world as Dr. Seuss, author of such children's books as "The Cat in the Hat," is born in Springfield, Mass. Geisel's first book, "And to Think That I Saw It on Mulberry Street," was rejected by more than two dozen publishers before making it into print in 1937.

• On Feb. 29, 1928, director and screenwriter William DeMille, brother of director Cecil B. DeMille, hires Beth Brown to write jokes for the film "Tenth Avenue." Brown was the first woman on record to work as a Hollywood comedy writer.

Cat Training?

Q. You recently ran a series on basic training for dogs. Is there such a thing as basic training for cats? Is it even possible to train a cat? — Burt T., Clute, Texas

A. Well, anything's possible, even training a cat. Actually, cats can be trained, although the approach must be somewhat different and their reaction to your training will be completely different from the way a dog reacts to training.

Cats are fairly independent animals, but they take many actions on instinct, and it is this instinct you have to channel in order to train them. For example, cats tend to eliminate and bury their waste in sand or loose dirt, and in a private spot, and this is the first and most common training element that owners introduce. That's right — showing your cat where the litter box is and placing it in the box so that it notices the loose clay is one step in basic training.

Like dogs, cats respond to positive stimuli, including healthy treats, petting and praise. They also learn to recognize negative signs: For example, hissing at a cat is a common way to tell it "Don't do that!" — although it will probably perceive this as the more dominant family member telling it to take a hike.

Observe your cat closely to see how it instinctively acts during the day — playing, hunting, resting or getting into trouble. You can develop a training program tailored to the individual way that your cat acts and reacts. Don't expect it to roll over on command and jump through hoops — though there are some cats that can do that — but getting your cat to use the litter box, stay off the counter and come when called are pretty useful basic skills.

Geronimo Photo

Q. I have an autographed picture of Geronimo. According to typed information on the back of the image, it was purchased at the St. Louis Exposition of 1904. It is postcard size and in excellent condition. — Cleo, Sun City West, Ariz.

A. Geronimo and the cascade fountains were among the top attractions at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. Images of Geronimo by photographer William Herman Rau were sold along the Pike. Geronimo — then 70 years old — is both erect and proud in the St. Louis images that I've seen. I recommend you contact an expert about your autographed photo. Terry Etherton, owner of Etherton Gallery, is respected throughout the Southwest for his expertise. His contact information is 135 South Sixth Ave., Tucson, AZ 85701; info@ethertongallery.com; www.ethertongallery.com; and 520-624.7340.

Q. I have a stereo player from the 1950s along with a large collection of records. How can I find a buyer? — Phyllis, Tewksbury, Mass.

A. One of the better dealers in New England is Richard Gesner, owner of The Music Connection, 1711 South Willow St., Manchester, NH 03103; 603-644-0199. Although Gesner swaps and doesn't buy, he might be able to advise you. Gesner has built a solid reputation for being one of the oldest and largest record shops in New Hampshire and specializes in 16 rpm, 33 rpm, 45 rpm, 78 rpm, cylinder, cassette, CD, and 8-track recordings, in addition to sheet music and other memorabilia.

State's Record With AP Program Among The Best

Maryland continues to rank among the nation's best in the rigorous Advanced Placement (AP) program, both in the percentage of students scoring at college-mastery levels and in the growth of that percentage in recent years, according to a new report released last week.

Maryland made the second-largest gain over the past five years in the percentage of students scoring at high levels, according to the College Board, which administers the AP program. The percentage of Maryland students earning a score of 3 or higher on AP exams increased 6.0 percentage points between 2002 and 2007, from 16.4 percent to 22.4 percent, second only to Vermont.

A score of 3 or better on the 5-point scale is considered a demonstration of college mastery, as many colleges consider awarding full credit for AP results at that level.

"Advanced Placement Report to the Nation: 2008," the College Board's fourth annual analysis of the rigorous assessment program, gives high marks to efforts taking place in Maryland schools. Maryland ranks second only to New York in the percentage of high school students scoring at mastery levels.

"We have found that Maryland high school students can meet high standards and achieve great results," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "Our schools have the duty to challenge students, as well as to support them as they reach for a higher academic level."

College Board president Gaston Caperton praised Maryland's work. "Under the leadership of Dr. Grasmick, Maryland now leads the nation in AP participation and performance," he said. "I congratulate Maryland's educators on the results they have achieved and their commitment to preparing all students for success in college."

Maryland is the only state to rank in the top two in both the percentage of students scoring at the college-mastery levels and the growth in that percentage.

In recent years, Maryland has dramatically increased the AP participation rate among minority students. The new report recognizes Maryland for increasing Hispanic participation to the point of eliminating the "equity and excellence gap," as well as for its efforts to bring more African American students into the program.

No state in the nation has been able to overcome the gap for African American students, but 8.3 percent of students receiving a grade of 3 or better in Maryland were African American, which is the fifth-highest percentage in the country. Only 6.4 percent of the Maryland students scoring in the college-mastery range were African American in 2002.

The report includes a variety of data regarding state participation and performance in the AP examinations. For example:

•Maryland had 20,314 seniors participating in the AP program in 2007. That's up from 12,078 in 2002 and an increase of more than 2,000 students in just one year.

•More than one-third of all graduating seniors in Maryland – 35.3 percent – took an AP exam in high school. That ranks third after New York and Florida.

•A total of 12,928 Maryland seniors received a 3 or better on a 2007 AP exam. That's the 11th highest total in the nation, even though Maryland is only the 19th most populous state in the union.

The AP Program, which began in 1955, allows students to pursue college-level studies while still in high school. Students of different interests and backgrounds can choose from among 35 courses and exams in 19 subject areas to demonstrate their knowledge of rigorous academic curriculum.

LITERACY NIGHT INTRODUCED AT KITZMILLER ELEMENTARY – Kitzmiller Elementary School recently held its first Literacy Night at which parents and students completed age-appropriate activities using Jan Brett's books after enjoying a winter-themed meal. Students from Sandy DeWitt's and Bridget Corbin's classes made plaster animal tracks after reading Annie and the Wild Animals, and each student was given a free book for attending. The purchasing of the books was funded by donations from Kitzmiller Lions Club, Feel the Heat Firewood Co., Backbone Construction, Glotfelty Tires, G&S Coal, Team One, Rigidply Rafters, Mt. Top Fruit Market, and Burdock Funeral Home. The meal was provided by the Kitzmiller after-school program and funded by the Garrett County Health Department. The next Literacy Night is scheduled for Monday, March 3, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the school. Above, from left, are participants Emily Welch, Brandon Lucas, Cole Baker, Lauren Sharpless, and Cole Sweitzer. Behind are teachers Patty Lucas and Corbin.

Craig Named To Dean's List

Kailee Craig, a graduate of Mercersburg Academy, has been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at the College of Wooster in Wooster, Ohio.

Craig, a junior political science major from Oakland, achieved a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

The College of Wooster is an independent liberal arts college with a curriculum that emphasizes independent learning. Each Wooster senior creates an original research project, written work, performance, or exhibit of artwork, supported by a faculty member. Founded in 1866, the college has an enrollment of approximately 1,800 students.

Ryan Completing Student Teaching

Andrea Ryan, Oakland, a secondary education major at West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, is completing her student teacher rotation. She is teaching at Buckhannon Upshur High and Buckhannon Upshur Middle schools.

According to a spokesperson for the college, the Wesleyan student teaching program is designed to provide students with a diverse background of experiences that is not available in all education departments. Wesleyan's education department continually assesses student needs and performance, and then adapts the program to assure a high level of student competency upon graduation, the spokesperson said.

West Virginia Wesleyan's education program is approved by the West Virginia Department of Education and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE). Graduates who complete the teacher education program qualify for professional licensure in West Virginia and most other states. The college also offers a master's in education degree in multi-categorical special education.

Traffic Flagger Training Class Slated In March

"Approved Flagger Safety Training" will be offered on Wednesday, March 5, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. at Garrett College. The course will cover safety issues for workers, motorists, and pedestrians.

"Traffic flaggers are in a very dangerous, yet extremely responsible position and play a critical role in temporary traffic control," said a college spokesperson. "Since the flagger position involves safety, proper training is vital."

Class participants are expected to pass a test to prove their proficiency and competency level. Upon successful completion of this course and a test, a Maryland State Highway Administration approved American Traffic Safety Services Association card will be issued.

The course is offered by the University of Maryland T2Center and the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College.

A HEARING INSTRUMENT THAT BREAKS THE MOLD
One primary objection to wearing a hearing instrument has been that it uncomfortably blocks the ear. The ear molds associated with traditional behind-the ear (BTE) hearing instruments often create a stuffy (occluded) feeling that produces a muffling of one's own voice. In addition, when the fit of the ear mold has not been perfect, wearers could experience feedback noise. And instruments that fit either partially or completely in the ear canal are sometimes found to be difficult to insert/remove and manipulate. Some people have also found that they uncomfortably occlude the ear. All these problems have now been addressed with the revolutionary open-fit hearing instrument that combines the ease-of-use of a BTE with the near-invisibility of an in-the-canal instrument.
Keeping pace with the fast-growing technology of today's hearing industry is an integral part of our business at AUDIBEL. Our experienced staff will use specialized equipment to pinpoint and evaluate you hearing impairment. We then choose among a selection of hearing instruments to match the most appropriate aid with your individual needs. Our services don't stop there, however. We also know how crucial follow-up care and support are to the successful wearing of any hearing instrument.
P.S. Instead of using an ear mold, an open-fit hearing instrument utilizes a thin tube to bring amplified sound to the opening of the ear canal.

Resource Center Provides Tips To Stop Stalking

The Stalking Resource Center of the National Center For Victims of Crime reports that one in 12 women, and one in 45 men will be stalked in their lifetime, and 1,006,970 women and 370,990 men are stalked annually.

Stalking, which has different legal definitions from state to state, is defined in Maryland as "a pattern of approaching or pursuing someone in order to make the person feel afraid that he or she or someone else will suffer serious bodily injury, assault, rape, sexual assault, or death."

Stalking is a crime.

According to the Stalking Resource Center, some specific behaviors of a stalker include these behaviors: following the victim around, calling the victim at home and/or work numerous times, mailing or leaving unwanted gifts, e-mailing the victim repeatedly, watching the victim from afar, and giving verbal and/or written threats.

"There are three types of stalkers," said a spokesperson for the center. "The most common is the obsessional talker. This person had a former relationship, usually intimate, with the victim. This type of stalking coincides with domestic violence.

"The second type of stalker has no prior relationship with the victim," the spokesperson continued. "This type of stalker frequently targets celebrities.

"The erotomanic stalker is delusional in believing that the victim loves him or her. This third type is the least common."

Several safety tips for victims of stalkers, offered by the center, are the following: document stalking incidents, talk with police, always carry a cell phone, keep home and car doors locked, vary daily routines, and consider obtaining a peace or protective order.

More safety tips and services involving stalking may be obtained by calling the Dove Center at 301-334-9000.

Jail Sentence Suspended For Maryland Man

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court:

Gerald Edward Downs II, 51, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DWI, stemming from his September 2007 arrest, and received a 30-day jail sentence, all of which was suspended; however; he was issued a one-year probationary period to be unsupervised and a $200 fine. Downs was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of DUI per se and DWI by drugs or drugs and alcohol.

William Francis Schmidl, 22, Md., violated a probation stemming from a charge of DUI per se filed in June 2006, and was sentenced to two days in jail. According to court documents, a guilty verdict was imposed.

Roy Scott Davis, 37, Md., was found to have violated the conditions of a probation originating from a January 2006 arrest on a charge of DUI. Davis's probation was continued, and was extended by one year.

Jesse Noel Rawley, 23, Md., was issued an extended probationary period of one year after being found to be in violation of a probation stemming from a DUI per se charge filed in July 2006.

WINS "52 WEEKS OF EATS" – Amy Bonitz, pictured at left, was the winner of "52 Weeks of Eats," a raffle sponsored recently by the Dove Center to raise funds for its capital campaign. "Thirty-nine local restaurants each generously donated a gift card to cover the cost of a meal for two," said Edna Forsythe, chairperson of the capital campaign group. Winner Bonitz said she was thrilled to learn it was her name picked from the hat. "What a great opportunity to try out some of our newer restaurants, and revisit my favorite standards. The money going toward the Dove Center's capital campaign fund makes the prize even sweeter," she said. Forsythe noted that the capital campaign is nearing the $100,000 mark. Dorothy Tuel, vice chairperson of the Dove Center board and shown with the winner above, said the need for a new shelter is critical, as the families of domestic violence in Garrett County have outgrown the current facility. For more information about the capital campaign, persons may contact the Dove Center at 301-334-6255, or Edna Forsythe at emf416@cebridge.net. For information about Dove Center services, persons should contact the 24-hour hotline at 301-334-9000.

It is state tradition that a senior member of the governor's staff deliver the green bag to the Senate. This year, secretary of appointments Jeanne Hitchcock presented the bag to Senate president Mike Miller.

"This year's green bag appointments represent the gender, ethnic, and geographic diversity of our great state," Hitchcock told Miller. "I am proud to present these appointments to the Maryland Senate on behalf of Gov. O'Malley and Lt. Gov. Brown, as I am certain that these individuals will work hard for the people of Maryland."

The green bag list also includes nominees for the Maryland Stadium Authority, the University System of Maryland Board of Regents, the Maryland State Board of Education, the Maryland Port Commission, the Board for the Injured Workers' Insurance Fund, the State Racing Commission, the Maryland Transportation Authority, and the Maryland Commission for Women, among others.

A Note of Appreciation

We would like to thank everyone for the visits, the expressions of love and support at the passing of our mother, Mildred M. Kitzmiller, on January 28, 2008. Your cards, phone calls, visits, flowers and prayers were greatly appreciated, and needed. We also appreciate those who came by to visit and share with Mom during her illness, as she was always glad to have someone visit.

We want to express our appreciation to Dr. Karl Schwalm for his compassionate care for Mildred– he was very special to her. Also to Hospice of Garrett County for their care and services.

We also want to thank Mt. Top Christian Assembly of God, Maple Grove Assembly of God and Lakeside Assembly of God and their ladies for the food and the help in serving a meal after the funeral. Thank you one and all!

A big thanks to Rev. Robert Collette and Rev. William Helton for their visits and encouragement to Mildred and her family. God bless each of you.

Grant Writing Course Slated In Grantsville

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development division has scheduled a course titled "Introduction to Grant Writing," to be held on Wednesdays, March 12 and 19, from 6 to 9:15 p.m. at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville.

Using common grant development formats, this course will proceed step-by-step through the development of a proposal with emphasis on the following: completing the application, writing the grant, developing the budget, and submitting the final copy.

The course is being instructed by Loring Young, who is active in numerous community development programs and has prepared numerous grants to federal, state, and private agencies.

Grants have raised funds for housing, acid mine drainage reclamation, bridge construction, flood mitigation, rehab projects, and start-up business programs to name a few.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, persons may contact Kista Wilt, Continuing Education and Workforce Development, at 301-387-3069 or kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

In addition to the above mentioned classes, coming in April to the center are the following courses: Watercolor Painting, "Finding Your Way with GPS," Conversational German, Forklift Training, a hands-on Grant Writing Workshop, Medical Coding Specialist I, the Internet and Web Literacy, and a Guided Tour of Microsoft Windows Vista.

"Green Bag" List Includes Garrett County Residents

Gov. Martin O'Malley submitted a list of 165 "green bag" nominations for state boards and commissions to the Maryland Senate last Friday. Three Garrett County residents are among the potential appointees: Timothy B. Schwinabart and Vaughn R. Miller, Land Reclamation Committee nominees, and Larry Dale Brenneman, State Board of Well Drillers.

"I am proud to nominate these outstanding candidates to fill key posts in Maryland's state government," said O'Malley. "We have worked hard to compile a list of individuals from across our state with diverse geographic and ethnic backgrounds to continue to help protect Maryland's priorities."

The term "green bag" derives from the historical green satchel that is used once every year to bring the gubernatorial nominations to the Senate. When not in use, the bag is stored at the Maryland State Archives.

Parkinson's Disease Involves Body Muscles

Parkinson's disease is a progressive condition affecting a person's control of how his or her muscles move. Nerve cells that normally release the chemical dopamine are damaged or destroyed in persons affected by this condition. Dopamine helps in the transmission of signals from the brain to the muscles. Although the cause of this condition is unknown, it is thought that genetic and environmental factors play a role. In addition, certain drugs and conditions may cause Parkinson's-like symptoms. Symptoms of Parkinson's include trembling, slowed motion, muscle rigidity, and impaired speech.

Although there is no current cure available for Parkinson's disease, drugs are available to treat this condition. Carbidopa-levodpoo is often prescribed. Other drugs prescribed include the dopamine agonists such as ropinirole and pramipexole. Selegiline inhibits an enzyme that metabolizes dopamine in the brain, thereby preventing the breakdown of dopamine.

USDA ANNOUNCES CROP INSURANCE DEADLINE FOR WEST VIRGINIA SPRING CROPS

West Virginia farmers are reminded that the final date to apply for crop insurance on most insurable spring-planted crops for this year is March 17, according to the Raleigh Regional Office, USDA Risk Management Agency. Current policyholders also have until March 17 to make any changes to their existing contracts.

Crop insurance provides protection against losses from natural perils, such as drought, hail, wind, and excessive moisture. The March 17 sales closing date applies to corn and oats.

Farmers may also want to inquire about Crop Revenue Coverage, a revenue plan that offers protection against market price declines for crops such as corn. In addition, low-cost group plans such as the Group Risk Plan and Group Risk Income Protection are also available in many counties for corn.

Producers are strongly urged to contact a local crop insurance agent as soon as possible for premium quotes and more details. For a list of crop insurance agents in the area, persons are invited to visit the Preston County office of the Farm Service Agency, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923. Persons may also log on to the Risk Management Agency web site at http://www3.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents/.

BEWARE OF CROP INSURANCE REBATING SCHEMES

With the spring sales closing date for many federal crop insurance policies right around the corner, crop insurance agents have stepped up their marketing efforts. The Risk Management Agency (RMA) has received reports from producers and agents that some aggressive marketers have been approaching producers with rebating offers.

These schemes promise lower insurance premiums, refunds, dividends, or items of value tied to crop insurance purchases. Most of these activities are illegal. RMA reminds all federal crop insurance program participants that it is now coordinating with state regulators to take appropriate regulatory action against all those who are found to promote or participate in such schemes.

Producers who are found to participate in illegal rebating activities will not only lose their crop insurance coverage, but will also lose eligibility in all USDA programs. Producers and agents can report suspicions of illegal rebating to the OIG Hotline: 1-800-424-9121.

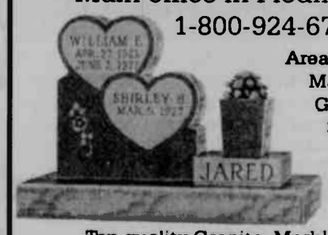
ARMED SERVICES REVIEW



U.S. Navy Seaman Andrew J. Slagle, son of Norma J. and Ronald L. Slagle of Bayard, W.Va., recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Slagle completed a variety of training, which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations," an exercise that gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet, according to a Navy spokesperson.

Slagle is a 2002 graduate of Pleasant Valley Christian Academy of Oakland.

Good day, All:

One year ago this week, the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee adopted a resolution urging Maryland to enact legislation that would enable paper verification for all elections, beginning with the 2008 election cycle. The resolution stated that all voters, regardless of party affiliation, must have confidence in the elections process, and that accurate counts are fundamental to open government. The resolution expressed confidence in local Boards of Elections.

That legislation failed, but Governor O'Malley has introduced legislation and funding in this 2008 General Assembly to require paper verification.

The Maryland Primary election just held on Tuesday, February 12, was "closed" – only registered Democrats and Republicans are allowed to vote. Current laws require an equal number of Democrat and Republican "judges" be present at in each precinct to assure elections are conducted properly, to monitor, and to assist with the election. This requires a significant number – more than 130 people – of our friends and neighbors to be trained prior to elections, and on election day must be present beginning at 6:00 AM and remain until the polls close. In the February 12 Primary, every judge worked 15 ½ hours – not including the training that was required!

Because the Primary was to choose each Party's nominations for the General Election to be held November 4, 2008, I was able to serve as a judge, but it would be inappropriate for an elected Central Committee member of either the Democratic or Republican Party to serve for the General Election.

Our Garrett County Board of Elections does an excellent job of registering voters, preparing for, training, setting up, conducting, counting, tallying, canvassing, taking down, and reporting election results. Polling places are available and convenient for every voter.

Elections in a democracy are fundamental to open government, and all voters, regardless of affiliation, should have the right to assure that their votes are accurately counted. The voting machines and voting systems are state-of-the-art, but we still lack the paper trail that would allow each voter to assure the vote intended was the vote that was counted.

I urge you to do three things:

1. If you are not currently registered to vote, do it today! You will make a difference!
2. Write to Senator George Edwards and Delegate Wendell Beitzel asking them to support "paper-trail-voting" as put forward by Governor O'Malley. The links and addresses are available at www.garrettdemocrats.org
3. Consider volunteering to be an "election judge" regardless of your affiliation – and assist your friends and neighbors as they exercise their American right to Vote!

Sincerely,

James R. ("Smokey") Stanton

Dear Sheila:
I have beautiful hardwood floors. I have 3 young boys and a not so young husband! I love them all.
They love to romp on the floor but it is a tad hard, especially on the hubby! I know I need some rugs but I want something that will last, look good, and NOT be high maintenance. What do I do?

All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser. All transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be paid by the Purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. If ratification or settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If Purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, he agrees to pay attorneys' fees in the amount of $750.00, plus costs, if the Trustees have moved to resell the property. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of the sale. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents and an additional fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

Oakland Traffic Stop Leads To Two Arrests

A Florida man was arrested on Saturday by Oakland police officers when a K-9 scan of his vehicle resulted in a positive alert for the presence of narcotic odor.

Police identified the driver as Bradley Ridder, 21, Miramar Beach. Ridder reportedly failed to stop for a traffic signal on Garrett Highway. Further investigation led to the arrest of a passenger, Andrew Murphy, 20, Oakland, for the possession of suspected marijuana.

Ridder was charged with driving while under the influence, driving while impaired, and failing to stop for a flashing red signal. He was later released. Murphy was seen by a court commissioner and was released on his own recognizance.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted in the investigation.

Garrett County, Maryland • Thursday, February 28, 2008 • www.therepublicannews.com

THEY DID IT AGAIN! For the 10th consecutive year, hundreds of brave (and/or half-crazed?) folks ran into the frozen waters of Deep Creek Lake last week, all in the name of supporting the Special Olympics of Maryland. This 10th anniversary Deep Creek Dunk was marked by record numbers of participants and proceeds, with more than 800 people taking the frigid dip and bringing in somewhere around $112,000 for the cause. The event is sponsored by the Maryland State Police each year, members of which can be seen in the center of the photo. Trained divers are shown in the foreground, prepared to help any dunker who might encounter any kind of distress. The event went without a hitch, though, with no injuries and only moderate shivering. Dunkers often come up with costumes for their big leap, some of which can be seen in this shot. The winter games were held at Wisp early this week following the dunk. Photo by John McEwen.

Action Taken On 2009 Board Of Education Budget

After four hours of page-by-page discussion Monday evening, the Garrett County Board of Education came to an agreement on a number of changes made to this year's budget proposed by superintendent Wendell Teets. In an effort to mirror those from previous years, several reductions were made to the 2009 budget.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt talked with both board president Jim Raley and Teets about coming up with a "more realistic" budget, as the county budget is predicted to be tight this year, and the proposed $3.1 million increase simply cannot be funded by the county, Pagenhardt noted.

Teets explained that some of the increases from last year were an additional $4,192,071 in school construction costs. Also included in the increase is an additional $880,000 for post-retirement insurance benefits for employees which all county agencies are to establish.

The greatest increases came from three main areas: the final year of the 2006 three-year contracts, which requires funds totaling $1,856,675; the 10% expected increase in health insurance premiums, requiring $717,732; and the rise in transportation costs, requiring an additional $152,325.

It was suggested by board member Thomas Carr that the original budget be submitted to the commissioners as proposed to the Board of Education; however, Charlotte Sebold noted that it was decided in previous years that Pagenhardt and the financial director would review the budget before submission to the commissioners.

It was decided that Pagenhardt's suggestions, producing a reduction totaling $302,281 in operational costs, be applied to the budget before presenting it to county commissioners. This will have the budget requiring a total of $2,971,525, with no change to the $4,192,071 increase requested in capital improvements.

GET READY FOR FOOD, FOOLISHNESS, AND FUN – United Way of Garrett County will hold a fundraising dinner at St. Peter's Parish Hall, Oakland, on Tuesday, April 1. The dinner will feature pasta dishes with choices of specialty sauces, side dishes, and desserts from several area restaurants. Several of Garrett County's community members will be dressed in costume and serving as waiters/waitresses. Above, in the front row, are Lisa Kinney and Debbie Carpenter. Back row: Bob Stephens, Troy Strieby, Tim Watson, John MacGowan, and Ernie Gregg. "The event will not only raise funds for the United Way campaign, it will generate funds for the local community partners that make up United Way," stated Stephens, one of the event planners. "It is great to see so many agencies and businesses working together to help the community." Ticket prices are $15 for adults and $7 for children 5 and older, with those younger admitted for free. Take out orders will also be available. Tickets are available at United Way agencies, plus Brenda's Pizzeria, Gregg's Pharmacy, and Will O' the Wisp Four Season's restaurant. Those interested should contact United Way at 301-722-2700 or toll free at 1-877-597-2700.

PSC Asked To Extend Comment Period For Wind Turbine Project

The Garrett County commissioners sent a letter to the Maryland Public Service Commission this week, requesting that the public commentary period for a proposed wind turbine project be extended by up to 30 days. The letter was drafted at the request of Oakland resident Barbara Boone.

California-based Clipper Windpower, now known as Criterion Power Partners, has filed an application with the PSC for an exemption to the "Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity" issued to construct and operate wind turbines in Garrett County.

The PSC has scheduled a public hearing on the issue for Thursday, March 6, at 7 p.m. in Room 224 in the Continuing Education building at Garrett College.

Criterion first proposed constructing 67 wind turbines on private land along Backbone Mountain about six years ago. The company later revised that initial plan and received a PSC permit to construct 40 turbines with a combined generating capacity of up to 101 megawatts of electricity.

Recently, however, the company further downsized the project to 28 wind turbines that would generate up to 70 megawatts. This revised plan is now small enough to allow Criterion to fast-track it through the state approval process be-

Yough River Group Seeks Support For Hoyes Run Project

The Youghiogheny River Watershed Association (YRWA) asked the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday to support the Hoyes Run Erosion Repair Project.

YRWA president Edgar Harman and Todd Miller, Aquatics Resources Team manager for the Canaan Valley Institute (CVI), presented the proposal to the commissioners on Tuesday. CVI, a non-profit organization based in Thomas, W.Va., and the association have worked together on several local water quality improvement projects during the last several years.

"We have been trying for a number of years to figure out how to fix a particularly bad erosion problem on Hoyes Run," Miller told the commissioners.

He explained that road runoff has created a gully, resulting in hundreds of tons of sediment being deposited into the stream. The repair work would take place near the Wisp golf course.

Harman noted that the erosion problem started many years ago and is getting worse all the time. Ponds built for a nearby stone quarry overflow because they were not designed properly, and road construction and development have only added to the problem. He presented photos to the commissioners, showing the magnitude of the situation.

"Hoyes Run, as you may know, is a pretty special trout stream," Miller said. "It has reproducing populations of brook trout and rainbow trout." The erosion problem is threatening them, he noted.

"Everyone wants to fix it," Miller said about the erosion. "We're just trying to figure out a way to do it, a way to get it funded."

And that way, he noted, may be through a federal Transportation Enhancement Program grant and the State Highway Administration. The SHA would submit the grant application and supply the required matching funds.

"The SHA would like it (the grant) to run through a local entity," Miller added.

The YRWA and at least two land owners affected by the erosion have also pledged funds toward the repair project. Additionally, the association and owners support the concept of having as much local control over the repair project as

GC Commissioners Ask Del. Beitzel To Withdraw Off-Premises Sign Bill

Del. Wendell R. Beitzel (R-District 1A), introduced legislation this week in the Maryland General Assembly that would limit off-premises signage in Garrett County. House Bill 1491: "Garrett County – Outdoor Advertising Signs Adjacent to Highways" was assigned to the House Rules and Executive Nominations Committee.

"We have seen an absolute proliferation of billboards throughout our county," Beitzel said in a press release about his bill. "Even the existing signs have expanded along our county's roadways. I believe that something has to happen before our county is entirely overrun."

The Garrett County commissioners on Monday, however, asked the delegate to withdraw the bill.

Beitzel's proposed legislation is modeled after a similar measure that was crafted for Harford County and would prohibit certain outdoor advertising signs, such as billboards, in unzoned areas along Garrett County's state and county roadways. It would also authorize the county to pay compensation for the removal of those signs under certain circumstances.

"The board appreciates your forethought and efforts to preserve the scenic qualities of our county," the commissioners wrote Beitzel on Monday. "We acknowledge that regulation and control over the proliferation of signs has been an initiative that you have championed for many years, and we agree that some level of regulatory control may be desirable."

The commissioners, however, went on to state, "The policies set forth in your draft bill would prohibit signs in a vast area of the county, and the only exception to the prohibitions authorized under the bill for off-premises advertising signs are areas zoned for commercial or industrial uses."

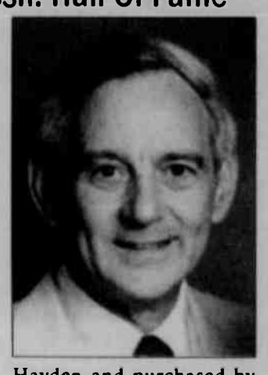
They pointed out that only a small portion of Garrett County is zoned.

"And we speculate that many citizens may view the draft bill as a draconian exercise of regulatory authority," the commissioners wrote about Beitzel's bill. "We also believe a better approach to developing a sign regulation would be through the public participation process."

They said such local "key stakeholders" as members of the Development Corporation, Chamber of Commerce, and Planning Commission should all be made aware of and participate in the preparation of a regulation that would be appropriate and acceptable to all parties.

"Additionally, we acknowledge that Article 66 of the Annotated Code of Maryland already affords the authority to the county to regulate signs through zoning and that a separate authority under Article 25 is not necessary," the commissioners wrote.

They asked that Beitzel withdraw the bill, and that various drafts of it be distributed to the three organizations listed above.



"We would perceive this gesture as a first step in moving forward in developing an ordinance to control signs that the citizens of the county could support," the commissioners concluded.

Beitzel noted in his press release that his bill does not prohibit signs promoting businesses or other activities being conducted on the same property as the sign, otherwise known as "on-premises signs." It also does not prohibit temporary real estate signs, directional signs, or signs denoting places of religious worship or a historic monument on location.

"This is a great bill for anyone who has lived in Garrett County all of his/her life and hates to see our county's beauty being covered up by unsightly billboards," Beitzel said. "I believe the people of Garrett County do not want any of our roadways to look like the thoroughfare leading into Disneyland."

If passed, the measure would not take effect until Oct. 1, 2008, and all signs currently constructed in the county would be grandfathered in.

Robert Sincell Named Posthumously To MDDC Press Assn. Hall Of Fame

Robert B. Sincell, the late publisher of The Republican newspaper and owner of the Sincell Publishing Company, has been named to the Maryland/Delaware/Washington, D.C. Press Association's (MDDC) Hall of Fame. Sincell is among nine inductees this year, both living and deceased, including the longtime publisher of the Baltimore Sun, Harry C. Black (1887-1956) and the Washington Post editorial cartoonist Herbert Block (1909-2001).

The nine inductees will be recognized at a special dinner during the annual MDDC Awards Conference on April 17 at the Turf Valley Resort in Ellicott City

Sincell was on the staff at Sincell Publishing for more than 50 years, working in a variety of capacities at the company. The newspaper is a family-run business, launched in 1877 by James Hayden and purchased by Sincell's grandfather in 1890. He, Benjamin Hinkle Sincell, was the very first person to be named to the MDDC Hall of Fame, in 1947, one year after his death.

Robert Sincell joined the staff following his graduation from West Virginia University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in journalism in 1950. He began his post-WWII college career at Potomac State, where served as editor of school newspaper, Pasquino. While at WVU, he was the business manager of the Daily Athenaeum, the university's newspaper.

At Sincell Publishing, Sincell started his career in advertising, serving as the ad manager for several years. He also worked with his father, Donald R. ("Mose") Sincell, in the commercial shop of the company, running presses and other printing equip-

A campfire for roasting marshmallows, horse-drawn sleigh rides, and a progressive dinner are also planned during this family oriented winter celebration. For more information, persons may call Jack Cougle, Oakland Main Street manager, at 301-334-5095.

Two Men Sent To GCMH After Two-Vehicle Mishap

A two-vehicle accident on Bray School Road was investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Wednesday after two people were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Through investigation it was learned that Benjamin J. Farmer, 24, Oakland, was driving eastbound on Bray School Road when a vehicle operated by Steven L. Michael, 48, Swanton, was traveling westbound.

Michael lost control of his vehicle as a result of the icy road and struck Farmer's vehicle. Farmer and passenger Daniel Amos Miller, 43, Oakland, were transported to Garrett Memorial. No charges were filed in the 10:18 a.m. mishap.

McCain Seeking 11th Term As Oakland Mayor

Oakland mayor Asa McCain plans to run for an 11th term as mayor this year. He has served 20 years as mayor of Oakland, and this year he will be inducted into the Maryland Municipal League Hall of Fame, joining former mayor Hub Swartzentruber and Oakland town councilman Jay Moyer.

McCain is a graduate of California State University, California, Pa., and received his master's degree from Frostburg State University. He was a teacher at Southern High School, a teaching principal at Crellin Elementary School, and principal at Dennett Road Elementary School before retiring in 1997 after 30 years in the Garrett County school system.

McCain serves on the Chamber of Commerce board promoting tourism, and heads the planning committee for the Autumn Glory festival each year. He serves on the board of the Garrett Community Action Committee, currently developing affordable housing for first-time home ownership, and he also serves on the Economic Development board, which was instrumental in developing the scholarship program with the county commissioners.

In addition, he is working with the commissioners to put the infrastructure into place to fill the industrial parks with higher paying jobs, with the goal of encouraging Garrett County youth to remain in the area.

"I have been, and am willing to continue as, your full-time mayor. Hard work and the support of the council have allowed us to keep Oakland vibrant," stated McCain. "If you want the candidate with the knowledge, experience, and a proven track record, I need your vote on Monday, March 10."

Oakland City Hall polls will be open on Monday, March 10, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

White Files As Candidate For Oakland Mayor

Aaron White, owner of AEI Builders LLC, has announced his candidacy for mayor of Oakland, and will face off against long-time incumbent Asa McCain in the town's municipal election on March 10.

"I have heard many residents say that it is time for a change in local government, and that's what I am offering as a candidate for mayor," the Oakland native said. "The job of the mayor and town council members is to echo and act on the concerns of residents, not to implement a personal agenda."

A lifelong resident of Oakland, White is married to Erin White, a teacher at Southern High School. They are the parents of two daughters, Ingrid and Morgan.

Jamison Seeking Re-Election To Oakland Council

Peggy Jamison has announced that she will seek re-election to the Oakland Town Council. The town election is slated for March 10.

Jamison is now completing her 16th year, eighth term, on the council. She is the president of the council, and has served in that capacity for six years.

The candidate represents the town on the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors, and serves as the liaison to the Oakland Planning Commission. She is the president of the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA), and in that capacity also has a non-voting seat on the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's board of directors. She has been actively involved with the Main Street Program in the town since its inception in 1998, and has served as chairperson of the Main Street board of directors.

Jamison regularly attends St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. She is the treasurer of St. John's Lutheran Cemetery Association, and is a member of Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club. She is a graduate of the Academy for Excellence in Local Governance, which is a joint program with the University of Maryland, the Maryland Municipal League, and the Maryland Association of Counties that provides educational seminars for elected officials and employees of municipal and county government.

The candidate was inducted into the Garrett County Women's Hall of Fame in 2004. She has lived in Oakland for 24 years, and has been a homeowner for 22 years.

"I see a bright future for Oakland with opportunities for new growth. I also feel that these opportunities offer us, the government of Oakland, and the citizens, the chance to chart the future in the manner that is best for us," she said.

"The time is right for us to plan for our future, to sit down and decide where we want to be five years from now, or 10 or 20 years from now. I want to be a part of that future, to be sure we keep those things that make the town the wonderful place it is while planning for new things that will help sustain and grow Oakland."

Jamison said she is proud of all the businesses that are part of Oakland, and that she wants to see the work of the Oakland Main Street Program and the Greater Oakland Business Association continue so those businesses will thrive and prosper.

"Each and every business is an important part of the fabric of Oakland, as are each of Oakland's residents," she said.

"Oakland is truly a 'Great Small Town' which offers residents and visitors the friendliness and warmth of a small town and the retail and shopping opportunities that allow our merchants the ability to prosper and grow," Jamison said. "I have been honored to serve the residents of Oakland these past 16 years and look forward to the opportunity to continue to do so."

Teagarden Hopes To Retain Seat On Oak. Council

Sherwin Teagarden has announced that he is running for re-election for the town council of Oakland. Teagarden has served for two years. This will be his second run.

The election will take place in Oakland on March 10.

The candidate was born in Oakland and has spent most of his life living in the community. He noted that his parents and extended family have been an integral part of Oakland for many years. Teagarden has reared two children who attended the public school system, and he has been involved in various community organizations.

He attends Grace Reformed Church, and is a member of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. He is currently enrolled in the Academy for Excellence in Local Governance with the University of Maryland.

"Through this academy, I hope to better serve the town of Oakland," Teagarden said.

"It is exciting to see Oakland develop while maintaining that small town environment," he said. "I would like to preserve its history while meeting the needs of a developing community. I want to continue to serve the interest of all the citizens of this great town. Oakland has a lot to offer existing residents as well as those moving into the area."

Todd Files For Re-Election To Town Council

Chris Todd has filed for re-election to the town council of Oakland. He has served on the council four terms as a councilperson. The election is slated for March 10.

"I have filed for re-election because my father taught me a long time ago: 'You can't get upset with the world if you don't get involved.' I truly want to continue to be involved in this great community of Oakland, and the wonderful lifestyle it offers."

Todd said the "small town atmosphere" of Oakland is important to him, and that he wishes to help carefully guide its growth while preserving its heritage.

"I have served four previous terms with a very energetic mayor and town council who have always worked as a team," Todd said.

The candidate has three children currently enrolled in the public school system of Garrett County. He is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church and has served on the board of trustees committee.

Todd has coached youth T-ball, football, basketball, soccer, wrestling, and softball. He is a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan College, with a degree in marketing and a minor in economics, with additional studies in management.

"I would be honored to earn your vote to be on Oakland town council for another two-year term," Todd said.

Volunteers Fund New Desk In Hospital Lobby

by Kearstin Hinebaugh, GCMH marketing and development specialist

Longtime Garrett County Memorial Hospital Volunteers in Various Areas (VIVA) volunteers Bob Brickett and Elaine Saltysaik-Brickett and Wayne and Jackie Johnson recognized the necessity of a larger and more effective workspace for the volunteers staffing the information/registration desk in the main lobby of the hospital, and offered to fund the project.

"We, the Bricketts and Johnsons, are very proud and pleaded to be able to sponsor this beautiful desk in the main lobby of Garrett County Memorial Hospital," said Wayne Johnson. "It is a very sturdy, spacious, and efficient addition to our lobby, and is large enough to handle the volunteers of VIVA and allow them to appropriately meet and greet our patients and clients coming into our hospital for lab work, radiology, and emergency procedures."

The Bricketts and Johnsons had taken into account the current needs of the VIVA program and had also considered the future growth needs of the volunteers when planning for the desk. The desk allows ample space for as many as three volunteers to be working at any given time, and provides generous storage room for all the materials and supplies the volunteers use. In addition, the desk complements the recent decorating project that was undertaken by the Loar Auxiliary to the hospital. A plaque featuring donor information will be placed on the desk to be visible to anyone entering the hospital.

In addition to providing information and pre-registration services, VIVA volunteers also work in other service areas throughout the facility. The volunteers maintain an office that provides general clerical assistance to the departments as needed, while others act as an information liaison in the surgical waiting area. Volunteers also deliver, collect, and process both the internal and external mail, and perform a variety of services in the emergency department.

The hospital currently has 70 volunteers in the VIVA program, nearly 50 of whom staff the information/registration station on either a regular or substitute basis.

For more information about the volunteer programs available at GCMH, persons may call the development office at 301-334-4178.

MSP Tfc. Upole Named Trooper Of The Year

Lieutenant M.L. Frey, commander at the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack, has announced Tfc. V.W. Upole, a native of Oakland, as the 2007 Trooper of the Year at the McHenry Barrack.

Tfc. Upole began his career as an Explorer at the McHenry Barrack in 1997. After serving as a cadet, he graduated from the MSP Academy in 2004. He was assigned to the Forestville Barrack in Prince George's County prior to his assignment to McHenry in 2007.

Tfc. Upole was the highest producer in criminal apprehensions out of all troopers in 2007. In addition, he made 13 driving while under the influence arrests and was also the highest producer of motor vehicle citations issued, with 1,033.

"Tfc. Upole was chosen as Trooper of the Year based upon his exceptional attention to detail in all aspects of his job performance, including his selfless attitude toward the betterment of his fellow troopers and the community in which he serves," said Lt. Frey.

Tfc. Upole resides in Allegany County with his son Riley, and is the son of Doc and Paula Upole, Oakland.

Vehicle Accident Results In Arrest, DUI/DWI Charges

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy made an arrest of a man for driving under the influence early this morning, after witnessing his vehicle slide through an intersection and become stuck in a drainage ditch.

Rubben James Everett, 27, Garrett County, was driving his 1988 Chevy truck on Garrett Road, and slid through the snow covered intersection at Fricks Crossing Road. When the truck became stuck in the drainage ditch off Garrett Road, the deputy approached Everett and found him to appear intoxicated.

Everett did not perform field sobriety tests to the satisfaction of the deputy and was placed under arrest and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving while intoxicated. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to a reported motor vehicle accident on Old Crellin Road Friday. It was revealed that Susan L. Peterson, 57, Oakland, had been driving a 1992 Toyota truck when it left the roadway and struck a roadside ditch.

At the scene of the accident, field sobriety tests were conducted, which were not performed to the satisfaction of the deputies. She was placed under arrest and charged with driving under the influence. There were no injuries and no other vehicles involved in the 6:30 p.m. accident.

It's a Privilege...

As death and injury continue as a result of automobile crashes on our nation's roadways, there are a number of bills being considered by the Maryland General Assembly that warrant passage. Many of them are directed at teenage drivers, who are responsible for a large percentage of vehicular accidents.

Senate Bill 461 would make talking on a cell phone while driving, currently a secondary offense, a primary offense for teen drivers. Frankly, speaking on a cell phone while driving should be illegal for all drivers.

Another bill would make it a primary offense for teen drivers with provisional licenses to transport other minors. Another (SB 460) would require the MVA to notify the parent or guardian of a teen driver who has been charged with certain moving violations. SB 610 would suspend the provisional license of a driver under 18 for committing any number of serious offenses, including alcohol possession, reckless or aggressive driving, and racing.

Considering the fact that, in a five-year period, there were nearly 14,000 people injured and 125 killed m Maryland because of crashes involving 16-20-year-old drivers, all of the aforementioned bills should be passed into law.

Yet another piece of legislation that has support from the Maryland Chiefs of Police Association is one that would grant authority to local municipalities to install speed cameras, devices that automatically take photos of vehicles that pass by at speeds in excess of the posted limit. The owner of the vehicle, as determined by the license plate number, is then simply mailed a citation. Such devices have been used for a year in Montgomery County near schools and in residential areas, and some 210,000 citations have been issued. Of 593 fatal crashes in Maryland in 2006, 182 – or about one third – were speed related.

As clichéd as it may sound, it is a fact that driving is a privilege, and not a right.

On a totally unrelated topic, citizens are strongly encouraged to attend a public meeting at Garrett College next Thursday, March 6, at 7 p.m. It has been scheduled by the Public Service Commission to consider the application by Criterion LLC to place 28 monster wind turbines along the Backbone Mountain ridge. It would be great to have another standing-room-only crowd in attendance.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

When my good American friends go to the polls to vote, I hope they will think seriously about the recent remark which Michelle Obama emphasized as she spoke to an audience in Milwaukee. I quote: "For the first time in my adult life time I am really proud of my country."

My friends, is this the talk we desire to hear from our "First Lady"?

Just vote NO!

Thank you,
John Williams III
Springfield, Pa.

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank my fellow Garrett County residents who were so helpful to me the other night in the parking lot of Wal-Mart. My car would not start, and no fewer than six people offered to assist me. Three people in particular – George, Mark, and his mom – and another young man spent a good 30 to 40 minutes trouble shooting what might have been wrong. They diagnosed it as a faulty electric gas pump and they were right, as we found out the next day.

It was dark, cold and rainy, but this did not deter these wonderful people in trying to help me. My husband and I cannot thank you enough. I really do love this town!

Sincerely,
Sarah Folio
Oakland

To the Editor:

Recently my husband, Edwin Warnick, was a recipient of the care of the Garrett County Home Health Care Program. The staff of this program need to be commended for their outstanding service to our communities. Each week my husband looked forward to visits from the nurses, who were caring, compassionate, and thorough in their skills of providing for patient needs. I appreciated the way they communicated with his doctor, took their time to listen to my husband, and cared for him. From my observation, my husband received a higher level of care from these nurses than from his doctors.

I strongly support the Home Health Care Program in Garrett County, and encourage others to utilize this resource.

To the Editor:

My name is Crystal. I am 36 years old. I suffered a stroke on Nov. 28, 2004. I am now paralyzed on the left side. I live in a trailer with my two children, ages 17 and 15.

I am in need of a shower being installed in my home. I am not able to get into the bathtub nor am I able to use a shower chair.

When the weather permits, the only way I can shower is on my back porch, which is enclosed with tarps.

I am not financially able to afford to have this needed work done.

I am trying to find any organization that is able to donate money, materials, and/or labor for this needed project.

Any help would be greatly appreciated. I can be contacted at:

To the Editor:

It is difficult to understand our board of county commissioners. Do they not realize what public land is, or do they not care? My interpretation is that the land is for everybody and does not belong to Garrett County or the state of Maryland. It is for everyone, including those individuals in adjoining states, to utilize. I am opposed to this project. I do believe the Garrett County commissioners should stand as a unit, either for or against public land used by a company for wind power or any other project.

In regard to another crime that was committed in Garrett County some months ago, I do believe the case should be tried in Garrett County by our judge if possible (not in Allegany or Washington County). To me, it seems like admitting a degree of guilt. It should be tried in the county, regardless of relationship between the parties.

Hubert A. Friend
Friendsville

Mr. Friend:

The county commissioners have indeed taken a public, unanimous stand against utilization of state forestland for wind turbines, as reported by this newspaper a few weeks ago.

Editor

To the Editor:

Why not put all the proposed wind turbines for Garrett County atop Marsh Mountain instead of on public forest lands? The access roads are already in place. There's no transmission-line disturbance because the demand for power is there already. Development has already removed any forestry issues. Non-native species have already replaced most native species. Views from Marsh Mountain would not be affected. Wind turbines on the mountain would be camouflaged by existing cell towers and other lights already in place, and would occupy a small segment of viewscapes from the rest of the county. Migrating birds and bats would not be affected because they follow ridge lines rather than individual hills. Any noise problem from the wind turbines would have plenty of other manmade noise to abate it.

Please don't erect wind turbines in our state forests and destroy more trees that capture the CO_2 that we recklessly emit. After all, trees produce the oxygen we breathe if we ever get a chance to sit and enjoy our beautiful hillsides.

Maybe if the Wisp turned off most of its lights after closing, and the owners of houses on Marsh Mountain turned off two-thirds of their lights, we wouldn't need any windmills at all.

Marshall Stacy
Swanton

To the Editor:

They say that beauty is in the eye of the beholder, and it seems to me to be the best way to describe last week's editorial.

That paper also included a letter with yet another citizen's reaction to the development surrounding the lake that only reinforces other comments from writers in recent editions. Your statement that zoning "in general works well" there probably seems rather strange to these folks and most of the rest of us who read it.

I found it interesting that the letter from the fellow who is probably the most dedicated opponent of the windmills expresses some thoughts on this issue that seem to agree with mine.

I've been around long enough to remember when junkyards, racetracks, and now windmills have all been used as bogeymen to try to scare the local citizens into accepting the "protection" that land-use regulations would supposedly insure.

What these folks have written about the lake area is only one reason that the drumbeaters for these laws have been unsuccessful in their efforts. I could list quite a few more here, but instead I'll just repeat what your newspaper quoted one of our commissioners as having said at a recent meeting: "You start using the Z work and people's hair starts standing up on end."

I can't say it better than that, and when you get into the details of the power that is transferred when these laws are enacted most folks can see why that just might occur!

Jerry Plauger

To the Editor:

Often, writers describe the ordeal of a famous individual who suffers from a severe mental illness and their recovery, perhaps because they think that may cause the others who have the condition from feeling so crummy. I am going to turn that whole idea around. This is the story of Sonya Carson, a depression sufferer, African-American mother of two sons, and single parent, who was dealt one of the worst hands life had to offer, then she and her sons went on to become three of the most incredible people to ever come out of such a quandary to become huge successes.

Sonya was born in rural Tennessee many years before the Civil Rights Act, to a family of 24 children. To escape the conditions, she moved to Detroit. She ended up in the inner city and was married and had two sons: Ben and Curtis. When Ben was 8 years old, she learned her husband was a bigamist. She then, of course, became a single parent and took on as many as three jobs as a domestic worker in order to raise her two gifted sons. As a result, she developed depression.

From time to time she would need to spend a week or so in the psychiatric ward, but for the most part, got along well by seeing her psychiatrist in his office and by taking her medication. Ben also recalls her making him and Curtis read two books a week and had them give her book reports about them the end of each week.

Ben and Curtis both went on to college. Ben proceeded to medical school, and Curtis became an aeronautical engineer. Some may know that Ben is universally acclaimed Johns Hopkins pediatric neurosurgeon and professor of neurosurgery, Dr. Benjamin S. Carson, MD.

Sonya overcame her depression, with her faith and help from God. Then she finished high school in 1994. She later earned her bachelor's degree from college.

As shown by the example of Sonya Carson, America is the land of opportunity and the only way individuals having a mental illness can really fail is to give up!

Jerry Ruby

To the Editor:

I have been a home owner in Garrett County for over 40 years. I am opposed to the placement of wind turbines on public lands in Garrett County for both ecological and economic reasons.

There is certainly a place for wind turbines where the only alternative is small gasoline or diesel-driven generators, as in remote areas, on small islands, or on cruising sailboats, etc. But for generation of power for a regional or national grid, they are environmentally and economically unsound.

The reason they are being built (and I was one that built them) is that the government is leaning on utilities to develop alternative, so-called renewable, energy sources and providing them with tax incentives to offset the higher cost. The problem is that when the tax incentives expire, the utilities, or the companies that own the turbines, find that they are too expensive to operate and shut them down. Then we are left with the derelicts.

There are thousands of wind turbines in the Southern California desert, many of which are no longer maintained because they are uneconomical. There have been several wind farms in Hawaii, where the winds are strong and steady, that worked fine for a few years, but are now abandoned. And several companies that owned the wind turbines have gone broke. The insidious part is that we as taxpayers pay for the tax incentives to build wind turbines, and then as consumers of power we pay for the increased cost of generation.

Actually, I kind of like watching the wind turbines – from a distance. But if you live nearby, the noise and lights are very annoying. And in Garrett County the destruction of woodlands would be a travesty. As you may know, it would take about 1,000 wind turbines to equal the power of one conventional coal or nuclear (1,000MW) plant. And you still have to have the conventional plant available for when there is no wind. That is about 4,000 acres of trees to be lost forever – or at least until the turbines are abandoned.

PSC Asked

cause of a law that was passed during last year's General Assembly session.

March 6, the day of the PSC public hearing, is the last date for interested persons to present verbal or written comments on the proposed project.

About a dozen local residents met with the county commissioners Tuesday morning to discuss their views on the Criterion and other wind turbine projects proposed for the local area.

Boone requested that the commissioners ask the PSC to extend the comment period for the Criterion exemption. She noted that the company's application is available online for public viewing but would take hours to download even with a high speed Internet connection.

"The application online is unusable," she told the commissioners. "Many people will not know [about the project] until the PSC meeting. Send a letter to the PSC to keep the comment period open for 30 days after the meeting."

The commissioners did not comment on Boone's request during their meeting with her. But county administrator Monty Pagenhardt forwarded her and other interested parties a letter he drafted to the PSC Tuesday afternoon.

"I am writing to you on behalf of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners to request that the public commentary period for Case Number 8938 be extended for an additional period of time up to but not to exceed 30 days past the hearing for public commentary scheduled for March 6," the PSC letter read, in part. "The board of county commissioners believes that this additional period of time will provide interested parties with an opportunity to comment on information provided at the hearing."

Should Garrett College be closed on March 6 because of inclement weather, the public hearing will be held on Wednesday, March 12, at 7 p.m.

Written comments may be sent to the Public Service Commission, 6 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, MD 21202 (Re: Case No. 8938) by the date of the hearing.

Copies of the application are available at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

PAWS Kicks Off Annual Passion For Pets Challenge

Animal lovers throughout Garrett County are invited to participate in this years PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare & Safety) Passion for Pets Challenge. From Feb. 29 through May 8, in conjunction with Spay/Neuter Awareness Month, participating restaurants and businesses in the area will sell paper hearts to help support the PAWS "Big Fix" Spay/Neuter Assistance Program.

Once signed by patrons, the hearts, which may be purchased for a minimum donation of $1, will be prominently displayed in the participating establishments. The business selling the most hearts at the end of the challenge receives an engraved plaque to display for the year.

To help raise further awareness of the Passion for Pets Challenge and Big Fix program, local restaurants and businesses are invited to host a Passion for Pets Celebrity Bartender Night. Local businesses and community leaders will act as bartenders and solicit tips, which will be used to purchase hearts.

Last year, JG's Pub and Railey Mountain Lake Vacations won the challenge. The 2007 Passion for Pets Challenge overall total raised was $5,519.59.

"This is an important fundraising event for Garrett County," stated Judy Day, chairperson of this event. "Since its inception, the PAWS Big Fix assistance program has helped over 500 pet owners in our area. It is only with the help of our community that we will have the funds available to help those in need. Please be generous when you see our volunteers selling hearts around town."

GIVE 'EM WHAT THEY WANT!

You're preparing to sell your home, and you've taken all the right steps. You've contacted an agent to represent you and to market your home, taken care of needed repairs, cleaned up the yard, and given your home the "white glove" treatment. How else can you attract buyers and a full price offer?

What buyers want when they purchase a home is peace of mind. With a policy called a home warranty, you can practically guarantee it! A home warranty is particularly attractive to prospective buyers if your home is more than fifteen years old, or if your major appliances (including heat and air) have long passed their younger days.

These warranties cost just a few hundred dollars, and will cover the cost of repairs to or replacements for the appliances and systems in your home. Imagine the confidence this will inspire in buyers, who will understand immediately that they won't have any unplanned repair expenses after their purchase. A blown heat pump or leaking dishwasher are corrected with a phone call and very small service call fee.

Of course, a home warranty is a valuable policy regardless of whether you're selling or buying, and experience shows that many buyers choose to renew their coverage after the seller's contract expires. When it comes to home ownership, peace of mind is like money in the bank!

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

County Farmers May Be Added To Hay Sale List

Local farmers who have hay and straw for sale are encouraged to call the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

"With the drought in the eastern part of Maryland, many farmers were forced to feed hay early, as pastures dried up," said Willie Lantz of the extension office.

To help the farmers find the hay they need, the Maryland Department of Agriculture has a "hay for sale" list. In addition, lists will be kept by the extension office and at www.GarrettFarms.org.

The following information should be included: type of hay, type of bales, approximate bale weight, number of bales available, and pricing range.

Persons who have already been added to the list this year need not call again.

As hay is sold, persons should call to update the list.

In order to reserve a spot, interested persons should call the Extension Office at 301-334-6960 by Monday, March 3.

Dr. Bhushan Jayarao, professor and extension veterinarian with Penn State Cooperative Extension, will present information on teat end care and scoring.

Dr. Ernest Hovingh, extension veterinarian with Penn State. will review milking procedures.

In the afternoon, the group will visit the farm of Terry and Jill Hauser. Dr. Jayarao will discuss the use of the bulk tank analysis program, and Dr. Hovingh will discuss milk equipment evaluation.

LOW-COST LOANS AVAILABLE FOR GRAIN STORAGE FACILITIES

Grain producers might do well to look into the availability of special low-cost government loans and give some thought to building their own on-farm storage facilities.

"Funds are currently available for producers to build or remodel farm storage facilities for a variety of commodities, including wheat, oats, barley, and corn," said Eric M. McCartney, executive director for the Farm Service Agency in Preston County. "The February 2008 interest rate is 3.5 percent."

The 7-year Farm Storage Facility loans are available for the purchase and installation of eligible storage facilities, permanently affixed drying or handling equipment, or remodeling existing facilities.

Eligible facilities include new conventional-type cribs or bins, and new and remanufactured oxygen-limiting and other upright silo-type structures.

According to McCartney, landowners, operators, tenants, and sharecroppers are eligible for the loan program as long as they meet program guidelines. "Chief among the criteria are a satisfactory credit history and the ability to repay the loan. The borrower also has to produce the commodity to be stored and show a need for increased storage capacity," he said.

All farm storage facility loans are secured by a promissory note and security agreement, McCartney said. For loans exceeding $50,000 or where a borrower's aggregate outstanding loan balance exceeds $50,000, a lien on real estate will be required.

The maximum amount that may be borrowed is 85 percent of the net cost of the storage or handling equipment, up to $100,000 for each borrower. A minimum down payment is also required.

McCartney said interested producers should contact him for more information at the Farm Service Agency office located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza or by calling 304-329-1923.

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma? Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

I have an odd shaped room. I would like it to be a library/den. I only have one (1) solid wall. There is a bow window, an opening to a hall and another opening to the media room. I like nice comfortable things and do not mind spending extra to get what I want. All the furniture I have looked at is way too big and not the configuration I need. The window is not really a focal point and I would like to create one.

JUST HELP ME
on Shingle Camp Road

Dear Just:

Even without seeing the room I can make some suggestions. We can design custom seating in fabrics of your choice. There is nothing like a custom chair or sofa. We can have custom built-ins for your books and display to fit the area in question. We can even design a rug to fit the area. As for the window, it can certainly become an integral part of the room with a window seat and coordinating window treatments! Don't forget lighting!

Stop in and see one of our designers for more great ideas or an in-home appointment.

Understanding Home Health Care

by Kristine Graber, RN

PORTABLE GRAB BAR MAKES SHOWERING ANYWHERE SAFE

Preparing for guests can be a challenge–buying the right food, arranging activities, and getting everyone's sleeping arrangements set all take planning and time. Luckily, planning for an older guest who needs a little physical assistance just got a little easier. Portable grab bars are useful on shower walls, mounted on the tub, or even as a towel bar. A portable grab bar may even be useful on the wall by a stairway so that a person can get some assistance on climbing the stairs. The grab bar is secured with super strong suction cups that can be easily operated. The portable grab bars come in three different sizes, and they can telescope in length.

Portable grab bars bring safety and convenience. When special assistance is needed to ensure the comfort and safety of elderly, TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., is there to provide a full range of home care. Please call us for a consultation. Our caring, professional staff is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Long- or short-term care is available, whenever it's needed. All employees are experienced, trained and must pass our rigorous reference and criminal background investigations. Staff nurses oversee client care and supervise all care providers at the point of service on a routine basis.

P.S. Getting into and out of the bathtub are two of the most dangerous activities that elderly people do in the bathroom.

The Arts

GLAF NOTES SEASON SPONSOR – The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival recently recognized the Sincell Publishing Company for its dedication to the arts in Garrett County. "Not only was the Sincell family instrumental in the foundation of the organization [GLAF] 22 years ago, but it has continued to support GLAF throughout the years, including 2008, in which it is one of GLAF's season sponsors, at a giving level of $5,000," said Skip Case, executive director of the arts organization. Avery Seeking Women For Next OTT Production

Our Town Theatre director Jane Avery has issued a casting call for women over the age of 18 who would like to be in a play. No experience is necessary, she said. The play is titled Nickel and Dimed, and Avery has divided the play into major roles, supporting roles, and minor and walk-on roles.

Auditions are scheduled in the basement of Our Town Theatre, located along Center Street in Oakland, for Saturday, March 1, from 2 to 5 p.m.; Sunday, March 2, from 7 to 10 p.m.; and Monday, March 3, from 3 to 6 p.m.

The play's production dates are April 23-27. Rehearsal times will depend on how many and what kind of role(s) each cast member undertakes, the director said.

"This is a play that examines our social values and an economy in which poor people subsidize the lifestyles of middle and upper classes," Avery said.

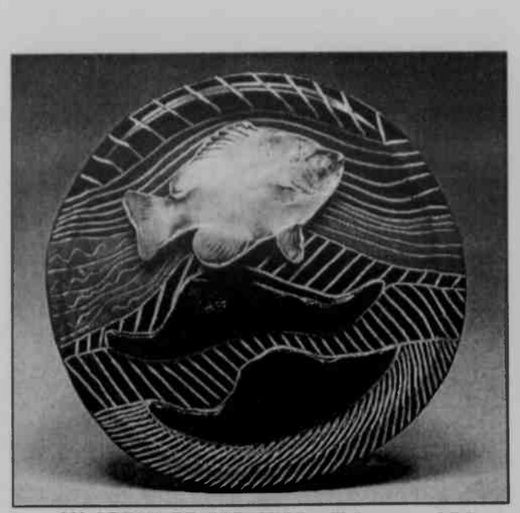
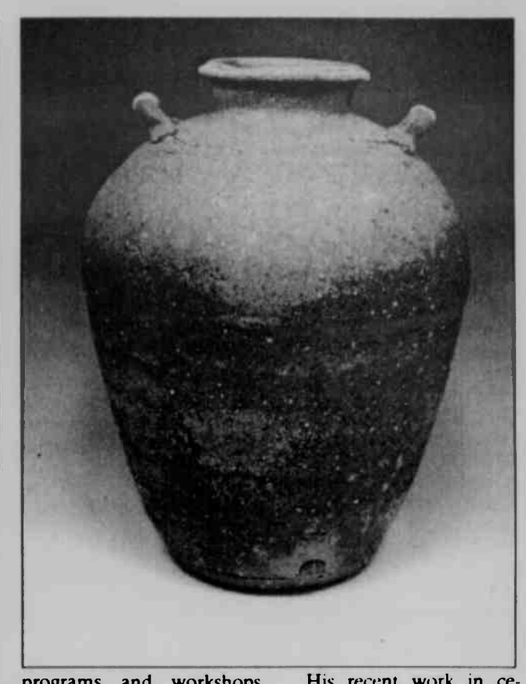
Ceramic Artists' Work Going On Display At GC



The Art Gallery of Garrett College will host an exhibition of ceramic art by the seven artists teaching in public institutions of higher education in western Maryland. The exhibition, set for March 3 to 22, is scheduled to coincide with the National Council on Education in the Ceramic Arts (NCECA) conference, which is being held in Pittsburgh, Pa., this year. This exhibition is the first time these artists will exhibit their work together as a group.



An artists' reception is planned for the closing of the show on Saturday, March 22, from 3 to 6 p.m. The public is invited.

In this group exhibition, a variety of ceramic vessels, pottery, and sculpture will be on display by Joan Bontempo from Hagerstown Community College, Jackie Brown from Frostburg State University, Joe Campbell from Frederick Community College, Pat Faville from Allegany College of Maryland, Teddy Latta from FSU, Shane Sellers from FCC, and Ron Skidmore from Garrett College.

Joan Bontempo teaches at Hagerstown Community College, and has previously taught at Alverno College in Milwaukee, Wis., Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich., and St. Clair Community College in Port Huron, Mich. She holds a master of fine arts degree from Wayne State University and a bachelor's degree of fine arts from the University of Notre Dame in Indiana. In 2002 she served as an NCECA Conference panel member in Kansas City, Mo. She has exhibited her work widely, including solo and group shows at the University of Pittsburgh, Detroit Institute of Art, Snite Museum of Art, Canton Art Institute, and many colleges.

Bontempo's ceramic work focuses on large vessels and sculptures using a raku firing process and clay in mixed media works, combining clay constructions with distorted, painted canvases, copper coil, and found objects.

AN ARRAY OF CERAMICS will be on exhibit at the Garrett College Art Gallery from March 3 through 22. The pieces are the creations of seven professional ceramic artists, all instructors in the craft. The piece above was made by Jackie Brown, an instructor at Frostburg State University. Below is a piece by Garrett College's Ron Skidmore, and at right is an urn made by Joe Campbell of Frederick Community College. A reception for the artists is slated for the close of the exhibit on March 22. See story.

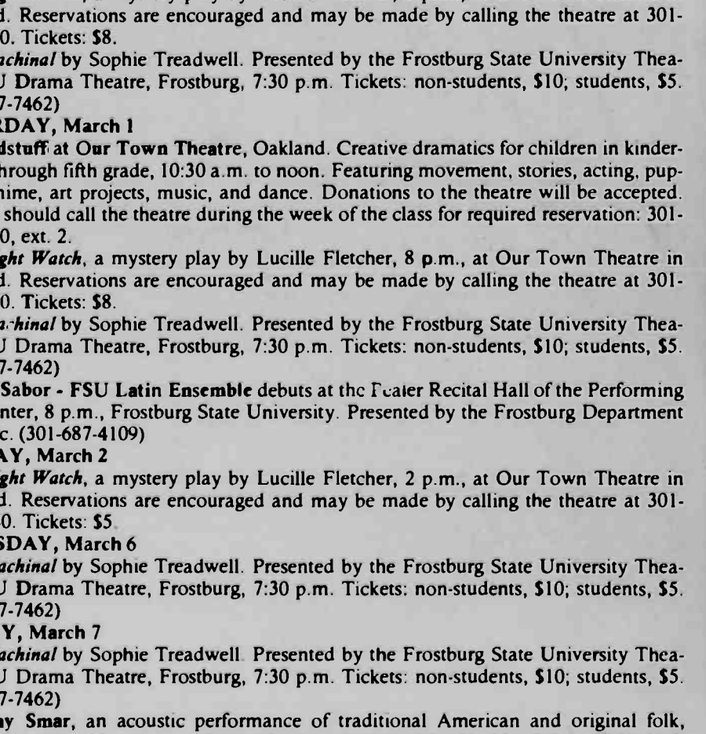
Jackie Brown has been the professor of ceramics at FSU since 1989. Her career in art began in Manchester, England, with undergraduate work in three-dimensional design, including wood, metal, ceramics and glass. She continued studies to receive a post-graduate certificate in education in 1982, and taught children and adults in Northampton, England, for two years before coming to the U.S. in 1984.

Brown attended Arizona State University and received an MFA degree, and later taught at ASU as an associate faculty member. She also taught at Mesa Community College and Mesa Cultural Program before coming to Frostburg. She has an avid interest in both clay and printmaking, and has recently combined the two with the discovery of a technique of printing line and color onto a clay surface. She is presently employing this method in the construction of her ceramic pieces.

Joe Campbell was born and reared in Claysburg, Pa. He has been teaching at Frederick Community College for more than 20 years, and holds a BA degree from FSU and an MFA degree in ceramics from Ohio University. He has an extensive background in art, with previous exhibitions in Japan, New Mexico, and many local galleries. His recent work in ceramics involves atmospheric firings with salt and soda. His work in glaze painting has also led him into the craft of brush-making, creating brushes which with bamboo handles and varied bristles for glaze application, slip trailing, and other aqueous painting techniques.

Ceramic artist, writer, and educator Pat Faville has worked in ceramic arts for 18 years. He exhibits his artwork regionally and continues to show in several national and international juried exhibitions. His work has won several awards. He has written for Ceramics Monthly and several articles for the national publication, Clay Times. He is currently in the editing process of his first book, Year One Clay.

His ceramic work, while sculptural in nature, is largely based on traditional vessels. In his 10+ years as a college art professor, he has taught at FCC, FSU, and Garrett College, and is currently a member of the visual art faculty at Allegany College of Maryland.



Teddy Latta was a student of Jackie Brown at FSU in 1993. She is now a colleague at FSU, teaching continuing education classes in ceramics. She holds a bachelor's degree in biology and is currently teaching a lab class for the physics department. This exhibition will be the first public showing of her work. She is focusing her attention on functional pieces with decorative enhancements either through carving, shaping or glazing techniques.

Shane Sellers works with Campbell at FCC teaching classes and serving as the art studio manager. He studied at FCC with Campbell and at FSU with Brown before attending the University of Massachusetts, where he earned an MFA degree in three-dimensional studies. He has been involved in artist-in-residency programs and workshops across the United States as well as in Japan. Sellers' work includes a broad range of interests, from abstract sculpture to traditional Japanese ceramic objects. Many of his pieces have combined the functional ceramics with the sculptural form to create larger pieces, such as his stacking of 130 tea bowls to create a sculpture. He also continues to make functional vessels and usually displays these pieces at regional shows.

Ron Skidmore is a professor of art at Garrett College, where he has been teaching a variety of introductory art courses since 1982 and serves as the director of the college's art gallery. He holds a BS degree in art education from FSU and an MFA degree in printmaking from West Virginia University. He has recently exhibited his work at Zen Clay in Morgantown, W.Va., and has participated in many painting and clay workshops at various locations, including the Touchstone Center for Arts and Crafts in Farmington, Pa.

His recent work in ceramics involves an exploration of surface texture and color, carving and cut-outs, figurative additions to pottery forms, and refinements of glaze painting techniques.

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the art department of GC at 301-387-3024.

Northern Dribblers Fall Short To Mountain Ridge, Fort Hill

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team had a rocky week as it was swept by the homestanding Mountain Ridge Miners in a Saturday evening Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference game, and was nipped by Fort Hill Tuesday as the Sentinels carried home a 73-67 victory.

The Huskies were off their game Saturday night, with Gibson, the only Northern player to reach double-digit scoring, uncharacteristically reaching just 11 points – a rarity in Gibson scoring history.

Perhaps it was the Miners' near perfection at the foul line that helped them to lead by as much as 21 points at one point in the contest. Mountain Ridge was 20-for-22 from the free throw line, with David Hobel leading the charge by going 13-for-14.

Hobel tallied 18 points in the Miners' win, followed by Sammy Brackett with 10 and Jeremy Shingler with eight points.

Gibson got his 11 points on two three-point buckets, three free throws, and one field goal.

Mountain Ridge (13-8 overall, 8-5 AMAC) increased its 14-7 first quarter lead to 24-14 at halftime, and 41-20 by the end of the third.

Chris Sowers scored 15 points as the Miners added a jayvee win. Matt Gibson provided 15 points for Northern.

Gibson was back to his usual high-scoring self in Tuesday evening's AMAC clash with Fort Hill, scoring 40 points, but the Sentinels answered back with well-rounded play.

Gibson gave a solid performance, hitting 13 field goals, including six threes, and going 10-for-12 on foul shots. Gulledge sank three three-pointers to finish with nine points for the Huskies (10-12).

Jordan Brooks earned team-high scoring honor for the Sentinels with 26 points, and Ryan Brooks scored 16, while Darren Graham added 14.

The game was close with Northern ahead 15-12 after the first quarter, and Fort Hill leading 30-29 at the half. It wasn't until the third stanza that Fort Hill managed to put some distance between the two at 50-44.

Northern was defeated in the junior varsity game, 51-39. Dylan Miller provided 10 points for the Huskies.

Northern will host Southern on Saturday at 7 p.m. in the opening round of the West Region sectional tournament, with the winner playing second-seeded Allegany on Tuesday.

NORTHERN GETS A TASTE OF FORT HILL – The hopeful Huskies of Northern High School fell just short of a victory Tuesday night as the visiting Fort Hill Sentinels pushed to a 73-67 win. Northern coach Paul Edwards was optimistic to avenge an earlier loss to Fort Hill, and his team held on until the third quarter, when the Sentinels paraded to a 12-point lead. Jeff Smith (#1) is pictured above gearing up for a shot as Dustin Platter (#12) plants his feet in front of a Fort Hill defender. The clouds parted for the Huskies in the photo below, as the hand of Kory Gibson (#21) stretches out to deliver the ball to the basket. See story. Photos by Mandy Geisler.

Kasie Fratz Hits Four Threes To Fuel Huskies' Win Over Fort Hill

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team could have flattened Fort Hill twice this week, had it had the chance. The Husky cagers finally met up with the Sentinels Saturday evening and ran Fort Hill to a 74-48 defeat. The Sentinels would have had their chance to avenge the loss Wednesday night, but the game was called off when Garrett County schools implemented a cancellation.

Husky Kasie Fratz was hot from behind the three-point line in Saturday's Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference game by hitting four threes to go with her two field goals – tallying 16 points to win.

Kaitlynn Fratz put up 11 points, and Brittany Stein and Megan Wiley each scored 10 points and handed out six assists for the homestanding Huskies. Danielle Brenneman provided nine points and Adria Graham, seven points and eight rebounds. Emily Mangus did her share on defense as she hauled in eight boards.

Northern dominated from the start with a 21-6 lead after one quarter, and 39-15 after two. The Huskies were ahead by 30 points going into the final quarter.

Becky Miller was the highest scorer for the Sentinels (4-15 overall, 1-11 AMAC) with 13, and Lindsey Fisher was close behind with 10 points.

Hannah Fike recorded 15 points and 21 rebounds as the Huskies downed the Sentinels in a big way, 52-17, in the jayvee game. Tara Goff added 14 points for the Huskies, while Christina Stevens had 18 for Fort Hill.

Playoff schedules for the Huskies have not been submitted.

A SUCCESSION OF LOSSES – The Southern High boys' varsity basketball team got off to a bumpy start this week with substantial losses to Tucker County and Preston before being edged by Mountain Ridge. Senior guard Jordan Pacella (#40), pictured above, received team-high scoring honors in Saturday's loss to Preston with 11 points, but the Rams had difficulty bringing the numbers up as a whole. Pictured below, senior guard Jon Ross (#11) stretches for a short jump shot. The Rams finished their regular season at 10-11 overall and 7-6 in the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference. See story. Photos by John McEwen.

Southern Boys Upset By Tucker Co., Preston, Mountain Ridge

The gears of the well-oiled Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team have locked up as the Rams bumped along to three recent losses. Southern hit trouble when it lost a 61-47 contest to Tucker County last Thursday, then sank deeper after a 53-38 loss to Preston on Saturday, and finally hit bottom when a game dragged into double-overtime with Mountain Ridge, ending in a 63-61 rout. A game slated for Wednesday evening against Bishop Walsh was postponed with the cancellation of schools.

The Rams were kept at an arm's length in the final three quarters of last Thursday's contest at Tucker County, and Southern lacked the high scoring figures that could have brought them back from a 12-point halftime deficit.

The Mountain Lions pounced the Rams with five first quarter threes to jump out to a 22-12 lead, and widened the margin to 33-21 at halftime.

Eric Wamsley had four of Tucker County's seven three-pointers, and led the squad with 18 points. Justin Crosten recorded 14, and Darius Dillard and L.J. Gravelle scored 10 apiece.

Jordan Pacella put the Rams on the map with 13 points, and Dan Shockey added 11. Drew Proudfoot followed with nine points and 11 rebounds.

Southern got as close as eight midway through the third stanza, but Tucker County entered the final quarter ahead 17 points.

The junior varsity Mountain Lions also trapped a victory, but no details were received.

Preston	11	27	40	53
Southern	9	21	27	38

Southern plummeted to a 53-38 loss Saturday night in a make-up game against visiting Preston, and the Rams fell to .500 for the first time in almost a month.

Preston's T.J. Thompson barreled past the Ram defensive with a game-high 23 points, while Colton Walls also scored in double figures with 13 points.

The Rams found themselves down a basket after the first stanza, and down by three after the second, but it was Preston's third quarter 13-point outburst that buried the Rams throughout the remainder of the contest.

Pacella led Southern with 11 points, a majority of which came off three three-point baskets, and Jeff Stem recorded nine points.

Southern dropped a 43-22 decision in the jayvee game. Joe Kisselovich tallied nine points for Southern.

Southern (10-11 overall, 7-6 AMAC) had a case of the free-throw woes in its double OT, 63-61, loss to the Miners Tuesday night. The Rams were 12-for-16 from the line over the first three quarters, but only 10-for-20 during the fourth.

Aside from foul shots gone awry, the Rams had the arduous challenge of holding back Mountain Ridge's David Hobel, who hit four three-point buckets and a game-high 27 points.

Miner Ryan Delaney scored the last two of his 11 points with 6.1 seconds remaining in the second overtime period to get the win. Teammate Sean Fazenbaker, who scored seven points, hit a basket to force the first overtime.

Pacella paced Southern with 17 points, and Proudfoot finished with 14. Dan Shockey contributed 11 points.

The Rams edged the Miners in the jayvee game, 28-26. Calvin Hilliard scored 10 points for Southern, and Keinan Harper had 13 for the Miners.

Mountain Ridge finishes its regular season at 14-8 overall and 9-5 in the AMAC.

MOUNTAIN RIDGE (63)
Cody Morton 0 0-2 0, Ryan Delaney 4 3-5 11, David Hobel 3 4 9-9 27, Sean Fazenbaker 3 0-0 7, Sammy Brackett 3 1-2 7, Andrew Delaney 3 3-4 11. Totals 20 16-22 63.

SOUTHERN (61)
Jeff Stem 3 2-5 8, Chris Schad 2 2-2 6, Jon Ross 0 5-8 5, Drew Proudfoot 4 6-12 14, Jordan Pacella 5 4-4 17, Dan Shockey 4 3-5 11. Totals 18 22-36 61.

Three-point goals - Mountain Ridge 7 (Hobel 4, Fazenbaker 1, A. Delaney 2), Southern 3 (Pacella 3). Total fouls - Mtn. Ridge 28, Southern 21. Fouled out - Hobel, Jeremy Shingler, Delaney (Mtn. Ridge), Stem (Southern).

These have included $500 to the Southern High School baseball program, $500 to the Southern girls basketball program, $500 to the Southern wrestling program, and $400 to Southern Middle School to send students to a theatrical program in Hagerstown.

The club also donated approximately $600 worth of food items to the House of Hope food drive in December, $500 to the Country Kids 4-H Club food drive, and money for the purchase of trophies that were awarded at the Garrett County Fair.

"We also have been sending care packages to our military personnel overseas," added Steve Green, president of the club.

Justine Pagenhardt Named To National All-American Squad

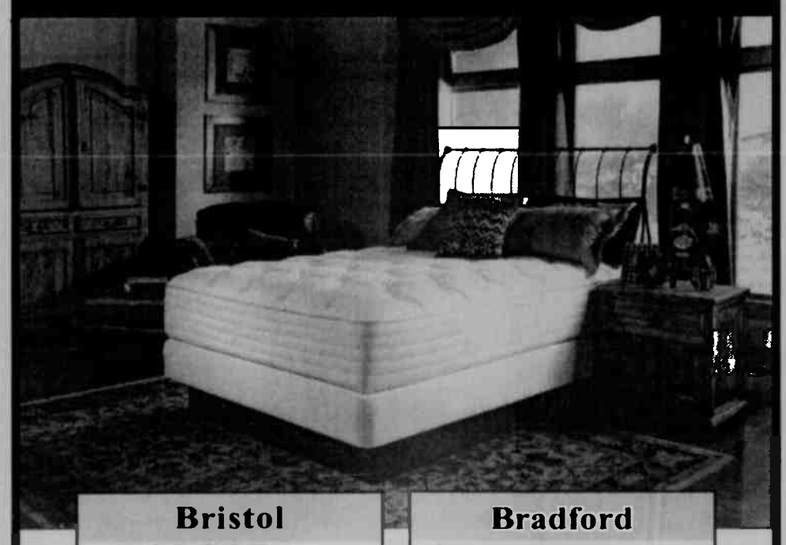
Marietta College senior Justine Pagenhardt has been named to the 2007-08 ESPN The Magazine's national Academic All-America third team by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA).

It was announced just a few weeks ago that she had been named to the academic All-America list for District IV. The national team listings were released this week.

Pagenhardt wrapped up her career on Marietta's women's basketball team with another impressive season. The former Southern High School standout led the team and finished second in the Ohio Athletic Conference (OAC) in scoring, averaging 17.0 points. She also contributed 4.3 rebounds, 2.5 assists, and 0.8 steals per game in 2007-08. She finished her career fourth all-time in scoring at the college, with 1,454 points, and as the career leader in three-point field goal attempts with 380.

The four-year letter winner, the lone OAC representative on either the men's or women's teams, is awaiting word on both All-OAC and Academic All-OAC honors this winter. She entered the season as a two-time award winner in both categories, receiving honorable mention All-OAC in 2004-05 and second-team All-OAC in 2005-06, as well as Academic All-OAC as both a sophomore and junior.

The biology major entered her final semester at Marietta with a 3.92 cumulative grade point average. In addition to playing two years of tennis, Pagenhardt is also the secretary for the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee. A daughter of Monty and Nancy Pagenhardt, Oakland, Justine plans to attend medical school next fall.



To be eligible to be considered for Academic All-America honors, a student-athlete must be a varsity starter or key reserve, maintain a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.20 on a scale of 4.00, have reached at least sophomore athletic and academic standings at his/her institution, and be nominated by his/her sports information director. Since the program's inception in 1952, CoSIDA has bestowed Academic All-America honors on more than 14,000 student-athletes in Divisions I, II, and III, and NAIA, covering all NCAA championship sports.

ESPN The Magazine – winner of the 2006 and 2003 National Magazine Award for General Excellence – has a biweekly circulation of 1.9 million.

Glotfelty Places Second In CC Wrestling Tourn.

Former Northern High School athletic and academic standout Brock Glotfelty, a freshman member of the McDaniel College wrestling team, placed second in the heavyweight division of the eight-team Centennial Conference championships, held Saturday at Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa.

Glotfelty, the third seed in his division, opened his day with a 2-minute, 54-second pin of Merchant Marine's Judson Connell before advancing to the championship bout with a 4-minute, 52-second pin of #2 seed Joe Tarter of Muhlenberg College.

He nearly pulled off the upset of top-seeded Matt Williams of Ursinus in the title bout, but was edged via an 8-6 decision.

As a team, the McDaniel Green Wave finished seventh. Merchant Marine won the team title, followed by Ursinus and Stevens.

Glotfelty won the Maryland State 1A/2A championship last year in the 215-pound division as a member of the Northern High team.

Southern Cagers Finish 17-4 After Clobbering BW, Fort Hill

The curtain came down on the Southern High School varsity girls' basketball team's regular season as the Rams clobbered the Bishop Walsh Spartans, 60-20, before trouncing Fort Hill, 64-28. The second act will begin for Southern, which drew a bye in the first round of the Maryland State 1A West Region Tournament, as the Rams vie for the top spot with the winner of the Fort Hill/Mountain Ridge contest.

The high-rolling Rams marched their way to their fourth win in a row, and seventh win in the last eight games, when a contest played last Thursday in Oakland ended in a 40-point victory.

Junior Torie Bosley carried the Rams with a game-high 16 points after hitting six field goals, with four being three-pointers. Senior Hannah Davis contributed eight points, and senior Brittany Boyce finished with six points and seven rebounds.

Southern whittled away at BW's chance of a win when the Rams led 19-2 after the first quarter, and 31-6 at the break. Southern's defensive squad held the Spartans to eight points in the second half en route to building a 40-point margin.

Abby Mathews put up six points to lead Bishop Walsh (4-21).

The Southern jayvees ran away with a lopsided 38-15 win. Mariah Stem had 10 points and Anna Keefer, eight for the Rams, while Abby Wolfe and Kelly Lar-kin each had six for the Spartans.

Scoring wasn't Fort Hill's forte in Monday evening's 64-28 Ram round-up, and neither was blocking, as the homestanding Rams held Fort Hill to just two points in the first quarter while putting up 20 for themselves.

Southern rode a five-game winning streak all the way to its season closer, and concludes the regular season 17-4 overall and 9-4 in the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference.

Torie Bosley stoked the Southern fire with five three-pointers and 16 points. Dentinee Fulk added 10 points, while Boyce provided six points and eight rebounds, and Emillee Bosley hit three baskets for seven points.

The Sentinels (4-16 overall, 1-12 AMAC) were paced by Andrea Armstrong's seven points.

Southern continued to widen the point margin to 32-9 at the break, and 51-17 at the start of the fourth quarter.

Southern took the jayvee game by storm, racking up 34 points to Fort Hill's nine. Keefer tallied 16 points, while Mariah Stem finished with eight. Kacey Smith led the Sentinels with five points.

Southern will host the winner of Friday's Miners versus Spartans Clash on Monday.

Lakers To Face Hagerstown In Region XX Semifinal Saturday

The Garrett College men's basketball team will go into the Division I Region XX tournament this Saturday as the #3 seed. The Lakers will face the #2 seed and tournament host, Hagerstown CC, in the 7 p.m. game.

Top-seeded Chesapeake will await the winner of the contest between #4 Potomac State College and #5 Allegany College, which will tip off at 5 p.m.

Hagerstown won the regular season meeting over Garrett, 81-67, which was played on the Lakers' floor, but GC head coach Dennis Gibson says he is confident his team can handle the adversity of playing the home team in the opening round.

"For some reason we have been better on the road than at home this season," he said. "We have the ability to beat anyone in this tourney, but for us to do that we have to play a consistent game. Hagerstown has more scoring firepower than we do, and more post player size and depth, so we have to offset that with taking care of the ball and controlling the offensive tempo.

"I really thought we were in a position to win the game here," he continued, "but we went on a five-minute drought when we could not make an open shot.

"Our biggest problem right now is that we will not have played a game for almost two weeks, and that is always hard to figure into your game plan. We cannot start out cold or rusty. We have to be prepared from the opening tip."

The Lakers are led in scoring by freshman Shawn Greenfield, who is hitting an average of 15 points and leads the team in steals with 1.8 per game and assists with 3.2 per outing. He has also connected on 64 three-pointers.

Sophomore shooting guard Dale Taylor is the team's second leading scorer at 11.4 ppg and has hit 60 three-pointers. Taylor was just recently named to the All-Maryland JUCO second team.

"Dale has really improved throughout this season and deserves to be recognized with some of the best players in this league," said Gibson.

"Overall this is one of the deepest classes of players I have seen in the Maryland JUCO for some time. All of the teams were good enough to beat anyone on a given night. A lot of good players have been left off the All-JUCO team this year not by choice, but because of the depth of the league. Shawn Greenfield is a perfect example of that," he said.

Glen Izevbigie, a 6-9 sophomore, is the Lakers' leading rebounder with 6.5 per game, and is also scoring just under 10 ppg.

Two freshmen have been effective scorers coming off the bench. Reco Siler is contributing an average of over eight points per game and leads the team in free throws attempted, making 67 of 98 in 27 games.

Power forward Terrance Taylor, 6-4, is finishing the season strongly, scoring double figures in his last three games while posting a season average of 7.4 points and 4.3 rebounds per game.

The Region XX championship game will be played Sunday afternoon.

Laker Women Upset Hawks; Downed In Finals By Trojans

The fourth seeded Garrett College women's basketball team downed the top ranked Hagerstown Hawks in a 59-42 semifinal game, then advanced to the JUCO finals where it was defeated in a 55-41 contest with the Allegany Trojans. The Lakers finish at 21-4.

Sophomore center Mindy Sharp pulled off a double-double with 12 points and 12 rebounds in the semifinals on Saturday, while freshman point guard Tanika Jeffers put up 14 points for Garrett.

Tegra Hillman gave a rounded performance for the Lakers with 13 points, nine boards, six assists, and five steals. Freshman Blaire Bradley handed out nine assists.

Latoya Buckner led the Hawks with 29 points, but she was the only Hagerstown dribbler to reach double digits. In fact, only five Hawks were able to score at all.

The Lakers were able to get out to a quick lead, and were able to hold the Hawks at a distance for most of the night. Garrett led 38-25 at halftime, and outscored Hagerstown 21-17 in the second.

According to Garrett head coach Thea Garland, the Lakers are anxious to have another shot at the Allegany Trojans. "We are looking forward to the rematch with Allegany," Garland said. "We were a few players short the first time around and are looking for a chance to redeem the earlier loss."

The Lakers pulled the short straw in a much anticipated JUCO finals contest against Allegany Monday night at Anne Arundel. The Lakers stuck to their guns with a patient offensive strategy, but the Trojans kept their composure and intensity to ensure the 55-41 defeat.

Garrett hoped to avenge a late January 77-58 loss to Allegany, one of only three teams to beat Garrett this season, but Allegany's all-around solid performance allowed it to roll to its 23rd straight win.

Garrett was led by Hillman's 11 points and Sharp's eight. Hillman and Tanika Jeffers were the Lakers choices for the All-Tournament team.

Allegany started out slow, and reserved its attack for the second half when Jasmine Blanks scored 16 points to go with her five assists. Blanks earned the tourney's Most Valuable Player. Kacey Kahl recorded eight points, pulled in nine rebounds, and had three assists and four steals, and Melissa Ford finished with 14 points and half as many rebounds. Kahl and Ford were both awarded All-Tournament status for their play.

Have You HEARD?

HEARING WHAT YOU WANT TO HEAR

How are you able to hear conversation amidst the noise of a crowded restaurant? Researchers have discovered that the left side of our brains picks out the desired sounds from the background noise. This makes sense when you take into account that speech signals are processed in the left brain. When researchers monitored the brain's response to different sound combinations, it was observed that the left hemisphere displayed the most neural activity associated with processing sounds in a noisy setting. While no one is suggesting that today's highly sophisticated hearing instruments are on a par with the brain when it comes to picking out desired sounds in noisy environments, you may be surprised at how well they do so.

The first step toward better hearing is having your hearing tested. If the signs are there (frequently misunderstanding what is being said, asking people to repeat themselves, or turning up the volume on the TV or radio) please call us at AUDIBEL. We have the answers to many of the questions you'll probably have regarding your hearing impairment. From custom fittings to follow-up care from a specialist in hearing healthcare, you can rely on us.

P.S. Digital programmable hearing instruments analyze the signals in the wearer's environment to determine if the sound is noise or speech. They then make modifications to provide a clear, amplified distortion-free signal.

Garrett Splits Twinbill In Season Opener Against Burlington, N.J.

The Garrett College Lakers took one out of two outings on Maryland JUCO diamonds this week in a season opening doubleheader split with Burlington, N.J. The Lakers were slated to play a split a twinbill between Salem and Montgomery Rockville on Monday, but no results were received.

Former Westmar standout Jamie Stowell earned his first collegiate win Saturday as the Garrett Lakers recorded a victory over Burlington, in the first game of a doubleheader at the Virginia Sports Complex in Ruther Glen.

Garrett scored five runs in the fourth inning to send it to a 13-4 win in the first game, but faltered in the second game and wound up with a 9-6 loss.

The Lakers and the Barons were neck and neck, each with four points at the top of the sixth of the opener, when Garrett scored six runs, then added three more in the seventh.

Stowell pitched the final two innings, and refused to allow a single run to pick up the victory for Garrett.

Jordan Hetrick hammered a solo home run in the sixth, and added a single for Garrett. T.J. Ventry knocked three singles and had three runs batted in, and Keith Johnson doubled and had two RBI. Jeremy Shackelford hit two singles.

Ryan Etsell recorded three hits for Burlington.

Burlington kicked off the scoring in the second contest, and stayed ahead with the help of a five-run second.

John Mahoney fired a three-run homer in the second, and added a single and a sacrifice fly to finish with four RBI.

Jeff Mingin struck out nine batters after entering in the third to ensure the Barons' victory.

Joe Wilt scattered two singles and had two RBI for the Lakers.

Next up for Garrett is a trip to Southside Community College, Alberta Va., for a doubleheadder on Friday. After that, the Lakers will travel to Allegany College of Maryland on Sunday for another doubleheadder.

Ram Freshmen No Match For Host Sentinels

The Southern High School freshman basketball team's defense was no match for Fort Hill's Dakota Burns's rare triple-double, and it was handed a 49-27 defeat in the Sentinels' season closer.

Southern was led by Todd Custer with 10 points and Christian Glotfelty's seven points.

Fort Hill finishes its season at an even 10-10. The Rams' season record was not provided.

Sincell also wrote news stories, served as the photographer, and operated and managed the print shop. For many years, he read the news on a local radio station every Thursday evening. At the time of his death on May 16, 2003, he was president of the company, and the general manager.

Sincell was married to Hannah Wagoner in 1948, and they established residence in Mountain Lake Park. They had five children, two of whom continue to work at the publishing company (Donald W. Sincell is the editor and president; Mary Sincell McEwen is the vice president and senior writer. Her husband, John McEwen, is the photo editor and secretary). A granddaughter of Sincell's, Rachel Sincell, is also employed at the newspaper.

The inductee was a member of Proctor-Kildow Post 71, American Legion, and was one of the first National Ski Patrol members to serve at Wisp, which he did for 25 years. He was the patrol leader for several seasons, and taught First Aid to the patrollers for many years.

Sincell was a founding member of the Garrett County Southern/Northern rescue squads, and the first-ever emergency medical technician instructor in Garrett County. He served as EMT with Southern Rescue Squad for 20 years.

"He was a stickler for grammar, always complaining about bad usage on television or in other papers (or in our own at those unfortunate times). He preached accuracy and non-sensationalism. He hated yellow journalism with a passion, and felt such misuse of the profession was inexcusable. He had a great sense of humor, though, and thought it to be a powerful tool.

"Dad's knowledge of Garrett County was great, which came in handy when any of the writers were working on features or looking for sources," she wrote. "He loved to see historic features in the paper, as he had a great sense of pride about his home county."

McEwen and other family members plan to attend the April event in Ellicott City. In addition to Sincell, Black, and Block, the other inductees are Philip Merrill, owner of Capital-Gazette Communications; John H. possible, according to an association memo.

Miller explained that the grant funding could be channeled through the county, which could hire a project manager to oversee the project.

"So, the county would be the conduit for the grant then," asked Commissioner Ernie Gregg. "We'd do the procurement and manage this person?"

"Yes," Harman said, adding that the commissioners did not have to commit to anything specific today. But, he noted, the SHA would like a letter of support now. A memorandum of understanding between the state and county regarding the project could be worked out later.

The commissioners unanimously agreed to send a letter to the SHA indicating their support for the repair project.

"We're writing the grant now," Miller said on Tuesday. The SHA must receive the grant application for the project by Feb. 29.

Vote for Aaron White
Mayor of Oakland

Vote on March 10th!
Citizens of Oakland,
The time has come for a change. I have heard many of you voice your desire for change in local government, and change is what I offer as a candidate for Mayor of Oakland. I believe that the Mayor and Town Council should have the concerns of Oakland's citizens at the top of the list. The job of these elected officials is to echo and act on your concerns, not to implement a personal agenda.
I assure you all that your tax money will be put to the best use and not spent on secondary concerns. Oakland needs improved roads, continued improvement of infrastructure, formation of improved traffic patterns and improved parking. These items are crucial for the continued growth of the downtown area.
I have lived here over 30 years, and I want this town to be alive and well for my children to enjoy. If we continually allow the interests of elected officials to supersede the needs of the community, its future will be in jeopardy. As a candidate for Mayor, I want to hear your concerns. I extend an offer for you to contact me at 301-616-6407. I agree with your repeated concerns that we need change. This is the time to do it.

PASTOR RECOGNIZED WITH PRESTIGIOUS AWARD – Rev. William E. Carlson was honored with the 2008 Alumni Award for "Service in Parish Ministry" from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg during a presentation on Feb. 17. The award, which was presented by Rev. Michael Cooper-White, president of the seminary, was presented to Rev. Carlson for his many character traits that have benefited the church and community over his 35-year position at the Accident Parish. Pictured above, from left, are Rev. Carlson, Bishop Ralph Dunkin, and Rev. Michael Cooper-White at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident. See story.

Local Pastor Honored "Service In Parish Ministry" Award Recipient

Rev. William E. Carlson, who will celebrate his 90th birthday this year, was honored with the 2008 Alumni Award for "Service in Parish Ministry" from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg during a presentation on Feb. 17. The award was presented by Rev. Michael Cooper-White, president of the seminary.

Because Pastor Carlson was not able to attend the alumni dinner in Gettysburg, Rev. Roland E. Nairn III, pastor of the Accident Lutheran Parish, coordinated with the Seminary, the Alumni Association, and the WV/WMD Synod to make it possible for Pastor Carlson to receive the award at St. Paul's Luther[illegible] Church in Accident.

The Awards for Distinguished Alumni seek to honor all living Gettysburg Seminary graduates who have exhibited faithfulness in the ministry of the church and by that faithfulness bring honor to all seminary graduates. Recipients of the "Service in Parish Ministry Award" meet the following criteria: dedication to vocation, faithfulness and effectiveness in ministry, service to the church and community, focus and stability in each position, years of service, and service to the synod and seminary.

Rev. Carlson received his A.B. degree in 1942 from Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, where he majored in economics. Also in 1942, he was married to Eleanor Albers, and he entered the United States Army. He received an honorable discharge approximately four years later.

Rev. Carlson earned his bachelor of divinity degree from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg in 1949, and in the same year began his ministry in the Accident Evangelical Lutheran Parish, was ordained by the synod of West Virginia, and was installed as pastor.

Carlson conducted services at the three churches under the Accident Parish (St. Paul's in Accident, St. John's in the Cove, and Grace in Friendsville) for 35 years.

After retiring and purchasing a house in the Accident community in 1984, Carlson was bestowed the honorary title of pastor emeritus in 1989 on his 40th anniversary of ordination. After 65 years of marriage, Carlson's wife died in 2007.

Pastor Carlson held many positions in the old West Virginia Synod and the Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Synod, including helping to establish Lutheran Campus Ministry in both synods and the executive board of both synods. In addition, he served for 10 years on the board of directors of Gettysburg Seminary.

As an active person in the community before and after his retirement, Carlson's list of involvements is the following: chairman of the Accident Municipal Planning Commission for 30 years, project coordinator for the Accident Water and Sewerage Projects, member of the Tri-County Council, president of the Accident Community Housing Corporation, president of the Accident Health Board, chairman of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society, chairman of Boy Scout Troop 82 troop committee, member of the Citizen's Study Committee for Establishing a Community College in Garrett County, and chaplain of American Legion Post 208. He has received several awards for his civic activities.

Rev. Dr. Ralph Dunkin, bishop of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod, Rev. Cooper-White, Rev. Nairn, Rev. Matthew Riegel, Rev. Stephen Yelovich, delegate Wendell Beitzel, and Sally Schwing – speaking for herself and Margaret Maurer, alumna who nominated Pastor Carlson for the award – gave tributes to the recipient during the presentation of the award. Richard Carlson, Pastor Carlson's son, thanked everyone involved on behalf of Pastor Carlson and his family. Also present were Rev. Marjorie Lauver and Rev. Kathleen O. Reed.

HABITAT SCHEDULES WINTER BUILD – Garrett County Habitat for Humanity has scheduled its 2008 Winter Build event for March 1, 8, and 15 at the Simon Pearce building, located along Rt. 135 near Mtn. Lake Park, beginning at 8 a.m. Winter Build is a program in which interested parties are invited to help construct the outside walls of one partner family house on each of three Saturdays. Three churches have agreed to host the work and provide supervision and lunch: Pine Grove Church of the Brethren, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Pictured, left to right, are two of this year's Habitat partner families: Zachary and Stephanie Merrill, and Derek and Ethan Steffan and Jessica Crosco. Persons interested in participating in the Winter Build are asked to contact Habitat executive director Doug Riley at 301-533-0600 or driley@garrettcac.org to make a reservation. "You can RSVP one week before the Saturday you will work," he said. "We also encourage individuals who want to serve our ministry."

Vehicle Flips On Rt. 219, Driver Escapes Injury

Registration For Kindergarten To Begin In April

The Garrett County Board of Education has announced that the annual comprehensive pre school registration program will be held again this year, beginning in April. All 4-year-old children who will turn age 5 by Sept. 1, 2008, are required to register for kindergarten. Those 4-year-olds who will not reach age 5 by Sept. 1 are not eligible for kindergarten registration through this program.

The registration program will be held in all local elementary schools during April and May. Through the comprehensive registration program, each child registering will receive a general health interview and dental screening. Immunizations will also be available.

Exemptions to the school attendance requirements allowed by law are: permits compliance through home school instruction regulation, grants a one-year immaturity waiver if the parent or guardian makes a written request to the local school system; and allows a 5-year-old to be enrolled in one of three alternative program settings: a full-time licensed child care center, a full-time registered family day care home, or part-time in a Head Start 5-year-old program.

Parents who choose to use one of the exemptions must request the appropriate exemption form from the Department of Pupil Services at 301-334-8939.

State regulations require parents to provide evidence of birth (certificate), an official immunization record, and documented proof of current residency, such as a deed or mortgage agreement, current property tax bill, current rental lease or agreement, or a current utility bill with the applicant's name and address. In addition, parents must complete an affidavit of disclosure to verify the residency of the student. Social Security cards are also requested at registration.

Parents of children who meet the above qualifications are asked to fill out a registration blank that appears in this paper. The form can also be picked up at a local elementary school or at the board of education building along Second Street in Oakland. Completed forms can then be mailed to the designated address. All parents registering children for school will receive a registration appointment.

UNNECESSARY MERCURY WORRIES

Q. Last week you wrote about mercury being dangerous stuff. What actions should I take to stay away from mercury?

A. You can't completely avoid mercury; it's one element in nature. Throughout the periodic table, there are many heavy metals, and mercury is one of them, along with lead, tin, gold, and so forth. The point to remember is: Keep everything in balance.

With any pollutant or poison, the real question is always "How much?" The human body actually needs a tiny bit of arsenic. Tiny amounts of the other heavy metals won't kill you. Don't go overboard trying to escape every hazard.

Here are two recent concerns about mercury that have gotten publicity, but neither is significant in quantity.

1. Old-fashioned dental fillings were made of several metals, including mercury, and called amalgams. In America, those have pretty much faded out of use because dental patients prefer (for cosmetic reasons) fillings made of a hard plastic material that is tooth-colored. Recently it made the news when Norway banned the use of mercury-containing amalgams.

People whose teeth contain amalgam fillings installed long ago should just let them be. The amalgam is a true metallic alloy, and won't release mercury. Even if an old tooth breaks and a person swallows the part containing the amalgam filling, it's not a problem; it will just leave the body in the solid waste.

2. Fluorescent light bulbs are commonly "filled" with mercury vapor. About five milligrams of mercury, under near-vacuum conditions, is the gas inside the tube. Conventional incandescent light bulbs are similarly "filled" with a tiny amount of argon gas. Other fluorescent lamps are filled with neon, hydrogen, etc. Sodium-filled lamps give off an eerie yellow glow. In standard indoor fluorescents, ultraviolet light from mercury ions strikes a phosphor coating the inside of the tube, which then radiates in the visible range, and so the light leaving the tube appears "white" to the normal eye.

The question arises: "When one of these bulbs burns out, if you throw it in the trash, won't that mercury eventually be released into the environment if the bulb breaks?" It depends on the kind of landfill, but the amount of mercury is extremely small. Five milligrams each means that it would require breaking 200 old bulbs to release one gram (and 454 grams equals one pound). Even with the current interest in compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs), it will take a long time for a million such bulbs to break. Meanwhile, with 3 million tons of coal burned every day to make electricity nationwide, about 275 pounds of mercury are released into the air daily. The "mercury burden" associated with breaking fluorescent bulbs might eventually reach 10 pounds/day nationwide. It's a non-problem.

In fact, if more people used energy-efficient fluorescent bulbs, less electricity would be required for lighting, less coal would be burned, and there would be a net reduction of mercury entering the atmosphere. That calculation can be done, too: If a 23-watt CFL bulb lasts 24,000 hours (1,000 days) before it burns out, it will use up 425 pounds of coal, which will emit 9.6 milligrams of mercury. Add in the 5 mg released when it breaks, and the total is 14.6 mg. Meanwhile, the 75W incandescent bulbs for which it substitutes would have used up 1,387 pounds of coal in 24,000 hours, and that would release 31.5 mg of mercury. So the cumulative mercury "contribution" of a CFL is less than half that of an incandescent bulb.

The point is, there are all kinds of different hazards out there, and every day we make tradeoffs among them. It's important to distinguish between big and little ones.

As a general guideline, accumulating any heavy metal in your body is certainly to be avoided.

Platinum, gold, mercury, thallium, lead, and bismuth are positioned consecutively in the Periodic Table. They're not all bad; the difference is in their chemical reactions. Platinum and gold are noble metals, and hardly interact with anything. The others can all be poisonous, and should be kept out of your body.

Historically, lead poisoning from their water pipes shortened the lives of the ancient Romans. About 30 years ago, after it was found that children would sometimes eat paint chips, paint containing lead was banned in America. Subsequently, government agencies have created programs to keep heavy metals (including mercury) out of the environment. Every citizen can certainly help by using less electricity.

Central Committee Welcomes New Republican Voters

The Maryland State Board of Elections has released its monthly voter registration activity report for January, which indicates that there were 86 newly registered Republicans in Garrett County.

"This is a wonderful way to start off the New Year," stated Brandon Butler, chairman of the Garrett County Republican Central Committee. "I want to personally thank Governor O'Malley for sending the people of our county running to the Republican Party."

According to the report, there are currently 10,704 active Republicans in Garrett County, compared to 4,895 active Democrats.

"We are working hard to get the message of the party out," added Butler. "It's a message that says government doesn't have to raise taxes to balance the budget; government shouldn't make it harder for people to own firearms; and government should stand by the side of every small business owner and not overburden them with red tape and undue taxation."

The Republican Central Committee is working on a number of events for the year. Members have also published a bi-monthly newsletter called the "Lincoln Letter," which outlines a number of national, state, and local issues.

"We are excited about what this year holds for Garrett County Republicans," said Ed Clemons, chair of voter registration for the Garrett County Republican Central Committee. "We are looking to reach out to young and old to make sure our party remains strong."

Comparatively, the State Board of Elections report stated that there were 36 newly registered Democrats in Garrett County last month.

All information and voter registration forms can be found at http://elections.state.md.us.

ORAL PIERCING: NOT AS SAFE AS YOU THINK
by Cynthia A. Heselbach, RDH
Garrett County Health Department

Piercing, like tattooing, is just one of today's popular forms of "body art" and self-expression. Piercing may seem daring, cool, and totally safe because some celebrities use piercing to flaunt their particular style or attitude. But piercing the tongue, lips, cheeks or uvula (the tiny tissue that hangs at the back of the throat) is not as safe as some would have you believe. That's because the mouth's moist environment – home to huge amounts of breeding bacteria – is an ideal place for infection.

An oral piercing can interfere with speech, chewing, or swallowing. That may seem like a mere inconvenience until you consider that it may also cause: excessive drooling (something you won't see in hip fashion magazines!); infection, pain, and swelling; chipped or cracked teeth; injuries to the gums; damage to fillings; increased saliva flow; hypersensitivity to metals; scar tissue; and nerve damage.

These harmful effects can happen during the piercing, soon after, or even long after the procedure.

An infection can quickly become life threatening if it's not treated promptly. For example, oral piercing carries a potential risk of endocarditis, an inflammation of the heart valves or tissues. Bacteria can enter the bloodstream through the piercing site in the mouth and travel to the heart, where it can colonize on heart abnormalities. This is a risk for people with heart conditions and, in worst of cases, results in death.

After piercing, the tongue may swell. There have been reports of swelling serious enough to block the airway. It's very possible to puncture a nerve ending during a tongue piercing. If this happens, you may experience a "numb" tongue – nerve damage that is sometimes temporary, but can be permanent. The injured nerve may affect your sense of taste, or how you move your mouth. Damage to the tongue's blood vessels can cause serious blood loss.

In addition, piercing jewelry can sometimes cause allergic responses to the pierced site. The jewelry can even get in the way of dental care by blocking X-rays.

Don't pierce on a whim. The piercing will be an added responsibility to your life, requiring constant attention and upkeep. Talk to your dentist for more information.

BOWSER COUPLE CROWNED – The Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland recently held its annual Valentine's Day social in which the 2008 Sweetheart Queen and King were crowned. Jane and Russ Bowser received the honorary titles.

Lions Conducting Vision Screening For Pre-Schoolers

The Garrett County Lions Clubs are conducting a free Vision Screening Program for the early detection of amblyopia in children who are 12 to 60 months of age. Children at a Deer Park day care center were most recently screened.

Amblyopia is Greek word imply translated as "dull eye," or commonly referred to as lazy eye. It is caused by a set of childhood eye disorders that result when the brain receives uncqual or abnormal visual input from the eyes. Amblyopia is more easily treatable if addressed before the age of 4.

"Unfortunately, the majority of children do not receive proper eye exams until they enter school, which could result in a reading or learning problem," said a club spokesperson. "In many cases it is a condition that cannot be easily detected by a parent or guardian. Most pre-school children have their eyes checked by general health practitioners and pediatricians who may not have the equipment to perform an eye screening or examination."

The Lions Vision Screening Program is based on using non-invasive screening technology for the detection of amblyopia.

Lion volunteers trained in the camera operations and vision screen procedures photograph children at such sites as day care centers, nurseries, religious schools, and other organized sites. Photographs are professionally interpreted, and the results returned to parents.

For additional information, persons may call Lion Elwood Glass, pre-school Vision Screening Program coordinator at 301-729-1110.

Haz Mat Class Slated At Senior Ctr. In Grantsville

Garrett College's Continuing Education and Workforce Development division has scheduled a course titled "Hazardous Material Training Certification – Recurrent," to be held on Friday, March 28, from 8 a.m. until noon at the Grantsville Senior Center.

The Department of Transportation (DOT) makes training mandatory for almost anyone who handles hazardous materials, regardless of the amount. The DOT also requires initial training and recurrent training every three years.

"This class meets both your initial and recurrent training requirements," said a college spokesperson.

Topics include, but are not limited to the following: general awareness/familiarization, function specific, safety, and security awareness.

The course is taught by Craig Talbott of the Maryland Motor Truck Association.

At the completion of training, a test will be administered and certifications of training will be provided.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for these courses, one may contact Kista Wilt, Continuing Education and Workforce Development, at 301-387-3069 or kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

MARCH 2008 SUN – As March opens, the sun is in the star group Aquarius, where it stays through March 10. In midday on March 11, the sun moves into Pisces, where it stays through April 17. (These dates are based on the actual star group boundaries and sun's position, not the 2,500-year-old dates used by Western astrologers.) The amount of daily sunlight in March grows by more than an hour; early March has 11.3 hours of daylight, while the end of March has 12.6 sunlit hours. Sunrises in Oakland in early March are about 6:50 a.m. On March 9, we add another hour to our clocks in going to Daylight Time. At the end of March, Oakland sunrises are a few minutes before 7 a.m. Sunsets in Oakland in early March are about 6:10 p.m., shifting to about 7:20 p.m. on March 9 and ending March with 7:40 p.m. sunsets. During March the sun's peak height at midday increases from 43 degrees to 55 degrees. In the morning, stars begin to fade away around 6 a.m., while evening stars first appear about 7 p.m. in early March and 8:30 p.m. in mid and late March.

MARCH 2008 MOON – At the beginning of March, the moon is a crescent in the morning sky. In the southeastern predawn sky, the crescent moon appears near the bright planet Jupiter on March 3 and near the brilliant planet Venus on March 5. On March 8, a very slender crescent moon may be seen very low in the southwestern dusk. On March 13, the evening moon is half full (like a "D"), offering the best views of its craters and mountains through binoculars. On the evening of March 14, the moon appears near the planet Mars. On March 18 and 19, the moon appears near the bright planet Saturn, to the right on the 18th and to the left on the 19th. The evening moon grows to full on March 21, triggering our earliest Easter of the century.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS IN MARCH 2008 – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. Venus is dazzling low in the southeastern dawn, rising about an hour ahead of the sun. Through most of March, the dimmer planet Mercury appears near Venus. To the right and higher than Venus is the bright planet Jupiter. The planet Saturn is in the eastern evening sky, appearing near the star Regulus of Leo. Above Orion (has three-star belt) is the yellowish planet Mars.

THE EVENING STARS IN MARCH – The brightest night star, Sirius, peaks in the south at dusk in March. Orion's three-star belt points down and left to Sirius. The bright golden star Capella appears high in the northwest. The Big Dipper is climbing higher in the north. Its two top stars point down and left to the North Star. These same two stars point up and right to Saturn. The handle of the Big Dipper can be extended outward to the bright golden star Arcturus, the first bright spring evening star to appear.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES IN MARCH – The March 2008 program at the Frostburg State Planetarium is "The Ancients and the Sky," with free programs on Sundays, March 2, 9, 16, and 30, at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. in Tawes 302. The Tawes Building is in the middle of the FSU campus nearby FSU's clock tower, the Lane Student Center, and the Performing Arts Center. This program is at a beginner's level, inviting audience questions and lasts about 45 minutes. Following an intermission, visitors are invited to tour of the Compton Exploratorium and see the Cavallaro collection of preserved mammals from five continents. To get a free planetarium/exploratorium bookmark and a 2008 Celestial Highlights flyer, persons may telephone call 301-687-7799 and leave name and mailing address.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure or sky charts, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-387-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "Sky Watch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Brooke's career as an actress still burns

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: What has Brooke Burns been doing since "Dog Eat Dog" went off the air? –Cyndi Brewster, Roswell, N.M.

A: Two years after ending her stint on that show, the Dallas native had a very close call. She broke her neck in a 2005 swimming-pool accident at her Los Angeles home, and fortunately, she recovered completely. She also credited ex-husband Julian McMahon ("Nip/Tuck"), the father of her daughter, Madison, with being a big source of support to her during her period of healing.

Since then, former "Baywatch" and "North Shore" regular Burns has co-starred as Rebecca Romijn's sister on "Pepper Dennis," and she also has made several TV movies including "Murder on Spec" and "Time and Again." She has another, "Smokejumpers," coming up later this year.

Q: On an episode of "Frasier," did I recognize Shannon Tweed as Dr. Honey Snow, a psychiatrist Frasier dated? A friend of mine says, "No." –Lori Stewart, Powell, Ohio

A: Tell your friend, "Yes." In fact, Tweed played the role in two episodes of the long-running NBC sitcom, first in 1995 and again in 2001.

Q: I watched the miniseries "Comanche Moon," and it seemed to have a strange ending with many questions still unanswered. Are they planning another miniseries? –Larry Root, Graham, Wash.

A: Since the story was written by Larry McMurtry as a prequel to the classic Western "Lonesome Dove," which also had other spinoffs, certain events that might have seemed to have no conclusion in "Comanche Moon" played out in later tales ("Streets of Laredo," "Dead Man's Walk," etc.). Most of the related projects are available on DVD – as is the CBS-aired "Comanche Moon," as of last week. (It was released Feb. 26.) And, of course, there are always the books.

Q: In a recent column, you stated that Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire were teamed in the movie "Holiday Inn." Wasn't it Bing Crosby with Danny Kaye, as well as Vera-Ellen and Rosemary Clooney, or am I confusing it with another Christmas favorite? –Connie Wiggs, Pikeville, N.C.

A: As we wrote that, we thought about taking it that extra step farther – but since the question was about "Holiday Inn," we decided not to. Oh, well. You've named the cast of "White Christmas," which was the 1954 remake of "Holiday Inn."

Salem School Receives Nat'l Garden Award

The Salem School has been selected from more than 700 children's gardening programs nationwide to receive a 2008 Youth Garden Grant from the National Gardening Association, based in South Burlington, Vt.

The Grantsville area school, located on the campus of the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, will receive an assortment of books donated by the association and a $500 gift card from Home Depot, which recognizes that "today's youth are the future of American gardening."

"[The] National Gardening Association is proud to support this terrific kids' garden," said president Michael Metallo, about Salem. "This program was selected because of a demonstrated commitment to actively and creatively engaging youth in the gardening process and to improving the community. We are able to see from their application that the garden program will be sustained for years to come."

More information about the Youth Garden Grants Program is available online at kidsgardening.org.

The Salem School is Maryland State Department of Education approved and provides services to children who have not succeeded in the public school setting.

"Transitional and special education classes are keys to success for many Salem children as well as to students referred by local Garrett and Allegany County agencies," said a school spokesperson.

Salem School also offers a full schedule of summer activities and recreation to Salem and community children. For more information, persons may call 301-689-0322.

ARC Releases Schedule For March Classes

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross has scheduled several health and safety services courses for next month.

An adult, child, and infant cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) class will be held from 6 until 10 p.m. on Tuesdays, March 11 and April 1, at the Cumberland chapter house.

This four-hour course includes caring for and recognizing breathing and cardiac emergencies, including choking, in adults, children, and infants. Injury prevention and how to lead a healthy lifestyle for people of all ages are also covered.

The cost is $30 for new certification and $25 for recertification, and includes a CPR kit and one-year certification.

A professional rescuer CPR/AED (automated external defibrillator) course will be held Saturday, March 22, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Cumberland chapter house.

This is an eight-hour class developed for volunteers and career professionals who routinely respond to emergencies. It emphasizes how to recognize and respond to respiratory and cardiac emergencies in adults, children, and infants. Two-rescuer CPR and AED training are included.

This course meets the standard requirements for nursing, allied health professions, and emergency medical services.

The cost is $35 for new certification and $30 for recertification, and includes a text book, pocket mask, and one-year certification.

A lay responder CPR/first aid/AED course will be held from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturdays, March 1, 15, and 29, and Thursday, March 20, at the Cumberland chapter house; and Wednesdays, March 12 and 26, at the Oakland ARC office.

This eight-hour course combines adult, child, and infant CPR, AED, and first aid into one entire day of training. It is designed for lay responders, students, volunteers, and others interested in obtaining certification. There are no prerequisites for this course.

The cost is $40 for new certification and $35 for recertification, and includes text, CPR kits, first aid practice kits, and two certification cards.

A first aid class will also be held from 6 until 9 p.m. on Thursdays, March 13 and April 3, at the chapter house in Cumberland.

This three-hour course offers recognition and caring for life-threatening emergencies in adults, such as burns, injuries to muscles, bones, and joints, sudden illnesses, bleeding, and poisonings, as well as heat- and cold-related emergencies.

This course meets OSHA guidelines and is designed to fit the needs of businesses and industries. A discount is applied when taken with a CPR class.

The cost is $25 for new certification and $20 for recertification, and includes text, a practice first aid kit, and a three-year certification card.

Registration and payment are required in advance for all courses. For more information or to register, persons may contact Lorri Wharton, ARC health services director, at 301-722-1760, ext. 105, or lkwharton@allconet.org.

Clouds of velvet fabric, sparkling buttons of diamond and pearl, smooth satin lining, lace for a hem... all pieces patterned for a lovely creation. What could be missing? There is no thread.

It doesn't matter that there's an abundance of fabric or plenty of buttons and lace. Without the thread to hold it together there is no creation, only scattered pieces of possibility.

It's the same with life. All of us are born with possibility. What is the thread that can bind us together as we grow? How amazing if God's Word is present as the thread to weave through the fabric of our lives as we grow. If we grow centered in His love, we can become a divine creation! "From Him the whole body, joined and held together by every supporting ligament, grows and builds itself up in love, as each part does its work" (Ephesians 4:!6).

Worship together as a family this week, grow together in God's loving presence.

Make Room for Faith

Science and philosophy are both truly important human endeavors. Without them, we would probably still be stuck in the Dark Ages. And it is worth pointing out, that science and philosophy, and indeed, all areas of learning, give one renewed appreciation for the wondrous creation of which we are all a part. But, it is also important to realize that knowledge has its limits. We might say that knowledge is limited to the empirical realm, the realm of expenence, whereas faith takes us beyond the realm of experience. As the great German philosopher Kant stated in his Critique of Pure Reason, we must "limit knowledge in order to make room for faith." Kant was warning metaphysicians of his day, who incorrectly thought that they could know about God and the super-sensible realms of the universe, that human knowledge simply could not extend that far. And at the same time, he was battling the unbelief of atheists who thought that faith was nullified by modern science. Quite to the contrary, Kant showed that human knowledge is limited to the empirical realm, i.e., the realm of experience, but that this has the very important benefit of making room for faith. So, we must make room for faith in our lives and open up our hearts tot he reality of God.

He has made everything beautiful in its time; also he has put eternity into man's mind, yet so that he cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end.

Asian Plant Supplement May Fight Cancer

Holy leaved acanthus, also known as Harkach Kanta, is an evergreen plant that is found along the coasts, rivers, and swamps of India, Thailand, Burma, and other Asian countries. It has been used in traditional Indian Medicine to treat arthritis, asthma, swelling, and snake bites. It is often combined with the sugar and the spice cumin to treat upset stomach. The plant has blue flowers and green, prickly leaves. Typically, the leaves of the plant are used for medicinal purposes. It may be taken orally and is sometimes applied topically. The plant has been shown to have pain relieving, anti-inflammatory, liver protective, and antioxidant properties in research trials.

One recent animal study showed that supplementation with Holy leaved acanthus prevented changes in liver cells caused by cancer. It also reduced the amount of tumor cells found in the animals and prolonged their survival. It is not known if Holy leaved acanthus prevents tumor growth in humans. More research is needed to evaluate the effects of Holy leaved acanthus supplementation on tumor growth in humans.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was German-born theoretical physicist (and sometime philosopher) Albert Einstein who made the following sage observation: "Two things are infinite: the universe and human stupidity, and I'm not sure about the universe."

• You may be surprised to learn that studies show your brain is more active while you're asleep than it is while you're watching television. Then again, maybe that's not so surprising.

• The country of South Africa has a total of 11 official languages.

• Advertising is everywhere — you can't turn around without seeing dozens of pitches for some kind of product or service competing for your attention. Perhaps it's fitting, then, that the English word "advertise" comes from the Latin word "advertere," which means "to turn toward" or "to pay attention."

• In the TV show "Charlie's Angels," it was a requirement that each of the stars have eight different outfits for each episode.

• There are those who feel we should adopt the metric system of measurement, claiming that our current system is outdated and archaic. To go truly archaic, though, we could start measuring things in flags, baronies, falls, roods, townships and hides. Yes, those are actual terms of measurement. They equal, respectively, 25 square feet, 4,000 acres, 342 square feet, a quarter of an acre, 36 square miles and 10 acres.

• The magnolia — that icon of genteel Southern life — is actually an entire family of plants, encompassing more than 200 species.

• The golf tee was patented in 1899, but it wasn't put into official use until 1922.

• On March 6, 1899, the Imperial Patent Office in Berlin registers Aspirin, the brand name for acetylsalicylic acid, on behalf of the German pharmaceutical company Friedrich Bayer & Co. In its primitive form, the active ingredient, salicin, had been used for centuries in folk medicine.

• On March 9, 1913, writer Virginia Woolf delivers the manuscript of her first novel, "The Voyage Out," to her publisher. In 1941, fearful for her own mental state and afraid of the coming world war, she filled her pockets with rocks and drowned herself

• On March 3, 1931, President Herbert Hoover signs a congressional act making "The Star-Spangled Banner" the official national anthem of the United States. Francis Scott Key composed the lyrics to "The Star-Spangled Banner" in 1814.

• On March 7, 1946, actress Joan Crawford, born Lucille Fay Le Sueur in 1905 in Texas, is awarded the Oscar for her performance in "Mildred Pierce." Crawford made some of the finest films of her career after age 40.

• On March 4, 1952, Ernest Hemingway completes his short novel "The Old Man and the Sea." He wrote his publisher the same day, saying he had finished the book and that it was the best writing he had ever done. The critics agreed, and the book won the Pulitzer Prize in 1953.

• On March 5, 1963, the Hula-Hoop, a hip-swiveling toy that became a huge fad across America when it was first marketed by Wham-O in 1958, is patented by the company's cofounder, Arthur "Spud" Melin. An estimated 25 million Hula-Hoops were sold in its first four months of production alone.

Cat-Scratch Fever Is Real Disease

Q. Is there really such a thing as cat-scratch fever? — Jane T., Missoula, Mont.

A. Yes, there really is. Also called "cat-scratch disease," it's an infection that, while rare, can be passed from cat to human through direct transmission — through bites, scratches and even flea bites.

The bacterium that causes cat-scratch fever is called Bartonella henselae. Most infected cats don't show any symptoms — and most cats in the United States carry the bacteria. Adults with healthy immune systems rarely suffer from the illness if they're exposed. But cat-scratch disease can affect children and immune-compromised individuals, and they should receive treatment as soon as possible.

If you or a friend or family member develop a fever, malaise and headaches soon after being scratched or bitten by a cat, contact your doctor. The doctor can confirm whether the illness is cat-scratch fever or something else, and will prescribe the right medicine.

Cat-scratch fever, along with a few other diseases that can be transmitted between humans and cats — including ringworm and toxoplasmosis — underlines the importance of keeping pets healthy and free of fleas (which can transmit some illnesses from pets to humans) and keeping their bedding and litter areas as clean as possible.

If you or a pet are diagnosed with an illness, be sure to follow the doctor's advice and take (or give to your pet) medication exactly as prescribed, for the entire course of treatment. This will ensure that the infection is taken care of, and will minimize the chance of reinfection for both you and your pet.

Movie Poster

Q. I have an advertisement for the film "A Fistful of Dollars" starring Clint Eastwood. It was issued when the movie was playing in Belgium, and it has both French and Dutch titles. It is an interesting poster, but I have no idea of how much it is actually worth. Can you help me? — Renee, Lombard, Ill.

A. I tracked down three "Fistful of Dollars" posters, all in the $25 to $35 range. One of the better outlets is Motion Picture Arts, 90 Oak St., East Rutherford, NJ 07073; www.mpagallery.com; and 210-635-1444. The gallery offers free appraisals and immediate cash.

Q. Several years ago I purchased an antique wood-burning stove that was manufactured by the Vermont & Nath Company of Springfield, Vt. How can I find out more about both it and its value? — Mario, Renick, W.Va.

A. I suggest you contact Clifford Boram, Antique Stove Information Clearing House, 421 North Main St., Monticello, IN 47960. For a second opinion, Richard Richardson of the Good Time Stove Company is helpful. His contact information is P.O. Box 306, Goshen, MA 01032; rich@goodtimestoves.com; and www.antiquestoves.net.

Dennett Road Students Help Homeless Pets

APPRECIATIVE PETS – First grade students in Tamarah Lottmann's class at Dennett Road Elementary School recently took a field trip to Pineview Veterinary Hospital, the Garrett County Animal Shelter, and WEPCO Federal Credit Union after collecting donations of food, treats, blankets, and monies for homeless pets. Lottmann's class has been learning about the care and needs pets require, and have been participating in two class-sponsored school-wide collection drives. Lottmann is pictured above along with several Dennett Road students unloading boxes of donations at the animal shelter. See story.

Students in Tamarah Lottmann's first grade class at Dennett Road have been learning about pet care and needs throughout the year, and December's character education traits "caring and giving" gave them the opportunity to put their knowledge to the test.

Lottmann organizes two class-sponsored school-wide collection drives, one of which supplies the animals at the Garrett County Animal Shelter with food, treats, towels, and blankets.

The second collection drive, called "Pennies for Pets," encouraged students and staff to donate pennies to help the shelter buy badly needed flea medications. Several school families raised money by baking dog treats, which were sold by first graders at the Christmas program.

"Not only were classroom jars being filled with pennies, but every other denomination of coin and dollar as well," said a school staff member.

During a recent field trip, students visited Pineview Veterinary Hospital near Oakland, where Dr. Casey Holbert answered questions and gave a tour of the facility. The trip also included a visit to WEPCO Federal Credit Union, where the children learned about banking and took part in having the donated coins counted.

The final stop of the field trip was the animal shelter. Students unloaded boxes of supplies they had collected, and once inside, they received a tour of the facility and saw its many homeless animals.

Before leaving, the students presented nearly $500 to shelter manager Bonnie Zimmerman.

Workshop Scheduled For Women Considering Returning To School

Garrett College will host Second Chances for Women on Saturday, March 8, in the college's Learning Resource Center The program is a workshop for area women who may be thinking about returning to college. It is sponsored annually by the Garrett County Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW), along with the Business and Professional Women's Club, Garrett College, and the Women's Civic Club.

"We want women to see that it is possible to realize their career dreams even though their educations have been interrupted by work or family responsibilities," said Marilyn Moors, president of the AAUW branch. "Many of us, from our own personal experiences, know how difficult it is to make the jump to resuming our educations."

Women attending the workshop will have an opportunity to speak with other women who resumed their studies later in life. Among the panelists for the program will be Margaret Kinch and Harmony Carr, both successful GC students who previously attended a Second Chances workshop. A third panelist, Leslie Noland, completed her course work at Garrett, earned her bachelor's degree from Frostburg State University, and is now enrolled in a graduate program there.

Roundtable discussions will include information on scholarships and financial aid, career choices, scheduling options, and developing support networks. Two GC faculty members – Virginia Grove and Linda May Gerard – will speak about their experiences in aiding returning women students.

The program will begin at 9 a.m., with registration and coffee available starting at 8:30 a.m. The workshop will also include a tour of the campus and a drawing for a $500 scholarship provided by the AAUW. Any woman attending the workshop will have an opportunity to win the scholarship The program will conclude with lunch in the college cafeteria.

Childcare will be available for participants who wish to bring their children. There is no charge for participation in the workshop, but advance registration is necessary for childcare.

Women interested in attending are encouraged to register with Rachelle Davis at Garrett College (301-387-3044) or with AAUW president Marilyn Moors (301-746-4057).

Leap Day Offers A Birthday For Some, An Extra Day For Others

by Brenda Ruggerio

Normally, it takes 365 days to complete a calendar year. However, every four years, the gift of an extra day is added to the calendar – an extra 24 hours tacked onto the end of February.

This extra day in itself is special enough, but what about those members of society who were actually born on that extra day?

These "Leap Day babies" celebrate an actual birthday once every four years. There are reportedly about 200,000 Leap Day babies in the United States. The chances of being born on Leap Day are about one in 1,461, according to Raenell Dawn, co-founder of the Honor Society of Leap Year Day Babies.

She and Peter Brouwer, a fellow "leaper," started the club in 1997 to help bring together people who share their birthday, and to raise awareness of the day. They also maintain a web site at www.leapzine.com.

Leap Day Issues

The obvious issue that Leap Day babies face is not having a birthday on the calendar for three out of every four years.

"We're the only ones who know what it's like to look at the calendar and our birthday's not there," Raenell said. "That can be confusing for a kid. We get e-mails from all ages telling us how excited they are to have found a web site like ours where they can interact with other people who share the same experiences – good, bad, and indifferent. When kids write to me about how much they hate their birthday or how much they get teased at school, it's so cool to be able to write back to them and let them know that I can relate [to] them."

Raenell makes a point of visiting her local hospital on Leap Day to see how many new "leaplings" were born. She also hands out welcome packets to the babies' families, encouraging them that Feb. 29 is a good birthday to have.

Other Challenges

Besides birthday issues, leapers face other challenges that most people don't even think about.

For example, some face problems with driver's licenses having the correct birth date, but a different expiration date.

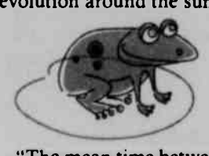
Raenell explained that when she moved to Oregon in 1993 and had her license switched over, the expiration year was 1997.

"That wasn't a leap year, so my birthday didn't show up in the computer system," she said. "Therefore, they didn't think that I had my birthday right. They finally got the supervisor, and they extended the expiration date to the next leap year."

Other people have reported problems if their licenses list Feb. 29 as their birth date, but Feb. 28 or March 1 as the expiration date. Some are accused of having a fake ID because the dates don't match.

"The United States, and even other countries, need to get their computers Leap Year friendly, and be able to accommodate a Feb. 29 birth date, no matter what the year," Raenell noted. "A lot of people don't find it to be anything worth worrying about, but as more of us come to the surface with our complaints, I'm hoping we'll get their attention and let them see how important it is. It's going to keep happening every four years, so why don't we just deal with it and celebrate it. It's everyone's extra day."

Another issue that Raenell hopes will get recognition is that most calendars do not list Leap Day on February 29.



"If Ground Hog Day is on the calendar, why not Leap Year Day?" she asked. "Leap Year Day is the world's extra day. It deserves a lot more attention than it gets."

Leap Year History

"Leap year represents the balance between the spinning earth and how we keep track of time," Raenell said. "February used to be the last month of the year — that's why this extra day is in February. But when it was promoted to the second position in the calendar it maintained its position of keeping the calendar in order, literally."

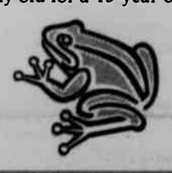
According to timeand date.com, leap years are needed to keep the calendar in alignment with Earth's revolution around the sun.

"The mean time between two successive vernal equinoxes is called a tropical year – also known as a solar year – and is about 365.2422 days long," the site states. "Using a calendar with 365 days every year would result in a loss of 0.2422 days, or almost six hours per year. After 100 years, the calendar would be more than 24 days ahead of the season. By adding a leap year approximately every fourth year, the difference between the calendar and the season is reduced significantly, and the calendar will align with the seasons much more accurately."

Leap Day actually dates back to 45 BC, when Julius Caesar proclaimed the last day of February as Leap Year Day.

In 4 AD, Emperor Caesar Augustus corrected a counting error in leap years.

In 1582, Pope Gregory XIII determined that century years would be leap years only if they were divisible by 400. Because of this, 1900 was not a leap year, but 2000 was.



Local Leapers

According to Annette Livengood, vice president of human resources at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, a total of 12 babies were born there on Leap Day since 1956. The numbers were as follows: in 1956, 3; in 1968, 1; in 1972, 1; in 1988, 1; in 2000, 4; and in 2004, 2.

Several local people responded to an ad in The Republican requesting information from those born on Leap Day.

Christa Wildesen of Oakland, a registered nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, will be turning "15 at 60" this year. She was born in Luke in 1948, and shared a birthday with her grandfather.

"I thought it was cool, because no one else had that birthday that I knew of except my granddad," she noted. "My dad especially made a big deal of saying that I was 1 when actually I was 4, and he did the same thing every four years. Now, I don't think that much about it, but sometimes I joke that I look really old for a 15-year-old."

When her birthday isn't actually on the calendar, Christa noted that she celebrates on Feb. 28.

Myron Bender, Bittinger, was born on Feb. 29, 1972, in Manchester, Ky. His mother, Miriam, said that she didn't really think that much about what day it was when he was born.

"The nurses asked me if I'd rather go home and come back later," she remembers, laughing. "The hospital tried to get a doctor and couldn't, and then the police tried, but they couldn't, either. So a nurse delivered him. Then they wanted to know if we wanted Feb. 28, Feb. 29, or March 1 for his birthday, and we said the 29th. I was just happy he was a healthy baby."

Myron noted that his birthday was never really a big deal to him.

"The only difference was that it was a source of jokes," he said. "I don't mind the jokes – just try to be original. I guess I'd prefer Feb. 29 rather than April 1."

Mikolas Ruggiero, Accident, was born on Leap Day in 1996 at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. He said that he didn't realize what the day meant until he was 8 years old. Since he celebrated his birthday on the last day of February each year, he would tell people that his birthday was "February the last."

He said that he doesn't mind his friends at school teasing him about turning 3.

"It's special because only a handful of people get to have their birthday on that day," he said.

August Uphold, Oakland, was born at Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Feb. 29, 2000. He likes his birth date, since his mom always told him it made him special.

"I think it's pretty cool," he said.

INFORMATION FOR GRANDPARENT GUARDIANS

More grandparents or other older relatives age 55+ have assumed the legal responsibility of raising their grandchildren or other relatives under the age of 18. This can often tax even the most energetic of individuals. The issues currently facing our youth, and consequently their caregivers, are far more complex and frequently more dangerous than the issues of 20 or 30 years ago. Unfortunately, many older persons, whether they are grandparents or other relatives, are not equipped to deal with these issues and may require some assistance in the form of education, information, or a support group.

The Area Agency on Aging (AAA) administers the National Family Caregiver Support Program (NFCSP) and is available to develop programs and services requested by older caregivers to enable them to provide the care necessary to raise grandchildren or juvenile relatives. The agency is seeking to identify grandparents and other older relatives raising a child 18 years of age and younger. Any grandparent or other relative age 55+ raising a child age 18 or younger who would like to obtain assistance should contact Leonard Terry, program coordinator, at 301-334-9431 or toll free at 888-877-8403, ext. 119.

Dr. Troy Strieby, a professor at Frostburg, is collecting sports equipment and will deliver them to New Orleans schools. Those interested in helping are asked to sort through sports equipment and see what isn't used or has been outgrown (including bikes). Donations may be dropped off at Yough Glades Elementary at the stage area between Tuesday, Feb. 26, and Wednesday, March 5.

NATIONAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP WEEK

Marketing students will take part in lessons this week (Feb 23-March 1) designed to recognize important contributions by local and national entrepreneurs. "A Man and His Mountain" was a movie created by 2006 marketing students to showcase the visionary businessman who started the Wisp Resort. Last year during the week-long recognition of entrepreneurs, the student body saw a documentary movie about Oakland businessman A. D. Naylor, which was also produced by former marketing students in Lisa Bender's class.

NHS STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN LOBBY DAY IN ANNAPOLIS – Northern High School students recently had the opportunity to meet with both Delegate Wendell Beitzel and Senator George Edwards during the Feb. 20 Lobbying Day, which was sponsored by the Maryland Association of Student Councils (MASC). During the daylong field trip in Annapolis, students first reviewed House and Senate bills relevant to students and/or education. They discussed the bills, reviewed the MASC stance, and had the chance to discuss their views with other students from across the state. They then met with former NHS graduate Brandon Butler, legislative assistant to Beitzel, who provided a thorough tour of the House and Senate office buildings, the state capital building, and the Legislative Services building. They also reviewed the process of drafting bills, House/Senate hearings, and other governmental affairs. The students then talked with both Beitzel and Edwards about current bills, those that they had sponsored/co-sponsored, and regional concerns. A walking/trolley tour was taken of Annapolis with lunch at the Normandie French Restaurant. "The students enjoyed the day and wish to convey a sincere thank-you to Mr. Butler, Delegate Beitzel, Senator Edwards and other staff members who assisted them during the day," noted advisor Michelle Harman, "and to the Board of Education and Northern High School for their support of this experience." Those interested in more information about Lobbying Day or other student government activities should visit the Garrett County Association of Student Councils (GCASC) web site or contact a school advisor. Above, from left, are Karina Walker, Meredith Sussman, Tanya Devine, Harman, Beitzel, Amanda Brenneman, Rachel Margroff, Ian Aiken, and Sierra Pitman. Below, in the front row, are Tanya Devine, Sierra Pitman, Rachel Margroff, Amanda Brenneman, Meredith Sussman, and Karina Walker. Back row: Edwards and Ian Aiken.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Ever since I was a child I have been a loyal viewer of "The Today Show." But now I am fed up with it. They still have some news on it and significant features, but they have expanded to two hours and they are filling those extra hours with mindless fluff. While they could make good use of their time, instead you see what they are wearing from the beach to cocktail parties, or how to choose the right sunglasses for your face, or the hip night spots in Miami and performances by pop stars.

My least favorite feature is the "Ambush Makeover," where they pick someone from the crowd whether they want to participate or not. Actually, the whole concept of makeover gets on my nerves. The stylist would probably cut my hair and highlight it. I like my medium brown long hair as it is. In fact, I received two compliments on my hair in the last couple days.

Lou Gehrig said in The Pride of the Yankees that you could do anything if you want it bad enough. It is good inspiration, but it is not always true. You can accomplish a lot, but if it was totally true, Joey and I would win the Grand National like Velvet Brown in National Velvet and I could use my left hand. Even Lou Gehrig couldn't hit a home run if the pitcher only pitched him balls.

I was late to pick up Claire from Garrett Automotive because my car was covered with a half inch of ice under four inches of snow, and the roads were covered with a mix of clear and patches of ice. In that condition I drove slowly just in case the conditions changed into ice. She yelled at me the whole way home to please speed up. I think that she thinks the speed limit is the minimum speed. I am always nervous while being yelled at.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty went down to Towson to see their twins, Darryl and Elliot, and Robbie perform in their new band, Lake Effect. Adam Hannibal and Tyler Southerly, and two students from Frostburg State University also attended with other friends from this area.

I heard a recent reason not to vote for McCain. He said he would keep our troops in Iraq for a hundred years. The several years we have already spent there have cost billions of dollars. If Iraq can depend on America to provide security, they will never stand up on their own feet.

I can't believe that Garrett County residents oppose wind power. Even if the oil-rich countries would stabilize, the world's supply is not adequate for the future. I know there are a lot of people who do support them, but the ones who oppose are so vocal they drown out everyone else. Even though the Sierra Club supports them there are still some diehards out there. The letter written last week to The Republican editor hit the nail on the head about no one worried about all the forest that has been mutilated on the mountains in the McHenry area. I think they should make them produce their own power. What could be more ugly than some of those condos on top of the Wisp. A few windmills couldn't hurt the looks on the mountain more than what has already been done. Maybe some who oppose the windmills will rethink their opposition when their gasoline prices top $5 a gallon.

I look very much to the times when we have green grassy fields. Scott Bass told me that he explored the history of the Glotfelty family and found a bit of information that our name in Swiss means great green fields. Our Swiss ancestors owned a big patch of flat land in Switzerland.

Last weekend I was in heaven watching the classic move channel all day Saturday. It featured movies that Katherine Hepburn starred in, including Woman of the Year, Pat and Mike, and the best of all, The African Queen. Katherine portrays all aspects of a woman's life during the 20th century. But on Sunday I was in total disgust that the feature performance was John Wayne. He was busy killing Indians.

I am sick of snow, but this was the iciest winter I remember, and my friend Frannie Otero agrees with that. My deck was so icy I couldn't close my storm door, but my sister Carol took care of that.

I missed the lunar eclipse of the moon. Even though it was pretty early, I was in bed. I saw one once during October a few years ago.

As a member of Accident Elementary School Glee Club when I was in the fifth grade, we learned many songs and performed at the county concert. My favorite of all the songs we ever performed was "Let There Be Peace On Earth." I remember so clearly this song as it was sung by members of the Garrett Choral Society at my brother Scott's funeral. It brought tears to many who attended. March 23 is the date of his death in Africa, and we still mourn him.

Right now I am in the fight of a lifetime. I am trying desperately to quit my smoking habit. I finally realized that I had better at least cut down before going over the cliff. Even cutting to 50% is very hard. My advice is to never even take that first puff. I picked up the habit from boyfriends and friends. The new tax makes smoking very expensive. So a few prayers for me could help. I was happy to hear from our former pastor, Pat Pittsnogle, who thought that I am doing well by cutting down to one per hour. I know it is not good enough. I am praying almost full time "Have mercy on me, God." I talked to a lot of ex-smokers who gave me different advice, and I appreciate them all.

A reader of this column sent me a copy of a column from a Fairmont newspaper quoting several West Virginia University students about their view of the most important issue to our young voters, which is the war in Iraq. It quoted my Claire, who is anti-Iraq war, and another Garrett County student, Remington Friend, who urged young people to vote to influence the direction America will go.

Another step in the right road toward spring is that the sun doesn't set until after 6 p.m. We still have some snow cover in Bittinger, but it is fast going away. However, it seems every night we get a little more. I have a flock of chickadees at my bird feeder.

I dropped an important personal item in my toilet and it blocked the toilet. I had to call the plumber, and he couldn't get it out, leaving the only solution, to get a new toilet. I don't know what that will cost me, but it sure will be plenty. I hope that Rush Services will allow me to make payments.

I am under severe pressure to produce some good art for my show next October. Almost all my watercolors are dried up. I had no choice but to order some supplies. My sister asked me why I ordered art supplies when I am always faced with major expenses. You have to buy gas to connect to your work even though it is expensive. My art is not a hobby, but my work.

Last week I wrote that Sally and Lenny Poholsky had gone to Greensboro to see their son Torrey play in a baseball game. However, I finally talked to Sally this week and found that they drove down to Atlanta for a tournament. They even took along "McDufry," their little white dog. Atlanta got some badly needed rain. Torrey got a save in his role as relief pitcher. The Poholskys plan to take many more trips south to watch more games. Sally loves the South, where you can wear shorts all the time.

Electrical Group Schedules Mtg.; Classes Planned

The Garrett County Electrical Mechanical Association (GCEMA) will hold a meeting on Wednesday, March 5, at 7 p.m. in Room 224 at Garrett College.

The agenda will include a briefing on exhaust fan code requirements for residences. Information about taking the Maryland master electrician's exam and a list of recommended study references will also be available at the meeting.

Garrett College is offering two all-day classes for any electrician preparing to take the Maryland licensing exam. A Master Electrician Exam Prep I class is scheduled for Friday, March 7, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. The Master Electrician Exam Prep II class is slated for May 31, and will deal with all the calculations required for the exam.

For more information, persons may call Julie Yoder at 301-387-3101.

The GCEMA plans to hold an informational briefing or presentation for each of its regular monthly meeting throughout the year.

Early Treatment of Stroke Recommended

A stroke may occur in response to reduced blood supply to the brain. When this happens, brain tissue does not receive adequate oxygen and nutrients, which can lead to death of brain cells. It is very important that treatment of a stroke begin as soon as possible to limit the amount of damage to the brain. Signs and symptoms of a stroke typically occur suddenly and include weakness or numbness in one side of the body, difficulty speaking, blurred vision, and dizziness.

Immediate treatment of a stroke is crucial. Tissue plasminogen activator drugs, such as alleplase and reteplase, are often injected into the vein to dissolve a blood clot. However, these types of medications must be used within three hours of the occurrence of the stroke. Persons who experience an ischemic stroke may not receive this type of treatment if the length of time between symptom onset and treatment is too long. Physicians may also prescribe medications for the prevention of the recurrence of ischemic stroke in persons who have experienced a previous ischemic stroke. Anti-platelet medications, such as clopidogrel and ticlopidine, reduce the likelihood of clot formation. Anticoagulant medications, such as heparin and warfarin, also work to affect blood clotting.

Gala Banquet To Celebrate Town's Sesquicentennial

Rowlesburg marked the 150th anniversary of its founding on Feb. 27. A gala banquet to celebrate the milestone will be held this Saturday, March 1, at Rowlesburg High School beginning at 6 p.m.

Mayor Barbara Banister recently issued a proclamation recognizing the town's sesquicentennial and some of its most notable historic events, including the following:

•The Commonwealth of Virginia recognized the little "River City" in Preston County as a municipality duly chartered on Feb. 27, 1858.

•In 1775, Hezekiah Frazier and his family came to the area, which is nestled in an elbow of the Cheat River. They prospered, and more settlers came to join them. The place grew and was known as Vicksburg.

•In 1847, James Rowles, division chief engineer for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, established his office in the small river town. Local construction began in 1849. Rowles, desiring to have mail delivered, notified the United States Postal Service, which inadvertently changed the name of Vicksburg to Rowlesburg.

•The building of the railroad bridge across the Cheat River, the Tray Run Viaduct, the Amblersburg Viaduct, and the Buckeye Run Viaduct were all major construction challenges for the B&O. They were completed in December 1852, when the first train steamed through Rowlesburg.

•Rowlesburg was the only target of the famous Jones-Imboden Raid to stand up to assault. Rowlesburg troops and citizens were able to save "Lincoln's Lifeline," and by so doing helped to preserve the Union.

•The toil of many created the railroad center at M&K Junction from which helpers have moved freight, coal, and passengers, as well as troops and supplies, for all American wars since the Civil War.

•The railroad center, first created by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and once called the "Citadel of Mountain Railroading," still provides helpers to move coal and freight to the East Coast.

•The part of Rowlesburg known as the "Downtown Rowlesburg Historic District" has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

•The original Tray Run Viaduct has been placed on the list of World Heritage Bridges.

Mayor Banister's proclamation concluded with, "We citizens of Rowlesburg are proud of our heritage, and wish to show our gratitude to those that have gone before. Therefore, let it be known that Feb. 27, 2008, is proclaimed as a day of Remembrance and Celebration."

Other celebrations will be held throughout the year, including weekend galas on May 3 and 4 featuring a Civil War re-enactment, a Memorial Day weekend focusing on the River City Festival, and a Labor Day Festival, Aug. 29 – Sept. 1, with special exhibits.

For more information about the sesquicentennial events, persons may call Kathleen Wolfe at 304-454-9232 or 304-454-9634.

Teen Leaders To Host Briefing On Underage Drinking

Preston County 4-H Teen Leaders will sponsor a Take It Back™ Community Briefing on Thursday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Extension Office in Kingwood, 115 W. Court Street. Take It Back is a national youth-directed movement to reduce alcohol problems.

"It is not an organization, program, or a group, it is a dynamic movement that is focused on research and action," said Tracy Waugh, a spokesperson for Teen Leaders.

The Take It Back movement, she said, is driven by such facts as the following:

•Each day, more than 5,400 youth in the United States under age 16 take their first drink.

•Each year, more than 97,000 students between the ages of 18 and 24 are victims of alcohol-related sexual assault or date rape.

Teen Leaders will be one of 350 youth groups in 49 states simultaneously holding Community Briefings to call attention to alcohol "as the single most important health issue facing young people today," Waugh noted.

"At the briefing," she said, "we will focus on the following alcohol issues that were found while conduction research in our own community: availability of alcohol to youth, acceptance of alcohol by peer pressure, and awareness."

For additional information, persons may call Waugh at 304-329-1391.

If ratification or settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents and an additional fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

(10) Not be constructed to include any building or structure defined as a multiple-family dwelling under this ordinance for the purpose of calculating minimum land area and off-street parking per room or suite. In the case of mixed uses, the required minimum lot area and parking requirements shall equal the sum of the requirements of the various uses computed separately.

2. Section 600E.7 – Required Off-Road Parking Spaces

Hotels or Motels – One off-road parking space required for each room or suite having one bedroom plus one-half off-road parking space required for each additional bedroom.

Markotan Jr. dated December 6, 2005 and recorded in Liber 1194, Folio 36 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, with an original principal balance of $525,000.00 and an original interest rate of 6.22500% default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., at the Court House Door, Oakland, on

MARCH 18, 2008 AT 3:00 PM

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $52,500 in cash, cashier's check or certified check required at time of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement or if settlement is delayed for any reason. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. All past due property taxes paid by the purchaser. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. If ratification or settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If Purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, he agrees to pay, attorneys' fees in the amount of $750.00, plus costs, if the Trustees have moved to resell the property. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of the sale. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents and an additional fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein.

March Designated Spay, Neuter Awareness Month In Garrett Co.

by Lisa Baker, GC Humane Society president

This is the eighth year the Garrett County Humane Society, Garrett County Animal Shelter, and local veterinarians are joining forces to recognize March as Spay/Neuter Awareness Month. The Humane Society of the United States now sponsors a nationwide campaign for one day in February.

This year's theme is "It's not just rabbits who multiply like rabbits." HSUS brochures containing information about this will be distributed at the county libraries, veterinarian offices, and other public places.

The benefits of spaying/neutering are numerous, including the following:

•Altered animals don't contribute to the overpopulation problem, so fewer end up homeless in the streets or in our animal shelters.

•Spay/neuter operations help to resolve such undesirable behaviors as aggression, spraying, and roaming.

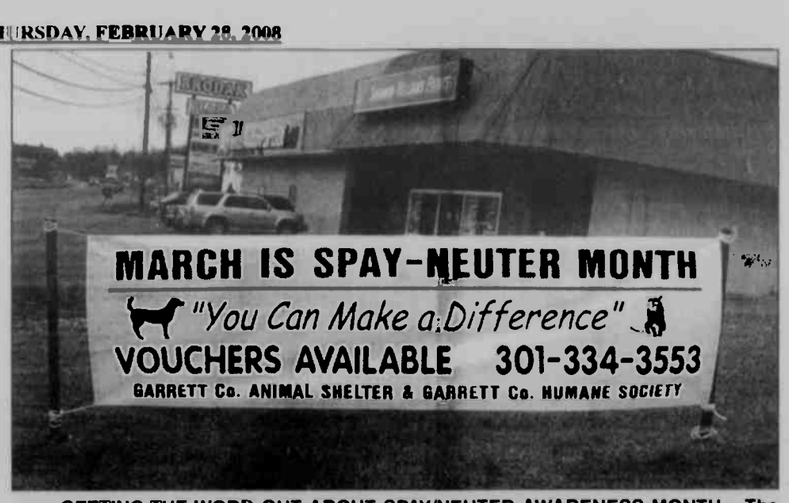
•In Garrett County, cat/dog licenses are less expensive for spayed/neutered pets.

There are simply too many unwanted animals in this county, and all pet owners are responsible for helping to end this problem.

Have you have ever given away a puppy or kitten to someone whom you did or didn't know and who did not have it spayed or neutered? If so, you have in part contributed to the problem.

Bring your puppies and kittens to the county animal shelter so that potential new owners have to fill out an application, pay an adoption fee, and agree to have their new pets spayed or neutered.

How can you help? Have your pets spayed or neutered, and bring any strays from your neighborhood to the shelter to prevent them from reproducing in the wild.



Discount certificates will soon be available to help local residents get their pets spayed or neutered. The vouchers are only available to Garrett County residents and are redeemable at all three of our veterinary hospitals.

This year the certificates are worth $50. Because spay/neuter fees range from $60 to $80 for cats and $80 to $100 for dogs, the pet owner will be responsible for the balance due; and if your pet has had no vaccinations, you will be required to get a rabies shot for your pet, as per state regulations.

Starting Tuesday, March 4, at 9 a.m., persons interested in obtaining a $50 discount certificate must visit the Garrett County Animal Shelter, located along Oakland Sang Run Road. The certificates will be given out until they are all gone, and there is a limit of two per family.

Unfortunately, even though for the last seven years hundreds of certificates have been given out, there is still a pet overpopulation problem in our county.

Persons wanting to donate money to be used for this certificate program may send their checks to: GCHS, 1124 Mary Drive, Oakland, MD 21550.

GETTING THE WORD OUT ABOUT SPAY/NEUTER AWARENESS MONTH – The Garrett County Humane Society, Garrett County Animal Shelter, and local veterinarians have once again teamed up to promote March as Spay/Neuter Awareness Month. Information about the importance of having pets spayed/neutered can be found at county libraries, veterinarian offices, and other public places. Discount vouchers will also be available next week to help Garrett County residents get their pets spayed or neutered. See story for details.

AN UNUSUAL VISITOR – This sandhill crane doesn't really belong in Garrett County, but he is apparently making a home in the southern end for the time being. Local bird expert Fran Pope found him on one of her outings and has been observing him for some time. She knows of only two or three other sightings of this particular species in the local area. Pete Dunne's Essential Field Guide Companion describes the elegant bird as follows: "The body seems somewhat vase-like when the bird is standing upright; the neck is short (compared to herons and egrets), and the head embarrassingly small, but the long, straight, dagger-like bill is formidable. When foraging, birds lean forward with the body horizontal and the neck curved up — a posture that makes distant birds look like two-legged, one-humped camels." One can perceive the size of the bird by comparing it to its distant cousin in the foreground, a mallard. Pope is continuing to document the bird's habits and behavior, and would appreciate any information from others who may be observing it. She said the crane is possibly feeding at several locations besides the wet areas, and may also forage in corn or grain fields.

LET THE READING BEGIN – The new 18,000-square-foot Learning Resource Center at Garrett College is now open and running. Over three years in the making, the $4.6 million facility houses more than 28,000 books, audio books, and DVDs, study rooms equipped with multimedia capability, wireless Internet access for laptops, private testing and tutoring rooms, and 30 new computer workstations. Setbacks pushed the opening from the fall to spring semester this year. Community members, college faculty and staff, and students (pictured above) were received at the official grand opening Saturday, where tours were given and light refreshments were served. Friendsville Teen Fatally Injured In Friday Crash

A Friendsville teenager was fatally injured Friday afternoon when she lost control of her vehicle on the snow-covered roadway of Route 219, according to Tfc. M.W. DeValk of the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack.

Shawna Noel Stallman, 18, was driving north around 4:45 p.m. in a 1995 Nissan Sentra when her vehicle slid across the center lines and was struck by an oncoming 2007 Toyota Tundra, driven by Wesley William Deadrick, 27, Fairmont, WVa.

Deadrick was heading south on Route 219 and hit the passenger side of Stallman's car south of Gravelly Run Road. The passenger side of the Sentra was severely damaged in the T-bone type collision, DeValk noted.

Stallman, who was wearing her seatbelt, sustained fatal injuries in the collision and was pronounced deceased at the scene.

Deadrick refused medical treatment. He and Stallman were the only occupants of the vehicles, and no citations were issued, as DeValk said weather conditions were a significant factor in the crash.

Assisting MSP were Northern Rescue Squad, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, State Highway Administration, and Garrett County Roads Department.

A complete obituary for Shawna Stallman may be found on page A-6.

Commissioners Accept Northern, Southern Rescues' EMS Proposals

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners this week accepted proposals from both the Northern and Southern Garrett County rescue squads, enabling paid emergency medical service (EMS) personnel to augment the squads' rosters.

In December, the commissioners hired seven full-time EMS personnel who will work along side volunteer members in their squad halls.

Once appropriate memorandums of understanding (MOU) are executed by each squad, the Garrett County Department of Public Safety and Emergency Management will coordinate scheduling of paid and volunteer personnel, with the priority being on times identified in the Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats (SWOT) analysis conducted in 2005.

This study was reviewed by and agreed to by the majority of volunteer fire and rescue organizations, according to the commissioners.

The officials introduced the idea of county EMS staff workmg with volunteers last summer. Negotiations between the interested parties, however, broke down several times during the ensuing months.

Squad representatives rejected a proposed MOU in December, and the commissioners issued an RFP (request for proposals), allowing private companies, fire departments, as well as the squads, to all vie for contracts with the county. The squads responded to the RFP, and the commissioners awarded their proposals this week.

Commission chairman Denny Glotfelty stated that this process of actually finalizing an award for the emergency services has been a very difficult period, and it is now time to move forward with what the SWOT Committee and both squads identified as its primary vision "to provide the highest quality of pre-hospital emergency medical care possible to every resident and visitor of Garrett County."

The MOU will outline the use of the squads' stations, apparatus, and equipment; insurance issues; discipline matters; county/squad obligations; accounting and billing policies; and other issues.

Garrett County Could Lose Nearly $1 Million If Proposed Bill Passes

The Garrett County commissioners will be in Annapolis tomorrow to testify against a bill that could mean an annual loss of nearly $1 million in revenue for the county.

"We can't afford to lose that, especially with everything else that's being cut," said Commissioner Fred Holliday

He noted that lawmakers were looking at various revenue sources to help cover the state's deficit. "And we're low hanging fruit," Holliday said.

The proposed legislation, HB 625, would eliminate annual payments made to counties from the State Forest and Park Reserve Fund/ Concession Account and the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Maintenance and Management Fund. This includes revenue from state forest timber sales, boat launching fees and buffer permits at Deep Creek Lake State Park, and concession stand operations.

Currently, if state forests and parks make up 10 percent or more of a county's total area, it will receive 25 percent of the state's net revenue from the sales, fees, etc. Garrett is one of those counties.

If state land makes up less than 10 percent of a county's area, it will receive 15 percent of the revenue.

"The total impact will be $3 million across the state annually," Holliday said about the loss of revenue. "Rural counties will be affected the most." Garrett

West Milton, Pa., Man Turns Himself In On 30-Year-Old Sex Offense Charges

A West Milton, Pa., man was arrested Monday morning, March 3, after turning himself in to detectives with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office stemming from charges obtained from a sixth-month-long investigation of an alleged child sex offense that occurred approximately 30 years ago in Garrett County.

Detectives with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation unit obtained an arrest warrant for Ivan J. Miller, 52, charging him with multiple charges surrounding the investigation of an alleged sex offense committed against a female victim, who would have been approximately 11 years old at the time of the assault.

The investigation began when the victim came forward and made an initial complaint. During the investigation, detectives were able to develop evidence of the assault, including a statement from Miller. The alleged incident occurred in the Pleasant Valley Road area of Garrett County.

Miller was charged with second degree rape, second degree sex offense, child abuse, indecent exposure, and common law battery. He was taken before a District Court commissioner. He was later released on an unsecured bond of $20,000.

GC Residents Want Clipper Wind Proj. To Undergo More Evaluation

Wind turbines were again discussed during the public commentary period of the Garrett County commissioners' meeting on Tuesday. This time the focus was on the Maryland Public Service Commission's 7 p.m. public hearing at Garrett College this evening.

California-based Clipper Windpower, now known as Criterion Power Partners, has filed an application with the Public Service Commission (PSC) for an exemption to the "Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity" issued to construct and operate wind turbines along Backbone Mountain. The PSC will accept comments on this application at the hearing.

Clipper received a PSC permit in 2005 to construct 40 turbines with a combined generating capacity of up to 101 megawatts of electricity. The company recently downsized its plans to 28 wind turbines, generating up to 70 megawatts.

Because of a new law, turbine opponents have expressed concerns that this smaller project will be fast-tracked through the state's usual regulatory processes. Projects under 70 megawatts can apply for the exemption with the PSC.

"This exemption process was established last year [so] that some power-generating processes would not have to go through policy because of the energy crunch," Oakland businessman James Stanton told the commissioners.

He indicated that the PSC's main focus will now be on the 70 megawatt issue, not the environmental and economic impacts of the Clipper project. Stanton asked the commissioners to oppose the granting of the exemption to the PSC. He wants the project to go through the normal review processes.

Mountain Lake Park mayor Leo Martin made a similar request. He wants the commissioners to request that the PSC not grant Clipper's exemption until water issues are resolved satisfactorily.

Three Clipper wind turbines are proposed for the vicinity of Landon's Dam, which is a water resource for Mtn. Lake Park. The land was owned by the now defunct Garrett County Sanitary Commission, but is

THEY ARE BACK! Spring is most surely on the way, despite the icy wind of yesterday and the snow yet to come. The robins are aware that the season is soon to arrive, and they heve come beck home. Ken Greaser took this picture near Pysell Crosscut Road, Deer Park, on Monday. He said several robins were busy searching for food. It is the time of year when one must keep both a heavy coat and light jacket handy, since the temperature can't seem to decide where to land just yet. But the robins know, and therefore so do we. It won't be long now.

Garrett Co. Real Estate Market Not Immune From Downturn

by Glenn Tolbert

It isn't just in real estate ventures that the old adage "If it seems to be too good to be true, it is" applies so well. But for the past several months, some speculators around Deep Creek Lake may be wishmg they had remembered that saying.

Some of these investors include the builders of the motel-like structures along and above the lake that are designed to hold a couple of dozen vacationers at a time. It costs thousands of dollars just to heat one of these buildings during the winter months.

And now that they have fewer takers, the pressures of owning what are openly called "white elephants" on the real estate market have taken a toll on partnerships invested in them, and in some cases even on the marriages of husband-and-wife teams who were hoping to get in on the Deep Lake real estate "phenomenon" before it tumbled under its own weight.

Contrary to reports published in a regional newspaper, Garrett County has not been immune to the national bust on mortgage owners. In fact, local realtors and appraisers, some of whom wished to remain anonymous and others who contributed freely to this article, describe what is happening around Deep Creek Lake as nearly disastrous, with economic rippling effects hitting hard in many segments of Garrett County's economy.

"Between this past year's sales and the year before (2006), there was a shortfall of $88 million," said Jerry Thayer, president of Garrettland Realty. "The number of sales decreased as did the numbers of newly built structures. That means if the average commission of the 40 top realtors is around 7 percent, six million dollars was not generated to the sales staffs. If you take the average salary of $40,000 for those who work on the homes, either building them, repairing them, or making additions, about 150 people are effectively left unemployed."

The "loss" in sales incomes that is referred to is the difference between sales in 2006, which totaled $203 million, and those of 2007, which were $145 million.

"I've been in this business for 32 years, and 2007 was the worse year ever," said Jerry Thayer's twin brother Tommy, who is one of the lake area's top salespersons. "Basically, I've been advising my people to take their property off the market."

The Thayers say that they are "very concerned" about misinformation that has been published in other newspapers, which indicated that Garrett County was not being negatively impacted by the crisis in which most of the rest of the nation is embroiled.

"It gives our leaders bad information from which they are expected to make decisions," said Tommy Thayer.

"For one thing, we've seen nothing printed yet that tells our local elected officials that they (the county) are out $647,200 just from monies usually made from transfer taxes," he said.

Jerry said that, as housing goes, so goes the economy. Recent headlines nationally pointed out that student loans could become very hard to get as banks tighten down everything that may in the least way be considered a questionably profitable loan.

Closer to home, it isn't just second-home owners who are facing problems. Sheryl Hershman, manager of Garrettland properties, says she has seen more and more cases of people having difficulty paying the rent in some of the units that she supervises.

Doug Railey, a local homeowner's insurance specialist, says he knows of instances in which people are deciding whether they can "eat or heat."

Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action, says that Garrett County has for far too long been dependent upon people buying second homes. His organization is responsible for building, repairing, and/or renting more than 1,000 units in the county.

"Second homes have been very important to the county's economy for a number of years," Yoder said. "The slowdown in building is a significant drag on the county's economy and we are now facing that reality. Let's hope it is just a temporary hiccup and nothing more serious."

But while the immediate lake area may be having its woes, Garrett County's seat of government – Oakland – is going through something of a real estate boom.

"This is the first time in my 20 years as mayor that houses in Oakland are being built specifically for the housing market," said Mayor Asa McCain. "In fact, there are some 200 units – a mix of several types of homes, but generally for the elderly – being constructed by four different builders."

"WHITE ELEPHANTS" is the term sometimes used to describe huge "cottages" at Deep Creek Lake, similar to these pictured above, units that in recent months have proven to be increasingly difficult to rent and requiring thousands of dollars per month just to heat. They were built a few years ago when the real estate market for properties around the lake was thought to be an endless bonanza for contractors and sellers. However, the home mortgage/real estate crunch has indeed hit Garrett County, according to local realtors Jerry and Tommy Theyer, pictured left to right below. See story.

Arrested For CDS Possession Not Marijuana

A Cleveland, Ohio, woman was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Monday afternoon near the intersection of Oak and Third streets.

Jessica Marie Larson was stopped for a moving violation, when a records check revealed that she did not possess a driver's license. A search of her vehicle then revealed syringes and spoons containing trace amounts of suspected cocaine.

Larson was also found to be in possession of a Schedule 4 prescription medication that was not in a prescription bottle. She was charged with driving without a license, two counts of controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession not marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

She was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

Driver On Revoked, Suspended License Arrested/Charged

An Oakland man was arrested Thursday while attempting to elude police after his vehicle was stopped on Oak Street, Oakland.

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy made a stop on a 1998 Plymouth Neon when Anthony Bowman, 27, opened the door to the vehicle and fled from the deputy. Bowman was later located outside an apartment building on Decatur Street, Mtn. Lake Park.

Through investigation it was determined that Bowman fled because his Maryland license had been revoked and suspended. He was on the verge of hypothermia when the deputy found him.

He was charged with driving on a revoked and suspended, failure to yield right of way, and attempting to elude a police officer on foot. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

In a separate incident, deputies arrested Dawn Allison, 35, Accident, after learning through investigation that her driving privileges were currently suspended in Maryland.

Allison was seen operating her 2001 Ford truck in the Oakland area and was followed into a local business parking lot, where she was taken into custody. She was transported to the Detention Center to await an appearance before a District Court commissioner.

In an unrelated incident, a two-vehicle accident occurring on Decatur Street led to the arrest of a Mtn. Lake Park man.

Deputies responded to the 6 p.m. mishap, which was the result of David Shillingburg, 31, failing to yield right of way on a left turn to Aaron Friend, Oakland.

It was determined through investigation that Shillingburg's license had been revoked and suspended. He was placed under arrest and transported to the Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

There were no injuries reported as a result of the accident.

Collision Caused By DUI, DWI, And Reckless Driving

A motor vehicle collision at the 5000 area of Hutton Road, investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies, revealed the cause of the accident to be related to reckless driving and failure to yield right of way while making a left turn.

Dayrle Lambert, 45, McHenry, was operating a 1996 Ford Explorer westbound on Hutton Road in a reckless manner and caused a collision with an eastbound 1998 Dodge Neon driven by Charles D. Knox, 43, Oakland.

The Explorer traveled off the roadway after striking the Neon and collided with several other parked vehicles at the Classie Cars used car lot. Passengers in the Neon, Bernadine Knox and Sandra Smith, were injured and transported to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital emergency room.

A witness, Shelby Foultz was also injured when one of the parked vehicle struck her after being crashed into by Lambert's vehicle. She refused treatment.

After a thorough investigation, it was determined that Lambert had been driving while intoxicated and his license had been suspended. He was placed under arrest and charged with driving under the influence, driving while intoxicated, driving on a suspended license, reckless driving, driving with an open alcoholic beverage, and failure to yield right of way.

He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:
My house has 27 windows. I know I need window treatments. My mother and mother-in-law are from the old school and seem to think I should have draperies on every window. While I do feel that my formal living room should have drapes, I would like something less intimidating (and less maintenance) for the other rooms. I do need privacy, as I live in town. Suggestions?
Easier Living in Oakland

Dear Easier,
While I would just love it if everyone wanted draperies, in all honesty I have to tell you that there are many ways to cover a window. A simple top treatment over a wood blind or shade gives you a more formal look. Or Roman Shades are always in style and can be as ornate or basic as you would prefer. Stop by and check out our fabulous selection of fabric and designs or call for an in-home appointment with one of our designers. And let the sun shine IN!

Bill Killing Needed...

In the midst of the effort by some m state government to allow placement of wmd turbines m Garrett County – a move that the writer of this column and many other people believe would be a huge mistake – another faction of our elected officials is in the process of hurting us in a different way.

No fewer than 19 Maryland House delegates have co-sponsored HB 625, a measure that if passed in its present form will cost Garrett County approximately $1,000,000 annually in lost tax revenue. Currently Garrett County receives back from the state 25% of all monies that are generated in state forests and parks located within the county. The bill would repeal the law providing that 25% "kickback" to our county and instead direct all of the money to the state. Over the past four fiscal years this 25% has amounted to $3,854,093, or an average of $964,000 each year to Garrett County.

It is recognized that the state of Maryland has a huge deficit right now and that spending cuts are inevitable. However, to gouge Garrett County in this way – a county of fewer than 30,000 residents with 700 miles of roads and over 50% of its families with children qualifying for free and reduced priced school meals – the negative financial impact on our county budget will be major. Garrett County stands to lose additional funding from state and federal sources since it is now, ironically, ranked as the ninth wealthiest county in Maryland, even though so many of our citizens are impoverished.

Yes, these are state-owned lands; however, for the most part, it is Garrett County residents who are the stewards of those lands. It is our citizens who work on these lands, who manage the natural resources found there in a responsible way, who keep the forests and parks free of litter, do the maintenance work, and staff the ticket offices and concession stands. It seems that the 25% return is not asking too much of the state.

We learned last night that personnel from the county commissioners' office are traveling to Annapolis this week to testify against this bill. The bill is now being considered by the Environmental Matters Committee, 15 members of which are the very delegates who are sponsoring the measure. Thus our guess is that it will receive a favorable grade from this committee.

It is hopeful that there is no companion bill in the Senate, at least as far as we know today. But we hope that Delegate Beitzel is on top of this and will do all he can to assist our county elected officials in their effort to kill this bill.

To the Editor

I've neither seen nor heard Senators Clinton's or Obama's stump speeches, and so rely on media reports. Accordingly, I'm perplexed by the Obama phenomenon, the attraction of his "change" message.

Just as it takes two to tango, it takes two parties to accommodate and compromise to reduce partisanship. Every sign from the Republicans is that political partisanship is a permanent phenomenon.

When Republican congressmen walk out en masse to protest a contempt citation for some Bush appointees who refuse to comply with a subpoena for data about the partisan firing of seven United States attorneys, or employ brinkmanship over security statutes in an effort to immunize multi-billion dollar telecommunications companies from suit for violating the privacy rights of hundreds of American citizens, we citizens would be delusional to "believe" in a coming change in political partisanship!

And ejecting Gilchrest, a solid (Republican) congressman, in the Maryland primary for "conservative" Harris, is not the sign of a Republican party willing to "change" policies or priorities just because Senator Obama suggests this goal.

It is strange how we forget our history and are thus condemned to repeat it. When Governor Bush campaigned against Vice President Gore eight years ago, he proclaimed this "compassionate conservative" would start a new political era by reducing the sickening partisanship.

Today's my-way-or-the-highway politics are no different than when Bush took office. And the same result will occur with Senator Obama, as the conservative base of the Republican Party, combined with rabid right-wing radio talk, will hold Republican politico's feet to the fire to deny us the slightest "audacity of hope" for change! Fish will ride bikes before Republican politicians jettison partisanship.

Since Republican enmity won't abate, common sense dictates a President Obama will he mired in Republican mud, unable to effectuate change. So why does John Q. Citizen dare dream for an "Obamanomenon" that can never occur?

Sincerely yours,
Douglas Scott Arey
Cumberland

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Commissioners:

On January 3, 2003, we sent a letter to the Garrett County Sanitary District (GCSD) approving an easement with Clipper Windpower for installing wind turbines on GCSD land in the vicinity of Landon's Dam. We also expressed concern about protecting our water supply if this project moved forward. As you know our water system has experienced severe water shortages as recent as last summer. To this date we have received no information from the GCSD or from you as to how the system will be protected. It is possible that the construction of such a project could have an adverse impact on the water table.

We ask that you support our concerns and request that the Maryland Public Service Commission (MPSC) not grant an exemption to this project until the water supply issues are resolved satisfactorily. We further request that you communicate this information to the MPSC at the Thursday, March 6, 2008, hearing at Garrett College.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

The article about Fort Alice a few weeks ago was quite informative. I was unaware of the site and its history.

As I read the article, I came to the conclusion that the Confederates must have also burned the railroad bridge located on Third Street. It's been so long since the bridge has been there, they must be to blame.

The standstill on the bridge project is a clear example of the shortcomings of our local government. I would like to know who will pay for the cost overruns due to the fact the site was not ready when the contractor arrived. Of course, the town of Oakland blamed Verizon and Allegheny Power, but did we ever hear their side? I believe if we would, we could more accurately see where the blame lies.

Over seven years to build a bridge! That is unacceptable. How long will it take to get roads paved and improved infrastructure? Ten to fifteen years? By then we will be back to the original Oakland – dirt roads.

I own a local construction company and know how to get projects completed. This town needs leadership that gets things done on time and under budget. I have filed as a candidate for mayor, so let's make the necessary changes and get to work.

To the Editor:

Usually a visit to the MVA is a very trying experience, except in Garrett County, Maryland. That is because of two very special people working in the Oakland, Maryland, MVA office.

Mary C. Monahan and Deborah Winters are two ladies who are very efficient, accurate, and caring regarding their work for MVA and the citizens of Garrett County. Whether it is handling new registrations, new license plates, titles, handicap disability placards, or any services or functions that relate to the Motor Vehicle Administration in our area, these two ladies make it happen for all of us here in Garrett County. And best of all they do it with full respect for each individual they deal with, and they handle each situation in a very positive and friendly manner.

I have lived in the Washington, D.C., area for 20-plus years and I have had many dealings with Maryland's larger MVA operations. There is none better than ours.

None of these larger MVAs compare to ours in Oakland because of the job done by Mary and Deborah. They give new meaning to the words "public service."

We are very fortunate to have them working for us here in Garrett County.

Respectfully,
John Cobb

To the Editor:

It is amazing what opponents of wind turbines will say in spite of reality. They are so bitter to block any and all clean energy projects that they will use "at any costs" tactics. We should be tired of the same old conspiracy theories, mistruths, intimidation, and name calling that opponents of wind power put forth.

The latest round is evident in recent missives of several desperate opponents regarding the Criterion project, which will be the subject of a public hearing this week. Yes, that is correct, the same public hearing opportunity and input that opponents said would be taken away when 95% of the 2007 state legislature supported streamlining the approval process for some renewable projects last session. I guess they were wrong about that.

Just a bit of history here. Not only has this project been under consideration since 2001 and had a permit since 2005, it has been the subject of numerous state and local public hearings and an active part of the debate around wind power in Garrett County for over six years. Yet, the project – which by itself will provide the county with more than $1.6 million in tax revenue a year – has been blocked by lawsuit after lawsuit by the very same opponents who "just say no" to everything. While the developers hope to break through the legal morass with a new filing that reflects current state law and the technology advances that have emerged since the process began, they still plan to abide by all the conditions outlined by the PSC when they approved the project originally.

So after years of legal delays, who would blame supporters of the project for trying to do what large majorities of Marylanders favor – building a wind project that can supply clean energy, meet the state's renewable energy requirements, provide local tax revenue, and help to slow global warming? This selfish, "sue and hope they go away" strategy has ill served the economic and environmental needs of Garrett County and our entire state of Maryland. It is time for it to end.

Sincerely,
Frank Maisano

Public Invited

as "clogging."

As these people and their descendants migrated from the mountains and out into the flatlands, the Cherokee Indians, Africans, and Russian Gypsies influenced the dance steps. Clogging has enveloped many different traditions to become a "melting pot" of dances.

Initially, clogging began as a dance for individuals, each person doing his or her own percussive and rhythmic steps in time with the music. As time passed, however, cloggers began to include these steps into the square dances that were popular in their communities.

In the early 1900s, Bascom Lamar Lunsford of Asheville, N.C., began the Mountain Dance and Folk Festival. He created the festival in hopes of preserving the music, dance, and other unique customs of the mountains. As part of the festival, competitions were held. In the late 1920s one of the dance competitions was won by the Soco Gap Dancers, who were the first to have won by using the traditional figures of square dancing accompanied by freestyle step dancing.

These dancers became so well known for their energetic style that they once performed for the queen of England while she was visiting the U.S. It is reported that she remarked during the performance that the dancing reminded her of the "clogging" from her own country. The term stuck, and the step dancing that had emerged from the Appalachians became known as "clog dancing."

Over the years, clogging and square dancing went their separate ways, with only a few areas continuing to combine the two. Clogging reverted back to a dance for the individual.

Clogging again became a dance for team participation in the 1970s, when the steps were choreographed to lively pop and country tunes and were performed by lines of dancers. This is the type of clogging most often seen at the present time.

Come join the Still Kickin' Cloggers for lots of fun and great exercise. Clogging is good for your bones as well as your brain. We welcome kids as well as adults. If you loved Riverdance and Lord of the Dance, you'll love clogging.

County usually receives about one-third of the revenue, he noted.

If HB 625 eliminates payments to counties, Garrett County lose one of its major sources of revenue each fiscal year, according to Director Wendy Yoder, Garrett County Department of Financial Services.

"Over the past four fiscal years, Garrett County has received an average of $964,000 per year from this revenue source," she said.

The county received $957,858 in FY 2007, $948,382 in FY '06, $1,047,407 in FY '05, and $900,446 in '04, according to Yoder.

Jerry Frantz, director of Allegany County's finance office, is also scheduled to testify against HB 625.

It was introduced by 19 Democratic delegates from Anne Arundel, Montgomery, Howard, Prince George's, Baltimore, and Carroll counties, and Baltimore City. Holliday said the proposed legislation will have little impact on those areas.

The House Environmental Matters Committee will hold a public hearing on the bill tomorrow, Friday, March 7, at 1 p.m. Fifteen of the bill's sponsors are members of the Environmental Matters Committee. There is no Senate companion bill.

The Maryland Association of Counties opposes HB 625.

Persons wishing to testify on any bill must sign the witness register by 12:40 p.m. Those with written testimony are asked to submit 20 copies to the pertinent committee staff by noon for distribution prior to the hearing.

Johnson Seeking Seat On Oakland Town Council

Von W. "Buzz" Johnson has filed for a seat on the Oakland Town Council in the upcoming municipal election, slated for Monday, March 10.

A lifelong resident of Garrett County, Johnson has lived in Oakland for the past 40 years. He has been employed by CSX Corporation since 1968 in the transportation/communications department. Johnson and his wife Fannie have owned and operated rental housing in Oakland for 34 years.

Johnson previously served on the Oakland Town Council for more than 10 years. He noted that he proposed and was "instrumental" in negotiating Oakland's acquisition of the town parking lot property and additional acreage from CSX.

He added that he successfully promoted the phasing out of the "burdensome" town inventory tax on businesses and voted for free parking downtown during the holiday shopping season.

During his terms in office, Johnson worked to bring to completion the Oakland aerated lagoon sewer system, which, he said, is recognized as one of the best in the state of Maryland.

"I feel qualified and experienced to once again represent the citizens of Oakland," Johnson said. "Considering the indebtedness of our federal and state governments, we will not be able to depend on funding from these sources to the extent we have in the past."

He went on to state that he advocates for strong fiscal responsibility and management of town finances to keep its citizens' tax burden as low as possible.

"Wasteful spending must be eliminated, and tax revenues need to be applied to maintaining a viable infrastructure and providing necessary services," Johnson said. "Many of our streets and alleys are in deplorable condition and require immediate attention."

He said he feels that the Third Street bridge is long overdue and would work to expedite this program. The candidate added that the proposed Streetscape program and sidewalk ordinance must be carefully evaluated and structured to improve Oakland without creating an unwanted financial burden or liability for its businesses and residents.

"I am genuinely interested in the future of our town," Johnson said. "Oakland is a wonderful place to live, work, and conduct business. I'll make every effort to safeguard its jobs and the investments of its businesses and residents."

He added that he is eager to address the many challenges and issues facing Oakland, and, if elected, will always encourage and respect public input from citizens and business owners.

"I ask that you give me the opportunity to serve once more by casting your vote for Von W. Johnson on Monday, March 10, at Oakland City Hall," he said.

A "FLAME OF HOPE" artistic piece of glassware created by Simon Pearce Inc. was presented this week to Sincell Publishing Company In Oakland for its three-year pledge of $10,000 to the Dove Center Capital Campaign, an effort to construct a new domestic abuse shelter in Garrett County. The pledge was made as a matching challenge to other businesses and Individuals, encouraging them to also support the project. Pictured from left are Mary McEwen, vice president of Sincell Publishing; Don Sincell, president; and Edna Forsyth, chair of the campaign. Persons desiring information on how to make a donation/pledge may contact Mrs. Forsyth by telephone at 301-387-9193, by e-mail at emf416@cebridge.net, or by regular mail at: Dove Center Capital Campaign, P.O. Swartzentruber Seeking Seat On Oakland Council

Lois Swartzentruber has filed for a position on the Oakland Town Council.

She is the daughter of the late Harvey D. "Hub" Swartzentruber, who served as mayor of Oakland for 20 years. She is a life-long resident of the Oakland area and owned and operated a fast food restaurant known as the Big Tee Burger for 25 years.

"I understand the demands and challenges local business persons face in their daily operations, and I look forward to representing these concerns as a member of the Town Council," Swartzentruber said. "I am also concerned for the citizens of Oakland who have been waiting for the reconstruction of the Third Street Bridge."

She said residents living within the areas of such streets as South Third, Elk, Hamill, Mason, and Tower have been promised completion of this bridge for many years now.

"The condition of Oakland's streets, roads, and alleys is of major concern to many of Oakland's residents," she added. "These concerns need addressed immediately."

Now is the time, Swartzentruber said, to personally listen to and address the issues of concern that each and every member of the town Oakland wishes to express.

"In this upcoming election, March 10," she said, "I ask for your vote so that together, we will make sure your voice is heard."

Omission Noted

now under the auspices of the county and its Department of Public Utilities (DPU).

In 2003, Mtn. Lake Park officials sent a letter to the Sanitary Commission approving an easement for Clipper to install the turbines in the Landon's Dam area. Martin told the commissioners on Tuesday that he feels the town may have made an error in judgment.

The mayor noted that his town's water system has experienced severe water shortages as recently as last summer. The DPU has been drilling test wells to find additional water sources for the town.

"Even with wells, [Landon's Dam] is going to be the main source of water," Martin said. "We should never have approved it (the easement) in the first place, but when I make a mistake, I try to fix it."

He noted that the town did express concerns in its Sanitary Commission letter about protecting its water supply if the turbine project moved forward. According to Martin, however, the town never received any information from the Sanitary Commission or the county commissioners as to how the system would be protected.

Martin said a study needs to be conducted to evaluate what possible negative impacts the construction of turbines will have on the water table. He added that the Landon's Dam area was a beautiful place.

"I'd hate to see it destroyed," the mayor said.

Commissioners Fred Holliday and Denny Glotfelty told Martin and Stanton that they would discuss their concerns. Commissioner Ernie Gregg was unable to attend the meeting.

Local DNR, NRP Officers Praised By Superintendent

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP), the law enforcement arm of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), honored both officers and private citizens from across the state with certificates of merit and appreciation on Tuesday. At the ceremony, three local NRP and DNR representatives were recognized with superintendent's commendations.

Officer First Class Mike Berry of Accident, Sergeant David Marple of Oakland, and Corporal William Thomas of Oakland were recognized for their accomplishments.

DNR secretary John R. Griffin attended the ceremony along with deputy secretary Eric Schwaab, NRP superintendent Col. George F. Johnson IV, and NRP deputy superintendent LTC. Alphonso W. Hawkins. Also attending were Maryland Park Service (MPS) superintendent Nita Settina, MPS deputy superintendent LTC. Chris Bushman, and William Boyd of Shikar-Safari Club International. NRP Capt. Robert Davis was the emcee for the evening and NRP Lt. Joe Offer gave the invocation and benediction.

"Tonight we celebrate your sacrifices and your accomplishments as we recognize just a few of the many acts of bravery, sacrifice and generosity that occur everyday." Superintendent Johnson said. "Leadership is easy in an agency with so many motivated and dedicated professionals."

SHUTTING OUT NOISE
Noise poses a distraction as well as leads to hearing loss. In an effort to shut out noisy environmental sound, some people turn to earphones and headphones. Perhaps the most familiar of these are sound-isolating earphones that sit atop the ears. Their snug fit and foam sleeve prevents unwanted sound from entering the ears. While this type of earphone doesn't require batteries or circuitry noise-canceling headphones do. They utilize electronic circuitry to remove the noise after it has entered the headphone earcup. As microphones inside each earcup sample the noise, an electronic circuit creates a mirror image of the sound that cancels it out. This technology was originally created to cancel out the drone inside the cabins of jets and planes.
Our noisy world offers no guarantees that we'll have perfect hearing throughout our lives. We must accept the responsibility of protecting our hearing, in our recreational pursuits and our home and work environments, and do all we can to correct impairments. Here at AUDIBEL, helping you achieve your optimum hearing potential is our only business.
P.S. Noise-canceling headphones work to prevent ear damage because wearers do not constantly need to increase music volume to drown out ambient noise.

TWO UNALTERED PETS = MANY HOMELESS PETS – Unaltered cats (one male and one female) can produce up to 75 kittens in one year. This calculation takes into account that cats can breed at 6 months of age and have up to three litters a year. "The above display shows visually what 75 cats would look like," said Humane Society president Lisa Baker. The society distributed 100 $50 discount vouchers last week to residents who want to have their pets spayed or neutered. On Monday alone, 80 of them were given out, and by Tuesday the other 20 were gone, Baker reported. "The Garrett County Shelter and Humane Society are always thankful that there are pet owners out there who want to help reduce the homeless animal population by preventing unwanted litters from being born," she said. "If owners just knew or saw how many unwanted animals come into our shelter that don't get reclaimed or adopted, maybe more owners would have their pets spayed/neutered. If there are persons interested in having their pets altered, they may call the Humane Society at 301-387-4425 or PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare & Safety) at 301-746-5939 for assistance."

Young Readers Celebrate Dr. Seuss's Birthday

A strong turn-out was reported at five area libraries during Garrett County's local Read Across America Day, the National Education Association's annual reading-promotion program. Celebrating its tenth anniversary, Read Across America Day was recently held at the Oakland, Grantsville, Accident, Kitzmiller, and Friendsville branches of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Each library branch hosted the program on Saturday, March 1. Grantsville Library reported 32 children and 26 parents in attendance. 31 children and 15 parents attended at Accident Library, 32 children and 16 parents at Friendsville, 60 children and 30 parents at Landon's Library, and 40 children and 20 parents at Oakland. On Tuesday, March 4, Kitzmiller Library hosted 36 children.

Volunteers Mimi Demaree read to children in Friendsville, Linda Buckle read to children in Grantsville, Lisa Fratz-Bonar read to children in Accident, and Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, read to children in Oakland and Kitzmiller.

Children in attendance were given a new book, provided by the program sponsors: the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, and the Garrett County Education Association.

Read Across America calls on every community from coast to coast to celebrate Dr. Seuss's birthday through reading motivation and awareness. Sponsored by the National Education Association, Dr. Seuss Enterprises, L.P., and more than 50 partner organizations on the national level, the award-winning literacy program also provides resources and activities needed to keep reading on the calendar 365 days a year.

For more information about the NEA Read Across America Program, persons may visit www.nea.org/readacross and www.nea.org/booksacross.

COOKIES, COOKIES, AND MORE COOKIES – Girl Scouts in Garrett County are busy delivering cookie orders to local residents. "If you did not get a chance to order, but would still like some, don't fret," said a group spokesperson. "Many local troops will be conducting booth sales for the next couple of weekends." Booths are planned for the following locations: the Bear's Den, Accident; Foodland Fresh, McHenry; Grantsville Foodland; Pilot Truck Stop, Grantsville; Arrowhead, Deep Creek Lake; and the Movie Gallery, 7-Eleven, and Get-N-Go, Oakland. The Girl Scouts expressed their appreciation to these establishments for letting them set up on their premises and to local residents who placed cookie orders.

KNOW THE DIFFERENCE!

How much home can you afford? How do you even begin to find the answer to that question? You've probably heard terms like "pre-approval" and "pre-qualification" tossed around, but do you understand the critical difference between those two? If your answer is "no," then please read on to avoid major disappointment when you make your offer.

"Pre-qualification" is a fine place to start, but if you're really serious about the time and money you're going to invest in purchasing a home, you'll really want to focus on "pre-approval." Approval, and not just qualification, is secured when you complete and submit a loan application, along with the appropriate documentation and fees.

The lender will review your application and paperwork, and will notify you of just how much financing you can secure. Only then will you have the confidence to make your home choice and make your offer.

A pre-qualification, on the other hand, is more informal, and only an estimate of the funds for which you might qualify after applying for a loan. You might make an offer with pre-qualification in hand, but it's no guarantee that your loan application will be accepted.

The seller's representative will have educated the seller about this critical difference, so make them an offer they can't refuse! Pre-approval puts you in the driver's seat, so get ready to move!

Preston Residents Urged To Return Address Packets

Preston County and MSAG Data Consultants have completed the address notification portion of the county's emergency 9-1-1 addressing project, according to coordinator Clark Nicklow, Office of Emergency Management.

Addressing packets have been delivered to structures in the county, including some within the city limits of Kingwood and Terra Alta.

"We are asking all residents to please return their address questionnaires as soon as possible," Nicklow said.

He noted that it is important for residents to return their questionnaires because it will lessen the chances of their mail service being disrupted and will speed up the implementation of the addressing project.

Persons who have lost the address packet that was left at their structures or who did not receive one may call Nicklow at 304-329-1855 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

"After hours, please leave a message on the voice mail, and you will be contacted as soon as possible," Nicklow said.

TED LEWIN

KADIR NELSON

DEBORAH WILES

Frostburg State University will host the 26th annual Spring Festival of Children's Literature on Friday, April 25, and Saturday, April 26. The theme for the event "Open a Book; Free a Mind."

A group of award-winning authors and illustrators will be special guests during the two-day event. These artists are Betsy and Ted Lewin, Kadir Nelson, and Deborah Wiles.

"The festival will focus on creative ways to inspire children to enjoy reading in a personal and relaxed 'share and learn' environment," a spokesperson said.

The weekend's educational activities will include informative small group sessions and large group presentations, many for educators, covering topics such as using children's literature in the classroom and using an iPod to learn more about authors.

Participants will be invited to talk with fellow educators to exchange ideas, purchase books from an extensive selection, and gain insight from the visiting authors. The program will also offer one-to-one interaction with colleagues and featured authors and illustrators, as well as autographing opportunities.

A special feature of the festival, the R. Margaret Hamilton Children's Hour, will be held on Friday, April 25, beginning at 4:15 p.m. for children ages 4 to 13. Authors will present age-specific workshops during which they will share their work with children, as well as the process of writing, illustrating, and the enjoyment the craft can bring.

Open autographing and book sales are scheduled for 4 to 4:30 p.m. Registration is required for the sessions and can be arranged by contacting Dr. Jodi Welsch at 301-687-3096.

Betsy Lewin began her career designing greeting cards and illustrating for children's magazines. She went on to win various writing and illustrating awards, including a Caldecott Honor and a Maryland Black-Eyed Susan Award. Her titles include Click Clack, Quackity-Quack, Duck for President, Click, Clack, Moo: Cows That Type, Heat Wave and more.

Ted Lewin has been writing and illustrating for many years and bases many of his books on his trips to various countries. He has won several awards, including the Hamilton King Award from the Society of Illustrators and a Caldecott Honor. His works include At Gleason's Gym, The World's Greatest Elephant, Lost City, The Discovery of Machu Picchu, Pennies in a Jar, and others.

Kadir Nelson has illustrated more than a dozen children's books, as well as helped build the art collections of many well-known celebrities, corporations, galleries, and museums. His illustrations have earned him several awards, including the Coretta Scott King Illustrator Award, Caldecott Honor and ALA Notable Book Award. His titles include Moses, Henry's Freedom Box, Thunder Rose, ellington was not a street, Big Jabe, and others.

Deborah Wiles grew up in the deep south, where she encountered many Southern characters about whom she writes today. She is the recipient of numerous awards, including the Ezra Jack Keats New Writer Award and the PEN/Phyllis Reynolds Naylor Working Writer Fellowship in 2004. Her books include One Wide Sky, Freedom Summer, Love, Ruby Lavender, Each Little Bird that Sings, and The Aurora County All-Stars.

The festival was the brainchild of William Bingman, who created the festival as he looked for a way to honor two colleagues.

"Now in its 26th year, what began as a small gathering of children's literature enthusiasts has blossomed to over 350 eager participants. With a reputation as a premier event, the festival has become a testament to those who care about the art of children's literature and the passing on of this legacy," a spokesperson said.

Admission to the festival is by registration only and is limited in number. Pre-registration is required, and pre-orders are available for books that will be featured at the festival. Honored With Jan Ferra Award By Maryland Student Assistance Program

The Maryland Student Assistance Program Professional Association recently recognized Northern High School teacher Joanny Martin with the Jan Ferra Award. This award is presented annually to an individual who has made significant contributions to the Student Assistance Program in Maryland.

With this award, Martin is now eligible to attend the national conference on a scholarship. The scholarship was established this year to honor C. David Haacke, who initiated the MSAP through sponsorship of the Masonic Temples.

Martin began teaching at NHS 30 years ago and became a guidance counselor at the school 21 years ago. She is a graduate of Southern High School and the University of Maryland. She also completed classes at Boston University and the University of New Hampshire and finished with a master's of education in guidance and counseling from Frostburg State University.

She has been a volunteer at Rocky Gap State Park, chairman of the executive board with Boy Scouts of America Troop 29, senior class advisor and drill team leader at NHS, co-chairman of Northern's visiting accreditation teams, and chairman of the Northern High School MSAP team.

Martin has also worked with the Make-A-Wish Foundation, chaired the ASTAR Program and the Bullying/Harassment Prevention Committee, and started the Future Homemakers of America at NHS.

"I have loved my job and the people I work with," said Martin. "My students have been the greatest and it is such a pleasure to now be working with my former students as parents."

"On behalf of all at Northern High School, we appreciate her dedication and hard work," said student Meredith Sussman. "We are so proud of her achievements with MSAPPA."

Martin lives in Wiley Ford, W.Va., with her husband. They have one son, Jeffrey, who is a CPA in Washington, D.C.

Southern Band Boosters Note Raffle Winner

The Southern Garrett Band Boosters held a raffle drawing Monday for a half of a hog, donated to the Southern Marching Band by the local chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP).

The winner was Anna Coking of Swanton. Coking bought the raffle ticket during the band boosters' bingo games, hosted each Friday at the Deer Park fire hall. She bought her raffle ticket there from student and band member Mike Duckworth.

The boosters expressed gratitude to the FOP for the donation of the hog. The group was able to raise nearly $700 through the raffle. The boosters also thanked all those who purchased raffle tickets to support the efforts of the Southern band.

LITERACY PROJECT UNDER WAY – Members of Students After School at Grantsville are currently participating in a literacy project. Students visit the Ruth Enlow Library in Grantsville each month and select two books of their choice that were paid for by a grant through the 21st Century Program and coordinated through the Ruth Enlow Library. The program is sponsored by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Partnership for Children and Families, the Maryland State Department of Education, and the Grantsville CSAFE initiative.

WHAT SHAMU TAUGHT ME ABOUT LIFE, LOVE, AND MARRIAGE
by Amy Sutherland
c. 2008, Random House, $18, 168 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Some days, it seems like nobody listens any more. You nag your spouse yet again to pick up clothes that have been discarded on the floor. You holler at the kids to finish chores, but they're suddenly hard-of-hearing. You remind your mother that she needs to make that doctor's appointment she's been putting off, and she ignores you.

Some days, it seems like the only person who listens to you is the dog.

So hold up a minute. Training worked for the dog. Why wouldn't a modified version work with people? In the new book What Shamu Taught Me About Life, Love and Marriage by Amy Sutherland, you'll learn some lessons that you can use with two-legged animals from the people who teach four-legged ones.

When you go to the circus or to SeaWorld, you might see elephants that stand on their heads or dolphins that leap out of the water on command. Animals don't just do those kinds of things. Somebody had to teach them. In a previous book, Amy Sutherland wrote about an exotic-animal training college in California, and the work that students do with camels, cougars, kinkajous, and other critters.

Back at home and after realizing that she was nagging her husband again, Sutherland remembered the students she observed and the training they did with monkeys and tigers and others. If it worked with often-unpredictable animals, she mused, why wouldn't the same kind of "training" work with human animals? She began to utilize the methods she picked up at the school.

When her husband – who had an innate habit of losing things – ranted about his missing keys, Sutherland gave him an LRS, or a Least-Reinforcing Scenario, which meant that she did nothing. By not flying to the rescue, she cut their stress-level down to zero. She reinforced behavior she wanted and ignored that which she didn't want. She gave rewards quickly, appropriately, and often. By using what she calls "incompatible behaviors," she made errant actions impossible. And she made her home life and her marriage much better.

Okay, let's face this first: Yes, there are going to be lots of readers who will sputter about how people aren't animals and "training" is demeaning.

This book isn't for them.

I found What Shamu Taught Me About Life, Love and Marriage to be delightful. It doesn't advocate "training," although that's what author Amy Sutherland calls it. Instead, it teaches readers to pay attention to what they say, how they say it, and why silence is sometimes best; how body language can be misconstrued; and why (sometimes wrong) assumptions are made by human communication. It explains how you can lower stress levels, create harmony at home, and have a better relationship with family, friends, strangers, and yes, even your pets.

What's not to love about that?

If you have an animal in your house, either of the two-legged or the four-legged kind, you're going to want to read this wonderful, helpful book. What Shamu Taught Me About Life, Love and Marriage is a whale of a great read.

ONE OF THE GRANDEST BUILDINGS in Oakland at the turn of the last century was the one that housed Ravenscroft's Garage, located at the corner of Liberty and First streets. The structure took a major hit in 1912 when a tornado blew off the third story, and then just a few weeks ago, the long-term effects of Mother Nature led to a partial collapse of the "new" roof on the second story. In recent years the building has housed Mastercraft Printing, which has now reopened in a location along Alder Street next to Marvin's Men's Wear. Robert Echolm, current owner of the property, is in the process of obtaining estimates on restoration of the building before making a decision on its future.

Md. Chapter Of MS Society Notes Awareness Week

Through the week of March 10-17, the Maryland Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis (MS) Society will take part in a nationwide campaign to raise awareness about the disease and encourage people across the country to join the movement for a world free of MS, a spokesperson said.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society assists people affected by MS by helping to fund research, encouraging change through advocacy, and facilitating professional education. The National MS Society also provides a variety of services and programs for those seeking information about MS or those interested in learning strategies to live well with the disease.

Among the society's most utilized programs and services are local support groups, which are offered in nearly every county in the state, and its information and referral service, which can help answer questions about MS and connect people with resources in their communities.

The organization is asking residents to help make positive differences in the lives of the 6,500-plus Marylanders living with MS.

Persons may help advance the mission by registering for Walk MS. The National MS Society will hold Walk MS events in 11 communities across the state in April. Walk MS is the Maryland chapter's largest fundraising campaign, with a goal of garnering $1.5 million this year.

Persons may receive more information about the 2008 Walk MS by visiting www.marylandmswalk.org or calling the Maryland chapter at 443-641-1200.

Persons may also consider joining the National MS Society and more than 700 cyclists on Maryland's Eastern Shore June 7 and 8 for the Wells Fargo Bike MS: Tour de Shore Ride.

The ride is expected to raise more than $700,000. Registration is open online at www.marylandmsbikeride.org, or interested cyclists may call 1-800-FIGHT MS for more information.

To learn more about MS Awareness Week, persons may visit www.msawarenessweek.org.

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic disease of the central nervous system affecting the brain and spinal cord. It usually strikes adults between the ages of 20 and 50. Approximately 400,000 Americans are currently living with MS, and one new case of MS is diagnosed every hour, the spokesperson said.

While significant advances in research have led to several promising treatments that may alter the underlying disease course of MS, there is still no cure. The Maryland chapter provides information and referral, medical transportation, support for caregivers and family members, recreational activities, and other programs and services to Marylanders living with MS.

The spokesperson noted that studies show early and ongoing treatment with an FDA-approved therapy can reduce future disease activity and improve quality of life for many people with multiple sclerosis. Those afflicted with MS are advised to talk to their health care professionals and contact the National MS Society at www.nationalmssociety.org or 1-800-FIGHT MS to learn about ways to help manage multiple sclerosis.

McHenry Native Earning Master's Degree Abroad

Captain (United States Air Force) Paul J. Sebold of McHenry is entering into his second semester of master's level study at St. Petersburg State University, St. Petersburg, Russia. Sebold was selected in 2006 to participate in the Olmsted Scholar Program, which, according to the program mission, was designed to "provide outstanding youth military leaders an unsurpassed opportunity to achieve fluency in a foreign language, pursue graduate study at an overseas university, and acquire an in-depth understanding of foreign cultures."

Since July of 2007, Sebold and his wife Courtney have been living in Russia while Sebold pursues his degree in area studies of the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS). Following a year of language training at the Defense Language Institution in Monterey, Calif., Sebold now attends classes which are taught in the Russian language about topics pertaining to international relations in Russia and the former Soviet states.

STUDY AND TRAVEL – Garrett County native Captain Paul J. Sebold of the United States Air Force, is pictured above on Red Square in Moscow, Russia. He is currently working toward his master's degree in St. Petersburg. See story.

Having successfully completed the first semester of work, he is the only foreigner in his class of Russian students. Meanwhile, thanks to the Internet, Courtney has been able to continue her work as a genetic counselor, and is employed by the University of Texas at San Antonio Health Science Center's Chromosome 18 Research Foundation.

The Sebolds have said they love the opportunity to live abroad and travel widely, but miss the comforts of the USA and their families in the states. That being said, they reported that the Russian winter of St. Petersburg has thus far been milder than the typical winter in western Maryland, "an unexpected bonus of living in Russia."

The couple maintain a web page of their travels, which can be accessed at http://texasdevilsinrussia.blogspot.com.

Tuition Guarantee Bill Being Considered By Md. Delegates

by Kelly Wilson
Capital News Service

A bill in the Maryland legislature would require public colleges and universities to publish four years' worth of tuition rates in advance.

Under the Maryland Truth in Tuition Act, rates could still be subject to change over time, but once published, rates could not be increased.

At a hearing before the House Appropriations Committee Tuesday, supporters said the bill would create predictable tuition expenses, which they say would help middle-class families budget and save to allow their children to go to college.

The bill's sponsor, Delegate Heather Mizeur, D-Montgomery, introduced the same legislation last year, but it failed in committee despite more than 30 co-sponsors.

This year, she had more time to talk to other legislators and generate interest, she said, the lack of which hurt last year's effort.

Mizeur said the plan has generated positive feedback from prominent state university officials.

The law could prove effective, said Patrick Hogan, associate vice chancellor for government relations for the University System of Maryland. It would be similar to a long-term version of the state's recent freeze in tuition rates, but more flexible because it would allow institutions to raise or lower tuition over time, he said.

One downside of publishing tuition levels early is that institutions may raise tuition more on the front end to ensure they don't find themselves short of money in a few years. Schools are always concerned about the unpredictability of funding from the state, Hogan said.

But any initial increase would be made up over time because rates would not be going up as often, said Andrew Friedson, student body president of the University of Maryland, College Park. The new system could raise rates at first, he said, but that would be manageable over time.

In the end, the predictability the bill provides would help to prevent the sting of tuition increases that have been known to force students to move home, transfer to other institutions or drop out of college entirely, Friedson said.

But institutions like Central Michigan University, which ended its tuition guarantee policy in February, have found that is not the case, said Dan Hurley, director of state relations and policy analysis at the American Association of State Colleges and Universities. Universities often have trouble predicting what their tuition levels will need to be several years ahead of time.

"The concept of a tuition guarantee may be well intentioned," said Hurley, "but it may ultimately lead to higher prices in the long run because of the uncertainty and unpredictability that goes into tuition setting, which has proven remarkably volatile."

A stable tuition depends on stable state funding, and that can't always be guaranteed, Hurley said.

If passed the bill would require the plans be submitted by summer of 2009. The bill now returns to the House of Delegates where the committee report will be read and, if favorable, the bill will be printed for a third reading.

HERE'S TO THE RED, WHITE, AND BLUE – Jane Britner's second graders from Broad Ford Elementary School recently visited Southern Middle School to perform an original chant, composed by Britner, of the fifty states. Final Orientation Scheduled For Scholarship Prog.

Many young women pay for their college education with Miss America and Miss America Outstanding Teen Scholarships awarded at the local, state, and national levels, according to organizers of these events.

The Miss Allegany County and Miss Cumberland Pageant is seeking to award over $5,000 in prizes and scholarships on March 22. Young women between the ages of 17-24, who live, work, or attend school in Maryland interested in competing in the 2008 Miss Allegany County and Miss Cumberland Scholarship pageants, and young ladies between the ages of 13-17 interested in competing in the 2008 Miss Allegany County Outstanding Teen and Miss Cumberland Outstanding Teen pageants are invited to attend a contestant orientation at 1 p.m. this Sunday, March 9. The orientation for both the Miss and Teen programs will be held in the second floor conference room at the Washington Street Library, Cumberland.

Attendees will receive information about pageants and be provided an overview of the phases of competition, as well as information on the scholarships and prizes to be awarded.

The Miss Allegany County and Miss Cumberland Scholarship pageants are part of the tradition of the Miss Maryland Organization and the Miss America Organization, the organizers said.

In 2007, Miss Allegany County Shana Powell won the title of Miss Maryland and went on to compete in the Miss America pageant. Through competition at the local, state and national levels, Miss Powell earned over $15,000 in scholarships.

"As a preliminary local pageant program, the Miss Allegany County and Miss Cumberland Scholarship Program is a not-for-profit organization that has maintained a tradition for many decades of empowering young American women to achieve their personal and professional goals, while providing a forum for them to express their opinions, talents, and intelligence," said one organizer.

The 2008 scholarship pageant will be held Saturday, March 22, at the Cumberland Theatre at 7 p.m. and feature Miss Maryland Shana Powell. For ticket information, persons may telephone 301-724-5000.

For information on how to become a Miss or Teen contestant, persons may contact Beth Thomas at missalleganyco@hotmail.com or telephone 301-724-5000 to request a contestant information packet.

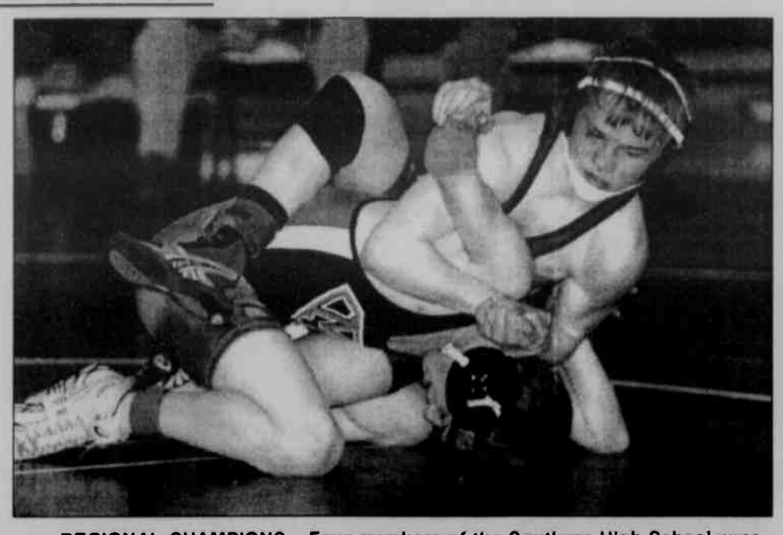
Rams Win West Region Titie; Seven Qualify For State Event

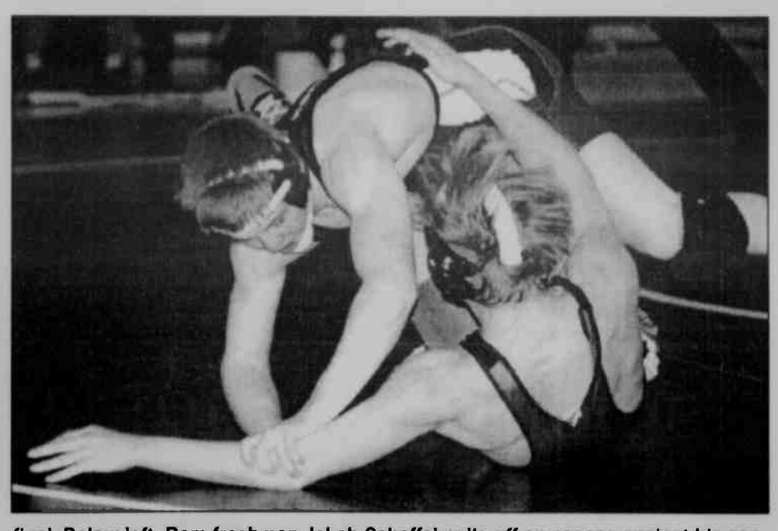
The wrestling team of Southern High School captured the team title in the Maryland Class 1A/2A West Region Tournament, held in Frostburg on Saturday, and will be sending seven wrestlers to this weekend's state tournament in College Park.

The Rams amassed 156 points, four individual titles, two runner-up finishes, and a fourth place.

The Northern Huskies, who finished ninth in the 19-team tourney, will send three to the state tournament with two runner-up finishes and one fourth-place finish.

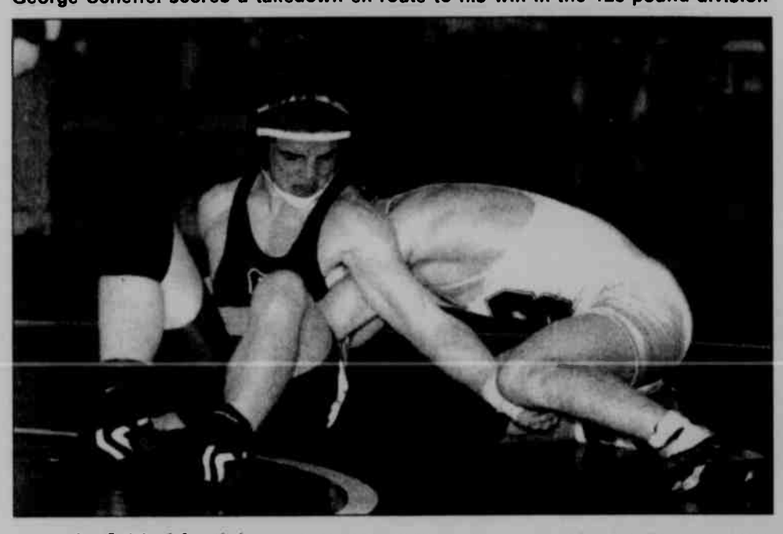


The Rams finished 32 points ahead of their nearest competitor, Mountain Ridge, which finished with 124 points. South Carroll was third with 11.5 points, followed by Walkersville with 104.5, and North Hagerstown with 88 to round out the top five teams.

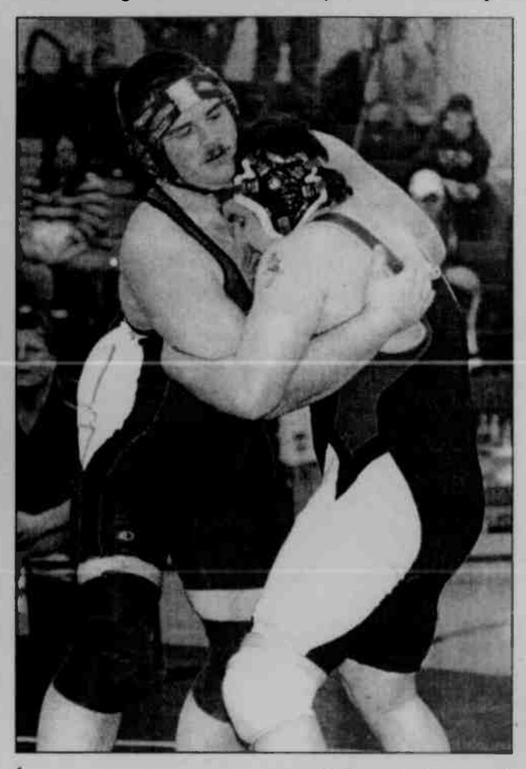


Winning regional titles for Southern were undefeated freshman Lex Ozias in the 112-pound division, sophomore George Scheffel in the 125-pound division, freshman Jakob Scheffel in the 130-pound division, and senior Sean Sisler in the heavyweight division.

Ozias recorded a 7-4 decision over Chad Strube of Middletown in the championship match; George Scheffel decisioned Tyler Strube of Middletown, 7-3; Jakob Scheffel edged senior Mike Minch of Brunswick in overtime, 6-4; and Sisler pinned Derrick Sisk of Mountain Ridge to capture the crown in the 285-pound class.



Southern senior Matt Armstrong won second place in the 103-pound division, losing only to Chris Wampler of South Carroll in the title match by an 8-4 decision, while junior Josh Arnold was the runner-up in the 119-pound division upon being pinned by Cameron Hobin of South Carroll in the title bout.



Also qualifying for the state tournament was Ryan Bennett, another SHS freshman, who finished fourth in the 189-pound division.

REGIONAL CHAMPIONS – Four members of the Southern High School wrestling team captured individual championships in their respective weight divisions at the West Region 1A/2A Tournament, held Saturday in Frostburg. As a team, the Rams also took first place, topping 18 other teams in the West Region. Representing Northern at the state event will be Andy Ganoe, Dustin Stough, and Kameron Kamp.

Ganoe, a senior, placed second in the 152-pound division, losing only to champion Marc Nielson of Walkersville by a close, 5-3 decision.

Stough, a junior, fell by an even smaller margin in the championship bout of the 160-pound division, as he was edged by Zac Stavish of South Carroll, 1-0.

Placing fourth in the 103-pound division was Northern freshman Kameron Kamp.

Only the top four regional finishers in each weight division qualify to move on to the state tournament.

Earning a fifth place for Southern was Jordan Skipper (145), along with Northern's Adam Moranduzzo (135). Nick Brant (135) and Nick Farmer (171) of Southern and Andrew Reynolds (112) and Josh Duckworth (119) of Northern all placed sixth.

Second-place Mountain Ridge had six wrestlers qualify for the state tourney, including Stephen Whetstone and Noah DeVore, champions in the 140- and 215-pound divisions.

The state tournament, which will be held at the University of Maryland at College Park, will get under way Friday, with final matches slated for Saturday.

Lakers Earn Spot In Region Final, But Fall To Skipjacks

While the post-season for the Garrett College women's team continues (see other story), the 2007-08 campaign came to an end for the GC men's team on Sunday when the Lakers fell in the Region XX Division I championship game to top-seeded Chesapeake College, 96-74.

The Lakers, seeded third in the tournament, earned a spot in the title game by topping host and second-seeded Hagerstown CC in a semifinal Saturday evening, 75-71.

The Lakers and their coach, Dennis Gibson, concluded the season with an overall record of 18-11.

Laker Shawn Greenfield led the way to victory in Saturday's contest against Hagerstown as he finished with 24 points.

The win avenged a regular-season, 81-67 defeat by the Hawks.

Dale Taylor sparked the Laker offensive effort in the first half, as he netted all 14 of his points before intermission, a dozen of which came on four three-point goals.

The score was tied at 34-34 at the break, but the Lakers took the lead for good early in the second half and held on for the win.

Garrett held a seven-point advantage with a minute to play, but the Hawks quickly cut that margin to four points with a long-range bucket.

The Hawks were forced to foul down the stretch, and the Lakers gave them additional opportunity to pull off a successful rally, as they missed four straight free-throw attempts.

Hagerstown nearly cut the GC lead to one point, but missed on a three-pointer, and the Lakers were able to run out the clock.

Also reaching double figures for Garrett were J.T. Lewis with 12 points and Myron McGowan with 10, all 10 of which were scored in the second half. C.J. Glen contributed nine points.

"We went into the game believing that if we could keep the score in the 70s, we would have a good chance," Coach Gibson said.

Pacing the Hawks offensively with a game-high 27 points was Kelvin Bright. Q'Monte Matheny finished with 16.

In Sunday's championship game the Lakers found themselves in a hole within the first few minutes and were never able to recover.

Chesapeake, a team that had defeated Garrett in the regular season by a 78-69 margin, came out on fire Sunday, opening the game with a 13-0 run in less than four minutes.

The Lakers finally got on the board when Greenfield hit a jumper at about the 15-minute mark.

Things went from bad to worse for the Lakers, however, as the Skipjacks extended their lead to 22 points – 45-23 – when there were about three minutes left in the half. To that point, Chesapeake was draining 65% of its shots (21 of 20) and led in rebounds, 19-6.

They would finish the game with 67% shooting efficiency (41 of 61), and hit a sizzling 63% from three-point range (seven of 11).

The score was 49-30 at halftime, but the lead would reach 30 points, 74-44, nine minutes into the second half, as the Skipjacks recorded four three-pointers and a three-point play.

The Lakers finally went on a bit of a run themselves, scoring 30 points in the last 11 minutes, but it was far too little, too late.

It was the 13th time this season that the Skipjacks' high-powered offense scored 90 or more points.

Terrance Taylor led the Lakers in scoring with 14 points, while Greenfield netted 13 and dished out four assists. Glen Izevbigie recorded 12 points and five rebounds, and McGowan just missed double figures with nine points.

Tournament MVP Andrew Lee hit an outstanding 13 of 16 shots, ripping the nets for 29 points. He also pulled down seven rebounds and had four assists.

Shooting almost as well was Ty Newman, who finished 9-for-13 with 24 points, and also contributed six rebounds and five assists.

Other Skipjacks reaching double figures were Aubin Reeves with 14 points, Terrance Wright with 11, and Preston Faulk with 10.

"We didn't do anything right the first five minutes, and that really set the stage for the whole game for us," Coach Gibson said. "They are a great shooting team, and we knew that to have a chance we would have to keep them somewhere in the 70s point-wise, which has been our average this season. Our kids worked hard, but we didn't have the same level of enthusiasm that we had the night before against Hagerstown.

"We still had a good season, and runner-up in the region is better than we did last year," he said.

"I have seen some outstanding individual teams in the region, but overall, this is the strongest Maryland JUCO since we've been in it," he continued. "You really had to come to play every night, and tonight we were just not ready to play."

Marine Industry Certifies Local Boat Dealership

Deep Creek Marina is now one of the first dealerships in the country to receive certification from the Marine Industry, managing member Adrian Spiker announce this week. The business is located in McHenry.

Marine Industry Dealer Certification is a new industry standards program developed in a cooperative effort by boat manufacturers, dealers, and engine builders, as part of an industry-wide effort to develop programs focused on delivering "excellent" boating experience.

The program provides dealers with a set of criteria designed to create continuous improvements across all departments and, in turn, develop processes for meeting and exceeding customer expectations.

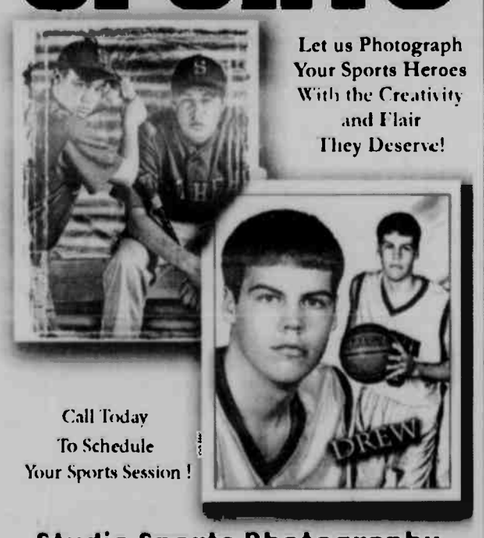
The criteria and business best practices address the quality of dealer sales, service, parts, follow-up, facilities, as well as employee and customer satisfaction.

Criteria compliance must be verified by an independent program consultant, and dealers are re-evaluated every year to ensure they continue to meet the certification requirements.

Certification also includes a commitment to adhere to a "Consumer Bill of Rights."

"This document, posted in our dealership, lets Deep Creek Marina customers know what to expect and outlines how they will be treated," Spiker said."

In order to obtain Marine Industry Certification, Deep Creek Marina employees had to demonstrate that they met the certification criteria and best practice standards in the following areas:



- Customer satisfaction measurement
- Posting of the "Consumer Bill of Rights"
- Employee satisfaction and development
- Technical training
- Maintaining a facility that is competitive for the marketplace
- Maintaining and improving consistent processes in all departments (sales, service, parts, and follow-up).

Garrett Dribblers Defeat Seahawks, Trojans For Spot In National Tourney

The women's basketball team of Garrett College earned a spot in the NJCAA National Championships in two weeks by downing top-seeded Allegany College of Maryland and third-seeded Cecil. The third time was the charm as the Lakers avenged regular season and Maryland JUCO Tournament losses to Allegany with a 67-53 Saturday. The following afternoon, Garrett dominated Cecil in a 71-66 Region XX Tournament Title contest.

ACM was forced to shoot from the outside in Saturday's game as fourth-seeded Garrett guarded the paint with authority. The Trojans, who shot better than 40 percent from the floor for the season, were held to under 30 percent on Saturday. The Lakers held the Trojans to 19 points in the first half.

A trio of Lakers scored in the double figures led by Tanika Jeffers with 20, Mindy Sharp with 14, and Tegra Hillman with 10.

Lindsay Holliday led Allegany with a team-high 19 points and six rebounds. Kacey Kahl came next with 12 points, six boards, and three steals, followed by Melissa Ford's 12 points.

The Lakers led 29-19 at intermission, but ACM rallied to within two points six minutes into the second half. The Trojans missed two close shots that would have tied the game, and were never able to recover.

Allegany (28-2), the top-ranked team in the nation in scoring defense, allowed only three teams to score above 60 points against it all season, and Garrett was the highest scoring opponent with 67.

Garrett will enter the national tourney 25-4, with its only losses coming to Frederick, ACM twice, and Cecil.

"I would like to take my hat off to Coach Jerry Rice (Allegany College of Maryland) and Coach Andrew Costen (Cecil)," Garrett head coach Thea Garland said. "They have two very good teams, and we were very fortunate to win both games. Both of them should be proud of their teams."

But it took more than fortune to get the win. Lakers Hillman's, Sharp's, and Jeffers' efforts were represented on the scoreboard, with Hillman reaching 20 points, Sharp getting 18, and Jeffers adding 17.

Sharp and Hillman were named to the All-Tournament team, and Hillman received MVP honors.

"This is a great accomplishment for us," added Garland. "We came together as a team the past few days, and beat top-seed Allegany and third-seed Cecil, two very good teams."

Garrett led by 10 points in the last five minutes of play, but Cecil threatened an overthrow by cutting the margin to six points with a pair of three-pointers and by taking advantage of some missed Laker free throws. Blair Bradley, who provided nine points, made a steal on an inbounds pass, and Garrett hit its final foul shots to force the win.

Leading the Seahawks was Ashley Loper with 18 points, followed by Jasmine Minter and Jessica Tatum with 10 points, respectively.

The National Tournament begin on March 19 at Illinois Central College in Peoria. The championship game will be played on March 22.

"We are very proud that Garrett College is representing our region, and will do our best to bring home another championship."

Lakers Secure Three Wins Over Southside On JUCO Diamonds

The Garrett College baseball team conquered Southside Community College in recent JUCO action. The Lakers routed Southside 22-1, before taking control of both games of a doubleheader, 13-8 and 15-2.

It became clear after about five scoreless innings for Southside Community College that it had little chance of overthrowing the Garrett Lakers in Friday's 22-1 routing.

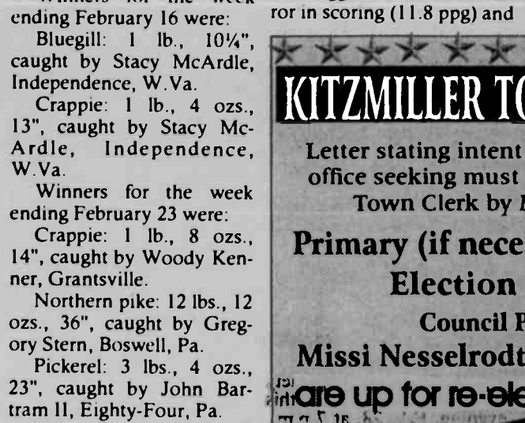
Alex Anderson led a 22-hit Garrett attack with two doubles and two singles. Julian Cabrera doubled twice, singled, and had three RBI, and Joe Wilt smacked two singles and had four RBI.

Greg Beachy started and got the win, striking out 10 over the first four innings of the eight-inning game. Garrett Rogers, who relieved Will Speights in the seventh, struck out the side in the seventh and eight innings.

The Lakers used the 22-1 triumph to warm up to two more victories over Southside in a 13-8 and 15-2 twinbill powered by Rogers and Brandon Sherman.

Rogers was the muscle behind the first win, slamming a two-run homer in a five-run second inning. He also added a double and a single to an 11-hit attack. Northern alumnus Corey Carr singled three times.

Sherman contributed to the win in the second game with a solo home run and a double to lead a 12-hit attack for Garrett. Chris Torrence stroked a triple, a single, and recorded two RBI.



Lakers John Opincarne and Keith Johnson joined forces to hold Southside to one hit in the five-inning game.

Garrett (4-3) will travel to Potomac State on Friday for a 2 p.m. game before heading to CCBC Dundalk for a twinbill.

Robbin Gregg, a senior on the McDaniel College women's basketball team, has been named to the 2008 All-Centennial Conference (CC) team, released last Thursday.

The 2004 honor graduate of Southern High School was tabbed an honorable mention, earning a spot on the team for the first time in her career.

Gregg led the Green Terror in scoring (11.8 ppg) and assists (103) this season. Her assist total made her the third player in program history to dish out 100 helpers in a season and the first since Toby McIntire set a record during her junior (2002-03) and senior (2003-04) seasons.

Gregg also recorded 38 steals, 62 rebounds, and six blocked shots this season. She shot 45.1 percent from the floor, including 32.1 percent from behind the arc, hitting a team-high 125 field goals and ranking second with 18 treys. She also hit 70.9 percent from the free-throw line.

For her career, Gregg finished with 230 assists to rank 11th on the all-time list.

Ram Cagers Upset Huskies; End Season After Loss To Campers

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team made a frantic fourth-quarter run to cut a 17-point deficit to four, but county rival Southern pushed the Huskies away with 14 foul shots in the final minutes to secure a 72-57 victory. The win advanced the Rams to the second round of the Maryland Class 1A West Region playoff tournament on Tuesday, where the Rams lost to Allegany, 86-66.

It was close quarters from the stands Saturday night with fans from both ends of the county cheering on their alma mater teams.

Fouls got the best of the Huskies, who were whistled 25 times. Southern finished 24-of-31 at the foul line.

Dan Shockey led the Rams with 20 points. Drew Proudfoot had 19, and Jordan Pacella added 14. Jeff Stem made 10 of his 13 free throws en route to 12 points.

Mathews has 11 points and four steals.

Allegany, which won both regular-season meetings, 55-44 and 58-39, got the lead in the first few seconds on a trey from Twigg. Southern's first field was delayed until Sweitzer scored in the lane in the final minute of the period, and the Rams trailed 18-6 after two Katie Getty foul shots with 4:27 left in the half.

Torie Bosley got the ball rolling for Southern (18-5) with a three-pointer midway through the second quarter, and the Rams, despite losing Boyce for most of the quarter to fouls, trailed by just five at halftime.

"We came back and were down by only 25-20 at halftime, but the big difference was rebounding," said Southern head coach Danny Bosley. "They got two and three shots at a time. That's something we couldn't give up, and they got them when they needed them."

DeGross had a big second half, starting with a steal on an inbounds pass that made its way to the Allegany bucket on a layup.

The Rams were never able to get the margin into single figures, but stayed within striking distance behind the steady play of Sweitzer, who, with some clever pivot moves inside, had a pair of three-point plays in the third quarter and 16 points in the second half.

Sweitzer efforts weren't enough to match DeGross, whose nine successful fourth-quarter foul shots lifted the Campers in the home stretch.

"We've had a very good season... 18-5 is nothing to be ashamed of," Bosley said. "Three of those five came to a very good Allegany team."

Husky Girls Whip Hancock, Fall Out Of Tourney In Alco Victory

The first round of the Maryland Class 1A West Region playoffs was a stroll in the park for the Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team as it bounded to a 67-27 whipping of Hancock, but the second round against Allegany was no cake walk. The Huskies were outscored 30-17 in the final quarter and 74-58 in the end to conclude their season.

Combining for 29 Husky points on Friday, Kasie Fratz finished with 16 points on 14 field goals and two of three foul shot attempts, while Kaitlynn Fratz recorded 13 on five baskets and three of five free throws. Kaitlynn led the winning team with six assists and six steals.

Adria Graham contributed nine points in the win, followed by Kara Savage with seven and Megan Wiley with six. Danielle Brenneman and Trish Wiley scored five points, respectively.

Megan Wiley was the leading rebounder with seven for Northern.

No Hancock players scored in the double digits. Chelsie Stigile led the home team with seven points.

Hancock faced some trouble in fouls, as it was whistled on 21 occasions. Northern was called on 12 fouls.

Northern held Hancock to just 10 points in the first half. Hancock gained some footing after halftime, and managed 15 points in the second half.

Northern was the only local team to beat Allegany this season – a 43-36 win on Jan. 21 – and the Campers didn't forget this fact going into the second round of the playoffs Monday night. Since Jan. 21, Allegany has rolled to 11 consecutive wins.

Northern was down at the end of each quarter, but managed to get within three points in the third. Allegany led 44-41 going into the final quarter, when Elizabeth Getty recorded all 10 of her points to lift the Campers to a 74-58 win.

The highest scorer for Allegany was Brianna Twig, with 18 points. DeTonia DeGross finished with 14 points, six assists, six rebounds, and five steals, and Katie Getty had a double-double with 10 points and 10 boards. Jenna Mathews tallied 11 points, and Elizabeth Getty grabbed eight rebounds.

Freshman Kaitlynn Fratz earned game-high scoring honors with 25 points for Northern, and Megan Wiley had 10. Kaitlynn hit all but one of Northern's treys, Brenneman getting the other.

Northern concludes its season at 16-6.

SMS Students Discover New Winter Sport

Sixth grade students at Southern Middle School took advantage of the recent snowfall and set out in snowshoes around the school grounds. The activity, organized by sixth grade teachers and staff from the Adventure Sports Center International, encouraged students to try a new approach to dealing with winter.

This snowshoeing session is one in a series of programs developed by the sixth grade teachers and the ASCI staff.

Before heading into the cold, students were given an introduction to styles of snowshoes and their historical and practical uses. Few students reported having any previous experience with snowshoes, but once strapped in, the students and their teachers grew used to them.

"One goal of the program is just to expose the kids to new experiences and have them push beyond their comfort levels," said teacher Mary Jane Fike.

Sue Fowler, ASCI community programs coordinator, explained that one element of the ASCI mission is to promote, educate, and facilitate participation in a wide range of adventure-based recreational activities.

"Our goal was to encourage the kids to find new ways to be active in these winter months," said Fike. "Here's an activity that is a great workout but doesn't require a lift ticket, a helmet, or membership in a sports team. It's just fun to go out and snowshoe.

"We want to thank the Adventuresports Institute at Garrett College for loaning us snowshoes so we could facilitate this program with the sixth graders," she added.

Students visited ASCI last fall to hike the trails at the Fork Run Recreation Area and participated in several team-building activities. They also toured the whitewater course, held pumpkin races, and were treated to a kayaking demonstration. Later this spring, the entire sixth grade will go rafting on the ASCI whitewater course.

Home Health Care

WATCH FOR WEIGHT LOSS IN AGING PARENTS

Most likely, changes in your aging parents' appearance are gradual. Watch carefully for whether your parents have experienced any weight loss. Although it could be just what the doctor ordered, it could also be an indication that something is wrong. Your first thought may be a serious medical illness, and this is wise to consider. Make sure your parents talk to their health care providers about the change. However, weight loss could also be due to the fact that while they may be otherwise healthy, cooking has become too challenging for your parents. Difficulty grasping pans, planning meals, or reading labels could be keeping them from cooking. With home healthcare services, the solution may be easier than you anticipated.

At TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., our clients' well-being is our prime concern. We offer a complete range of cost effective, high quality home care and personal care for the elderly and those adult recovering from illness or surgery. Long- or short-term care is available, whenever it's needed. All our carefully screened home care providers are licensed, bonded, and insured. Our nurses are available to employees for consultation around the clock.

P. S. Depression can be a cause of weight loss.

"From Paint To Pixel" On Exhibit At The Gallery

A special exhibition of drawings, paintings, calligraphy, etchings, children's illustrations, and digital art by Oakland resident Denise Hillman Moynahan is on display at the Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council in Oakland until April 17. The arts council will host a public reception for the artist on March 13 from 6 to 8 p.m.

Moynahan and her husband Mark live on Backbone Mountain, a ridge that she said inspired her to write and illustrate her recently published mythology, The Great Cavern of the Winds: Tales from Backbone Mountain.

Several original pen and ink illustrations from this book are included in the exhibition, which is titled "From Paint to Pixel: 30 Years of Art Evolution."

"I am displaying many children's illustrations and therefore would like to encourage children to visit the Galley," said Moynahan.

The arts council will host a children's reception with the artist on March 15 from 1 to 3 p.m.

Moynahan received a bachelor of fine arts degree in illustration from the Rhode Island School of Design. She first worked for Paramount Greeting Cards and later established her own studio in Bowie, where she illustrated books and educational materials, and created commissioned artwork.

She also designed and constructed artistic displays for special events in the Washington, D.C., area. During this time she wrote Green Screen Stories, a series of interactive children's stories for the first IBM PCs.

"Unfortunately I was a little ahead of my time," she said. "There was no color, no graphics, and certainly no animation back then; nor were there many children with access to a computer."

In 1984 Moynahan joined the Central Intelligence Agency as a visual information specialist.

"This opened up a whole new world for me," she said. "Within two years of my arrival we moved from our drawing boards to the computer. I gained skills I probably never would have gotten had I continued freelancing. It made a big difference in how I approach some of my artwork today"

She retired in 1999 as chief of the visual information staff in the office of the deputy director for science and technology

Over the past 15 years, Moynahan has written and illustrated a fantasy book for each of her 10 grandchildren. The books and sample illustrations showing how her work has evolved from pen and ink, paint, and airbrush to now include digital media are on display at the Gallery

Moynahan studied writing with the Institute of Children's Literature. She is a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators, the Maryland Writers' Association, the Garrett County Arts Council, and the Garrett branch of the American Association of University Women.

Exhibit hours at the Gallery are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Additional information is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.

Public Invited To Try Clogging, An Appalachian Heritage Dance

by Judy Simpson and Donna Aspinall

The Still Kickin' Cloggers, a local dance group, will hold a new class for beginners this evening, Thursday, March 6, from 6:30 to 7 p.m. in the Southern Middle School cafeteria. This first class is free and open to all ages, male and female. There is a nominal charge for each class thereafter, held each Thursday evening.

The cloggers were organized by Sara Donley in 2003 and are now led by Judy Simpson, one of the original class members.

Clogging is truly an American dance form that began in the Appalachian Mountains and has spread throughout America and the world.

As the Irish, Scottish, English, and Dutch Germans began to settle in the Appalachians in the early 1700s, they began socializing with one another and sharing folk dances from their native countries, combining their styles into an impromptu foot-tapping style.

The dancing was accompanied by rousing music and became the beginning of what is known currently

Garrett Hosts Trip To India; Travelers Encounter Rural And Urban Culture

GARRETT COLLEGE REPS TRAVEL TO INDIA – Eleven people with a Garrett College study group spent 24 days in India this past January, experiencing the culture and lifestyles in both urban and rural areas. See story. Pictured is the study group with some of their tour guides. Shown from left are Rajin and Venod (guides) and Elizabeth Kutchman, Mary Helen Spear, Gail Herman, Selma Sobleman, Sunny Banvard, Revalee Gitomer, and host P.K. Rajan. Below is a photo of one of the many markets the travelers visited. This marketplace was at the beach in Kerala, India.

Eleven people from Garrett College flew aboard Qatar airlines in January for a 24-day junket to India. Their aim was to study Indian arts and culture, as well as Hindu philosophy and religion from course instructors Drs. Gail and Steve Herman of Swanton.

Joining the Hermans were Elizabeth Kutchman, an Oakland resident and freshman at Garrett College; Nita and Carl Roberts of Oakland; Drs. Mary Helen and Robert Spear of Swanton; Sunny and Rick Banvard of Ashton; Dr. Rivalee Gitomer of Owings Mills; and Selma Sobleman of Pikesville.

Landing in Kochi, a city of 5 million in southwestern India, the group traveled to the 8th century birthplace of Sankara, regarded as the greatest proponent of the form of Hinduism most practiced in India today. Sankara's birthplace is now the Center for Sanskrit Study and an "ashram," which is a place for meditation, study, and worship.

The group spent four days there studying Sankara's version of Hinduism, and partaking of vegetarian Indian food. The group toured the grounds of the ashram, visiting the various temples, the library, and the lotus pool. Each morning Swami Advayanda lectured on some aspect of Hinduism. Afterward the study group members were free travel into Kochi, where they shopped, visited temples and palaces, observed Hindu ceremonies and rituals, visited an orphanage for boys (once the summer home of a maharaja), and watched the sun set while cruising at dusk on the Arabian sea.

After completing their stay at the ashram, the Americans traveled southward to the Chinmaya Institute of Technology outside the city of Kannur, where they headquartered for intensive study and for side trips into Kannur and other places of local interest.

The travelers attended 17 lectures from scholars, visited 29 sites and places of interest, and attended nine performances. They learned about Hindu gods and temples and the significance of symbolism in the great epics and scriptures of Hindu thought, about traditional forms of Indian dance and theater, and about the foreign occupations of India and its liberation under Mahatma Gandhi's leadership.

Highlights of the trip included early morning yoga demonstrations and lessons, a performance of Kerala's martial arts form, and a solo performance of Kathakali dance and a demonstration of the expressiveness of the human eye.

During a two-day visit to Mysore, the group visited museums and art galleries. They saw the Mysore Temple, and took an overnight train ride to the city of Trivandrum and Kovalam beach and resort area. They also went on an excursion into the mountains where coffee, tea, and spices are grown.

During the visit, the study group members engaged in interactions with Indian people, having dinner in Indian households, attending a birthday and an engagement party, and participating in six scheduled interactions with groups of Indian students from preschool through high school, college, and graduate school.

"The star of these interactions was always Elizabeth Kutchman," said Gail Herman. "Among all of us, she was closer in age to the Indian students. The students would flock around her, asking her about life in the United States, especially

Mayor of Oakland

Vote on March 10th!

Citizens of Oakland,

The time has come for a change. I have heard many of you voice your desire for change in local government, and change is what I offer as a candidate for Mayor of Oakland. I believe that the Mayor and Town Council should have the concerns of Oakland's citizens at the top of the list. The job of these elected officials is to echo and act on your concerns, not to implement a personal agenda.

I assure you all that your tax money will be put to the best use and not spent on secondary concerns. Oakland needs improved roads, continued improvement of infrastructure, formation of improved traffic patterns and improved parking. These items are crucial for the continued growth of the downtown area.

I have lived here over 30 years, and I want this town to be alive and well for my children to enjoy. If we continually allow the interests of elected officials to supersede the needs of the community, its future will be in jeopardy. As a candidate for Mayor, I want to hear your concerns. I extend an offer for you to contact me at 301-616-6407. I agree with your repeated concerns that we need change. This is the time to do it.

Paid for by the candidate.
Aaron White

Shafts of morning light sift through stained glass windows casting colorful shadows on the sanctuary. Outside, bells chime; inside the pipes of a mighty organ reverberate with their prelude to the hour of worship. Those entering are filled with the glory of God and a peace that passes all understanding.

The same glory and peace are present in every form of worship service, in every type of house of worship. When we enter into worship, God's comforting and encouraging omnipresence instills in us the strength and assurance we will need in the coming week, creating a buffer zone between us and the stress of daily life.

"Ascribe to the Lord the glory due his name...worship the Lord in the splendor of his holiness" (1 Chronicles 16:9). Worship in God's House this week.

St. Patrick's Example

It is believed that St. Patrick was born either in Scotland or Wales around the year 385. Both his father and his grandfather are believed to have been deacons in the church thus he had been raised as a Christian. When he was approximately sixteen years old he was captured by Irish raiders who sold him into slavery in Ireland. His faith helped him survive the many hardships of slavery in Ireland, where he was forced to tend sheep for six years until he escaped and returned to Great Britain, where he chose to enter the priesthood. The trials and tribulations of slavery only served to deepen his faith and inspired him to eventually return to Ireland and preach the Gospel. He is credited with converting the Irish to Christianity and is the patron Saint of Ireland. After all he had been through one can only wonder why he so tirelessly preached the Gospel to the people of Ireland. We would do well to emulate St. Patrick's example. That is, instead of being bitter about his enslavement among the Irish, he took it as an opportunity to grow in faith and love and returned in later years to give the greatest gift of Love.

Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse. Rejoice in those who rejoice, and weep with those who weep.

Vitamin D an Cancer Prevention

Vitamin D is one of the fat-soluble vitamins. It is found in milk, salmon, eggs, cheese, fortified cereals, beef, and tuna. It can also be made in the body. When a person is exposed to sunlight, vitamin D is produced in the skin. Once it is produced in the skin, it must be converted to its most active form in the body by the liver and kidneys. Once activated, it stimulates the absorption of calcium and phosphorus in the gut. This vitamin is essential for the maintenance of adequate calcium levels in the body. Calcium is a mineral which is necessary for maintaining strong bones.

Vitamin D may also have a role in cancer prevention. Some studies have shown that people with lung and colon cancer are often vitamin D deficient. However, it is still unclear if low vitamin D levels have a casual relationship with cancer. More studies are needed to fully evaluate the relationship between vitamin D and cancer. The recommended intake of vitamin D for adults ages 51 years and older is 400 units per day. Taking too much vitamin D can cause nausea, vomiting, constipation, weakness, loss of appetite, and weight loss.

THE Garden Patch
by Master Gardener Suzanne Carol

MAKE A TOPIARY

Back on the 2nd of February old Punxsutawney Phil came out and saw his shadow – six more weeks of winter! Since we supposedly still have about three more weeks of winter to get through, and if you are as bored as I am and as anxious to play in the dirt, I thought it would be fun to make an ivy topiary.

Ivy topiaries are the easiest to grow. They don't need much water and do well in bright sun or semi-shade. (Don't put them in direct sun.) They stay green all year-round and are easy to train.

You'll need the following: ivy plants with small leaves for small topiary forms or larger leaves for larger forms; a topiary form that you can make with 19-gauge plastic-coated electrical wire or a wire coat hanger, or you can buy one at your local gardening center or craft store; a decorative container of a size to fit your plant and topiary form; green sphagnum moss; and potting soil, pliers, and narrow-gauge spool wire.

Plant the ivy in your decorative pot. I use two plants and start them on each side of the topiary form so they will eventually meet in the middle. That's a personal choice. You can do just as well with one plant. If you choose to start two plants, be sure your container is large enough to accommodate them. Whichever you choose, remember, your container needs to be large enough so it won't become top-heavy and tip over easily.

Place the topiary frame in the pot over or directly behind the ivy, depending on the size and shape of the frame. Soak enough sphagnum moss to cover your frame (for about 15 minutes in water). Gently squeeze out the excess water and apply the moss to your frame using the thin spool wire to keep it in place. You can also use clear fishing line.

Carefully wind the leaves of the ivy around the topiary frame. Wind only in one direction. Strip the leaves from the bottom of the plant where it will come in contact with the bottom of the topiary frame. This is for aesthetic purposes. Remove dry and/or dead leaves, and as the plant grows continue to wind it around the frame.

Ivy topiaries do not need a lot of water. Overwatering will cause root rot and it will die. When you first complete your topiary, give it a good watering. Pick it up and remember how much it weighs when it's full of water. Don't water it again until it starts to feel lighter in weight. Water it by submerging the whole plant in water (leaves and all) for one to two minutes – no longer.

By the time the weather warms up enough to be outside, you should have the beginnings of a lovely topiary.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

MIRACLE HEATER?

Q. I've seen ads lately for a new type of "miracle heater" that will cut heating bills. Can I really save money that way?

The ads that are running in national newspapers like USA Today are a brilliant example of fancy gimmicks and clever words, but there is nothing special at all about these heaters.

All these devices produce their heat by drawing electricity from a wall socket. Looking beyond all the gimmicks, the heat that winds up in the room comes out of the wall, and you pay the electric company for it. Period. One type of ad features a quartz heating element, suggesting that quartz is a hi-tech substance with miracle properties. The quartz is not magical; it just produces heat. Another has a simulated flame.

There is one worthy feature in all these devices: They contain a fan that blows heated air out into the room. Moreover, heat is transferred more efficiently if the heating device is placed out in the middle of the room. That is the principle of the Franklin Stove, invented by Ben Franklin centuries ago.

In any home, circulating the air constantly (via a ceiling fan, perhaps) helps distribute warm air evenly, increasing everyone's comfort level. People are less likely to turn up their thermostat if there are no chilly corners.

How do these devices magically save on heating costs? By getting you to turn down your thermostat. Read the small print in the ads. You lower your house temperature in general, and then bring this device into the only room you're using. Obviously, heating only one room is cheaper than heating the whole house.

Also, you can decrease your natural gas bill or your fuel oil bill by switching to electricity for heat. If you think that's a good deal, talk to somebody who lives in an all electric house with baseboard heaters.

One particularly sleazy ad appeared recently in USA Today, a paper that has never been very choosy in screening out false advertisers. This one exploits the notion of Amish craftsmanship, trading on a century-old community tradition for fair dealing to soothe the reader into trusting the ad's claims. Basically, the device is an electrical heater with a fan to circulate air. If you read the small print carefully, it turns out it's imported from China. The ad says they're giving away these heaters if you buy their "Amish Mantlepiece" for $298. Of course, if you don't need the mantlepiece, then you can buy just the heater for $249. Call now, 800# etc. etc. – to get the buyer to make a hurried decision.

The ad brags that it produces "an amazing 5,119 BTUs," but doesn't mention that 5,119 BTU equates to exactly 1.5 kWh (kilowatt-hours). (There is a unit's mistake in the ad; they probably mean BTU/hr., which translates into kW.) How much is 1.5 kW? Turn on 15 light bulbs of 100 watt size and you have the same effect. If you have a toaster oven, turn it up high, leave the door open, and set a fan nearby to blow the hot air out into the room. You'll achieve exactly the same effect, for much less than $249.

Calling this Chinese import an "Amish miracle heater" is not only a scam, it's insulting to an honorable religious/ethnic group.

Again, in the final analysis for any of these devices, every kWh of warmer room air came out of the wall socket. If you're willing to change your lifestyle and live in a colder house, with one heated room, then yes, you can save money.

"Last Supper" To Be Presented At Baptist Church

Deep Creek Baptist Church will present a re-enactment of the Lord's Supper on Thursday, March 20, at 6:30 p.m. A free-will offering will be collected at this one-showing event.

The backdrop for the re-enactment will be DaVinci's painting of "The Last Supper." His theme was the announcement of the betrayal of Christ and the immediate reactions of the disciples.

"Although there have been many compositions of the Last Supper, only Leonardo DaVinci has expressed the emotion and character of the occasion so dramatically," said a church spokesperson. "DaVinci's painting, evoking intense emotion, has captured for centuries the essence of the Last Supper."

Deep Creek Baptist Church is located at 19841 Garrett Highway. For more information, persons may call 301-387-5688.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT – A video surveillance system was recently installed at the Christian Crossing Thrift Shop, Loch Lynn, in an attempt to hinder people from leaving donations outside the shop when it is closed. The photo above was taken on Feb. 21, and a spokesperson for the thrift shop noted there was a male passenger in the vehicle, which was being driven by a female. Donations left outside after store hours are often unusable because weather conditions leave them soaking wet.

Board Appointed To Allocate Food, Shelter Funding

A board will assist the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in determining how the Emergency Food and Shelter Grant, recently awarded to Garrett County, will be allocated.

The local board consists of representatives from the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, Mtn. Top Ministerial Association, Catholic Charities, the Department of Social Services, and the American Red Cross, as well as a former homeless person. It includes Commissioner Ernest Gregg, EFS chairperson; Tom Myers, Robert Stephens, Major Sue Dewan, Mike Dew, Cynthia Lynch, Commissioners Fred Holliday and Dennis Glotfelty, Sisters Joanne Sinke and Mary Ann Mazza, Reverend Don Parsons, Rick DeWitt, Pam Nelson, and Duane Yoder.

The selection was made by a national board which was chaired by FEMA, consisting of representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, a council of Jewish federation and Catholic Charities. The national board also includes a representative of the United Way of America, which will provide the administrative and function as the fiscal agent.

The national board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high need around the country. Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must be non-profit, have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, practice nondiscrimination, have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and or shelter programs, and if a private voluntary organization, must have a voluntary board.

Persons interested in obtaining more information about eligibility and/or how to apply for funding are invited to contact Linda Green, director of Community and Emergency Services for Garrett County Community Action at 301-334-9431 no later than March 14.

STEAM MEMBERS TESTIFY IN ANNAPOLIS – Tabitha Ringer and Chelsie Custer, members of the local STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors) groups, testified last Monday in Annapolis before the House Economic Matters Committee in support of HB 148, a local bill. The proposed legislation would change tobacco sales to minors from a criminal to a civil penalty in Garrett County. If it passes, the law will go into effect on Oct. 1. Ringer is a senior at Southern High School, and Custer is a sophomore at Northern High School. Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty said both the committee chair and vice chair complimented the young women on their testimony. "They did an excellent job, and I was proud to be there with them," Glotfelty said. Pictured, left to right, are Ringer; Del. Wendell Beitzel, who introduced and testified in support of the bill; and Custer. For more information about the bill or STEAM, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

Library Presents Downloadable Online Movies

Patrons of the Ruth Enlow Library can now watch movies, television shows, and documentaries online from home by accessing the MyLibraryDV service from the library's web site. High-speed Internet access and a library card and PIN are required to use this service, which is made available through the Western Maryland Regional Library and is provided by Prince Frederick-based Recorded Books LLC.

MyLibraryDV is a new service that offers library patrons free movies, network and cable TV programming, and original digital content downloadable directly to personal computers. Users can select movies from five categories: classics, Hollywood favorites and world cinema, independent films, foreign films, and Sony Pictures entertainment. A kids' category offers entertainment options for kindergarteners to young adults.

The MyLibraryDV web page lists the system requirements for using this service, as well as instructions for how to get started and how to download the MyLibraryDV download manager, a one-time process that takes about two minutes. To access the MyLibraryDV page, persons may visit www.relib.net and click the link for MyLibraryDV.

Each user of the service is allowed 10 downloads in a seven-day period for all categories except Sony Pictures, foreign films, and Hollywood favorites and world cinema. These categories have a limit of one download in each category in a 24-hour period.

The MyLibraryDV web page includes a troubleshooting link for users experiencing problems with the service.

Brochures explaining MyLibraryDV and instructions for how to access and use the service are available at all locations of the Ruth Enlow Library. For more information, persons may call the information desk at the Oakland branch at 301-334-3996, ext. 100.

Colorectal Cancer Month Is Declared

by Diane Lee, Garrett Co. Health Dept.

Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in Maryland. The American Cancer Society projects approximately 154,000 new cases and 52,000 deaths in 2007 in the United States. And of those, 2,870 new cases and 970 deaths are projected to be in Maryland.

A big problem with colorectal cancer is that it does not usually produce symptoms in its early stages, so one can look healthy, feel fine, and not know there may be a problem. If signs and symptoms are present, they may include: bleeding from the rectum or blood in the stool, change in bowel habits, abdominal mass, cramps or pain, and iron deficiency anemia that is not caused by other conditions.

The major risk factor for colorectal cancer is age. More than 90% of colorectal cancer is found in people age 50 years and over. The American Cancer Society recommends screening for all people ages 50 years and over, and before 50 for people with a personal or family history of colorectal cancer or adenomatous polyps (small growths that can turn into cancer), and individuals with a history of inflammatory bowel disease (ulcerative colitis, Crohn colitis). Women with cancer of the ovary or endometrium (womb) before the age of 50 also need to start screening earlier.

There are several tests for colorectal cancer. One is colonoscopy which uses a flexible tube with a light to look inside the large bowel or colon to find cancer or to find and remove polyps, small growths that can turn into cancer. When the disease is caught early, it is 90 percent treatable.

"That's why colorectal cancer screening is so critical," said Dr. William Pope. "It is important to remember that screening for colorectal cancer could save your life."

The Garrett County Health Department is educating the public on the benefits of early testing and providing free colorectal cancer testing for eligible individuals in order to decrease cancer mortality and cancer disparities in Maryland. For more information about colorectal cancer and the availability of colorectal cancer screening for qualifying individuals, persons may telephone the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7770 or 301-895-3111.

WISP RESORT HOUSES LIONS CLUB AWARD – The C. Warren Bledsoe Significant Achievement Award, which was awarded to the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club in the spring of 2005 by the Maryland School for the Blind, recently found a new home in a trophy case in the main lodge of the Wisp Resort. The award is a transparent acrylic open book with the left page written in print, and the right page in Braille. The award, which has been presented three times in the school's history, was given to the Lions Club for its "unwavering dedication and long-term commitment to providing enjoyable recreational experiences and meaningful social opportunities for blind and multiply disabled students since 1972," according to a spokesperson for the school. The Blind Skiers Program is a combined effort of many volunteers, including students from Northern and Southern high schools, as well as several other local residents. Lions Club members help prepare and serve meals. Pictured above is Pam Schirmer from the Maryland School for the Blind along with five students handing over the award to Tim Prather, general manager of the Wisp. As part of Beachin' Weekend at Wisp, the Lions Club will present the 6th annual Cardboard Box Derby on March 15, with proceeds benefiting the Blind Skiers Program. For more details about the derby, persons may visit www.wispresort.com.

Dushku stays Tru to her television roots

Eliza Dushku

Q: Recently, there was a "Tru Calling" marathon on cable. I was wondering what ever happened to Eliza Dushku, who played the main character. –Ronald Riggers, Garden Grove, Calif.

A: She's been staying pretty active. Besides having a guest role last year on ABC's "Ugly Betty," the former Faith of "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" has made several movies including "The Last Supper," "Sex and Breakfast" and "The Alphabet Killer" Apparently, she's heading back to series work, too: Prior to the writers strike, the Fox network gave a multiple-episode commitment to "Dollhouse," a fantasy-drama series that will reunite Dushku with "Buffy" mentor Joss Whedon.

Q: Is Shannen Doherty retired from acting? –Kevin Smith, Chicago

A: No. Still seen as Brenda Walsh in "Beverly Hills, 90210" repeats on SoapNet, Doherty recently played a thief in the ABC Family movie "Christmas Caper" She has finished two more movies scheduled to appear later this year, "Defunct" and "Kiss Me Deadly" (the latter being no relation to the classic Mike Hammer detective story).

Q: In the movie "Sudden Impact" with Clint Eastwood, there is a scene in an elevator with a young woman standing behind him. Is she Camryn Manheim? – John Fader, Wallkill, N.Y.

A: She is. It was the first traceable screen credit for the former co-star of "The Practice" and current regular on "Ghost Whisperer," and anywhere you can find a reference for her in Eastwood's fourth "Dirty Harry" caper, she's billed as – get ready for it! – "Girl in Elevator"

Q: Are there any plans to put the 1980s movie "Purple Hearts" on DVD? It stars Cheryl Ladd and Ken Wahl, and it was a favorite of mine when it was shown on HBO. I can't find it on DVD, either. –Linda Myers, Alta, Iowa

A: The 1984 drama about a romance between American medical personnel during the Vietnam War hasn't been issued on disc, but Warner Home Video did release a VHS edition in 1994. If you do some hunting on the Internet, you should be able to locate copies.

Q: Is Jorge Garcia, who plays Hurley on "Lost," the same actor who portrayed Hector on "Becker"? –Honey Abramson, Columbus, Ohio

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Legislators in Vermont once found it necessary to outlaw whistling while underwater.

• Historians say that Mary, Queen of Scots was informed of the murder of her husband, Lord Damley, in 1567 while she was playing golf. She must have been quite a dedicated sportswoman (or an indifferent wife) because they also say that she completed the round.

• It was poet, philosopher and satirist Horace, who lived in the first century BC, who made the following sage observation: "He who postpones the hour of living is like the rustic who waits for the river to run out before he crosses."

• As summer approaches, you might want to remember that there are 3,500 known species of mosquitoes. Then again, you might want to forget that fact.

• Did you know that there is an honest-to-goodness royal palace in the United States? The Iolani Palace in Honolulu was built in 1882 for Hawaiian King David Kalakaua, the islands' second-to-last ruler. It was full of modern amenities — it had electric lighting even before the White House.

• In the language known as Ewe, spoken by some natives of West Africa, the concepts of "yesterday" and "tomorrow" are expressed by the same word. If you were to translate that word literally into English, you'd come up with "not now."

• Next time you've got something stuck in your teeth and are trying to remove it, you might want to go with dental floss instead of toothpicks. Medical reports confirm that in the United States, there are roughly 8,000 injuries every year that involve toothpicks.

• On March 10, 1876, the first discernible speech is transmitted over a telephone system when inventor Alexander Graham Bell summons his assistant in another room by saying, "Mr. Watson, come here; I want you."

• On March 11, 1888, in one of the worst blizzards in U.S. history, New York City grinds to a near halt, with elevated trains blocked by snow drifts and unable to move. Up to 15,000 people were stranded on the elevated trains.

• On March 14, 1914, stock-car racer Lee Arnold Petty (father of Richard Petty) is born near Randleman, N.C. In 1959, he won the Daytona 500. Lee Petty never lost a race on account of being too kind to his competitors, even if those competitors were family.

• On March 13, 1942, during World War II, the Quartermaster Corps of the U.S. Army begins training dogs for the newly established War Dog Program, or "K-9 Corps." The most famous dog to emerge from the World War I was Rin Tin Tin, an abandoned puppy of German war dogs found in France in 1918 and taken to the United States, where he made his film debut in the 1922 silent film "The Man from Hell's River."

• On March 12, 1969, the London drug squad appears at the house of Beatle George Harrison and wife Pattie Boyd with a warrant and drug-sniffing canines. Sergeant Norman Pilcher, the man behind the raid, was convicted of planting drugs in other cases and went to jail in 1972.

• On March 16, 1978, one of the world's worst supertanker disasters takes place when the Amoco Cadiz wrecks off the coast of Portsall, France. Although it later became a more commonplace feature of television news, this was the first time that images of oil-coated sea birds were seen by the world.

Some Houseplants Are Deadly to Cats

Q. Last Easter, my cat "Hera" got really ill — vomiting, trembling and extremely lethargic. I rushed her to the emergency veterinary hospital (thank goodness for Angell Memorial) where the vet immediately asked if I had any lily plants in my house. I said yes, because my living room and kitchen were filled with them for the holiday.

The hospital treated Hera and, after a few days with them, she came home with me to recover. The vet says she was extremely lucky, as lily plants are so poisonous to cats that even a 12-hour delay in taking a cat that has ingested the plant to the vet can be fatal.

Please warn your readers who own cats to avoid keeping any type of lily plant in the house. Sign me — Grateful in Boston

A. I'm grateful to you for reminding readers about this danger to cats! As we swing into the spring season, we're inclined to fill the house with new plants. This is fine, but check to make sure those plants aren't a danger to your pets.

The Cat Fancier's Association has a list of plants dangerous to cats on its Web site. Find it at this address: www.cfainc.org/articles/plants.html.

Cats love to chew on green growing things, and lily leaves are very tempting — as are the leaves of many other houseplants. Lift all houseplants out of your cat's reach, and don't keep plants of the lily family in the home at all. To distract a determined cat, place a tray of fresh catnip within his or her reach as well as a few favorite toys.

Q. I have a first edition of "The Spy Who Loved Me" by Ian Fleming. It has its original dust jacket and is in excellent condition. I have been offered $50 for it by a James Bond collector. — Susan, Little Rock, AR

A. Your first edition is valued in the $125–$250 range.

Q. I have a number of old postcards that are mostly birthday and holiday greetings from the early years of the last century. Where can I sell them? — Leslie, Las Lunas, N.M.

A. Your nearest large post card club is the Tucson Post Card Exchange, the region's premiere group for enthusiasts. Joan Gentry is president and can advise you. Her telephone number is 520-297-0980.

Q. While working at the General Electric plant in Erie, Pa., I met and got the autograph of company spokesman Ronald Reagan. Can you tell me what his signature is worth? — Mae, Silver Creek, N.Y.

A. Presidential signatures are always of interest to collectors. Typical values are $4,370 for a document signed by Thomas Jefferson in 1802, $490 for a thank- you note from Grover Cleveland and $950 for a signed photo of Dwight D. Eisenhower. To find out the value of your Reagan signature you need to contact a reputable autograph dealer. Two I highly recommend are Brian Kathenes, National Appraisal Consultants, LLC, P.O. The Garrett College board of trustees meeting, originally scheduled for Tuesday, March 18, has been postponed until Tuesday, March 25.

The meeting will be held on the college campus in the Mettiki Board Room of the Continuing Education Building at 5:30 p.m.

American Cancer Society Daffodil Days Starts Mon.

The American Cancer Society's (ACS) annual Daffodil Days begins this Monday, March 10. Orders can be picked up at St. Peter's Catholic Church basement, Oakland, on Tuesday, March 11, and Wednesday, March 12, between 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The ACS chose the first flower of spring, the daffodil, for this fundraising campaign to symbolize the hope that a cure for cancer will someday be found and to offer a visual display of support for cancer survivors and their families.

"Our community is making a difference in the fight against cancer, one daffodil at a time," said Sue Evans, Garrett County Daffodil Days chairperson. "Thanks to the overwhelming support we have received for Daffodil Days, the American Cancer Society is helping people facing cancer, saving lives, and empowering all of us to fight back against the disease. We are sharing hope and making meaningful strides against the disease."

Daffodils are still available by calling the American Cancer Society at 301-722-2145 and placing an order. Persons may also stop by St. Peter's next Tuesday or Wednesday and pick up a bunch of fresh-cut flowers or a pot of mini daffodils for a $10 donation.

Dollars raised through the Daffodil Days campaign will help the ACS fund cancer research, provide up-to-date cancer information and education, advocate for public health policies that benefit the community, and provide services that improve the quality of life for patients and their families.

TRAVELERS ARE STEEPED IN INDIAN CULTURE – The study group from Garrett College that journeyed to India spent much of their time in urban areas, but also were afforded glimpses of rural life. In the photo above are India residents doing the universal chore of laundry, and at right, a woman carries the groceries home in a fashion not often seen in the United States. She was actually taking the fish to one of the many restaurants along the beach of Trivandrum in Kerala, India.

dating. In India some marriages are still prearranged, although older customs are changing in many families."

Other events included G. Herman's lecture to school faculty members about gifted and talented education, and her six storytelling performances to school children at the orphanage, primary/elementary schools, and a college.

Steve Herman lectured to college faculty on Hindu thought in Western philosophy; and his colleague Bob Spear gave addresses on computers in business education to assemblies of students at two colleges and at the All-India IT conference held at Santhagiri College.

"The travelers learned that Hinduism is a very tolerant faith which respects all pathways to the divine," said Gail Herman. "In India, Hindus, Muslims, Sikhs, Jews, and Christians live, worship, and work within a vast melting pot of 1.1 billion people. We experienced the happy disposition and hospitality of the Indian people. They opened their homes and were extraordinarily generous with their time and resources in order to make their American guests feel at home. They succeeded."

This visit was the third which Garrett College has sponsored in the last two years. A year ago, seven students traveled to India, and several months ago a team of Garrett Adventure Sports faculty, including professors Mike Logsdon, Terry Peterson, and Andy Hershey, also visited.

"Garrett College is opening opportunities for its students to learn about the wider world in preparation for the lives they will lead in the decades ahead," Herman said. "Perhaps these early experiences are the beginning of expanding relationships."

GCMH Foundation Raises $650K For 16-Slice CT Scan

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation has successfully concluded its efforts to raise funds for a new 16-slice CT (computed tomography) scan unit for the hospital with a check in the amount of $650,000, foundation director Kathy Greaser announced this week. The check was presented to GCMH president/CEO Don Battista during last week's foundation board meeting.

A CT (or CAT) scan uses special X-ray equipment to obtain image data from different angles around the body and then uses computer processing of the information to show a cross section of body tissues and organs.

"The 16-slice unit was a dramatic upgrade replacing a two-slice unit at the hospital," Greaser said.

She added that the importance of this technology was endorsed in the early stages of the fundraising project by Dr. Richard Perry, chief of emergency medicine, when he stated, "CAT scan technology has revolutionized the practice of medicine."

HOSPITAL FOUNDATION RAISES FUNDS FOR CT SCAN – The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation presented a check for $650,000 last week to the hospital for the purchase of a new 16-slice CT (computed tomography) unit. See story. Holding the ceremonial check, left to right, are Wayne Johnson, chairman of the Garrett County Board of Governors and foundation volunteer, and Donald Battista, GCMH president/CEO. Also pictured are foundation board members Gary Daum, treasurer Pam Trydahl, chairman Bill Grant, Jeanine Sisler, Regina Gearhart, and Linda Fike. Not available for the photo were Brain Boal, Eugene D. Helbig Jr., Ann Leighton, Dana McCauley, Elaine McDonald, Jason Rush, Robert P. Sharps, Betsy Spiker, Dorothy Tuel, Sandi Winters, and director Kathy Greaser.

Perry also noted that the CT scan was one of the most important diagnostic tools at his disposal as an emergency care provider.

"The community generously rallied behind this huge undertaking on behalf of the Hospital Foundation," Greaser said. "Community support has truly helped GCMH stay abreast of the changes in medical technology. Our community can be very proud of this accomplishment and the healthcare services available locally."

Additional information about the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation and its fundraising efforts can be obtained by contacting the foundation office at 301-533-4178.

Garrett County Job Fair Slated For March 27

Job seekers will be able to speak with more than 30 different employers at the upcoming Garrett County Job Fair. Scheduled for Thursday, March 27, from 3 until 7 p.m. in the Garrett College gymnasium, employers will be able to speak about full-time, part-time, and simmer positions, as well as positions for those looking for a career change and those seeking a first-time job. Registration will begin at 2:30 p.m.

"The Job Fair is open to the entire Garrett County community," said Judy Carbine, coordinator of the career services at Garrett College and chair of the Job Fair planning committee. "Last year, more than 300 job seekers spoke with representatives from more than 50 hiring organizations, and the committee is working to see that this year's Job Fair is just as successful."

Companies that are currently registered to attend include ACS-Frostburg, AmeriCorps of the Garrett County Health Department, Atlantic Broadband, Beitzel Corporation, Bill's Marine Service, Brenda's Pizzeria, Browning's Foodland, ClosetMaid, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Financial Computer Support Inc., First United Bank & Trust, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Government Contracts Consultants, Greenscapes, Heilig's Plumming, Heating, and Electrical, Integrated Software Solutions, Laurel Highlands River Tours, Maryland State Parks, Nemacolin Woodlands Resort, Pillar Innovations, RadioFX (WKHJ-FM, WWHC-FM, and WMSG-AM), Schoolhouse Earth, Trader's Coffee House, WTBO/GoI06/WFRB, White Water Adventures, and Will O' the Wisp.

Jobs that need to be filled at these companies include managers, baristas, teller's office and data entry clerks, customer service representatives, human service specialists, outdoor and adventure enthusiasts, naturalists and landscapers, restaurant workers, hospital and other care workers, building and electrical contractors, computer technicians, welders, amusement attendants, sakes representatives, real estate agents, and tourism specialists. A full list of participating employers can be found on the Job Fair web site www.garrettcollege.edu/events/jobfair

According to Carbone, job seekers will increase their chances of success at the Job Fair by being well-prepared. She encourages job seekers to write a professional resume that presents the aspirant as a qualified applicant for the target position.

"Employers appreciate and often expect being handed a resume that demonstrates your qualifications, including past experiences, education, skills, and accomplishments, "said Carbone. A handout on writing effective resumes may be found on the Job Fair web site.

Carbone also suggests that job seekers plan in advance to make a good, professional impression. A way for one to do this is to dress professionally in something similar to what one would wear to an interview.

"At the very least, dress in clean, business-casual attire," she said.

A brochure titled "Making the Most of the Garrett County Job Fair" is also available on the Job Fair web site, and offers additional preparation tips.

Although space is limited, business owners can still register for the fair. Participating employers will be offered display space, which includes a table, chairs, and a sign with the company name. Access to electrical outlets will be available on a first-come, first-served basis. The fair is open to any employer that is expecting to hire people within the next few months, whether full-time, part-time, summer, entry-level, or experienced.

Space will be available until March 24, or until all spaces have been reserved.

"We are up to just over 30 employers right now," Carbone said "and we are prepared to host a well-organized and well-attended event and hope that other businesses will consider joining us. Space is limited and is expected to be reserved quickly."

The Job Fair is being sponsored by Garrett College Career Services and Continuing Education in conjunction with the Garrett County One-Stop Career Center, Western Maryland Consortium, 104.5 'KHJ/92.3 The Train/1050-AM WMSG, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

For registration forms, persons may contact Judy Carbone at 301-387-3046 or via judy.carbone@garrettcollege.edu.

Radio Stations Announce Egg Hunt At Park

Local radio stations 104.5 WKHJ and 92.3 The Train have announced the 9th annual RadioFX Easter Egg Hunt, scheduled for Saturday, March 15, at 11 a.m. at Broadford Lake Park. The event is free for area children ages 2 through 10.

"Both radio stations are looking forward to another successful egg hunt after the eighth year attracted over 350 egg hunters and 450 adults watching," said 'KHJ's Lisa Skipper.

"Our local businesses and organizations have contributed so much in the past as our numbers for the egg hunt continue to grow," said 'KHJ's Pam Trickett. "This year we plan to stuff over 3,200 plastic eggs. There will be six $50 savings bonds, two per age category, donated by various local banks and businesses. It's so fun watching the youngest kids race into the area to pick up their eggs."

"The egg hunt is by far my favorite radio station event," said Skipper. "It also gives many school-age children the chance to earn service learning hours. They help to stuff the eggs and then hide them. What can be more fun than doing that for collecting service learning hours?"

The event offers three separate egg hunts broken up by age groups – 2 through 4, 5 through 7, and 8 through 10.

The Easter Bunny will make an appearance while face paining and coloring activities are offered.

The stations noted their appreciation to Mayor Asa McCain and the Oakland Town Council for allowing the use of the park for the event, as well as the use of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department for the use of the fire hall.

"Thanks to Karen Ray and thanks in advance to all the local businesses and service organizations that help make this huge community event free and fun for our children," noted Trickett.

Persons interested in donating prizes may contact RadioFX at 301-334-4272. Persons interested in collecting service learning hours may contact Karen Ray at the Board of Education.

A rain/snow date of Saturday, March 22, is planned.

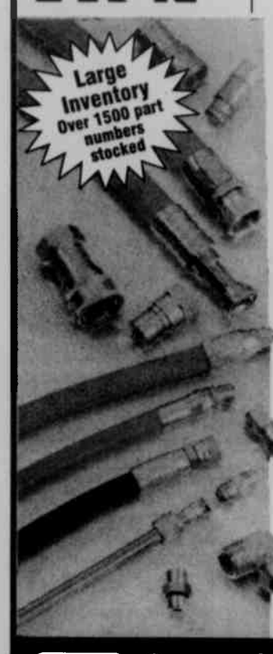
FSA REMINDS PRODUCERS OF DEADLINE FOR NONINSURED CROP DISASTER ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

Eric M. McCartney, executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, reminds producers of the March 17 application closing date for the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP).

"Crop insurance is an important risk management tool for farmers, but it's not available for all crops. That's why NAP is so important," said McCartney.

NAP is a federally funded program that provides coverage to producers for non-insurable crops when low yields, loss of inventory, or prevented planting occurs because of natural disasters. Crops eligible for NAP coverage are those for which crop insurance is not available, including fruits and vegetables, aquaculture, and forage crops, to name a few.



"Producers must apply for coverage before a disaster strikes," said McCartney. "Like regular crop insurance, once an application period closes, the opportunity to obtain coverage is gone."

NAP coverage requires a service fee of $100 per crop, per producer, with a $300 cap per county. Out-of-pocket expenses will not exceed $900 for any producer, even if production occurs in more than three counties. Service fees may be waived for eligible limited resource producers.

The 2005-2007 disaster legislation that was signed into law May 25, 2007, stipulated that only crops that were covered either by NAP (for non-insurable crops) or Federal Crop Insurance (corn, oats, wheat, or nursery crops in Preston County) are eligible for Crop Disaster Program (CDP) benefits.

NAP applications for coverage must be filed and service fees paid by the applicable closing date. Application closing dates vary by crop. The application closing date for 2008 annual crops is Monday, March 17. Preston County producers may telephone the Farm Service Agency located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza for specific crop application sales closing dates at 304-329-1923.

MAPLE MOUNTAIN
by Sandy Nice, reporter

The January meeting for the Maple Mountain 4-H Club was called to order by Nichole Harvey, president. Two guest speakers included Sadie Liller from the Garrett County Health Department and Ann Sherrard, Garrett County extension agent.

Sadie Liller's presentation was about smokeless tobacco. She described the difference between snuff and chewing tobacco, and also discussed the dangerous chemicals that are in smokeless tobacco and the harm they may cause.

Ann Sherrard reported on the Party Line, and talked about the different projects, activities, and forms for the record book. She also gave information about the upcoming stockman's contest.

Larry Tichnell, leader, gave a talk to club members before conducting the opening prayer for the installation of the officers.

The installation of officers was conducted by Ann Sherrard, extension agent, and Kate Tichnell, organizational leader.

The following were installed: Sandy Nice Jr., reporter; Joel Rush, treasurer; Jeremy Tichinel, secretary; Eric Tichnell, vice president; and Nichole Harvey, president.

Following the installation, the business meeting was conducted.

The bowling date was set for Feb. 16, with a backup date of Feb. 23.

The coming county and state activities were announced.

Clovers reported on the 'heart people" they made and the Valentine cards.

The next meeting was planned for Feb. 21 at Ryan's Glade Community Building.

COUNTRY EXPLORERS
by Alan Morgan, reporter

The Country Explorers 4-H Club met on Feb. 8 at Swan Meadow School. MCE volunteer training was held for parents, and younger members and Clovers watched a movie while older youth set up material for the next stockman's judging practice.

Katelyn Gnegy, Noel Custer, Mathew Kifer, and Alison Roth gave the opening reading. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Andrew and Greta Ball. The 4-H pledge was led by Catlin Carrico. The roll call was taken by naming a favorite winter sport. Kaya Rinker read the secretary's report, and it was approved. The treasurer, Nathan Tichnell, presented the treasurer's report to club members.

Reports were given by Katelyn Gnegy, Nathan Tichnell, Levi Lantz, and Willie Lantz. Katelyn gave a report about her interview for her 4-H resume. Nathan and Levi both reported about their progress with the stockman's practice. Willie Lantz gave a report regarding the Livestock Association meeting and record book reviews that were held on Feb. 7. Willie also said that the Livestock Association would pay registration fees for any youth who will be participating in the stockman's judging contest in Hagerstown.

There was no old business. Under new business, club members decided to continue selling drinks at the Oakland Farmer's Market on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Arlene will be adding new MCE volunteers.

Members voted to keep the 4-H Club insurance at $1 per member. The club will pay for all members.

Members were asked to sign up to go to the Oakland Armory for air rifle and archery target shooting on Feb. 10.

Members voted to get a 4-H handbag and supplies for the door prize at the County Achievement Program. The club is responsible for clean-up at this event.

Members voted to sell Joe Corbi pizzas for a fundraiser in March.

Announcements included the snow tubing day at the Wisp on Feb. 11, Ski Day at the Wisp on Feb. 12, officer training at Southern Middle School on Feb. 25, MCE volunteer training at Garrett College on Feb. 27, and the deadline for broiler chick orders at the extension office.

On Friday, March 7, members will go cross-country skiing at the Dubanksys' farm.

On Monday, March 10, Diamond Clovers will meet with Arlene Lantz and Ann Sherrard at Garrett College at 6 p.m.

From March 10 to 15, Clarissa and Eric will teach a hunter safety course at Herrington Manor. The cost is $5. Anyone interested in attending should call the park by March 7 to register.

The public speaking contest is planned for Friday, March 14. All members should be prepared to give a radio spot, prepare a speech, or prepare an extemporaneous speech at the March club meeting.

On Saturday, March 29, 4-H Volunteer In-Service will be held at the Howard County Fairgrounds from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Clover reports were given and the meeting was adjourned. It was followed by FIRST LEGO demonstrations, refreshments, and recreation.

The next meeting is planned for Friday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. at Swan Meadow School. Nathan Tichnell, Leon Dubansky, Alan Morgan, and Lane Savage will present the opening reading. The program will be the stockman's bowl game. The Clover leaders will be the Ball family. The Carrico, Cogley, and Custer families will be in charge of refreshments and clean-up.

I Dream

I dream...
And in my dreams I see
Visions of what used to be.
Visions of a long lost love
Floating on fleecy clouds above.
Hear a remote voice I must attend
Whispering, whispering softly in the wind.
Suddenly the vision drifts away,
Whispering voice fades, as day
Slips to darkness again.
More memories rush in,
And I dream...

Scholarship For Business Classes Offered By GGBA

The Greater Grantsville Business Association (GGBA) is offering a new scholarship to any person beyond high school who would like to pursue a business career. The program was created to encourage new business growth, according to GGBA president Peggy Santamaria.

"High School students have many scholarships available. Those who would like to return to school to develop new skills may not have as many options," Santamaria said. This monetary award is available to those wishing to pursue education in a business-related field.

This scholarship of $500 provides financial support to students aspiring to own or operate a small business or majoring in business-related courses in college. Reward will be made based on a student's express intent or desire to operate a business.

Applicants must live in the area encompassed by the Northern High School district, and must be a high school graduate desiring to return to school or a Garrett College graduate matriculating to a four-year institution. Applicants must be accepted at an accredited two- or four-year college, vocational, business or technical school. The application deadline is May 1.

"We are keeping the application process simple and direct. We ask for a list of personal interests, group activities, and community services as well as letters of recommendation and a brief explanation of the applicant's business goals," Santamaria said.

The scholarship criteria and application are available on the GGBA web site http://www.grantsvillemd.com and in the financial aid office at Garrett College. For further information, persons may e-mail info@grantsvillemd.com.

HONESTY DEMONSTRATED BY ACCIDENT STUDENTS – Accident Elementary School's monthly character celebration was recently held to recognize those students who displayed the month's character trait, which for February was honesty. One child per grade level is selected to receive a gift certificate, and a grand prize winner is then drawn out of the entire student body. A teacher is also chosen for participating, by giving Students Taking Active Responsibility (STAR) slips to students to recognize their good character. In the front row, are Stephanie Bryner, Brandon Pickrel, Ryan Cooke, and Sarah Smith. Second row: Zachary Voelkel, Alexandra Miller, Haley Ross, The Cat in the Hat, Megan Smith, and Emily James. Back row: grand prize winner Ryan VanNosdeln, Emily Fratz, Karen DeVore, Amy Grimm, and Justin Ball. Not pictured: Paige Carr and James Lynch.

GIRL SCOUTS SENDING COOKIES OVERSEAS – Junior Girl Scout Troop #55023 at Accident Elementary School once again sold cookies to send to soldiers serving overseas. "They had a banner year, selling more cookies than ever before," said a Girl Scout spokesperson. "They plan to divide them up and ship them to numerous local soldiers." Dale Carpenter (Coldwell Banker) and Devlin Inc. agreed to pay the shipping costs. In the first row, left to right, are Alex Miller and Reba Hensley. Second row: Sonja Hoyland, Bailey Brewer, Leah Hoyland, Katie Carpenter, Lauren Fuller, Bethany Hershberger, Shakiera Bowman, Samantha Hensley, and Cayla Lewis. Third row: Christine Carpenter (cadet assistant), Kylie Frantz, and Carpenter. Not available for the photo: Matia McCrobie, Brittany Bowser, Rachel Bowser, and Natalie Chappell.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Some chubby junco birds are decorating the winter landscape outside my window. They are so fat and cute. I saw a mourning dove on my outdoor ledge by my picture window and at the bird feeder. I don't believe I have ever seen one this close. My mother has oodles of them at her feeder.

I just talked to Cindy Kolbe and wondered why there was school today, as the snow is coming down here thick and fast. I would not like to be a bus driver in this weather, especially after seeing a school bus in Riverside upset in perfectly clear weather. No one wants to go to school in June, but this situation is part of life in Garrett County. On the closing of schools, I guess you can't please everyone. However, I remember when we were in school we had to wade out to the bus in very deep snow.

Lots of people told me to go "cold turkey" when you are trying to quit smoking, but it did not work for me, as I get so anxious. I am trying to cut back gradually. Actually, if I could cut back as much as my ex mother-in-law did with just one cigarette per day, I would be satisfied with that. Also, it would be much easier for me if I cut down first.

March came in like a lion, at least at my house, where it was very cold and windy. My storm door has frozen to my deck. We also had some fresh snow. The wind and cold qualified as a lion, and certainly not like a lamb.

I suffered for several weeks from artist's block, but yesterday I had a breakthrough. I painted some nice watercolors of big rocks and downed trees and rhododendron covered with snow.

The weekend at home for my Claire and Caitlin did not live up to the best expectations. Claire and I looked forward to watching together one of our favorite movies, Singing In The Rain. But the storm interrupted our satellite service. That was a disappointment, but something else was worse.

As they were on the road coming home from Morgantown during the worst storm conditions Friday afternoon, their nice shiny van skidded and hit both guards. Luckily our girls didn't get hurt too badly. Claire had some injury to her shoulder and arm, and Caitlin had a slight bump on her head. I thought Caitlin and Claire were all right after the accident, but it might be more than just a bruised shoulder for Claire.

It is a shame that the weather on Saturday couldn't have been here yesterday, with sunshine and no snow. Claire was to work over the weekend, but her shoulder turned out to be too bad for her to do her shift at Pine Lodge Steakhouse. Caitlin and Meredith both worked Saturday night, and hopefully Caitlin can collect lots of tips to at least to pay some toward the car's repairs, which will be pretty costly. I guess I know where the economic stimulus check in June will go.

I guess my girls got off pretty lucky, as about the same time as their accident a 2007 graduate of Northern and classmate of the twins and Scotty died in a crash on Rt. 219 near Point View Inn.

The weather can play havoc in Garrett County. A friend of my mother's had a serious accident the week before on Rt. 219, and she has some pretty bad head injuries.

Even if the car costs $2,000 to repair, at least my girls weren't seriously injured. They must have had a guardian angel watching over them.

A few days ago when I was driving to Grantsville, it was that kind of winter weather. Some parts of the roads were clear and dry, and there was ice on other parts, with deep snow slush. The sky alternated between clear and then light snow that caused whiteouts in places. One always has to be alert to what could happen next and drive slow enough to be ready for anything that might wait around the next turn. It does help if you are driving on a familiar road and know what and where the next drifts and whiteouts may occur.

I guess I spoke too soon about not having to have my lane plowed out. With the weather on March 1, it became closed and Jack Beitzel is on the way to plow it open. I hope that is the first and last.

Pastor Randy Richardson reported that every Wednesday evening so far in Lent has been snowy and cold, so our services have been poorly attended. However, some of our brave souls braved the weather to attend.

My mother is improving with her broken leg. She started with a wheelchair and a walker and is sometimes using a cane, but now she can walk without the cane. But she still is not the "Energizer Bunny," constantly on the go. She has pretty much stayed in her home since voting day.

Ice is still a big issue for me on my deck. Last night I was worried all night about the thick layer on my deck; however, I saw that it was melted when I opened my door to let Boo in.

It is hard to believe a 26-year-old young man received a million dollars on his birthday, but that is what our Steeler quarterback, Big Ben, hauled in on his birthday, with an eight-year contract to stay in Pittsburgh. He is a very good player for the Steelers.

Lots of televisions tuned in to the "Backyard Basketball Brawl" between West Virginia and Pittsburgh on Monday night. The Southerly household, the Bass family, Ruth DiPaolo, and I tuned in. Bittinger's WVU fans had something to cheer about. I doubt I will play the bracket sheet this year because I am kind of sick of college basketball games. I still watch Maryland and WVU. Mother Ruth can watch basketball games all day long.

Monday, March 3, gave us a taste of the upcoming spring. It cannot come too soon for me. On the other hand, the following day was the worst aspect of spring, with heavy rain. Of course, it is better than the heavy snow, and does wash away the ice. I still can see a few isolated snow patches, but they are shrinking.

I know of at least one reader who cares about the Rock Lodge spring. That person reported that yesterday before the rainfall it was flowing.

I can recall some pretty wet spring horse shows. It was hard to keep my show clothes clean, but when we competed, Joey did not mind the mud, and we almost always won everything.

Someone recently told me to "stop living in the past." But my past was so wonderful, my present is pretty miserable, and there is little hope the future will be any better. I do everything I can to try to make my present and future better. But every step feels like a mile.

Lenny Poholsky went to Greensboro, N.C., to watch seven baseball games Torrey played in. Torrey already has begun his spring break, but has a very busy break, playing seven games in less than five days.

Our kids at the University of Maryland will start their spring break on Friday, March 14, and my girls will start their breaks on the 21st. I can't wait.

No deposit shall be required of the noteholder where the noteholder bids in the property at auction. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, time being of the essence for purchaser. In the event that settlement does not occur within the said ten days, the purchaser shall be in default. Upon such default the Trustees may file a Motion and Order to Resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser, and purchaser(s) hereby consent to entry of such resale order without further notice, in which case the deposit shall be forfeited and all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Trustees may then readvertise and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser; or, without reselling the property, the Trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to receive the surplus, if any, even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on the purchase money less the stated deposit called for herein, at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of auction to the date funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. There shall be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement or if settlement is delayed for any reason, including but not limited to exceptions to sale, bankruptcy filings by interested parties, Court administration of the foreclosure or unknown title defects. There shall be no adjustment of taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, and same are to be assumed by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, agricultural transfer tax, if any and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of damage to the property from the date of auction forward. If the Substitute Trustees do not convey title for any reason, including but not limited to the Secured Party executing a forbearance agreement with the borrower(s) described in the above-mentioned Deed of Trust, or allowing the borrower(s) to execute their right to reinstate or pay off the subject loan, prior to the sale, with or without the Substitute Trustees' prior knowledge, or if the sale is not ratified for any reason including errors made by the Substitute Trustees, the foreclosure sale shall be null and void and of no effect, and the Purchaser's sole remedy in law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit without interest. Further terms and particulars may be announced at time of sale, and purchaser may be required to execute a Memorandum of Sale at the time of auction. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents and an additional fee of $295.00 for review of any motion which may be subsequently filed with the Court to substitute a purchaser herein. (Matter #13910)

Garrett Memorial Luncheon Honors Rev. Gail Hixon

"I really enjoy visiting the patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital," said Rev. Gail Hixon at the annual Chaplaincy Recognition Luncheon, where he was honored for more than 40 years of continuous service to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A native of Washington County, Hixon came to Deer Park in 1962. He also spent time preaching at Rocky Drean Assembly of God and Glendale Assembly of God before settling in at Hiway Assembly of God in Kitzmiller.

After spending 21 years as pastor at Hiway Assembly of God, Hixon officially retired in September 2007, but he continues to minister to patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital on a regular basis.

"We sincerely appreciate the dedication of Rev Hixon," said Rev. Randy Nairn, president of GCMH's Chaplaincy Program. "You will find him ministering to patients at the hospital most every morning."

Hixon spends his early mornings visiting patients on their way into surgery, as well as, those coming out of sugery.

"I feel like those folks have a special need, and I like to help people in that way – bringing a word of encouragement," Hixon said. "I'm glad to have that rapport, and they are always so appreciative of the visit."

"Clearly there is a spiritual need for our patients, and that is a need you're helping to fill every day," Don Battista, president/CEO of GCMH, told Hixon.

"Our patients are so fortunate to have caring individuals like Rev Hixon making visits to the hospital," said Kearstin Hinebaugh, coordinator of volunteer services at GCMH. "The chaplains are an important part of the healthcare team that cares for our patients every day"

Today, the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Chaplaincy Program has nearly 30 members representing most local denominations, according to Hinebaugh.

For more information on the Chaplain's Program or to become a volunteer, persons may contact Hinebaugh at 301-533-4041.

RECOGNIZED FOR MORE THAN 40 YEARS OF SERVICE – Rev. Gail Hixon was honored during the annual Chaplaincy Recognition Luncheon for his more than 40 years of continuous service to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. See story for details. DUI Charge Nets Jail Time For Local Man

Several DUI (driving while under the influence) and DWI (driving while impaired) cases were heard in traffic court recently.

Harold Ernest Dillsworth Jr., 43, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DUI and was sentenced to three years in jail, 18 months of which were suspended. Dillsworth was arrested in July 2007. He was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on a charge of DWI, as well as one other traffic offense.

In an unrelated case, Chad Anthony Cerrito, 23, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DUI and was handed a six-month jail sentence, which was suspended, as well as $350 in fines and court costs plus 18 months of supervised probation. The charges were filed in October 2007. Cerrito was not prosecuted on charges of DUI per se, DWI, driving a motor vehicle with alcohol in the blood in violation of a court order, and two other traffic violations.

Steven Rudolph Beckman, 37, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DUI, stemming from his October 2007 arrest, and received a jail sentence of six months, all of which was suspended. He was issued $292 in fines, and 18 months of unsupervised probation. Beckman was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of DUI per se and DWI.

Trisha Marie Miner, 21, Md., entered a guilty plea to a charge of DUI, resulting from her September 2007 arrest, and received a 60-day jail sentence, which was suspended, fines and court costs of $250, and supervised probation. Miner was not prosecuted on charges of DUI per se, DWI, and one other traffic offense.

Franklin Eugene Fitzwater, 60, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DWI, stemming from an August 2007 arrest, and received a probation before judgment and 18 months of unsupervised probation, as well as a $350 fine. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI, DUI per se, and one other traffic violation.

Jonathan Harry Eanet, 49, Md., was not prosecuted on charges of driving while intoxicated by a controlled dangerous substance and one other traffic violation, which stemmed from his August 2007 arrest.

Barnard Says Change Clock, Change Battery

In anticipation of daylight saving time early Sunday morning, State Fire Marshal William E. Barnard is urging Marylanders to "Change Your Clock – Change Your Battery" in smoke alarms in their homes. Recognizing that working smoke alarms double a family's chance of surviving a home fire, Barnard says that changing to daylight saving time is a "great opportunity" for families to check the battery in their smoke alarms.

"This simple step can help us avoid tragedies in the place we feel most secure – our homes," he said.

Along with working smoke alarms, home escape plans are another way Marylanders can avoid injury from fire, he continued. By identifying at least two different escape routes, families can practice the plan together – before a fire emergency strikes. Practicing the plan helps educate younger children to the danger of fire and the importance of recognizing that the sound of a smoke alarm signals a home fire.

"Checking the battery in smoke alarms and developing and practicing a home escape plan are the two best ways to protect loved ones and ourselves from fire," said Barnard.

For more information on fire and life safety, persons are invited to log on to the following web site: www.firemarshal.state.md.us.

IMPORTANT NEWS ABOUT MARYLAND'S HOMESTEAD PROPERTY TAX CREDIT

As tax season is upon us, many Garrett County residents have been notified of their eligibility for the Homestead Tax Credit. Members of the Garrett County Board of Realtors have realized that many residents are somewhat confused as to what this credit actually entails and who is eligible for the credit.

The state of Maryland has established the Homestead Property Tax Credit to help homeowners deal with large assessment increases on their principal residence, essentially cutting their property taxes by capping the tax assessment increase. Every county and municipality in Maryland is required to limit assessment increases to 10% or less each year.

The Homestead credit is calculated on any assessment increase exceeding 10% or less (5% for Garrett County) from one year to the next. The credit is calculated on the 10% limit for purposes of the state property tax, and 10% or less (5% for Garrett County) for purposes of local taxation. Therefore, the homeowner pays no property tax on the market value increase that is above the limit.

Eligibility for this credit is on a rotating basis throughout the county. This year, Area 2 residents were eligible for the Homestead Tax Credit. Area 2 includes parts of Oakland, Grantsville, Crellin, Friendsville, the Deep Creek Lake area, Frostburg, and Finzel.

As the Homestead Tax Credit is intended for primary residences only, the most important step for homeowners is to verify that their residence is correctly identified as either a primary or secondary residence. If this information is incorrect, applicants should contact the Garrett County Assessments office at 301-334-1950.

If you have been denied a Homestead Tax Credit and believe that you are eligible, you should contact the central office for the Homestead Tax Credit Program at 1-866-650-8783 or 410-767-2165.

Different Types of Drugs for Gout

Gout is characterized by sudden painful attacks in the joints, often occurring at night. This condition is a form of arthritis that is more likely to affect men than women. However, the likelihood for women to be affected increases after menopause. Uric acid is a substance that is normally produced by the body, however, it may build up if over-produced, or if the kidneys do not excrete enough. High levels of uric acid in the blood lead to the formation of urate crystals. Accumulation of such crystals around the joint causes inflammation and intense pain, characterizing an attack of gout. The large joint of the big toe is usually affected. Other joints in the feet, ankles, knees, hands, and wrists also may become swollen and tender.

Medications available for the treatment of gout include nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs), colchicine, and steroids. NSAIDs are used to alleviate inflammation and pain associated with this condition. Ibuprofen and naproxen are examples of NSAIDs available in both over-the-counter and prescription strength. Colchicine may be prescribed for persons who are unable to tolerate NSAIDs. Steroids, such as prednisone, also may alleviate inflammation and pain, and may be prescribed for persons who are unable to tolerate NSAIDs or colchicine.

Hearing Held On Deep Creek Hotel Amendment Draft

The Garrett County commissioners left the record open for two weeks on a proposed amendment to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance, following a public hearing on the issue Tuesday. Ten local residents attended the event.

The proposal would modify the definition of "hotel" or "motel" to help distinguish between these establishments, which are for transient guests, and such places as condominiums for long-term guests. Off-road parking standards for hotels/motels would also be outlined in the amendment.

"The specific intent of the draft amendment is to establish parameters for the operation and management of hotels/motels and to specify the extent of kitchen facilities allowed within individual rooms or suites," said Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

The current amendment draft states that a kitchenette may have a single-bowl sink, refrigerator, up to an 18-inch dishwasher, countertop, cabinetry, and microwave, but no other cooking facilities.

Nelson reviewed the history of the draft amendment, noting it has been passed between the commissioners and Planning Commission several times in the last few months and had undergone wording changes.

Those who spoke at the hearing did not question the need for the new definition/standards but did differ on how that should be accomplished.

Jan Russell, representing a Chamber of Commerce subcommittee that reviewed the proposal, indicated the chamber supported the idea of clearly defining hotels/motels and their scope of services.

"It is our belief that there is tremendous need for growth in the hotel segment for our transient accommodations," she said.

Mountain Lake Park Man Pronounced Deceased At Scene Of Car Accident

A Monday evening vehicle collision on Sand Flat Road proved to be fatal for a Mtn. Lake Park Man, as reported by Tfc. T W. Bell of the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack.

The 6:14 p.m. collision occurred when Eric S. Myers, 46, crossed the center lines while operating his 2002 Subaru southbound on Sand Flat Road south of Boy Scout Road.

Investigation revealed that Myers had driven to the northbound shoulder of Sand Flat Road when "he apparently observed a 2005 Chevrolet Avalanche, driven by David R. Blythe, 53, Oakland, headed northbound toward him."

Myers took evasive action in an attempt to return to the southbound lane, when his vehicle spun sideways and was struck in the driver's door by the Avalanche, said Tfc. Bell.

Myers was declared deceased at the scene by personnel from the State Medical Examiner's Office, and Blythe was not injured in the crash.

Alcohol is believed to have been a factor in the crash on Myers' behalf, according to reports, but state police officers have yet to confirm this statement.

Responding agencies were the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department, Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, and Maryland Natural Resources Police.

A full obituary for Myers may be found on page A-6.

McCain Elected To 11th Term As Oakland Mayor

Incumbent mayor of Oakland Asa McCain survived a strong challenge by Aaron White in Monday's municipal election, and has thus begun serving his 11th consecutive term in that position.

It was in 1988 that McCain was elected to his first two-year term.

McCawin garnered 220 votes, while White finished with 174, as a much larger than normal number of Oakland voters turned out at the polls.

In the race for three seats on the town council, two incumbents were returned to office and a third was defeated.

Incumbent Margaret "Peggy" Jamison led the race with 278 votes, while fellow council member Sherwin Teagarden received 236.

Also elected for the first time was Lois Swartzentruber, who received 209 votes, edging out the third incumbent, Chris Todd, by just seven votes. Challenger Von Johnson also finished just out of the running with 194 votes.

Town clerk Gwen Evans reported that the voter turnout was one of the highest on record, with 361 voting Monday and 39 others casting absentee ballots.

Man Sentenced To 30 Years For Sexual Assaults

A 23-year-old Oakland area man was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court on charges of second-degree rape and sodomy. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced William Russell Lyons to a total of 30 years in the Division of Corrections.

Lyons received consecutive sentences of 20 years for the rape charge and 10 years for sodomy He also received a concurrent five-year sentence for second- degree assault.

Sherbin suspended 15 years of Lyons' sentence and recommended that he be placed at the Patuxent Institute during his incarceration.

Upon his release from prison, Lyons will be on probation and will also have to register as a sexually violent offender.

Lyons had previously pleaded guilty to the charges, and a pre-sentence investigation report was ordered prior to sentencing.

He was arrested and charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation last March after sheriff's deputies and state troopers responded to White Rock Road for a domestic violence call. Inves-

Infant Taken To Hospital After Sunday Collision

An infant was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for observation following a Sunday evening collision on Finzel Road near Sampson Rock Road, according to Tfc. M.W. DeValk of the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack.

The accident occurred around 5:30 p.m. when Tracy Rae, 19, Frostburg, who was operating a 1989 Mercury Grand Marquis, was stopped in the southbound lane of Finzel Road, near Finzel, waiting to turn onto Sampson Rock Road, when a 1995 Dodge Neon, driven by Johnny Weaverling, 30, Meyersdale, Pa., crossed the center line while traveling in the northbound lane and struck Rae's vehicle head-on.

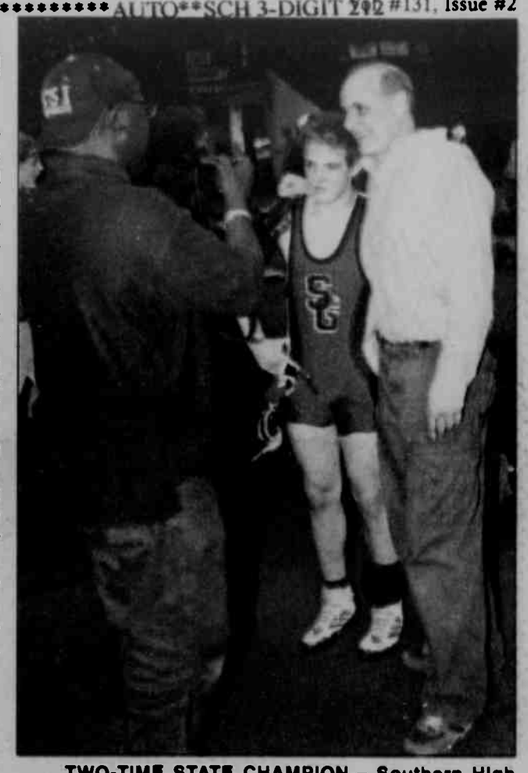
The 7-month-old male infant was properly restrained in a child seat in Rae's vehicle during the collision, DeValk said. He also noted that both drivers, who were reportedly uninjured, were wearing their lap/shoulder harnesses.

Weaverling was cited for failure to drive right of center.

Responding agencies were Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department, Frostburg Ambulance Service, and Maryland State Police.

Grantsville Area House Damaged By Fire Tuesday

A single-family, wood-frame house and contents near Grantsville sustained an estimated $100,000 in damages as a result of an accidental fire Tuesday morning.



Volunteers from the Grantsville, Eastern Garrett, and Bittinger fire departments were summoned to the house of Joe and Terri Hutzel, 2922 Lower New Germany Road, at 8:08 a.m. after a fire in the structure was reported by a neighbor.

According to a report filed by Deputy State Fire Marshals Jamie Rodeheaver and Mike Mattingly, 25 firefighters responded to the scene and brought the fire under control in about 10 minutes. Smoke was coming from the house when the first units arrived.

The area of origin was the basement, and the cause was determined to be a portable electric heater that had been placed too close to combustible materials. Damages were estimated to be $75,000 to the structure and $25,000 to the contents.

The report said that the Hutzels were displaced by the fire and were receiving assistance from the American Red Cross.

Also responding was the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

TWO-TIME STATE CHAMPION – Southern High School sophomore George Scheffel captured his second straight Maryland state wrestling championship on Saturday, winning the title in the 125-pound division via a 3-2 overtime bout against Brian Marcoux of Glenelg High School. The tournament was held at the University of Maryland's Cole Field House in College Park. Scheffel's victory was key to the Rams' finishing second as a team among 66 1A and 2A high schools that were represented in the event. The Northern Huskies placed a respectable 16th as a team. Scheffel is pictured above with his coach, Dave Taylor, as they were being interviewed by Dave Satterfield of Digital Sports moments after his win in the title bout. Scheffel was one of seven Garrett County grapplers who placed in the top five in their respective weight divisions. Persons can view the title matches in each division online at www.watchasn.com/. Grantsville To Use POS Funds To Expand Park

Gov. Martin O'Malley yesterday announced Board of Public Works (BPW) approval of Program Open Space (POS) funds for improvements at 13 local park and recreation facilities in six counties across Maryland.

Garrett County was awarded $55,625. Of that funding, Grantsville will use $35,625 to purchase land to expand its community park.

Oakland will use $20,000 for improvements to the softball field at Broadford Park, which will include new fencing, sound system, tables, and clay/sand for the infield.

"As the weather warms, Marylanders increase their use of local and state parks," said O'Malley. "Program Open Space is a critical component of investing, improving and maintaining Maryland's community parks, which remain a valued component of our high quality of life."

Since 1969, Program Open Space has provided funding for acquisition of 322,700 acres for open space and recreation areas, according to the BPW.

Local Residents Voice Concerns About Clipper Windpower Project

About 75 local residents attended a Maryland Public Service Commission hearing Thursday evening at Garrett College on a proposed wind power project. PSC chief hearing examiner Bryan Moorehouse heard testimony from 30 residents, with 24 opposing the initiative. The event was nearly 3½ hours long.

Clipper Windpower, also known as Criterion Power Partners, plans to construct wind turbines along the Backbone Mountain ridgeline between Allegheny Heights and Wild Turkey Rock. The structures would have a combined generating capacity of up to 70 megawatt (MW) of electricity

"This is not a new project," said Kevin Rackstraw, Clipper's eastern development leader. "It's actually a very old project."

Clipper has filed an application with the PSC for an exemption to the certificate of public convenience and necessity. Because the project is now under 70 MW, the exemption would allow it to be fast-tracked through the approval process under a new state law

Clipper first proposed constructing 67 wind turbines in Garrett County about six years ago. The company later revised that plan and received a state permit to construct 40 turbines with a combined generating capacity of up to 100 MW of electricity. The company had until March 26 of this year to complete the project.

But, as Rackstraw noted, opponents have tied the project up in litigation for five years. He said three of their law suits have been dismissed by Maryland's highest court. The fourth case has been re-appealed.

Clipper downsized the project further and in January filed the exemption application. The company now wants to build 28 Liberty 2.5 MW turbines standing 415 feet high (at vertical blade).

Twenty-five of those turbines are slated for private property. Clipper has easement agreements with the land owners.

Three turbines would be constructed at Landon's Dam on land once owned by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission. The dam is the main water source for Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn. Those towns and the now-defunct sanitary commission signed easement agreements with Clipper in 2003. The land, however, is now owned by the Garrett County government.

"The county asked to get out of the easement, but we declined," Rackstraw said. "It (Landon's Dam) is right in the center of our project." That request was made three years ago, according to Clipper.

In reference to the entire $125 million Backbone Mtn. project, Rackstraw said all studies have been completed, but some construction permits are still needed. Clipper hopes to start construction in spring 2009, with a completion date of December 2009, he noted.

According to Rackstraw, the project is expected to pay more than $14 million in local taxes during its 20- to 30-year life span. He added that the initiative would provide approximately 110-120 "well-

Three Local Women To Be Inducted Into Hall Of Fame

Three Garrett County women will be inducted into the Garrett County Commission for Women's Hall of Fame at an awards breakfast on Saturday, March 29. The breakfast will take place at Will O' the Wisp at 10 a.m., beginning with registration at 9:30 a.m.

The Hall of Fame honors Garrett County women who have made substantial or outstanding contributions to the economic, political, and cultural life of Garrett County.

Those slated for induction this year are Helen Earles, Donna McClintock-Fost, and Charlotte A. Sebold.

HELEN EARLES

DONNA MCCLINTOCK-EOST

CHARLOTTE SEBOLD

Earles, born in Washington City, Va., has been a resident of Garrett County for 21 years. She came to the county in 1986 when her husband, Dr. Gordon Earles, accepted the position of director of the Emergency Room at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Earles has been an active member of the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland and is responsible for resurrecting the club's youth art program. She played vital roles in Warm the Children, the Garrett County Resource Directory, Garrett County garden shows, and "ditty bags" for veterans.

She is an active member of the Loar Auxiliary, where she worked with six other women to produce the group known as VIVA, and St. Paul's Methodist Church. She supports the Transplant Program in Pittsburgh, and has served as president of the Garrett County Arts Council.

Earles was nominated for the Hall of Fame by the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland.

McClintock-Fost, recommended for the Hall of Fame by the Garrett County Business and Professional Women, was born in Garrett County, and has a lifelong resident. She is an active volunteer within the county, chairing the Garrett County AIDS Council and leading the Alzheimer's Support Group. She is president of Chapter 76 of the Maryland Classified Employees Association.

Fost has served as co-president of the Garrett county BPW since 2002, is an American Cancer Society volunteer, and is in her second year as president of the American Cancer Society Leadership Council for Garrett County.

"A licensed clinical social worker with the Garrett County Health Department, she is well-versed in the county's social service industry, providing assistance to populations who may lack resources to care for themselves," said a spokesperson for the Hall of Fame. "Through her volunteerism Ms. Fost uses her diverse knowledge to provide a wide array of information to a variety of audiences."

Charlotte A. Sebold, a resident of Garrett County for 27 years, was born in Goldsboro, N.C. She was nominated by Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, Garrett County Board of Education. She relocated to Garrett County with her husband in 1980, and has made numerous contributions to education, church, and community in the area.

Sebold was an active member of the Accident Parent Teacher Organization during the time her children were in school, and is credited with the organization and implementation of the annual fall festival. She served as the Accident PTO president and the county PTO president, and on the Maryland State PTA board of directors. She has been active in 4-H and the Garrett County Agriculture Fair. An advocate for environmental education, Sebold has been involved in all aspects of the Hickory Environmental Education Center, and currently serves as the Board of Education representative to the center's advisory council.

Sebold was elected to the Board of Education in 1993 and has served as president three times. She is an advocate for advanced placement classes and initiated the addition of a student board member. She also serves on a planning committee for the Allegany and Garrett County Summer Arts Camp for students.

She is an active member of the Zion Lutheran Church, where she served as coordinator of the preschool and past president of the Zion's Lutheran Woman Missionary League/Ladies' Aid Organization.

Reservations for the Hall of Fame breakfast can be made by calling Beverly Beard at 301-334-5987 or Barbara Hornyak at 301-334-1169. Tickets are $15 for adults and $7 for children 12 and under. The deadline for reservations is March 21.

Underage Man Charged With Alcohol Offenses

Maryland Natural Resources Police arrested an Oakland man on multiple alcohol-related driving violations on Herrington Manor Road in Garrett State Forest on Sunday.

NRP initiated a traffic stop on Joshua R. Reckart, 20, for driving erratically, according to reports. During the course of the traffic stop, Reckart was charged with driving a vehicle while impaired by alcohol, driving a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, driving a vehicle in violation of license restriction, failure to drive right of center, failure to wear a seat belt, and possession of an alcoholic beverage by a person under 21 years of age.

Reckart was taken before a Garrett County District Court commissioner and released after paying 10 percent of a $2,000 bail.

Charged With DUI/DWI By Garrett County Deputies

A local man was arrested Wednesday evening after Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a complaint from a Bittinger Road residence.

Jay Shawn Dixon, 37, was reported riding his four-wheeler in the yard of a private home. When deputies arrived, Dixon had left the scene, and it was discovered that he had damaged grass on the property and struck the front porch with the vehicle.

Deputies located him at his residence and found him to be intoxicated. A search revealed that he had suspected marijuana and a smoking device in his pocket.

He was charged with malicious destruction of property, disturbance of the peace, CDS possession of marijuana, CDS possession of paraphernalia, driving under the influence, and driving while intoxicated. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

In a separate incident later that night, sheriff's deputies, assisted by Oakland Police, responded to a motor vehicle accident on Memorial Drive, Oakland.

Upon arrival, they discovered a 1993 Ford truck in a ditch off the southbound lane. Emily Marie Knotts, 33, Oakland, was the driver of the vehicle, and it was determined that she was under the influence of alcohol.

She was placed under arrest and charged with driving under the influence, driving while intoxicated, violating a court ordered alcohol restriction, and negligent driving.

She was taken to the detention center to await a bond hearing.

Clarification Noted In Real Estate Feature

Information that appeared with a photograph in last week's issue as part of an article about the real estate market in Garrett County was misleading.

The cutline implied that the structure pictured was an example of what is referred to by some as a "white elephant"; that is, a large structure – or "mini-hotel" – that is designed to house as many as 20 or 30 people.

In fact, the photo was taken at Overlook Mountain Villas in McHenry, and the structure pictured was not a single house, but a three-unit complex consisting of two three-bedroom and one four-bedroom residential units, all separate and not connected by doorways.

Our apologies are extended to the unit owners for the misleading information that appeared. While there are examples of such structures at the lake, the one pictured is not among them.

Two Arrested In Separate Stops By GC Deputies

An Oakland man was arrested late Friday night when deputies came upon his vehicle parked at the intersection of Rt. 50 and Wilson Corona Road.

The subsequent investigation led to the arrest of Daley Eugene Uphold Jr., 45, who was charged with driving under the influence and driving while intoxicated. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

In a separate incident, a woman from Olney was arrested after deputies discovered her driving privileges had been suspended in Maryland.

Wendy Cottrell, 39, was stopped in the Accident area early Saturday morning, where she was taken into custody. She was transported to the GC Detention Center to await an appearance before a District Court commissioner.

We who work in our newsroom get overwhelmed at times – actually, on a fairly regular basis – just trying to make our deadline each week and doing our best to keep up with all of the news that needs to be, or should be, reported. There is just so much to cover, and only so many hours in a week to do so. Undoubtedly other office staffs can legitimately make the same claim.

While some news stories are more important to more people than other stories, we still cannot spend so much time on the "big" ones that the "small" ones just get ignored. Issues such as wind turbines, highway bypasses, land use, and the actions of our elected officials are certainly important to a lot of people. But news items about a church supper, a local student making the dean's list, and a wedding engagement are just as important to a much smaller audience, and therefore cannot be ignored by our relatively small newsstaff.

The complexity and "tone" of the news can also sometimes get us news writers down. The more complex the issue, the more time that is needed to research, understand, and then write an accurate story. If the issue has a negative "tone" about it, such as some of the aforementioned ones above – with people vehemently disagreeing with each other – that negativity takes a toll on a reporter as well.

So for this week, just to get a break from it all, we delight in once again having the opportunity to report a lot of good news. Today's front page alone has photos of local young people excelling in athletics – at a state, national, and even international level. There is another one of a family who obviously had a great time building a snowman.

We take pride in the fact that every single issue of our newspaper is loaded with good news and coverage of the accomplishments of our citizens, especially our young people. Yes, the bad news and complicated issues must also be reported. But without the opportunity to write the good, the positive, stories, the mental well-being of our news team simply would not survive.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Just want to say kudos to the Everyday Scientist, Dr. Sheahen, for the fascinating article about "Unnecessary Mercury Worries" in the February 28 Republican!

The data provided, the breakdown of the actual differences in comparison and contrast between incandescent and fluorescent bulbs, the calculations about how much more mercury is released from burning coal to power electrical plants for incandescent bulbs over fluorescent, even adding the pollution in the environment caused by the mercury in a fluorescent bulb when its usefulness is ended; wow, all of these things just present such a clear picture of various considerations which aren't apparent at first blush! It's amazing how our Everyday Scientist breaks down issues for easy comprehension!

I've said this before – I don't know why Ask the Everyday Scientist isn't a national column, especially given the paucity of students in this country who are unwilling to study science, believing it too complex and difficult!

Sincerely yours,
Douglas Scott Arey
Cumberland

To the Editor:

After reading the recent article in The Republican by Glenn Tolbert regarding local real estate issues, I wonder if the article should have been in the opinion section.

While there were many statements regarding local real estate and Deep Creek Lake, one point that was not mentioned was the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Study commissioned by the Garrett County commissioners in 2004. The final recommendations of this study concerned the future viability of Deep Creek Lake. The final recommendations are located on the Garrett County government's Planning and Land Development Office Web site – http://www.garrettcounty.org/PlanningLand/-PlanningZoning/final-recommend.pdf Many of these worthy recommendations were approved by the Planning Commission and forwarded to the Garrett County commissioners for approval. The Garrett County commissioners have been slow to take action on many of these recommendations.

Sometimes planning rather than reaction should be the course of action taken.

Sincerely,
Steve Green
McHenry

To the Editor:

I was disturbed to read the article by Glenn Tolbert last week on the "white elephants." I am an interior decorator and I worked on several of these units. None of these were "rentals." They were all privately owned and being used for family and friends. I felt good about what we did with them and, frankly, I am insulted that they would be called "elephants" of any kind!

I would imagine the owners of these units might be slightly offended to see the picture and your description of them! While the design may not be to everyone's taste, they were beautifully built by Nemith, marketed by Railey's, and I am not sure who the maintenance company is, but it is always in excellent shape when I drive by, which is in all seasons.

I am sure they are expensive to heat. So is my house. So is my store. So is everything in our county when it is cold.

I feel that maybe your paper should do a more in-depth inquiry into some of the statistics you quoted. I know that both Tommy and Jerry Thayer have been realtors forever and cannot help but feel that some conversation was taken out of context.

Articles like this come across as very negative, and knowing the little I know of real estate, it seemed a little bogus to me. I feel that along with the gloom and doom the media portrays, it sure would be nice to hear the positives! And I do feel that there are a lot of positives going on in our area.

How about a future article with interviews with Ruth Seib, Billy Weissgerber, Karen Myers, and Tracy Espada, owners of the local real estate companies, to get their take on these comments? I mean like Paul Harvey says, "the rest of the story."

Sincerely,
Sheila Menchaca

To the Editor:

It was disappointing to note that nobody from county government (except Commissioner Gregg, John Nelson, and Planning Commission member George Brady) showed up last week at the Public Service Commission hearing, perhaps the most important public hearing involving one of the most contentious public policy issues in many years.

Once again, the PSC hearing officer and staff, along with about 100 citizens, did not have a clue as to what the county's position is on placing industrial wind turbines on county public land near the towns of Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn Heights. Citizens raised concerns about water quality and supply issues due to blasting, public safety and health issues, and environmental degradation.

A reasonable person must wonder why their elected officials hide under their desks and are unable to do what they were elected to do–represent the people. Could there be potential conflicts of interest, too cozy a relationship with the purveyors of corporate greed and their lobbyists, potential legal risk due to misinformation? Or, is it an arrogance of power leading to outright lying–who knows?

Once again, our elected officials ignore with disdain and contempt the people they are sworn to represent, serve, and protect. It's a sad commentary on the state of what is supposed to be the freest country in the world that the Garrett County commissioners believe that citizens asking questions in a democracy is a burden, and answering them is to be considered a gift from the government.

One has to wonder what Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, or Benjamin Franklin, who had just won the Revolutionary War to ensure that freedom and God-given rights were protected, would have felt about Commissioners Gregg, Glotfelty, and Holliday trying to limit freedom of expression and the right to public information.

Let's not forget that the Constitution was written to limit our government, not to control the people.

To the Editor:

In response to last week's letter by Douglas Scott Arey, I hope to explain why it is imperative that we embrace Barack Obama's timely entrance onto our political scene.

With 80% of the American people feeling like our country is on the wrong "path" it seems to me that we can at least "hope" for something better. The fact that his candidacy has engaged so many new voters and created such a vibrant turnout in the primaries marks a bellwether moment in recent political history. I would suggest that Mr. Arey listen to Obama's speeches and see why he brings such enthusiasm to anyone listening. He is indeed a stirring speaker. After the last seven years of George Bush's mumbling, fumbling, embarrassing attempts at speaking, it is indeed a breath of fresh air. Clearly the other candidates pass him off as just another mouthpiece, but you have to know they envy his abilities (as well they should).

Nothing in this country is going to change until we get more of the American people engaged in the political scene. Clinton and McCain see business as usual, perhaps causing them to just shrug their shoulders and stay home on election day. The president can't change things on his own, but he can be the driving force that ignites the people's passion for another direction.

The situation is not hopeless, Mr. Arey. We outnumber the lobbyists and all their "bought" members of Congress. We can vote them out if we were only to seize the moment. I see little difference between our current situation and that of 1776. Our forefathers didn't roll over when something had to be done. They were inspired, stood up, and made the changes.

Then, as now, men like Thomas Paine and Patrick Henry served as the spark that lit the fires of the Revolution. Without such a spark our future will continue to smolder under the damp wood of poor government, Washington insiders, and apathetic voters.

I would hope everyone would listen to Barack Obama speak, read his policy positions, and look at his life experiences before passing any judgment on his ability to be president. To this writer, he is America's best chance to reclaim the high ground.

To the Editor:

My attendance of the PSC meeting last Thursday provided me with a few surprises and some new information.

Despite great weather and lots of publicity, the next day's Cumberland newspaper reported the crowd at roughly 50 people. I noticed at least a dozen were pro-windmill and half of those spoke in favor of the project. That surprised me!

I also learned that these "monsters," at least the tower portion, are almost 40 percent shorter than the 400+ foot figure that has been widely used. That will make quite a difference in my "viewscape" since I will be able to see several of them from my home and just about everywhere I travel locally.

That doesn't bother me, but as a retired coal miner, I agree with Mr. Bolden who mentioned that we could benefit from several new power plants that would use local coal and create hundreds of new high-paying jobs. I can imagine the uproar that would cause. Probably from the same folks who hate windmills!

What really bothered me though was the constant drumbeat from many of the speakers, at what was supposed to be a PSC meeting, that our commissioners were wrong for not doing whatever is necessary to "protect" them. Most had several things in common. They seemed to be well-educated, financially well-off people who have recently moved to this area of Appalachia. They are amazed and frustrated by the fact that local governments in much of this area have never been given that kind of power by the citizens, because we don't want them to have it. It's that simple!

These folks need to understand that and stop browbeating our local officials for doing what most of us elected them to do – stand up for private property rights! Our current board has shown by their actions that they understand that, and I for one thank them for their integrity.

They should also know that thousands of people out here feel just like that farmer who stated that it's his right to make a little money off his ridge top if he so chooses.

Finally, most citizens in these parts don't bother with meetings, but they do vote, so I'll close by saying that a few have tried, but no one has ever been elected to public office in Garrett County by telling folks that what they need in their lives is more government regulation!

To the Editor:

In my personal struggle to make a recovery from a mental illness, I have been faced with enduring scorn and slander from the community as well as from many of my own family members while I was trying to heal. This has often been more painful than the symptoms I had been experiencing. I'm sure that most people who have been diagnosed and labeled, then disrespected, demeaned, and dehumanized because of their particular "mental misfortune," know exactly what I'm talking about.

In facing the stigma and shame that surrounds mental illness, I have been tested by many challenges. However, the one that still haunts me continues to be this same sort of scorn and slander. I've had to endure it all these many years, while being symptom free and a productive citizen, as well as having made significant contributions to society. Of course, I am only human.

Slander hurts, and it usually comes from an incredulous source; someone who has heard it from someone else – hearsay. In our criminal justice system, "hearsay evidence" is not admissible evidence and is always objectionable. This is not the case in the rest of our society. Gossip and slander about an individual is often believed to be the gospel and accepted without question.

Also, a person is supposed to be innocent until proven guilty. However, people are often convicted and condemned on just "hearsay" that has been passed on and extremely exaggerated and distorted. They are most often immediately found guilty, convicted, and condemned by most who hear the gossip. They have no opportunity to defend themselves or tell their side of the story, and there are always two sides.

To the religious folk who gossip while wearing their religion on their shirt sleeves, I'd like to leave a few scriptures with you: 1st Timothy 5:12-13, [Having damnation...those wandering about from house to house and not only idle, but tattlers and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not.] Ephesians 5:5 puts gossipers in the same category as murderers.

Religious or not, false accusations, slander, and defamation of character, if proven, are viable reasons for lawsuits, and therefore violations of civil law. So when a person hears slander about anyone, including a mentally ill person, this old saying still applies: "Believe nothing of what you hear and only half of what you see."

To the Editor:

Garrett County's mountain ridges are under assault by the wind turbine industry the likes of which put the gypsy moth infestation to shame. Garrett County is currently embroiled in a struggle where county commissioners are put to the test as to their role in meeting competing interests, protecting the county's resources, and being proactive in representing the views and concerns of their constituency.

Evidence has recently been presented which suggests that, to some extent, the commissioners have not been fully forthcoming in the matter of a lease agreement the county has with Clipper LLC, a wind generator company, and the recent extension of that lease agreement to 2010.

At the Public Service Commission hearing held March 6, of the 100 or more attendees, the greatest majority by far criticized the commissioners for not representing them or the county's best interests, and went as far as accusing them of selling out to the wind industry. The cry to the PSC by many was for protection not afforded by our own local government.

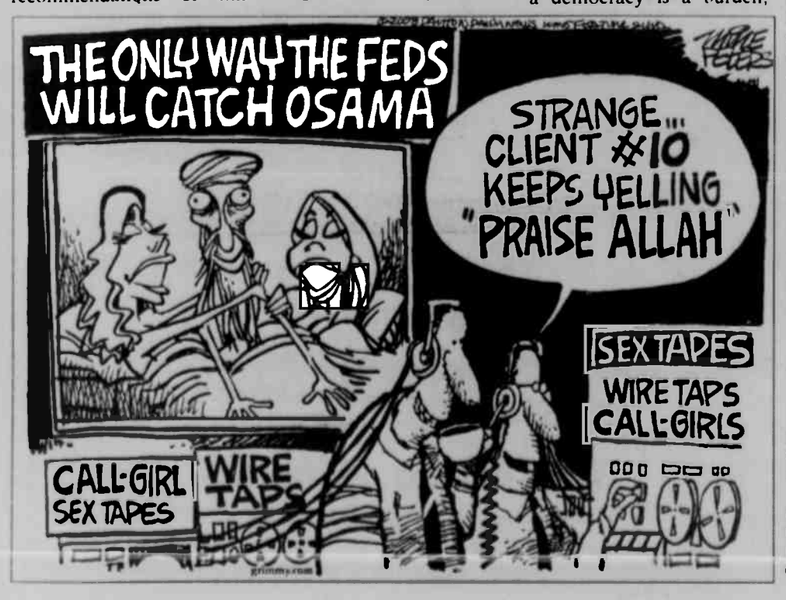
The greatest demand for electricity is at the other end of the state. The greatest source for alternative energy in the form of wind is also at the other end of the state. As demonstrated at public hearings, the great majority of Garrett County residents reject wind generation towers on public lands, and as residents learn more they are objecting to private land sites as well.

The arguments presented against wind generation in Garrett County are many and convincing. Why aren't these arguments persuasive with the commissioners and state government? Could it be that Governor O'Malley would find it politically unacceptable to put wind towers on the waters of the Chesapeake Bay or off the Maryland coast?

So I ask, how does the individual citizen fight these powerful forces, and more importantly, why must we be in this fight? Shouldn't local government officials represent their constituency and protect our natural resources and the safety and health of the people?

Local government is local because it best knows and understands the concerns of citizens. Local elected officials are in the best position to represent the preponderance of views of their constituency. I implore our local officials to protect our resources, be proactive in fighting those forces threatening our resources, and be forthcoming in their views and positions that relate to these issues.

Kenny Braitman
Eastern Garrett County



To the Editor:

I'd like to respond to Frank Maisano's letter from March 6. It is the wind industry that puts forth half truths to support their endeavors to make money under the pretense of providing clean energy.

The claim is repeated frequently that these turbines will provide significant reductions in green house gas (GHG) emissions. Experiences in Europe give no indication that this is true.

The problem is that wind plants do not provide predictable outputs of electricity. Generation arrives in unpredictable peaks and valleys. The grids that provide us with electricity rely on predictable outputs. Demand and production must

State Senate Cuts Budget, Rejects Computer Services Tax Amendment

by Kelly Wilson and Kate E. Queram
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – The Maryland Senate rejected an amendment to the state budget Wednesday that would have paved the way for repeal of the unpopular computer services tax.

The amendment failed on a day when the full Senate passed 220 Budget and Taxation Committee amendments intended to cover an estimated revenue shortfall of more than $330 million. Those amendments made cuts to the state's stem cell research program and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and created new regulations on how and when agencies may spend the money allotted to them.

The computer services tax was passed in the November special legislative session to bring in an estimated $214 million to help cover a budget deficit of $1.7 billion. But a number of lawmakers from both parties now want to repeal the tax.

Sen. David Brinkley, R-Frederick, proposed to make up the money that would be lost from the repeal through $114 million from excess money in the general fund and $100 million in various cuts by the governor.

Adoption of the amendment would have made the tax unnecessary just as House and Senate committees were hearing eight bills to repeal the unpopular revenue measure.

Despite wide acknowledgement of the shortcomings of the tax, opponents called Brinkley's amendment a "one-time fix" that would not help with future budgets. It was defeated 26 to 19, in part because of concerns over continuing economic woes that may further pinch future state budgets.

"I expect that, come next session, we're going to be looking at more cuts," because of a continuing economic downturn, said Sen. Robert Garagiola, D-Montgomery.

Just as the full Senate was completing its morning business, a standing-room-only House Ways and Means committee hearing was taking up bills to repeal the computer services tax. Some legislators and several panels of information technology professionals said the tax would hurt businesses and possibly force them to relocate.

"Keeping the tax is going to cost more money than repealing it," said Delegate Gail Bates, R-Howard. "We will lose income tax, we will lose money that they put in the economy, we will lose corporate taxes."

Witnesses, particularly those representing chambers of commerce, said that while they do not support the computer services tax, they are opposed to making up the lost revenue by taxing higher-income residents, a suggestion offered by some.

Among the $391 million in budget cuts made by the full Senate, the most contentious was an $18 million reduction to the state's stem cell research funding.

"It was an issue of cash flow," said committee chairman Ulysses Currie, D-Prince George's. "It wasn't that the committee was opposed to the issue," he said.

Cuts to the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene will mean a decrease in state funding for health care and less money for programs intended to keep hospitals from imposing limits on the number of days patients can stay.

In addition, several revisions to the budget restrict agencies from using their allotted money until they submit reports on spending and plans for future programs to the House and Senate budget committees.

The Senate also limited to 50 the number of new positions a state agency may add after the start of the next fiscal year on July 1. The amendment makes an exception in cases where new positions are not funded by the state, but those positions must be eliminated if the funding for them ever runs out.

The Senate will vote Friday for final approval of the budget, which if passed, then moves to the House.

match. As such, any wind plant must have back-up generation readily available to fill in when the wind plant generation falls. Using GHG-free, predictable generation as back-up makes no sense, as this would preclude the need for the turbines. Fossil-fuel plants cannot simply be turned on and off. They must be constantly running to fill these unpredictable gaps.

Data from major wind power operators in Europe is uncovering some significant problems using wind power for large-scale generation – all previously claimed as myths by wind proponents.

Germany anticipates wind power capacity of 48 GW by 2020. Recent studies conducted by the industry conclude that this will equate to just 2 GW of fossil-fuel generation, or just a tad over 4% of installed capacity.

Another problem with wind is that it's abundant when not needed and unavailable when power demand peaks.

In 2004 Denmark wind provided a surplus of 84%. Over 80% was exported to Norway. Norway uses GHG-free hydro generation to produce 98.5% of its electricity.

Increased wind generation capacity in a power grid makes it more subject to disturbances produced by the unpredictable nature of wind.

On November 4, 2006, Europe experienced a large-scale blackout linked to wind power. Texas experienced a similar problem quelled in impact due to some customers voluntarily being cut off from supply.

If we intend to continue our current rising rate of energy consumption, we must find reliable and predictable sources. Wind just isn't predictable. It just isn't part of the solution.

Sincerely,
Jimmy Tragle, D.V.M.

P.S. I own land on Jack Mountain adjacent to the property on which Liberty Gap wishes to site a wind plant.

To the Editor:

To understand the implications of siting industrial wind turbines, the average citizen has to wade through a plethora of conflicting information. Promoters continue to paint a rosy picture of industrial wind, while local citizens, because of regulatory inaction by their elected representatives, have formed alliances opposed to industrial wind. They contend that there is a dark side to industrial wind, including detrimental impacts on the environment, wildlife, human health and quality of life, and property values, with creation of fewer jobs and lower tax revenues than originally thought, and even decadal relinquishment of property rights to wind developers. How can one decide?

Scientists are naturally critical of work done by peers, examining closely the quality and quantity of data and repeatability of results. Based on hundreds of studies, I know that forest fragmentation can reduce the success and number of forest birds. A handful of studies have shown that rotating turbine blades annually kill thousands of bats and sound levels of turbines in mountains cannot be predicted with any degree of accuracy.

Because of research by doctors on turbine noise and health and quality of life, it has been recommended that turbines not be sited any closer than 1.5 miles from homes, and up to 2-3 miles in hilly terrain. There is nothing, absolutely nothing, in the wind literature that says wind turbines must be sited next door to homes and workplaces.

The information being promulgated by the wind industry is oftentimes the best-case scenario, not the average or most frequent. They are not necessarily being dishonest, but are selective in their reporting.

After studies have been repeated numerous times in a variety of locations, we begin to develop an understanding of the probabilities of particular outcomes. However, we cannot always wait for these definitive studies. This minimally regulated industry has a tremendous potential for detrimental impacts; therefore, we should proceed with tremendous caution.

Based on the precautionary principle, if an action or policy might cause severe or irreversible harm to the public (or environment), in the absence of a scientific consensus that harm would not ensue, the burden of proof falls on those who would advocate taking the action. I might also add that in the absence of such proof the best course of action is no action, for if built and found to cause severe or irreversible harm it is highly unlikely that it will be unbuilt!

To the Editor:

At a recent public meeting, someone said I was opposed to electricity produced by coal, nuclear, and hydro–as well as wind. Moreover, I was reminded that I was off the mark by saying wind technology could not prevent new conventional power plants from being built to meet increasing demand, pointing to a recent Parade magazine article reporting the governor of Kansas was building a 1000MW wind facility, obviating the need for a new coal plant. Here's reality.

In our region, 58% of the electricity we get comes from coal. Nuclear produces 35%. If our common goal is to reduce carbon dioxide emissions from coal plants, this percentage ought to be reversed.

Several new nuclear plants in the midst of highest demand (Montgomery/Anne Arundel counties) would also virtually eliminate the need for huge new transmission lines. Because of the way we must deploy reliable, quickly responsive generators to meet demand fluctuations, new coal plants will also be needed, unless we can bring online many new natural gas facilities (which seems unlikely due to cost and availability).

We could build these coal plants here–and condition them as follows: They could not accept coal extracted by mountaintop removal extraction techniques and they must be equipped with scrubbers to eliminate noxious emissions, including mercury. Ideally, they would also sequester CO_2 emissions, but this may be so costly as to be impractical.

As for Kansas, Parade accurately portrayed what the governor of Kansas has done. One should keep in mind that Parade is a "feel-good" publication serving up gossip, celebrity worship, and infotainment as fillers for advertising. What the magazine did not do was to discuss the policy implications of what the governor has done, pretending a completely unreliable energy source can replace a highly reliable one.

My statements about this assume rationality, not political correctness. The governor of Kansas has placed the residents of her state at risk. At the very least, as consumers of electricity they'll be paying a lot more–both for the compensatory generation necessary to balance wind's volatility and for the generation that will have to be imported from elsewhere to replace the

RECOGNIZING CAREGIVER STRESS

Caring for an ill friend or relative can take its toll. It can be difficult to watch someone you love struggle, and it's often hard to make time for anything else. How can you tell if the stress of caregiving is getting to be too much? Watch yourself, and look for any sleeping disturbances, either not being able to sleep or sleeping too much. Take notice of your eating habits. People who are stressed often eat too much or too little. Feeling frequently tired, easily irritated, or losing interest in activities you like are signs that care is stressing you. Among other self-care techniques, look for people to help you whether they are friends or a home care agency.

Whether you require respite from providing for the care of a loved one, or you live alone and want to maintain your independence, TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., can help. We are your qualified local source for all the home care and personal care you might need. Our caring, professional staff is available for 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Long- or short-term care is available, whenever it's needed. Since 1987, Tender Loving Home Care has provided in-home personal care services to adults throughout Washington, Allegany, and Garrett counties. We are family owned, licensed, bonded, and insured. St. Mark's Holy Week, Easter Services Planned

St. Mark's Lutheran Church of Oakland has announced its worship schedule for Holy Week and Easter. The public is invited to attend any or all of the four services: Palm Sunday, March 16; Maundy Thursday, March 20; Good Friday, March 21, and Easter, March 23. The church is located at the corner of Second and Center streets.

Sunday, March 16, will be observed as Palm Sunday during the regular 10 a.m. worship service. A coffee hour will follow worship in the church fellowship hall. This service will open with a traditional procession of palms.

Rev. Dr. C. Scott Robinson, pastor of the church, noted that St. Mark's uses "Eco-Palms" for its Palm Sunday service.

"Palm leaves are a 4 to 5 million dollar annual seasonal import for Christian congregations in the United States," the pastor said. 'They are mostly harvested in Mexico and Guatemala by large companies who do not practice environmentally sensitive harvesting techniques, nor do they show much concern for the indigenous communities of poor laborers hired for the harvest. Eco-Palms is a humanitarian and environmentally conscious program sponsored by Lutheran World Relief (LWR) that protects both the crop and the communities involved."

Headquartered in Baltimore, Lutheran World Relief is ranked by the American Institute of Philanthropy as one of the highest rated charitable causes in the country, Robinson noted. St. Mark's is also involved in LWR's Fair Trade Coffee project.

The Maundy Thursday service featuring the Passion narrative will begin at 7 p.m. on March 19.

"This service will end with the time-honored and dramatic stripping of the altar in preparation for Good Friday," the pastor said.

St. Mark's will observe Good Friday with a Tenebrae service of scripture and song, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"'Tenebrae' means 'darkness,' and this service of readings and music dramatically moves from an atmosphere of light to total darkness," Pastor Robinson said. He added that the Tenebrae liturgy contains elements traceable to the 8th century Christian church.

The "Festival of the Resurrection of Our Lord" will be celebrated Easter Sunday at 10 a.m.

"Easter is the highest holy day in the Christian church calendar," the pastor said.

The Sunday school classes will host an Easter egg hunt prior to the service, beginning at 8:45 a.m.

Congregational singing and special music are planned for all services, with some pieces featuring organ, piano, brass ensemble, hand bells, guitar, and oboe accompaniment. All services will be led by Pastor Robinson and the St. Mark's choir and hand bell choir.

Susan Peterson serves St. Mark's as music director. Muriel Franc is the organist, and the hand bell choir is under the direction of Lynn Grimm.

Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, and Easter are services of Holy Communion at St. Mark's. As a congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, St. Mark's practices "communion hospitality," meaning that all are invited to partake, Pastor Robinson said.

For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668 or visit the church web site at stmarksoakland.com.

Adorable Adoptables

WOODY NEEDS A NEW HOME – The 4-year-old male Bassett mix pictured below is currently housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, awaiting adoption. Woody is an inside dog and has to be in a home with only adults or a family with older children, according to a Humane Society spokesperson. Also at the shelter is a black Lab (above left) that was picked up along Fingerboard Road not wearing a collar or tags; a large lovable male gray cat; and a nice male tabby. Last week's black shepherd mix was adopted, but the tan/black medium sized dog is still available. "All potential adopters must fill out an adoption application, which includes veterinarian references and your housing situation (own or rent)," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "Adopting a pet is a lifelong commitment. Many of the dogs that come into the shelter were given up or let loose by their owners, either because of the expense or the work involved in having a pet. Think before you adopt." Four dogs were taken to various rescues last week by HART (Homeless Animal Rescue and Transport) when the shelter filled to capacity. "More will be taken out this week because of the high number of dogs coming in," said the spokesperson. "The shelter recently received a call from a man who wanted to bring in nine dogs that he no longer wanted." For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553.

GC Health Dept. Schedules Free "We Can!" Prog.

The Garrett County Health Department is hosting a free six-week "We Can!" program on Tuesdays, 6:30 -7:30 p.m., beginning on April 1 at Friendsville Freedom Chapel, located along Bear Creek Road.

We Can! (Ways to Enhance Children's Activity and Nutrition) is a national program designed for families and communities to help children maintain a healthy weight. The program focuses on improving food choices, increasing physical activity, and reducing screen time (TV and computer).

"This is a great program for parents or adults who are involved in the community with youth programs," said a Health Department spokesperson.

In conjunction with the We Can! program at Freedom Chapel, a program for children age 8-12 years will also be held.

"The Media-Smart Youth program is an engaging and exciting curriculum that helps youth make thoughtful decisions about issues important to their health, especially nutrition and physical activity," said the spokesperson.

Persons interested in participating in these programs are asked to call Amy R. Ritchie, registered dietitian with the Garrett County Health Department, at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111 by Friday, March 28.

WAYS TO ENHANCE CHILDREN'S ACTIVITY AND NUTRITION will be the focus of a free six-week program sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department. "We Can!" will begin Tuesday, April 1, at Friendsville Freedom Chapel from 6:30 until 7:30 p.m. See story. Pictured are some of the participants at a recently completed program in Oakland. In the front row, left to right, are Alexis Spiker, Macey Walker, Josh Lahay, Ashley Lahay, and Kayla Glotfelty. In the back row are Amanda Spiker, Kristen Walker (program presenter, Garrett County Health Department), Ben Lahay, and Sylvia Lahay. We Can! sweat shirts were given to participants who logged at least 50 miles of exercise during the program.

St. Paul's UM Notes Events Of Holy Week

The schedule of services at St. Paul's United Methodist Church during Holy Week have been announced, beginning with Palm Sunday, March 16. The church is located at the corner of Fourth and Oak streets in Oakland. The pastor of the congregation is Rev. Dr. T. Patrick Kerr.

There will be two services on Palm Sunday, March 16, with the first at 8:30 a.m. and the second at 10:45 a.m.

At the 8:30 service, the Early Singers Choir, directed by Donna Lee Shogren, will sing the anthem "Hosanna, Hosanna" by Sue Smith. The organist and pianist for this service will be Pat Shelton.

Music for the 10:45 service will be provided by the Chancel Choir, under the direction of Tom Shelton, also accompanied by Pat Shelton. The choir will sing "Ride On" by Ben Logan, "Shout to the King, Hosanna" by Mark Patterson, and "The Palms" by Jean B. Faure.

This service will begin with a procession of palms.

As part of the Holy Week observance, the church is currently decorated with green leaves and cocoons made by children of the Sunday school. The students made approximately 100 construction paper leaves. Caterpillars were added to the leaves last week, and on Palm Sunday, the caterpillars will have turned into cocoons. On Easter Sunday, butterflies will be on each leaf. A spokesperson explained that the decor corresponds to II Corinthians 5:13: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature."

The project was completed by about 17 children, under the direction of Lisa Kinney, with help from Carinna Lewis and Keith Caple.

Every week at St. Paul's, children are incorporated into the worship services with a children's message. During Lent, Denise Kerr has been teaching the children about the physical building up of the body of Christ and how that ties in with spiritual growth.

After the children's message, children up through fifth grade who want to leave the sanctuary may go to children's church, which is provided during both worship services under the direction of Denise Shay.

During the service, Kari Hughes, Pat Shelton, and Denise Kerr will present a short skit titled What Is Easter? written by Kari Hughes, a member of the youth.

Flowers on the altar for Palm Sunday are presented by the Flinn family in memory of Bob Flinn. The 10:45 worship service will be broadcast live over radio station 1050 AM WMSG.

A pancake breakfast will also be held on Palm Sunday, served by the youth in the Fellowship Hall from 8 to 10:30 a.m. The proceeds will go toward mission work.

St. Paul's will hold a Service of Word and Table at 7 p.m. on March 20, as a traditional Maundy Thursday service with Holy Communion. The Chancel Choir will sing "Within the Darkest Night."

On Good Friday, March 21, St. Paul's will participate in the Mtn. Top Ministerial Association's annual afternoon service from noon until 3 p.m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. (See separate story.)

Pastor Kerr will speak on the first word of Christ and the choir will sing. St. Paul's sanctuary will remain open that day for prayer and meditation from 3 to 6 p.m.

Easter Day events at St. Paul's will be announced in next week's issue of The Republican.

For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2391 or find the church on the web at www.gbgm-umc.org/paulsumc/. The church's e-mail address is mychurch1@verizon.net

"Bloom Into Volunteering" set the stage for ways to involve the baby boomers in community activities. Opal Myers gave tips for getting members involved.

Committee suggestions were reported and requirements were mentioned. Members were asked to save clippings and pictures to use in a scrapbook. A community project will be selected at the next meeting. The Relay for Life yard sale will be in June.

Ressie Conrad was selected as CEOS Member of the Year for the Aurora club. Achievement Day will be April 3 at the Extension Office in Kingwood.

IT TAKES TWO TO HARMONIZE!

Whether you are buying a home or selling one, it is likely that once an Offer To Purchase is on the table, you'll enter a phase of the transaction called Negotiation. Fear not - this is how both sides "win." By following a few reasonable recommendations, both parties can turn Negotiation into Agreement.

It's best to begin with a fair asking price and a fair offer. Sellers, don't shoot for the moon. Buyers, don't lowball on a home you really want. Overpricing is a turnoff to potential buyers, while low offers may meet with outright rejection.

Next, understand and respect each other's priorities. Seller won't budge on price? Perhaps they would pay more of the transaction fees. Buyer urgently needs quick possession? Perhaps they would forgo some repairs.

This illustrates the value of compromise. A win-win situation doesn't necessarily mean that both parties get everything they demand. Avoid emotional decisions and be open to concessions. If you can't agree on a particular term, try meeting in the middle. Who will pay closing costs? Who will pay for cosmetic repairs? You needn't hold up the entire agreement when you can simply split the difference on certain terms and move forward.

DRAWING CONTEST WINNER CHOSEN AT BROAD FORD – Broad Ford Elementary School fifth graders recently participated in a drawing contest for the school yearbobk. Students were asked to draw a bobcat, the school's mascot, which will be featured on the first page of the 2007-08 yearbook. A picture of the winning artist and a picture of the school will appear on the page with the drawing. This year's yearbook is in full color and also features clip art from third, fourth, and fifth grade students. These clip art designs were projects completed in Diane Bateman's art classes. This year's winner of the drawing contest was Holly Weissgerber. Pictured are all of the other students whose drawings received honorable mention. These drawings will also be featured on the last two pages of the yearbook. TO PRESENT BELIEVE – Members of the Pleasant View Baptist Church, located 2 miles south of Oakland along Rt. 219, will offer the choral presentation Believe, under the direction of associate pastor Mark Weeks, on Sunday. "David T. Clydesdale and Steve Moore have teamed up to combine energetic music, lyrics, and other visuals, including filmed characters that enhance and support the greatest story ever, the story of Christ's death and resurrection," Weeks said. "Believe is a participatory, personal worship experience. Together we look through the eyes of these characters and experience the emotions of how Jesus affected them: the doubt that Thomas had to overcome, the heart of a mother watching the last week of her son's life, the political tensions of Pilate, and the control Caiphas exerted. And then we imagine how John must have felt the morning he ran to the empty tomb, to be greeted by angels." Pictured above in the front row, from left, are Laurel Baker, Mary Noland, Teresa Weeks, Trisha Wilt, Sheila Filsinger, Kim Rush, Holly O'Brien, and Julia Hooks. Middle row, same order: Mark Weeks, Jackie Gulledge, Laurie Noland, Cheryl Marple, Connie Brenneman, Kathy Tucker, Vivian Thayer, and Kelly Gover. Back row: Rick Brenneman, Wayne Miller, Andrew Foy, Bob Filsinger, Al Whitmer, Tom Tucker, Andrew Harvey, Walter Weeks, Marie Friend, Nina Miller, and Ron Gulledge. Not pictured are singers Joy Biddison, Dave Welch, and Debbie Welch. The public is invited to attend the presentation, which will be held on Sunday, March 16, at 7 p.m. For more information, persons may call the church at 301-334-8515.

CIVIC CLUB TAKES LOCAL ART ON THE ROAD – The GFWC/MFWC (General Federation of Women's Clubs/Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs) Western District Youth Art Show was held in LaVale on Saturday, March 8. The show featured the winning youth art from local shows in Cumberland, Oakland, and Frederick. Local youth artists garnered recognition in the contest. Shown above from left are Betty Ellington holding Erikah Lennox's work called "Stamps," which received an Honorable Mention; Anne Forrester displaying Devynn Brant's piece titled "Mom's Cats," which also received an Honorable Mention; judge of the show Jim Cumiskey, owner of Crushed Glass Art, Cumberland; Dorothy Cathell holding Terry Shaffer's "Stained Glass," which earned an Honorable Mention; and Helen Earles showing Carey Rush's "Blue and Yellow Random," which earned a 3rd place ribbon. The Civic Club of Oakland, which sponsored the local show and made the trip to the LaVale event, expressed congratulations to all of the participating students. Rush received a certificate, ribbon, and a cash prize, and now the artwork will be entered into the GFWC/MFWC State Youth Art Show in Baltimore, slated in April. The Honorable Mention winners received certificates and ribbons.

MONOTYPE WORKSHOP SLATED – Cumberland artist Jean Barnes Downs will present a workshop on printing monotypes with gelatin plates at the Discovery Center, Deep Creek Lake State Park, on March 28 and 29 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day. The two-day workshop presentation is sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council. A monotype is a print that is created by applying paint or ink to a plate and transferring the image to paper by means of a printing press or by hand. Since most of the ink comes off with the first printing, it is impossible to create more than one identical image from a single plate. Monotype is considered to be the most "painterly" of the fine art printing techniques, according to Downs, who will teach techniques of monotype printing using non-toxic water miscible oil paints to create luminous layers of color. Workshop participants will learn to create gelatin plates and to produce monotype images using stencils, brushes, and other media without the use of a printing press. Downs has worked with monotypes for more than 12 years, creating hundreds of prints that she said reflect her love of nature and concern for the environment. "Working through the creative process is akin to a journey," she said. "There is something in this process that connects us to a basic inner longing and to the giver of all creativity. The finished product is a joy-filled side benefit." The enrollment fee for the two-day workshop is $100, which includes all tools and materials. Prior registration is required. Additional information is available by contacting the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or garrettarts@earthlink.net.

Our Town Theat. Cast List, Slated Events Noted

The board of Our Town Theatre in Oakland has announced the cast for the dark Irish comedy The Cripple of Inishmaan by Martin McDonagh. The theatre will also host a Kidstuff event on Saturday.

Directed by Richard Hill, the play's cast is as follows: Joshua Elmlinger as Cripple Billy, Ashley Roush as Slippy Helen, Fred Jacoby as JohnnyPateenMike, Erin Peacock as Eileen, Christie Hamilton as Kate, Dylan Barnard as Bartley, Jack Spencer as BabbyBobby, Kelly Baker as Mammy, and Keith Fike as the Doctor. The stage manager will be Emily Elmlinger, assisted by Alexis Brenneman.

The play is set in 1934 on the small Aran Island community of Inishmaan, off the western coast of Ireland.

'The inhabitants are excited to learn that a Hollywood film is being made in neighboring Inishmore about life on the islands," Hill said. "'Cripple' Billy Claven tries to get a part in the film if only to escape the gossip and poverty of his island home."

The play's production dates are April 2 through 5 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 6, at 2 p.m. Tickets are $5 on Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday, and $8 on Friday and Saturday.

"This play contains violence, although not of a graphic nature, and crude language," Hill noted.

Reservations can be made by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640. The Cripple of Inishmaan is being produced through a special arrangement with the Dramatists Play Service, and is funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

REDEMPTION

From the heights of Golgotha
Three crosses on a hill
Fate of humanity in the balance
With collective sins exposed
And darkness descends throughout.
In that thin and fragile veil of death
Separating the known
From the mysterious unseen
Comes the words of one deity to another
"Into thy hands I commend my spirit."
The universe seemed to explode
As the very earth did quake
Solid rocks were split
And the temple curtains were rent in twain
And in that sacred moment
Time mingles with eternity.

HARD CALL
by John McCain, with Mark Salter
c. 2007, Twelve Books, $15.99, 480 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

In what might be the most interesting political year ever, with Democrats literally flipping coins in the voting booths and Republicans arguing over who is or isn't conservative, it looks like many people are standing with ballot in their hands and tough decisions in their heads.

In the newly re-released book Hard Call by Republican Senator John McCain (with Mark Salter), you'll read about some other big decisions that were made throughout history, and the impacts that were left on America because of them.

When pondering the qualities we want in a leader, it's easy to commend the calm determination of Abraham Lincoln, the stick-to-itiveness of Alexander Graham Bell, or the tactical expertise of Winston Churchill. Those men have their own chapters in this book, but equally engrossing are the stories of other determined people.

Starting with a heart-in-your-throat narrative of a fellow Vietnam soldier who made a well-informed, but wrong decision that resulted in capture, McCain offers up 20 tales of patience, strength of character, sense of timing, confidence, and other attributes of good leadership.

Baseball man Branch Rickey worked his Brooklyn Dodgers hard, and he earned their loyalty and that of the fans. Rickey was, by all accounts, a fair and moral man, but few knew his complete hatred for injustice. His need to see equality led him to quietly search for a baseball player with fortitude enough to stoically endure the inevitable epithets that would surely come if an invisible racial line were crossed. Branch Rickey found that player in Jackie Robinson.

For most of his life, King Camp Gillette was on the lookout for good ideas. His mentor was encouraging, but the elusive riches-making invention was always just outside Gillette's reach. When he finally realized what would make him wealthy and famous, it still took nearly a decade's worth of razor-sharp perseverance to refine the item that would make Gillette a household name.

Nobody ever told swimmer Gertrude Ederle that she couldn't do something. It was a sure-fire way to make sure Gertie did it. And even when her coaches tried to stop her, Gertie had enough confidence in herself to become a heroine.

If Senator John McCain somehow misses becoming the Republican candidate for this fall's election, he has a nice fall-back career on which he can rely: McCain's a darn good author.

Hard Call is part Washington and part inspiration. It's Profiles in Courage with a wider update. It contains a bit of McCain's political rhetoric, along with stories of good decisions, bad decisions, and ones that still cause debate. There's history in here, sports, science, commerce, and human interest.

In short, this is a thoroughly satisfying book for anyone, regardless of political leaning, campaign platform, or candidate support and, now out in paperback, it's a bargain at the lower price.

If you're having a hard time with your own political decisions this year or if you just want to savor some thoughtful stories, get a copy of this book. Reading and enjoying Hard Call is not hard at all.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO GARRETT COUNTY RESIDENTS

Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad

Garrett County Emergency Services
6 a.m. - 6 p.m., Monday - Friday

Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad has been serving the needs of the public for 35 years, all hours of the day and night, weekends, holidays, family events, etc. We are a proud organization, very willing to go the distance to solve the needs of the public.

Over the past 7 months, we have been involved with numerous meetings with the County officials to initiate the SWOTs (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats) recommendations of providing much needed coverage at times when volunteers have been scarce.

Due to lack of coordination of the County and a one-sided MOU (Memorandum of Understanding), NGCRS did not accept the MOU presented by the County at that time.

On January 3, 2008, a meeting with members of the board and ORC of both squads, as well as county administrator and attorney, State Medical Director and his officials, was held to review and negotiate an MOU that was acceptable to both the county and rescue squads. This meeting proved to be a mutual cooperation between county representatives and the rescue squads; however, this revised MOU was never executed by the County.

In an early letter to the squads dated September 18, 2007, Monty Pagenhardt quoted "cooperation and working together will provide the residents and visitors to Garrett County with quality pre-hospital emergency medical care." It seems that there has been little or no cooperation and communication when it comes to a few sticking points within the MOU which were shared with the purchasing department, and it is questionable whether all our concerns were reviewed.

In light of receipt of the MOU document this morning (3-12-08) which was already signed by County Administrator Pagenhardt and County Commissioner Glotfelty, and awaiting the Rescue Squads signatures, there seems to be no avenue for negotiations.

Our concerns of the current MOU are as follows:

1. The assignment/schedule which requires a personnel schedule a month in advance is not feasible. Two weeks in advance is more acceptable.
2. Deployment of GCES personnel to be jointly assigned to stations, with Paramedics and EMT remaining together at all times, which would create extra peers that could be utilized at other times.
3. The MOU provided no compromise in the solicitation of annual subscription service to the citizens, which most often serves as co-pay for services provided.
4. GCES coverage is limited as stated in the MOU to 12 hour shifts and does not address 24/7 coverage.

We understand that there is an option for review by any or both parties; however, if the MOU is not deemed acceptable by squad and not signed, then the last several months have not accomplished anything. So we ask the county why not negotiate the MOU.

Due to the lack of negotiations thus far, what could possibly lead us to believe that our concerns would be addressed after signing the MOU as it stands?

A major concern is county-wide communications and the infrastructure to assure that adequate emergency alerts are heard by all EMS providers which would help eliminate delayed responses of EMS. These concerns have been voiced many times over the years with no satisfaction in regards to our alerting system.

It is time that the general public understands that NGCRS wishes to maintain quality EMS services for many years to come; however, the future of volunteer services may be compromised If It is found the County is not willing to cooperate and hear these legitimate concerns.

Rams Second At States; Scheffel Wins Title #2

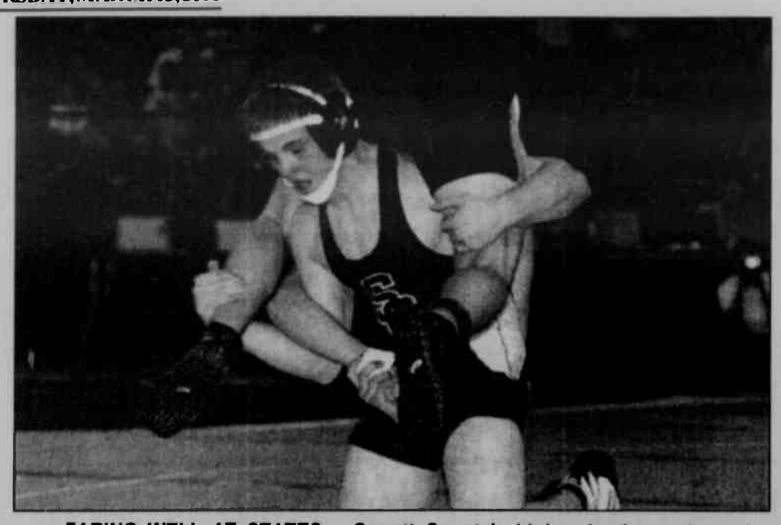
Led by now two-time state champion George Scheffel, the Southern High School wrestling team captured second place in the Maryland State Class 1A/2A Championships, an event involving teams and/or individuals from 66 high schools and held this past Friday and Saturday at Cole Field House in College Park.

Scheffel, who was the state champ last year in the 103-pound division, won the 125-pound division title when he edged Brian Marcoux of Glenelg, 3-2, in overtime.

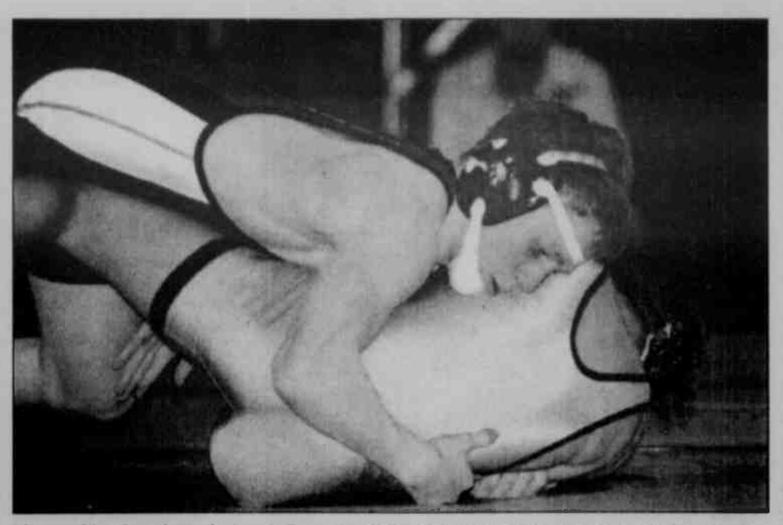
En route to the final bout, Scheffel pinned Luke Harris of Mardela High School in 1:42, and flattened both of his next two opponents on points, recording a 22-5 win over Evan Shebel of River Hill, and a 24-8 thrashing of Josh Harper of Hammond. He finished the season with an overall personal record of 39-1.

As a team, the Rams amassed 105 points to finish second only to Glenelg, which recorded 134.5 points. Owings Mills placed third with 96.5 points, followed by South Carroll with 95, Walkersville with 85.5, River Hill with 70.5, and Mountain Ridge with 61. The Northern Huskies placed 16th with 35 points.

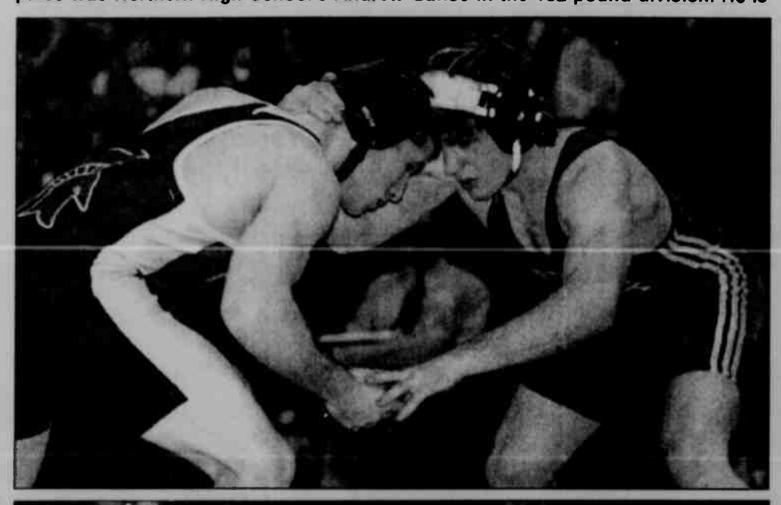
Southern freshman Lex Ozias, who went into the championship bout of the 112-pound division with a perfect 39-0 record, brought home the runner-up trophy, as he was edged in the title bout by Scott Mantua of River Hill, 8-4.



Southern's Jakob Scheffel, also a freshman, lost just one match in the tournament and placed third in the 130-pound division, while heavyweight Sean Sisler garnered fourth place and Matt Armstrong finished fifth in the 103-pound division.

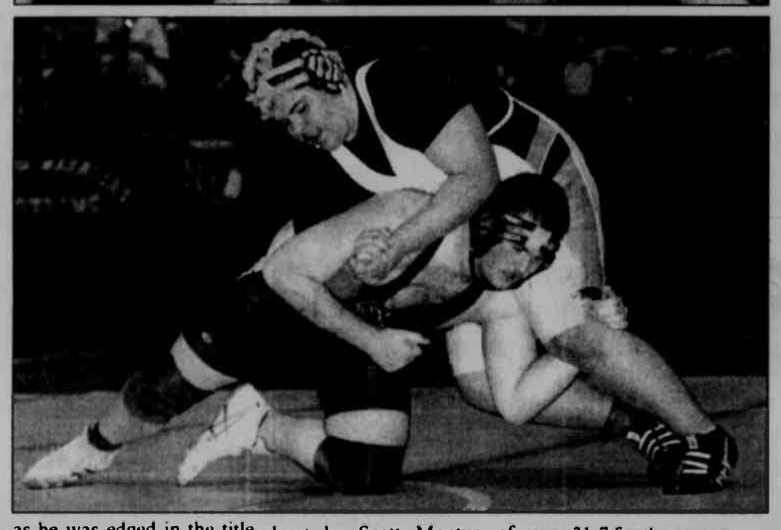


Jakob Scheffel concluded his season with a 40-4 record, setting a Southern High record for the most wins in a season. Sisler wrapped up his senior year with a 31-8 mark, while Armstrong, also a senior, was 31-7 for the season.

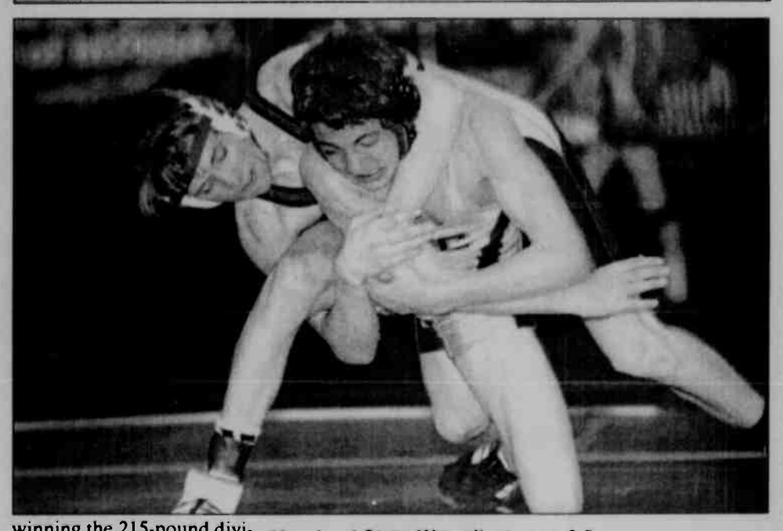


For the Northern Huskies, Andy Ganoe concluded his high school career by finishing second in the 152-pound division, as he was edged by Tim Chase of Glenelg, 6-3, in the final. Ganoe finished with a 34-4 record for the season and an 84-26 mark for his four-year high school career.

Placing fourth in the 160-pound division was Northern junior Dustin Stough, who finished the year with a 35-5 record.



Noah DeVore (41-1) of Mountain Ridge, Frostburg, was also a state champion, winning the 215-pound division title.



FARING WELL AT STATES – Garrett County's high school wrestlers who qualified for the Maryland State 1A/2A Tournament, held last weekend in College Park, were among the top finishers in the state, led by now two-time champion George Scheffel of Southern High School. Scheffel, a sophomore, is pictured above left handling his opponent in the title bout of the 125-pound division much like a sack of flour; however, it was in triple overtime that he edged his opponent for the championship. Scheffel was the reigning champion in the 103-pound division. Finishing as runner-up in the 112-pound division was Southern freshman Lex Ozias, who is pictured above in control of his opponent. Ozias had a 39-0 record going into the title bout, and was edged on points, 8-4. Also earning a second place was Northern High School's Andrew Ganoe in the 152-pound division. He is pictured in the photo below left, to the right. Below right is Southern freshman Jakob Scheffel tying up his opponent in the 130-pound division, in which he placed third. Concluding his SHS career with a fourth place in the heavyweight division was Sean Sisler, who is pictured bottom left with his opponent on this back. Next to the bottom on the right is Northern junior Dustin Stough putting a headlock on his opponent in the 160-pound division. He finished fourth. At bottom right, Southern senior Matt Armstrong puts a lock on his opponent in a 103-pound division bout. Armstrong placed fifth in that division. As a team, the Rams placed second among 66 teams, while the Huskies finished 16th. See story for details. Photos courtesy of Del Carpenter.

Garrett Squad Heats Up For JUCO National Championship

The Garrett College women's basketball team earned a chance to play for the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Division II National Championship after defeating Cecil College in the NJCAA Region XX Championship. The Lakers will travel to Illinois Central College for the national tournament from March 19 to 22.

"All the team's hard work is paying off," sophomore center Mindy Sharp said. "After we beat Cecil for the Region XX Championship, I've never dreamed so much in my life. I was so excited. I can't wait to go to Illinois."

The Lakers take their 23-4 record to the national tournament for only the second time in the school's history. The team jumped several hurdles to make it to the national championship. They beat Division II 13th-ranked Allegany College after losing to them during the regular season and during the Maryland JUCO tournament championship. Then the team defeated 25th-ranked Hagerstown during the Maryland JUCO tournament.

Even though they lost to Cecil during the regular season, the Garrett Lakers battled against the Seahawks in the final game of the Region XX Tournament.

"When we came out of the locker room, I've never seen us more together as a team. Everybody wanted it," Sharp said. And they got it. The Lakers came away with a victory against the 23rd-ranked Seahawks, winning them the Region XX Championship.

"We've come a long way," said Garrett head coach Thea Garland. "We were immature in the beginning. We continued to get better over the course of the year, not only athletically, but also mentally. I'm proud of what we've accomplished."

Sophomore Tegra "Kitty" Hillman made the All-Maryland JUCO Tournament team. She was also named Region XX Tournament MVP.

"I was shocked and crying when they announced my name. But they were tears of joy," said Hillman, who plays both point guard and shooting guard for the team. "I'm so excited and glad we made it this year because it's my last year at Garrett College."

Sharp also made the All-Region XX Tournament team, and freshman Tanika "Tiki" Jeffers made the All-Maryland JUCO Tournament team.

The Lakers will head to East Peoria, Ill., for the NJCAA National Tournament during the college's spring break week. The seeding has yet to be set for the tournament.

"We are proud of the accomplishments that our women's basketball team has made this season," said Garrett College athletic director Ann Wellham. "Garrett is one of only 12 community colleges in the United States that has qualified for the Division II Women's Basketball NJCAA National Tournament. These young ladies have worked very hard to get to where they are today, and I am certain that they will represent us well."

Coach Garland attributed the Lakers' success to their hard work, dedication and the support of the college. She was appreciative of the support of the college president, Dr. Paul Dauphinais, who was a regular at Lakers basketball games this season.

"It was great to see the president at our games," Coach Garland said. "I believe his being there was one of the driving forces behind the success we've had this year – the team seeing him at the games lending his support was uplifting."

"Getting to a national tournament in a sport such as basketball is a great accomplishment for the team, the coaches, and the school," Dr. Dauphinais said. "I am happy for all of the players and wish the team the very best in Illinois."

The college held a send-off party for the team on today in the college cafe to show its pride, support, and best wishes for the team.

Lakers Edged Despite Carr's Three-Run HR

Corey Carr homered with two men on in the top of the first inning, giving the Garrett College baseball team a 3-0 lead, but Allegany College of Maryland rallied for three runs in the bottom of the ninth to collect a 7-6 win.

Behind the arm of Bobby Hartman, who finished with eight strikeouts, Allegany was able to move into the winning column. Hartman allowed just two runs after the first inning slip.

Lee Bainbridge doubled, singled, and had one RBI, and Taylor Wheaton singled twice and collected two RBI in the win for the Trojans. Cody Young rapped a triple and scored on a double from A.J. Czap.

Leading Garrett at the plate, after Carr, were Alex Barth and Joe Wilt with two hits apiece. Barth scored two runs, and Wilt drove in a pair. Jordan Tetrick, who entered the game as a pinch batter in the eighth, tapped out a double, and Keith Johnson recorded an RBI single.

The Lakers (4-4) play Saturday in Myrtle Beach against Lakeland before taking on County College of Morris and Mercer County Community College on Sunday.

I've been in contact with groups representing hundreds of Kansas residents upset their governor would allow political ambition (she's seeking national office) to replace common sense. This couldn't happen in Maryland, could it...?

Jon Boone

To the Editor:

I think it is important that the public be made aware of some very important facts that I presented to the PSC at last Thursday's Criterion wind turbine hearing. These facts speak to the highly irregular procedure that the PSC and Criterion are using to affect, if not improperly influence, public comment in this matter.

The PSC has published at least three different versions of the application submitted by Criterion. One version on their web site contained absolutely no information or map showing the location of the project, even though the document states that it does so. Another version posted at the Ruth Enlow Library contains a topographic map of the Loch Lynn Heights area, again with no turbine locations identified.

No document has ever been posted by the PSC showing the location of Criterion's 28 industrial wind turbines.

The PSC's own instructions for these applications state, "Every effort will be made to process and approve your application expeditiously. The Commission will not, however, consider incomplete applications." For some reason, the PSC is ignoring its own requirements and processing an application that any reasonable person would find incomplete.

Wind turbine companies can now apply to be exempted from the usual rules of public and government scrutiny. This is the PSC's new "fast track" process. The fast tracking exemption allows utilities and the PSC to avoid the responsibility for identifying and evaluating the harmful effects of an industrial wind turbine project. Fast tracking gives citizens little time or opportunity to uncover the harmful effects of these industrial projects or to see information that should otherwise be forthcoming. For the PSC to compound the problem and participate in denying public information is absolutely outrageous.

These serious irregularities were brought to the attention of the People's Counsel, PSC Chairman Larsen, and PSC Executive Secretary Romine's attention long before the hearing was held. There has been absolutely no response from these people – complete and absolute silence on the matter. I personally requested Chairman Larsen and the People's Counsel to move to intervene and reject Criterion's application, require them to reapply with complete documentation, and to reschedule the hearing. That never occurred.

The PSC's silence and lack of response is even more troubling than the project itself, especially when citizens are denied their fundamental right to be fully informed.

To the Editor:

Congratulations, citizens of Oakland. You won the town of Oakland elections on Monday, March 10, by rejecting the politics of fear and smear.

There was a highly organized effort by a small special interest group that sought to force its will on the majority. But democracy won!

The narrow-minded agenda of the opposition was recognized for what it was – an effort to inflame the public with false information. Thanks to you, they failed, and re-elected to two-year terms were Mayor Asa McCain and council members Peggy Jamison and Sherwin Teagarden.

This success is your success! And you can rest assured that the mayor and town council will protect the interests of Oakland and move projects forward, as fast as is prudent! The Third Street bridge will proceed in a manner that does not endanger the downtown area.

In their failed bid to take over the town, the opposition candidates could only muster vague position statements, all without substance. We heard that they were "for strong fiscal responsibility," wanted "tax revenues...to be applied to...providing necessary services," whined that "the Third Street bridge is long overdue," warned that "the Streetscape program...must be carefully evaluated," insisted that they will "respect public input from citizens and business owners," and proclaimed "Now is the time to...listen to and address issues of concern," etc., etc.

What balderdash! Of course they want those things. We all want those things. And we have all been receiving those things from the present mayor and town council members of Oakland, with a limited amount of money, that had to make many tough decisions with the best information at hand.

In government, here are only two choices when it comes to providing services to the citizens. You can either cut programs or raise taxes. People such as the opposition candidates want you to believe that they can turn a dying pine into a money tree. They want to criticize their elected representatives without first learning what choices were available and why decisions were made the way they were. It is all too easy to unjustly criticize what you don't comprehend.

To hear them talk, you can only imagine that any position taken by City Hall that they don't understand must be the wrong position. And by crying in the wilderness, without benefit of having done their homework, they were ill-prepared to accomplish much of anything had they been elected.

Way to go, Oakland!

Play-Date Themes Celebrate Multi Cultures, Dr. Seuss

Landon's Library, a non-profit organization with a mission to promote reading activities among young children, has hosted its regularly monthly play-dates in February and March, and the April event is being planned. The events are held at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, and are designed for toddlers.

The theme for February was "Multi-Cultural... All Around the World Party," and the March event was a "Dr. Seuss Party." In April, playmates will take part in a "Sesame Street Party."

Landon's Library February Play-Date took place on Feb. 2, featuring the multicultural theme. Playmates "visited" China and made lucky money envelopes with the help of Alexis Shaffer, arrived in Italy and made pizza, went on an African safari, visited Scotland, and heard bagpipes played by local musician Paul Browning.

The children also learned to say "hello" in many different languages. Each playmate took home the book Dora the Explorer Valentine to add to their Landon's Library book collections.

The business sponsors of the February event were Judge Daryl and Liz Walters, Garrett County Whitetails Unlimited, and the Oakland Rotary Club. Rotarians volunteered at the event as well.

The March monthly play-date was held on March 1. This month's theme was the Dr. Seuss party. Landon's Library partnered with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and the National Read Across America Initiative for this event.

At each station, playmates experienced some of Dr. Seuss's books. In keeping with the book There's a Wocket in My Pocket, they made a pocket and a "wocket." They fished for red fish and blue fish, in keeping with the Seuss book One Fish, Two Fish, Red Fish, Blue Fish, and they played egg games after reading Green Eggs and Ham.

"Dr. Seuss" greeted all the children before their make-believe trains departed, and read to them at Landon's Make Believe Station. Each child was sent home with two books: There's a Wocket in My Pocket and An Easter Gift for Me.

In addition to celebrating Dr. Seuss, the playmates also focused on the Easter season.

Landon's Library leaders expressed thanks to the March individual sponsor, Evan Sisler.

"We thank Evan for his generosity, kindness, and the gift of eternal friendship," said Crystal Roberson-Boal.

Thanks were also expressed to the business sponsor, the office of Dr. Albert W. Getty, DDS, PC, for providing toothbrushes to all playmates, and to Leslie Warnick and Donna Callis of Dr. Getty's office for reading to all the children. Grand Central Station and Four All Seasons Gift Shop donated Ty bunnies, chicks, and sheep for each playmate.

Landon's Library's next play-date will be held on Saturday, April 5, from 11 to noon at the Ruth Enlow Library. This "Sesame Street Party" will be sponsored by business contributors Allegany Hearing and Balance LLC and Wal-Mart. Persons may register children to attend by calling the Ruth Enlow Library at 301-334-3996.

LOTS TO DO AT PLAY-DATES – Children who attend Landon's Library play-dates on the first Saturday of every month always find plenty to do throughout the 11 a.m. to noon hour. The events are held at the Ruth Enlow Library each month and are hosted by Landon's Library, a non-profit organization dedicated to the benefits of reading with young children. March's theme was a "Dr. Seuss Party," and February's was "Multi-Cultural... All Around the World Party." See story for details.

Frostburg State To Host Women's History Event

In celebration of Women's History Month, all women are invited to attend "Celebrating Women's Leadership" on Thursday, March 27, at 6 p.m. in the Lane Center at Frostburg State University. The event is sponsored by the J. Glenn Beall Jr. Institute for Public Affairs, the Leadership Studies minor program, the Women's Studies minor program, the Political Science Department, the History Department, and the Communication Studies Department. Light refreshments will be served.

The event will feature Beverly Byron, former congresswoman of Maryland, and Jan Gardner, president of the Frederick County Commission and president of the Maryland Association of Counties. Byron and Gardner will offer brief comments about how women's leadership has changed during their lifetimes. They will then be joined by other invited women leaders and women's history researchers for an interactive discussion about women's past, current, and future leadership.

Other participants include Dawn Lindsey, Allegany clerk of court; Mary Beth Pirolozzi, Cumberland city councilwoman, executive director of Allegany County United Way, and FSU alumna; Dr. Gregory Wood, assistant professor of history at FSU; and Al Feldstein, local historian and creator of the "Buttons of the Cause" collection.

Several FSU female student leaders will also be offering their perspectives during this interactive exchange. The discussion will be highlighted by video clips of women leaders, Feldstein's button collection, and other artifacts from local women's history. Following the discussion, students will have the opportunities for one-on-one networking with the participants.

For more information, persons may contact professor Timothy Magrath, lecturer of political science and executive director of the J. Glenn Beall Jr. Institute for Public Affairs, at 301-687-4080 or tmagrath@frostburg.edu

Hearing Held

Russell said travelers seek out hotels with larger accommodations, such as suites with luxury amenities.

"We believe that transient hotel development is vital to the future growth and economy of Garrett County," she said. "And that our zoning codes should be very encouraging of providing land designation for truly transient guests."

Russell said the chamber felt, however, that some of the wording in the current proposal was restrictive and would hinder future growth.

"We feel the code is stepping into operational issues," she added.

The current amendment would not allow individual utility connections metered separately to individual guest rooms and suites. Russell said this could potentially limit future ownership and operational options, such as condominiums.

She also asked the commissioners to consider defining "transient" guest, and suggested that it mean one who stays no more than 30 days in the hotel/motel.

"We didn't see a definition for transient," said chamber board member Bob Browning, about the current draft. "And that really is what this all boils down to, [if] we're worried about hotels and motels turning into fulltime residences – condominiums, apartments, or whatever."

Nelson said the commissioners received three written comments on the proposed amendment, which were entered into the public record during Tuesday's hearing. Others wanting to present their views have until March 25 to do so.

paying" jobs during the peak of construction. After the project is completed, four to six full-time operations and maintenance workers will be employed, Rackstraw noted.

Several local residents opposed the exemption and the project in general because of possible negative effects on wildlife, property values, view sheds, beauty, human well-being, water tables, and heritage issues.

"I am absolutely heart broken about this," said Elene Stoger, Frostburg Road (Garrett County). "This is our children's legacy."

Accountant Jeff Conner, Avilton, questioned the project's "benefits." He indicated that decreases in real estate values, tourism dollars, and other factors would end up costing the county more than the $700,000 a year it would get in tax revenues from the project.

Conner also noted that the 110-120 promised jobs would be only for one year.

Other opponents said the project was not an old one, as described by Rackstraw, and that more studies needed to be conducted.

"The size and scope of this project has changed significantly," said Paul Durham, Oakland. "I think the PSC has an obligation to look at this again."

"You're our only hope right now – please listen to us," Annie Barstow, Frostburg (Garrett County), told the PSC.

She said granting Clipper an exemption would be a precedent setting move. She indicated that other companies were ready to take advantage of the new expedited review process, which would result in many more wind turbines being constructed.

"This is not just about Backbone, it's potentially about all of Garrett County," Barstow said.

Six others residents, however, said they supported wind energy and asked the PSC to approve Clipper's application. Some stressed the need for clean energy, while others defended the rights of private property owners.

"Windmills are all over the country, and other places don't complain about them like we do here," said Garrett County native Donald Riley, who owns property on Backbone Mountain. "I don't see what the problem is."

He pointed out that the county and land owners who have leases with Clipper would lose much money if the project is not approved.

George Futch, Swanton, said the project would provide jobs. He said people talk about turbines spoiling the natural beauty of the county. Referring to development at Deep Creek Lake, he asked the crowd, "But what do you think of three- to four-story condos?"

"Wind power is not perfect," said Steven Friend, who also owns property on Backbone Mtn., noting that the technology was still in its infancy. "But I'm proud to support wind power."

He added that people should be able to lease their land if they choose.

"If you had property on the lake and wanted to build a mini-motel there, do you think I have any right to tell you no?" he asked the crowd.

Friend said his biggest fear is that Backbone will turn into another Deep Creek Lake.

"I'm very excited about having progressive energy," said new Garrett County resident Anita Michael. She asked the crowd to be open to change and look at the positive aspects of the turbine project.

Michael added that modern technology does not bring property values down, it is the lack of home maintenance.

"Homes that are run down are not beautiful," she said. "If you want to fight something, fight that."

The PSC has extended the public comment period on the exemption application until April 7. Written testimony may be sent to the Public Service Commission, 6 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, MD 21202 (Re: Case No. 8938).

The PSC will hold an administrative meeting on the application in Baltimore on April 23. Interested persons may attend that event and submit oral comments.

Prior to that meeting, Moorehouse said, the technical staff will review the issue and make recommendations. Those comments will be available on the PSC web site, he said.

RECEIVES AAUW SCHOLARSHIP – Local AAUW (American Association of University Women) president Marilyn Moors, right, extends congratulations to Autumn Newcomb-Shay, the winner of the group's $500 Second Chances for Women Scholarship. On Saturday, Newcomb-Shay and 14 other Garrett County women attended a scholarship workshop sponsored by the AAUW, the Business and Professional Women of Garrett County, and Garrett College. Newcomb-Shay will work with the AAUW members and college staff to begin her return to school soon.

Roger Uber New Entrepreneur In Vending Business

by Peggy Santamaria

When opportunity knocked, Roger Uber of Mtn. Lake Park greeted it with characteristic enthusiasm. Offered the chance to start his own business, his answer was a resounding yes. He wanted to try it.

For about 15 years Roger has participated in the programs of Appalachian Crossroads, an Oakland-based agency providing training and employment opportunities for people with developmental disabilities. As a member of a contract work crew, Roger has more than proven his worth as an employee, according to Scott Hollingsworth, director of day programs at Appalachian Crossroads.

Joe Blanco of the Oakland office of the Maryland Division of Rehabilitation Services (DORS) works with Hollingsworth on many projects for Appalachian Crossroads clients. Previously, the two of them had identified vending machine service as a potentially viable business opportunity for a member of the Appalachian Crossroads program.

LAUNCHING AN ENTERPRISE – Receiving a congratulatory handshake on the first day of operation for his new vending business was Roger Uber, left, from Ken Jordon, purchasing agent for First United Bank and Trust. The bank is one of the first locations at which Roger installed his vending machines. Below, the new business owner proudly displays the bank deposit slip representing the first earnings from his new business. See story.

"Roger demonstrates commitment in all facets of his life," Blanco said. "I knew that if we could chart a course for him, he would take the reins."

When Hollingsworth approached Roger about this opportunity, he responded that he was very willing to give it a shot.

"I thought it sounded like something I would enjoy doing," Roger said. "I was excited and told him, 'Let's get this ball a rollin'."

Lots of proverbial ducks needed to get in a row in order to help Roger achieve this goal. A detailed business plan would need to be approved in order to access funding for start-up costs and job coaching. The plan would include market analysis, cost of equipment, vendors, target markets, and more.

"Roger came to us every day to find out what progress we were making," Hollingsworth said.

Hollingsworth developed an in-depth business plan, covering costs and projections, which was submitted to DORS for approval. Roger got the green light for his business, after whichfunding for start-up costs and job coaching was secured.

Roger's Vending Service would begin modestly with two locations in Oakland and following the maxim that Roger "would keep his day job" with the work crew. He would cut back his crew work to four days each week, dedicating one day to serving his new clients.

Proper licensing was secured, and contracts were negotiated with his two clients. Roger then installed machines that offer snack foods to a total of about 70 customers.

"There's a lot to do to get a business started," Roger said.

Ken Cruise of Appalachian Crossroads, who became Roger's job coach, said that his new "recruit" already had a good work ethic and a positive attitude.

"Roger loves this new work he is doing," Cruise said. "He looks forward to going out to service the machines, and everyone at the sites knows him."

Would Roger like to expand his business or does he have plans to do so?

"Maybe we'll get some more machines," Roger said. "We need to have a meeting to talk about that."

Joe Blanco is confident that DORS made the right decision to back Roger in his endeavor.

"He has always been pleasant, and since he started this business he has become more professional. It shows in his attitude and his attire," Blanco said.

"I really like doing this work with the vending machines. It doesn't even seem like work to me," Roger said.

It doesn't get much better than that.

DUELING FOR TIPS – Volunteers for affiliated United Way agencies will be competing for tips at United Way's Food, Foolishness and Fun dinner on April 1. The event, to be held at St. Peter's Parish Hall in Oakland from 5 to 8 p.m., will feature volunteers dressed in costume, serving pasta dinners with the hope of getting tips for their favorite charities. "While the competition for tips is all in good fun, we are expecting to see some pretty entertaining waiters and waitresses," said Ernie Gregg, a United Way volunteer. "Hopefully they will keep it civilized." The dinner will feature pasta dishes with choices of special sauces, side dishes, and desserts from Garrett County restaurants. John MacGowan, one of the event planners, noted that restaurant owners and grocers are "jumping in" to support the event. "Not only will they be donating food and supplies, but some have volunteered to send staff to help cook and assist with serving," he said. Volunteer servers will be representing Garrett County Community Action, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Mountain Glade Adult Day Care, Boy Scouts (Potomac Council), Girl Scouts (Black Diamond Council), Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, Western Potomac Chapter of American Red Cross, Maryland Salem Children's Trust, Mountain Laurel Medical Center, and the Dove Center. Tickets to the event, which are $15 for adults and $7 for children (pre-schoolers admitted free), are available at United Way agencies, Brenda's Pizzeria, Gregg's Pharmacy, Four Seasons Restaurant, Will O' the Wisp, and the Oakland office of First United Bank. All proceeds will benefit the United Way of Garrett County. Pictured from left are volunteer servers Bob Stephens, Ernie Gregg, and Tim Watson.

by Bethany Rexroad

The Country Kids 4-H Club held its February meeting at the Deer Park Community Building. President Briana Wagner called the meeting to order. Adam Rexroad led the pledges.

A report on tubing was given by Derek DeWitt, and Melissa Wagner reported on ski day.

Club members were reminded of Achievement Night being held at Southern High School on April 5. Each family is to bring a finger food. The food buffet will start at 6:30 p.m., with the program at 7 p.m.

A door prize was chosen, and a family was assigned to get the door prize.

Members were also reminded of Regional Public Speaking. Any member who was interested could see Susan Rexroad, leader, or look in their Party Line for more information.

Before the meeting was adjourned, each member gave a 30-second radio spot promoting 4-H.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, March 19, at 7 p.m. at the Deer Park Community Building. Activities will be planned for the coming year.

TRAILBLAZERS

By Laura Smith
reporter

The Trailblazers 4-H Club met recently at Yough Glades School. The meeting was called to order by Melinda Smith, president, and pledges were led by the Clovers. Eight members and six new members were present.

Under old business, record books and enrollment forms were collected. Members were reminded of 4-H Ski Days and officer training.

New business included discussion about livestock snow tubing, scholarship information, and the date for 4-H camp this summer.

The 2008 year was planned. Some activities will include attending an environmental program at Herrington Manor, farm tours and a family picnic, making food baskets for families, a fall social, and an ATV safety program.

The Clover members made heart bird feeders and Valentine ornaments.

Anyone who would like to join 4-H may contact the Garrett County Extension Office.

RESTORATION GROUP RECEIVES CHECK – The Mount Beulah Restoration Association recently received a $1,000 donation from the Willie Warnick family. The association plans to renovate the Mt. Beulah Methodist Church, located along Twin Churches Road in New Germany. Willie Warnick family members are the direct descendants of John Bancord. In 1882, Bancord sold land to a congregation for $1 so it could build Mt. Beulah. It later became known as New Germany United Methodist Church and has been vacant for about 30 years. Pictured at left is Diana Deal, association president, accepting the check from William Mahlon Warnick, the oldest living member of the Willie Warnick family. Persons who would like more information about the restoration project or who would like to make a donation may call Deal at 301-616-6546 (days) or 301-746-7222 (evenings).

Church Committee Plans "Cash Bash," Seeks Donations

Planning is under way for a fundraising event to benefit St. Ann's Catholic Church, Grantsville, which suffered sizable structure damage in a Dec. 23, 2007, fire. The church's fundraising committee is planning a "Cash Bash" for July 19, and is currently looking for help.

The committee is looking for sponsors to help offset the cost of holding the Cash Bash by donating money or prizes to be given away during the event. Large prizes may be raffled at the Cash Bash as a separate drawing. Any organization providing a donation of cash or prizes will be recognized in a prize booklet that will be distributed with all ticket sales.

Because a portion of the church building was destroyed by fire and the remainder was heavily smoke damaged, a new church is being built. Groundbreaking for the new building is currently under way, and rebuilding is expected to last approximately one year. The new building is larger and can therefore accommodate the growth of the congregation as well as provide a fellowship space.

For questions or to make a donation, persons may call Steve Adams at 301-687-0233.

Financial Manager Training Service Slated At College

SkillPath, a nationally recognized business training provider, is coming to Garrett County to conduct "Fundamentals of Finance and Accounting for Non-financial Managers." Available through Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development, this two-day seminar offers practical financial skills that will help participants make better management decisions and gain knowledge they can use throughout their careers.

"Managers will gain the finance and accounting savvy required to plan budgets, justify requests and spot problems before they get out of hand," said a spokesperson for the college. "Although the seminar is scheduled to be held on May 13 and 14 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in McHenry, the registration deadline is fast approaching."

A minimum of 20 participants must be signed up by March 14 in order for the training to be offered in Garrett County.

"The SkillPath trainers are specialists in their fields who make learning finance and accounting principles more engaging," the spokesperson said.

How to understand and use accounting and financial terms as well as translating data into useful concepts makes up the first section to be covered. A crash course on finance for managers will be included, and will address concepts of budgeting, expenses and revenues on cash and accrual basis, identifying fixed versus variable costs, and understanding payables and receivables.

"The third section deals with what managers often find confusing – understanding and interpreting financial statements and reports," said the spokesperson. Participants will learn how to compute net worth and stockholders' equity, the "T" accounting system, and how to sort transactions into debits and credits.

The ultimate goal of the course, and the fourth section, is to help managers use financial tools to make better management decisions, including evaluating financial performance and determining realistic growth projections. Finally, financial software packages will be discussed along with what they can and cannot do.

For more information or to register, persons may contact Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069 or via e-mail at kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

Master Gardener Program Slated For Educators

A 14-session "Master Gardener Program" will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays starting on April 8 and ending on May 22 from 1 to 4 p.m. at Garrett College.

The course is designed to train volunteer horticulture educators for the Maryland Cooperative Extension. Students will learn about safe, effective, and sustainable horticulture practices that build healthy gardens, landscapes, and communities. The class is an offering of the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College.

Topics to be covered include botany, composting, diagnosing plant problems, entomology, lawn care, soils and fertilizers, and tree and shrub care.

"Students will become 'master gardeners' after successfully completing the class and subsequently completing 40 hours of volunteer work," said a spokesperson for the course.

For more information or to register, persons may contact Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069 or via e-mail at kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

MTN. LAKE WATER SYSTEM IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER

The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities (DPU) is providing the following notice regarding the Mtn. Lake Water System. Our water system recently violated a drinking water standard. Although this was not an emergency, as our customers, you have the right to know what happened and what we did to correct this situation.

We routinely monitor for drinking water turbidity (cloudiness) because this is an unfiltered water system under the direct influence of surface water Water samples for February showed that 5.7 percent of turbidity measurements were over 1 turbidity unit – the standard is that no more than 5 percent of samples may exceed 1 turbidity unit per month. The turbidity levels are relatively low. However, their persistence is a concern. Normal turbidity levels at our plant are < 1 unit.

What should I do?

You do not need to boil your water or take other actions. We do not know of any contamination, and none of our testing has shown disease-causing organisms in the drinking water

People with severely compromised immune systems, infants, and some elderly may be at increased risk. These individuals should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from EPA's Safe Drinking Water Act Hotline (800-426-4791).

What does this mean?

Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can interfere with disinfection and provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity may indicate the presence of disease causing organisms. These organisms include bacteria, viruses, and parasites which can cause symptoms such as nausea, cramps, diarrhea, and associated headaches. These symptoms are not caused only by organisms in drinking water. If you experience any of these symptoms and they persist, you may want to seek medical advice.

What happened? What was done?

A problem occurred with the treatment system at the water plant. Due to the direct influence of surface water, heavy rains and snow melt caused an increase in turbidity during short periods of time. DPU is currently working on a new well system that will eliminate future surface water influence. Any questions or concerns should be directed to Allen Festerman at 301-387-9141. Please share this information with others that may find it useful.

Hoyes, Paradise UM Ministries Holy Week Slated

The Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries of Hoyes and Paradise has announced its schedule of activities slated for Holy Week.

Activities will begin with Palm Sunday (March 16) worship services at the Hoyes Chapel at 9 a.m. and at Paradise Chapel at 10 a.m. Palm fronds will be distributed to those in attendance, and may be waved during the singing of Palm Sunday hymns that recall Jesus' entry into Jerusalem. The service will also include scripture, a message from Pastor Sam Wachter, and a children's message.

"The church is encouraging meditation prayer and spiritual reflection during Holy Week," said a church spokesperson, and has seven prayer centers set in the sanctuary of Hoyes Chapel on Maundy Thursday, March 20, and again on Good Friday, March 21, at Paradise Chapel. These prayer centers will be available from 4 until 7 p.m. each day.

Each center will include a table, candlelight, and an activity or focus "to enhance spiritual reflection." The activities offered include finger labyrinths, prayer beads, clay, stones, a quilt, art and poetry, and Holy Communion. Instructions will also be offered to guide individuals through the experiences.

Communion will be consecrated at 4 p.m. Persons may silently work their way through the prayer centers and conclude by silently partaking in Holy Communion anytime between 4 and 7 p.m. Individuals may take as much time as they need at each station.

Easter Sunrise services will be held at 6:30 a.m. at the home of Ed and Brenda Roszell on Ridgeway Heights Road (off Fire Tower Road). Those attending are invited to bring a poem, story, or song to share in between Easter songs and the reading of the Holy Word. Easter breakfast will follow at the Hoyes Chapel. Persons attending are encouraged to bring a favorite breakfast item to share. Beverages will be provided.

Easter Sunday worship services will begin at Hoyes Chapel at 9 a.m. and at Paradise Chapel at 10 a.m. Each service will feature the singing of Easter hymns, a message by Pastor Wachter, the reading of the Easter passages of scripture, a message for the children, and the Sacrament of Holy Communion. Both churches will be adorned with Easter lilies.

Sunday School will be held at Hoyes Chapel immediately following the worship service at 10:15 a.m. Children at Paradise Chapel will have Sunday School immediately following the children's message.

All are welcome to join in any or all of the Easter activities.

Drug Charges Land Virginia Man In Lockup

Visiting Garrett County District Court Judge H. Jack Price Jr. handed down a one month, 10 day jail sentence to Roger Ray Dewitt, 26, Terra Alta, W.Va., who pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana in recent court happenings. Dewitt was ordered to pay $57 in court fees.

Dewitt was a backseat passenger in a vehicle that was stopped on Snowy Creek Road in August 2007. The vehicle was searched after the driver showed signs of intoxication, and a marijuana smoking pipe was found in the vehicle. Dewitt was found to be in possession of a plastic bag of marijuana and a marijuana smoking device in his front pocket, according to court documents.

Dewitt was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on a charge of possession of paraphernalia.

In an unrelated case, Richard Michaels Johnson, 45, Va., was handed a 51-day jail sentence, all of which was suspended, by Judge Price. Johnson pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of less than $100, and court fees of $57 were suspended.

Johnson was stopped by Maryland State Police officers in January after the McHenry barrack issued a lookout for his vehicle. Johnson reportedly pumped fuel into his vehicle at Fuel City, Grantsville, without paying for it. According to reports, Johnson pre-paid for $9.50 in gas, then walked around the gas station store until the attendant informed him that his three-minute pre-set window for the pump had expired.

Johnson acknowledged the attendant, then proceeded to pump $30.50 worth of gas into his vehicle. When confronted, he admitted he had no money to pay for the purchase, and drove off. MSP officers stopped him 13 miles from the state line.

John Paul Stosick IV, 22, Cumberland, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana in a criminal summons case heard by Judge Edward A. Malloy, and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), as well as a $100 fine and one year of unsupervised probation.

While patrolling the Savage River State Forest in September 2007, Natural Resources Police officers overheard the occupants of a tent talking about drug-related paraphernalia, and, upon making contact with the occupants, noticed an odor of burnt marijuana, according to police reports. Inside the tent, officers located a plastic bag of marijuana and a marijuana smoking device containing burnt marijuana residue.

Stosick was not prosecuted on a charge of possession of paraphernalia.

Heather Ann Reeves, 29, Swanton, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of less than $100 in a criminal summons case heard by Judge Malloy and was handed a PBJ, as well as six months of unsupervised probation and an order to complete 10 hours of community service. Her $57 court fees were suspended.

Garrett County sheriff's officers responded to a reported theft at Family Dollar, Oakland, in August 2007. According to reports, a store employee filed the complaint after she watched Reeves put a pair of shoes in her purse without paying for them.

Landis Andrew Watson, 29, Kearneysville, W.Va., and Harry Lloyd Booth, 36, Martinsburg, W.Va., received respective PBJs after pleading guilty to charges of possession of marijuana in criminal summons cases heard by Judge Malloy. Both men received one-day supervised probationary periods and fines of $150.

NRP officers found Watson and Booth to be in violation of a quiet-hour policy in Deep Creek Lake State Park in August 2007. Officers noticed signs of intoxication about the men, and a search of their vehicle revealed a marijuana smoking device containing burnt marijuana residue, a plastic bag containing marijuana, and a suspected burnt marijuana cigarette.

Watson and Booth were not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of possession of paraphernalia.

Robert Gurney Spiker, 45, Grantsville, received stet rulings on charges of second degree assault and reckless endangerment stemming from a September 2007 altercation handled by MSP.

Steven Rudolph Beckman, 37, Oakland, faces a stet ruling on a charge of trespassing, which was filed by sheriff's officers in October 2007.

Bruce Adam Deal, 18, Oakland, was handed stet rulings on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia, stemming from a July 2007 incident. The condition of the stet is that he obey all laws.

DWI/DWI CASES

The following driving while impaired (DWI) and driving while under the influence (DUI) cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court:

Ervin Dale Brown, 47, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of DUI and was sentenced to three years in jail, two years, six months of which were suspended. Brown was handed 36 months of supervised probation, and his $57 in court fees was suspended. He was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of DWI and three other driving offenses. His arrest was filed in September 2007.

Darrell Richard Harris, 39, Md., was sentenced to two years in jail, one year, six months of which were suspended after pleading guilty to a charge of DUI. Harris also received two years of supervised probation and a fine of $300. His arrest was filed in September 2007, and he was not prosecuted on charges of DWI and two other driving violations.

Matthew Alan Sharp, 26, Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of DUI per se and received a 60-day jail term, all of which was suspended, as well as 18 months of unsupervised probation and a fine of $250. He was not prosecuted for three other driving offenses, or on charges of DUI and DWI. His arrest was filed in June 2007.

Albert Cecil Dewitt, 58, Md., received a PBJ after pleading guilty to a charge of DWI, stemming from a September 2007 incident. He was handed one year of unsupervised probation and a fine of $300. Dewitt was not prosecuted on a charge of DUI.

William Lewis Miller, 45, Md., received stet rulings on charges of DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and one other driving-related violation. The charges were filed against him in July 2007.

SCHOOL BUS VIOLATIONS

Cory Daniel Wright, 18, Md., pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to stop for a school bus displaying flashing red lights and was handed a PBJ and a $200 fine. The charge was filed against him in September 2007.

Alisa Dawn Kline, 39, Betty Jane Kudloof, 57, Roman Lewis Yoder, 72, and Robert Allen Puller, 19, all of Maryland, received respective PBJs after pleading guilty to charges of failure to stop for a school bus displaying flashing red lights. Each charge was filed in November 2007.

Sheena Marie Shiflett, 23, Va., pleaded not guilty to a charge of failure to stop for a school bus displaying flashing red lights, but was handed a PBJ and a $100 fine. She was issued the citation in December 2007.

David Allen Diehl, 47, Md., was found not guilty on a charge of failure to stop for a school bus displaying flashing red lights, stemming from a October 2007 incident.

TWO JOIN GARRETT COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE – The two newest members to join the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, hired to fill vacancies because of retirements, are deputies Jamie Friend and Christopher Bryson Meyers, both of whom reside in the Oakland area with their families. Meyers and Friend both graduated from the Western Maryland Police Academy in Hagerstown on Friday, Feb. 29. Deputy Meyers is a 2002 graduate of Southern Garrett County High School. He earned his associate's degree in business from Potomac State College and a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Marshall University. Deputy Friend is a 2003 graduate of SHS and a Marine Corps veteran, having served tours with the 2nd fleet Anti-Terrorism Security Team in Spain. Friend also served his country during Operation Iraqi Freedom. "These young men represent our high standards for the position of deputy," Sheriff Berkebile says of them. "They are both very committed to the professional standards of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and to keeping this community safe. Both having grown up here have a vested interest in the community," he said. "I have high expectations of them." From left are Berkebile, Friend, Meyers, and chief deputy Randy Resh.

Cuoco's comedy is back with a 'Big Bang'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Kaley Cuoco

Q: I love the new comedy "The Big Bang Theory." Can you tell me if it will be back with new episodes anytime soon? –Mary Smith, Elgin, Ill.

A: You're just in time, since the Kaley Cuoco-starring CBS show is slated to resume fresh episodes this Monday, March 17 – the same night "How I Met Your Mother" and "Two and a Half Men" are expected to start new airings. And there's even better news: "The Big Bang Theory" already has been renewed, so it will start its sophomore season in the fall.

Q: As a 20-year "Inside the NFL" viewer, I'm hearing that HBO is canceling the show. Say it isn't so! –Alfred Bobb III, Palm City, Fla.

A: Sorry, we can't. After a 31-year run, the premium cable network has brought down the curtain on the weekly, in-season series of football highlights and analysis. The show is owned by the NFL, so it could turn up elsewhere, but possibly without the same "cast" that included Bob Costas (who was memorably candid in his on-air displeasure over the decision) and Cris Collinsworth when it reached its end on HBO.

Q: A friend came up with a scrap of a song that goes something like "Hi-Lili, Hi-Lili, Hi-Lo." We think it is a movie theme song, and we came up with "The Bridge on the River Kwai." Right or wrong? –Donna Andrzejewski, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: Wrong. It's actually from a 1953 musical titled "Lili," which starred Leslie Caron as a young woman who joined a traveling circus troupe. The theme from "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was the much-whistled "Colonel Bogey March."

Q: I was a fan of the series "Beauty and the Beast," which starred Ron Perlman. If it is available on DVD or VHS, I would like to know how to obtain it. –Linda Branch, Lindsay, Okla.

A: As of Feb. 5, all three seasons of the fantasy-drama series – which originally aired on CBS from 1987 to 1990 – were available on the Paramount Home Entertainment label. Check your local video dealers or type the title into an Internet search engine; the three sets, particularly the most recently released one, shouldn't be difficult to locate.

Pale, pure and still...Christ's body lay wrapped in burial linen, hidden in the darkness of the grave.

So the lily slumbers, appearing without life or luster, its petals tightly closed in the gloom of night. God created the lily to blossom in the light of day...to open wide its pale, pure, translucent petals to greet the heavens.

Christ's crucifixion and resurrection were like the blossoming of the lily. Though we are born into sin and darkness, because God sacrificed His son, we can blossom and flourish since our sins are forgiven.

How beautiful are the lilies as they open to the sunrise, their glorious white petals spread wide with promise. On Easter morning, let us open our hearts with praise and thanksgiving for God's gift of salvation! Alleluia!

In Praise of Spring

Spring is the favorite season for many people, perhaps because the world seems to come back to life after its long winter dormancy. In some parts of the country, winter is so long and cold that we really are left to wonder how anything living outside could survive such drastic conditions. But then, every spring the robins return, the trees burst forth with greenery, and flowers bloom, seemingly overnight. From the first tender buds to the newest hatchlings, the new life of spring is truly a vestige of creation and should remind us that creation is an ongoing process and the unfolding of God's beneficent plan. And although none of us fully understand God's plan, each spring as we witness the renewal of life on our planet, and simultaneously feel the life flow back into our veins, we know intuitively that it is good. At this time of year, we should remember to thank God for the return of spring and abundant life which it brings.

The earth brought forth vegetation, plants yielding seed according to their own kinds, and trees bearing fruit in which is their seed, each according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

Ginko Bilboa for Mountain Sickness

Ginko Bilboa, an herbal supplement that comes from the ginko tree, has been used to treat lung disease, hearing loss, and poor circulation. Currently, ginko is commonly used to prevent/treat Alzheimer's disease, poor circulation, poor memory, and sexual dysfunction. Ginko contains two types of substances: flavonoid glycosides and terpenoids. These contribute to ginko's antioxidant, cell protective, and circulatory activities.

One recent study examined the ability of ginko to prevent acute mountain sickness, a syndrome caused by lower air pressure and oxygen content at high altitudes. Symptoms include nausea, vomiting, fatigue, dizziness, shortness of breath, and rapid heart rate. In the study, 36 people received either ginko, acetazolamide (a drug sometimes given for mountain sickness), or placebo beginning 24 hours before ascending to an altitude above 3000 feet. The people that received ginko had significantly less acute sickness than the other treatment groups. Larger studies need to be conducted to further evaluate ginko's role in preventing acute mountain sickness.

Snoozing Cats

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Why do cats sleep so much? — Jan B., San Diego

DEAR JAN: No one knows, exactly. Many studies have been done, but researchers haven't decided on an exact reason. It is known that, like us, cats need sleep to stay healthy and that their bodies follow biological rhythms, such as the circadian rhythm (the 24-hour sleep/awake cycle).

Here are some facts about sleeping cats:

• Cats sleep an average of 16 hours per day — though not all at once.

• In kittens, growth hormone is released only when they sleep.

• Cats are most active around dawn and dusk, and least active in the middle of the night.

• Older cats tend to sleep more during the day and less at night.

So, how can you help your cat stay healthy? Let it sleep. Younger cats may not mind so much if they are awakened by a human who wants to play, but they will disappear a little later to finish their nap. Older cats could be very put out by being suddenly awakened — cranky and disoriented — so let them sleep. Of course, there are a few things to watch for, such as a cat that seems lethargic between sleep periods, or sleeps an excessively long time.

Most cats roam the house for a few hours each night, hunting, playing and meowing a bit, but if a cat is extremely restless or meows plaintively for a long time at night, something could be amiss. Excessive meowing often signals loneliness or distress, and is most often heard from kittens and senior cats. But any significant change in sleep habits, energy and nighttime activities should be monitored and discussed with your cat's veterinarian.

Elvis Stamps

Q. I have two sheets of Elvis stamps. Are they worth anything, and, if so, where can I sell them? — Jack, Port Orange, Fla.

A. According to the Blackbook Price Guide to United States Post Stamps by Marc and Tom Hudgeons, your commemorative Elvis Presley stamps are worth about $28 per sheet. Since prices vary from region to region, you need to consult a good stamp dealer in your area.

Q. I have a Barbie doll case with three dolls and clothing. How much are they worth? — Martha, Centralia, Ill.

A. The first Barbie doll was introduced in 1959. It quickly became one of America's most popular dolls. One of the best price guides for dolls is Blue Book: Dolls & Values by Jan Foulke. I found several used copies at amazon.com in the $10 to $15 range. This is one of the most trusted guides in this field of collecting. Arranged alphabetically by manufacturer, it features more than 560 photographs, all in full color. Another good way to determine current values is to monitor the Barbie doll action on eBay.

Q. I have a collection of porcelain birds issued by Kaiser. Each one has an identification mark on its base. Most are from the 1960s and '70s, and I would like to find a buyer for them. — Marjorie, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. If you contact Replacements, Ltd., at 1-800-737-5223, you might be able to market your bird figurines. However, selling modern collectibles isn't always easy to do.

Strange but true

By Samantha Weaver

• It was Academy Award-nominated actress and comedian Lily Tomlin who made the following observation: "Ninety-eight percent of the adults in this country are decent, hard-working, honest Americans. It's the other lousy 2 percent that get all the publicity. But then — we elected them."

• During Elizabethan times, it was customary in England for a wife to wear her wedding ring on her thumb.

• Have you ever heard of Jasper Daniel? Probably not by that name — he's better known today as Jack Daniel, thanks to the whiskey that bears his name. He was the youngest of 10 kids, which may explain a lot: Being picked on by nine older siblings could drive anyone to drink.

• Those who study such things say that people during the Stone Age used shells and even shark teeth to shave.

• Other than the fact that they're all performers, what do Darryl Hannah, Telly Savales, James Doohan and Jerry Garcia have in common? They are (or were) missing one finger.

• In ancient Greece, honey was often used to embalm corpses.

• If you're ever in South Carolina in November, you might want to stop by the tiny town of Salley and check out the annual Chitlin Strut festival. (For those of you who didn't grow up in the Deep South, chitlins are hog intestines that are boiled until tender, then battered and deep-fried.) The smell is truly awful, yet every year thousands of people descend upon Salley to sample this Southern delicacy.

• Tony Curtis, who co-starred with Marilyn Monroe in the famous film "Some Like It Hot," once said that kissing Ms. Monroe was "like kissing Hitler." Makes you wonder how he knew what kissing Hitler was like.

To All Our Allegheny Power Customers:

You have spoken and we have heard your concerns and those of the legislators and the Public Service Commission regarding the implementation of our Compact Fluorescent Light Bulb (CFL) Program, which includes the distribution of the energy efficient light bulbs. We acknowledge that we have caused a great deal of concern and confusion, and should have done a better job of clearly informing you, our customers, about the cost of the program. For this, Allegheny Power accepts full responsibility for any confusion and delivery issues. We are truly sorry and offer you our sincere apologies.

In an effort to address your concerns, Allegheny Power met with the Maryland Public Service Commission on January 16 and offered these steps with which the Commission agreed:

- Stop the Energy Conservation Surcharge for the CFL Program as of January 16
- Refund or credit all Energy Conservation Surcharge monies collected since the surcharge began on October 3, 2007
- Suspend the distribution of the bulbs, and once the Commission approves our plan, get bulbs to all customers who want them and did not receive them
- Work with the Public Service Commission, the Maryland Energy Administration, and other interested state and local agencies and groups on developing a compact fluorescent disposal plan. In the meantime, you can dispose of CFLs in your normal household trash, according to Maryland Department of the Environment and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency guidelines
- Further inform our customers of these actions in bill inserts

We encourage you to use the bulbs. Compact fluorescent light bulbs (CFLs) have revolutionized lighting—they use about 75 percent less energy than standard incandescent bulbs and last up to 10 times longer. We are hopeful that the two CFLs* will encourage people to adopt a more energy efficient lifestyle. Together, the two bulbs can save you about $1 per month over the life expectancy of the bulbs.

If you haven't received the bulbs and would like a set, please contact the Customer Service Center at the toll-free number below by April 30, 2008. The bulbs will be sent to you free of charge.

If you don't want the bulbs you already have received, please consider donating them to a friend, neighbor or charity.

Allegheny remains committed to providing our customers with important information and services for making informed energy-related decisions so they can save energy and money, while making Maryland a cleaner, greener place to live.

Please contact Allegheny's Customer Service Center at 1-800-255-3443 with any questions.

HART To Sell Raffle Tickets For Convertible

Homeless Animal Rescue and Transport of Animals (HART) members will start selling raffle tickets for chances to win a new car this weekend at the Wisp Resort. The vehicle is a 2008 red convertible Pontiac Solstice, provided at cost by Team One of Oakland to assist HART's drive to raise the $1 million needed to build an animal adoption center.

The car will arrive within the next two weeks. But until then, HART will display a loan car to attract ticket buyers during the Wisp's Beachin' Weekend, March 15 and 16, and the Big Bump/Jump Slalom and Easter Bunny Jam, March 22 and 23.

Single raffle tickets will sell for $10 each, or $50 for a set of six tickets. The drawing will be held at 11 p.m. on Dec. 31 at HART's major gala event, to be held at the former National Guard Armory in Oakland.

The winner does not need to be present to win, but he or she must be over 18 years of age and will be responsible for all applicable taxes, licenses, and registration.

"It's a great deal," said HART president Candy DeGiovanni about the raffle. "For the price of a $10 ticket, the winner will get a car that has a list price of $26,500. On top of that, it's for a very good cause."

Raffle tickets will also be available at Team One, beginning on Monday, March 17.

TRYING OUT A NEW CONVERTIBLE at Team One GM Auto Mall in Oakland recently was Sunny the Dog, mascot for HART (Homeless Animal Rescue and Transport. HART members will begin selling tickets this Saturday for chances to win a 2008 red Pontiac Solstice (similar to the one pictured above, but in red) to raise funds for an animal adoption center. Team One provided the vehicle at cost to assist the organization. See story. Pictured below, left to right, HART are secretary Mercedes Pellet, president Candy DeGiovanni, Team One's Gregg Shockey, Sunny, and treasurer Caroline Robison.

'We want to thank all the members of the community that are supporting us in our fundraising drive," added HART treasurer Caroline Robison. "Raising $1 million is hard, but thanks to many people and businesses, such as Team One and the Wisp Resort, we are getting there little by little."

Robison, who is also the organization's rescue coordinator, is continuing her rescue and transport of animals from the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

'Reaffirming the need for the new adoption center, Caroline reported that over 100 animals have been rescued and transported during the first two months of 2008," said HART secretary Mercedes Pellet.

Hospice Offers Training, Seeks More Volunteers

Hospice of Garrett County Inc. will sponsor training classes for patient care volunteers on Saturdays from April 5 to 19. Classes will be held each day from 8:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.

"We are in need of patient care volunteers who provide companionship to terminally ill patients and their families," said a spokesperson for Hospice. "The volunteers may be asked to sit with the patient, run errands, and help with meals or housekeeping needs. We also need more volunteers for bereavement aftercare." The Hospice bereavement team stays in touch with the family for one year after the death of a loved one. Members of the team do mailings, home visits, and maintain relationships with the families by telephone.

The first class will begin with Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, presenting an overview of Hospice, followed by a presentation about working with the volunteer coordinator, Debbie Workman. Other topics to be covered by Cheryl Scheffel, director of clinical services, during this class are the following: confidentiality, HIPPA and patient privacy, documentation, universal precautions, infection control and safety, signs and symptoms of approaching death, personal care, and sexual abuse.

The April 12 class will start with a course in listening skills, family dynamics, and stress management taught by Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich, social worker. Spiritual aspects will be covered by Pastor Randy Richardson, Hospice chaplain, and Jane Sealing, director of bereavement, will speak about grief counseling skills.

Physical therapist Audrey Kennedy will begin the April 19 class with a lesson on transfer skills. Shirley Fitzwater of First United Bank & Trust will speak on legal and financial planning, and the class will take a tour of Stewart's Funeral Home.

There will be a graduation ceremony on April 22 at 6 p.m. at the Hospice office. All volunteers, past and present, and their families are invited to attend, and pizza will be served.

"Hospice extends an invitation to you to become a part of the team and to be a patient care volunteer," Butscher said. "You will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be very rewarding. Keep in mind that doing good for others is doing good for yourself."

To register or obtain more information, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151, or 1-800-521-5252 (Grantsville Area).

Red Cross Begins Second Annual Heroes Campaign

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross recently kicked off its second annual Heroes Campaign. The chapter serves Garrett, Mineral, and Allegany counties, and all funds raised will be kept locally within the three counties.

This year will be the first time that the campaign includes Garrett and Mineral counties. Last year's was held in Allegany County as a learning experience.

"The Heroes Campaign is a community-driven, grass roots campaign designed to offer the community the opportunity to help support their local American Red Cross," a spokesperson said.

The Heroes Campaign allows individuals, school organizations, and/or civic groups participating in the campaign to become a "hero" when they pledge to raise $1,000 or to achieve "super hero" status for raising over $1,000.

Once a hero has agreed to raise $1,000 for the American Red Cross, that person's ideas for raising money must be approved. Money may be raised in a variety of ways, including individual donations, car washes, bake sales, food sales, or raffles. A list of ideas is available from the chapter. Persons will also be available for suggestions and assistance to help guide participants along the way.

Interested persons should contact Wendy Durst, community services director, at 866-766-2657 or 301-722-1760, ext. 106. Western Potomac Chapter is a member agency of County United Way.

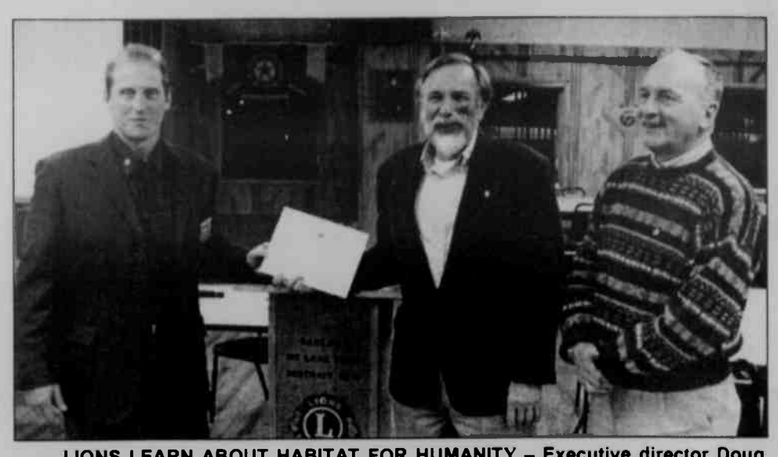
Watershed Group Announces Next Monthly Meeting



The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) will hold its regular monthly meeting at Route 40 Elementary School on Thursday, March 20, at 7 p.m., with guest speaker Mike Garner, chief of the Abandoned Mine Lands Section for the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

Garner, whose presentation focuses on reclaiming abandoned mine lands through the Appalachian Regional Reforestation Initiative, is responsible for a federally funded program that generates money from a tax on coal production. Money from the tax is used to reclaim pre-law abandoned mine lands.

The SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed. Members hope to assist interested landowners and public land managers through environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach. Any person who is concerned about the Savage River watershed is invited to join the group.

Meeting are held at Route 40 Elementary School, located a few miles west of Frostburg at 17764 National Pike, on the third Thursday of odd-numbered months, beginning at 7 p.m.

For more information, persons may contact SRWA via e-mail at SRWAcoordinator@gmail.com or at 301-895-4005. SRWA is a non-profit charitable organization. Donations may be sent to Savage River Watershed Association, P.O. Box 355, Frostburg, MD 21532.

Discovery Center To Host Natural Egg-Dyeing Event

The Western Garrett County State Park Volunteers Inc. will host its annual "Natural Egg Dyeing Program" at the Discovery Center, Deep Creek Lake State Park, on Saturday, March 22, between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Children may experience dyeing hardboiled eggs using natural dyes from material found in the home and nature. Participants will learn about natural dye products and how Native Americans used these items.

An Easter bunny will be on hand to distribute treats to children. Volunteers will take photos for a nominal charge.

Participants are asked to bring no more than six hard-boiled eggs. The eggs should be wiped off with a mild vinegar solution so the eggs will take the dye.

There will be a spring open house at the Discovery Center on the same day. For additional information or to learn of other programs offered, persons may call 301-387-7067 Friday through Sunday between the hours of 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Does Epstein-Barr Virus Cause Mononucleosis?

Epstein-Barr is the name of a virus that causes infectious mononucleosis (commonly referred to as mono). This condition most commonly affects young adults and adolescents, although younger persons may also be affected. Many persons have been exposed to the Epstein-Barr virus and have experienced a build-up of antibodies to the virus. Most people by the age of 35 have become immune. Signs and symptoms of mononucleosis include fatigue, weakness, fever, skin rash, and night sweats. This virus is transferred from person to person through saliva, but is not as contagious as the common cold.

There is no specific treatment for infectious mononucleosis. Persons affected by the Epstein-Barr virus may also be affected by bacterial infections which require treatment with antibiotics. Although antibiotics are not used to treat the virus, when other infections that are caused by bacteria are present, antibiotics may be prescribed. Ampicillin, amoxicillin, or amoxicillin and clavulanate may be prescribed for bacterial infections, such as a streptococcal infection. A steroid, such as prednisone, may be prescribed to alleviate swelling of the throat in persons who are also affected by tonsillitis. Adequate rest and fluids are main treatment recommendations.

Kitzmiller Elementary School Treats Seniors To Soup And Dessert For V-Day

by Kitzmiller students

On Valentine's Day Kitzmiller School displayed a day of caring and kindness to the elderly of the community. A huge amount of work went into a project that the school completed and was called Love Thy Neighbor.

The project was a success through the help of many, including a Title 1 program called HART, businesses, parents, staff, community members, and students. Valentine cards, soup, dessert jars were made and delivered. Through the H.A.R.T group the idea of Love Thy Neighbor was created in order to help teach students the importance of caring, kindness, and community support to the town's seniors.

The H.A.R.T program, a Garrett County Network of Partnership Schools affiliate, was put together by teachers, parents, and community members and met on a monthly basis. A group of fifth graders went and interviewed members of the group to ask questions how and why they came up with the Love Thy Neighbor project.

"The group wanted to do something special for the community and we felt that the school had a chance to give back to the community because the community is always good to the school," said committee members kindergarten teacher Sandy DeWitt and committee chairperson and first grade teacher Bridget Corbin.

"We felt as a committee that this was a good idea to help out the seniors and shut-ins and to give our students an opportunity to show caring and kindness," said Kitzmiller principal Candy Opel.

Everyone on the committee had special jobs to fulfill such as collecting donations, schedules, newsletters, and getting parent/community volunteers. One volunteer, Carole Ann Matthews, works as a community outreach volunteer, and her job was to help H.A.R.T. identify people in the community who needed to be delivered to on Valentine's Day.

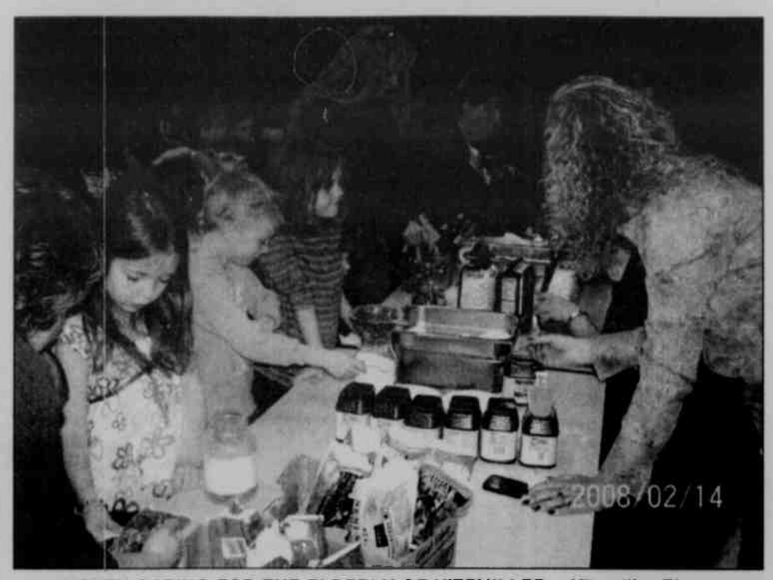
The H.A.R.T group was supported by all of the following people and businesses: Affordable Self Storage, Backbone Construction, Bob Barrick, Burdock Funeral Home, Feel The Heat Firewood Company, G&S Coal, Glotfelty Tires, Kitzmiller Lion's Club, Mettiki Coal, Ralph and Glenna Miller, Hill Top Fruit Market, Ridgidply Rafters, Rinker Construction, and Team One.

All students and staff worked very hard during the week to get things ready for delivery. Classrooms kindergarten through fifth grade made Valentine cards to share with each and every one of the 70 seniors. Each student was able to create their own card and some students got to share their card with a special relative. Fourth grader Hailey Cortez and her writing group shared their feelings about the cards, "We were very happy and felt great when we were finished passing out the cards. This was just one way to show that we were thoughtful and caring for our seniors."

Along with delivering special cards, soup was made by staff, community members, and parents at the school during the week. They made jars of soup so the seniors didn't have to go to the store and could enjoy a hot lunch during a cold winter day.

We learned that the soup had to be made at school and not in someone's home because it's against the law to give food away when it isn't made in a health department inspected kitchen like the school's kitchen. The volunteers made chicken noodle soup, chili, potato soup, and vegetable soup. After the soup was cooled, the jars were decorated with a bow. Even though it was a long day the volunteers said they had fun doing it.

You can't celebrate Valentine's Day without something sweet, so the last part of the project was that combined classrooms put together dessert jars with the help of staff and parents. Each group measured and layered dry ingredients in a jar to make the special treats. Each jar had the directions to complete the recipe by the individuals that received them. All of the jars were decorated and boxed up with the soups and cards.



When Valentine's Day came around lots of excitement started to happen, parents, teachers, and staff were getting everything ready to make our special deliveries. Some students went with their parents to make deliveries, while others walked through town, knocking on doors and handing out jars of soup and dessert to the seniors.

The senior citizens were surprised, amazed, and were filled with joy. We knew this to be true because they smiled and said, 'Thank you." Even though our faces were cold, everyone's hearts were warm, A good time by all was given.

"When you give good treats, you make people very happy and it's a nice way to make you and everyone feel great," said Eden Snell.

This is what happened on Valentine's Day in the town of Kitzmiller.

Editor's Note: This article was written and submitted by the fourth and fifth grade students at Kitzmiller Elementary School.

YOUTH CARING FOR THE ELDERLY OF KITZMILLER – Kitzmiller Elementary School students used this year's Valentine's Day to show kindness toward many of the senior citizens of the town. The Title 1 program called H.A.R.T. established the Love Thy Neighbor Project, which was created to teach students the importance of caring and community support. Students from each grade busied themselves with the creation of gifts that were distributed throughout the community."The group wanted to do something special for the community, and we felt that the school had a chance to give back to the community because it is always good to the school," said committee member Sandy DeWitt, kindergarten teacher. Pictured are students, parents, and teachers working together to prepare valentine cards, soups, and various dessert recipes in jars with measured ingredients. The entire school helped to make the gifts, and the older students delivered them to Kitzmiller seniors. Above left are kindergartners Jocelyn Schoch, Tad Rodeheaver, and Rebekah Conklyn, and teachers Bridget Corbin, Teresa Durst, and Sandy DeWitt. At right are deliverers with one of the many citizens who received gifts. Below are seniors Ethel and Bobby Harvey with (from left) Emily and Brandon Welch, Nathan Bender, and Bryson DeWitt making delivery of soup and dessert jars.

SIGN-UP FOR DAIRY DISASTER ASSISTANCE PROGRAM RESUMES

Eric M. McCartney, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, has announced that eligible dairy producers who suffered production losses as a result of the declared natural disasters from 2005 to 2007 may apply to receive benefits under the Dairy Disaster Assistance Program-III (DDAP-III) by visiting the Preston County FSA Office. McCartney says, based on the final rule published in the Federal Register on March 4, DDAP-III sign-up ends May 5, 2008.

"The program provides $16 million in benefits to dairy producers across the country for dairy production losses that occurred between January 1, 2005, and December 31, 2007, because of natural disasters," said McCartney.

To be eligible, a producer's operation must be in a county designated a major disaster or emergency area by the president or declared a natural disaster area by the secretary of agriculture between January 1, 2005, and December 31, 2007. Producers in contiguous counties are also eligible. Producers in counties declared disaster areas by the president may be eligible, even though the agricultural loss was not covered by the declaration, if an FSA Administrator's Physical Loss Notice covered such losses.

The U.S. Troop Readiness, Veterans' Care, Katrina Recovery, and Iraq Accountability Appropriations Act, 2007 (2007 Act), signed by President Bush in May 2007, authorizes DDAP-III. The 2007 Act charges USDA with implementing DDAP-III. On December 26, 2007, President Bush signed the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2008, which extends DDAP-III payments to eligible producers who suffered dairy production losses throughout the 2007 crop year before December 31, 2007.

FSA began enrolling producers in DDAP-III in late 2007 and then in early 2008, temporarily halted sign-up pending the completion of rule-making which began with the issuance of a proposed rule for public comments on the program. Based on public comments, FSA made minor changes to the proposed DDAP-III rules. These changes are explained in the final DDAP-III regulations.

For further information or to enroll in the Dairy Disaster Payment Program-III, dairy producers may visit the Farm Service Agency located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza or telephone 304-329-1923. Program information is also available at the web site: www.fsa.usda.gov.

Dairy Producers May Qualify For Disaster Benefit

Local dairy producers who suffered production losses in 2005, 2006, or 2007 may apply to receive benefits under the Dairy Disaster Assistance Program III (DDAP-III), according to Michael R. Kozier, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Garrett and Allegany counties.

"The program provides $16 million in benefits to dairy producers across the country for dairy production losses that occurred between Jan. 1, 2005, and Dec. 31, 2007, because of natural disasters," said Kozier.

To be eligible, a producer's operation must be in a county designated a major disaster or emergency area by the president or declared a natural disaster area by the secretary of agriculture between Jan. 1, 2005, and Dec. 31, 2007. Producers in contiguous counties are also eligible. Producers in counties declared disaster areas by the president may be eligible, even though the agricultural loss was not covered by the declaration, if an FSA Administrator's Physical Loss Notice covered such losses.

The U.S. Troop Readiness, Veterans' Care, Katrina Recovery, and Iraq Accountability Appropriations Act, 2007 (2007 Act), signed by President Bush in May 2007, authorizes DDAP-III.

The 2007 Act charges USDA with implementing DDAP-III. The 2007 Act provides $16 million in DDAP-III benefits. On Dec. 26, 2007, President Bush signed the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2008, which extends DDAP-III payments to eligible producers who suffered dairy production losses throughout the 2007 crop year before Dec. 31, 2007.

FSA began enrolling producers in DDAP-III in late 2007. In early 2008, sign-up was temporarily halted pending the completion of rulemaking, which began with the issuance of a proposed rule for public comments on the program. Based on public comments, FSA made minor changes to the proposed DDAP-III rules. These changes are explained in the final DDAP-III regulations.

To sign up, persons may visit the local USDA Service Center or the FSA County Office. Registration will continue until May 5.

MY NEWS

Wednesday, March 5, was just about the windiest day that I have even seen in Bittinger, and that is pretty windy. Even in a blizzard I have not seen anything like it. Of course, March is known for its wind. It would be way too windy to fly a kite. The wind blew my thermometer off, so I don't know what the wind chill is, but it is still pretty cold. It makes it seem like it is far from spring. I am afraid to go to the mailbox to mail some bills as I am afraid they will blow away. In bed last night I heard the wind whistling around my house, and I wondered whether I could make it to my dentist appointment. The wind was enough reason to stay inside, but I also have a nasty cold.

Last Saturday Claire was at home and we watched the WVU game against St. John's. St. John's court is Madison Square Garden, but I never got over to see a basketball game in the same arena as the National Horse Show. That area is also used for hockey games. It was quite a treat to see the last show of the horse show season in downtown Manhattan. Claire was delighted with the overtime victory for WVU. That victory probably assured them the ticket to the NCAA tournament. I don't know if our Terps will make it to the tournament this year.

After several inches of rain, winter returned on Saturday. We had light snow with vicious winds. Snow and cold wouldn't be so bad without our winds. My big pine trees are really rockin' and rollin' with a full-blown whiteout. Just when my deck became snow free, another fierce storm blew in, and when I let Boo out I saw a foot drift on my deck.

I am glad that daylight saving time is here. Instead of going to bed at 8 p.m., now I hit the sack at 9 and I get up at 7 rather than at 6 a.m. Only about two more weeks until the official beginning of spring; however, I don't really expect warm spring weather by then, even if March is supposed to go out like a lamb. I am looking for the new crop of lambs on Foxtown Road. It is the surest sign that spring is here.

On the other end of Foxtown is a small field with a small herd of goats. Baby lambs, baby calves, and foals are so sweet. But no farm animal's babies are as cute as a baby goat. Many years ago I helped Tanya Beitzel raise an orphaned goat. Tanya named it Gentle Breeze. Its little black hooves were so cute.

The only John Wayne film that I can stand was on the classic movie channel, which is The Quiet Man. The movie is about an American former prizefighter who returned to his roots in a small Irish village. He romanced a spirited village lass. Their romance was filled with problems, but he wed her. It is a movie filled with great characters, beautiful scenery, a cross-country horse race, and lots of horse-drawn vehicles. I loved it.

I am busy with my painting. I need to produce another two good paintings for my October show at the Garrett College gallery. This week I did three good pictures. One is a version of "Ghost in the Hayfield" and a view of Cherry Creek Glade, and a winter view of the lake. It is something that keeps my hand busy so I will not miss smoking as much. That is going about as good as my art. Besides my three good paintings, I produced two terrible paintings, as I have good no-smoking days and others not so good.

I was watching a hard-fought basketball game between Maryland and Virginia, and suddenly the light and television went black. A few days before, I took the living room flashlight to my bed when we had the very high winds, but I didn't need it that night. It was pitch black in my living room, but I had to get to my bedroom. I tripped on a wrinkle in my rug. Luckily I was able to crawl to where my cell phone was. My sister Carol rescued me. The only light in my living room was a slender crescent moon.

I enjoyed a weekend visit from Claire and Caitlin. Caitlin brought along her future apartment mate. Caitlin showed her around the farm, and they took a trip to Swallow Falls and cooked a four-course dinner for all of us.

I am ready to quit smoking. I picked March 15 for my official "quit day" so I can remember that date. I received a supply of nicotine gum and patch from a program of the Maryland Health Department, "Quit Now."

If Patty Hannaway is reading this column, please send me your Garrett County address and phone number.

It is hard to put away my paintbrushes to finish this column, but today is deadline time for me. Thank goodness we are halfway through March.

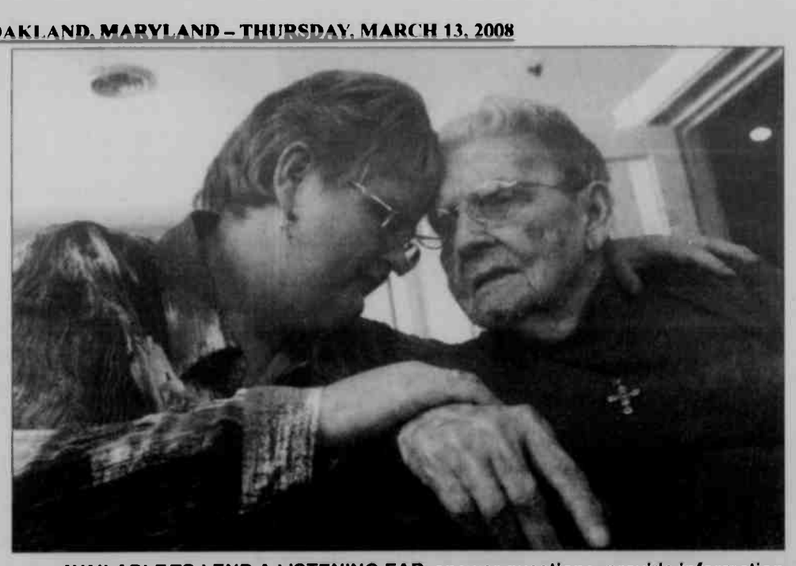
Rights Protected By 1987 Nursing Home Reform Law

by Glenn Tolbert

Where do you go for help if you're concerned a nursing home is not guaranteeing the rights of residents?



The Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program is required by federal law to promote and protect the rights of residents in licensed long-term care facilities. Under the federal Older Americans Act, every state is required to have an ombudsman program that addresses complaints and advocates for improvements in the long-term care system.

The 1987 Nursing Home Reform Law requires each nursing home to care for its residents in a manner that promotes and enhances the quality of life of each resident, ensuring dignity, choice, and self-determineation.

The Nursing Home Reform Law guarantees nursing home residents have individual rights which include but are not limited to: the right to be fully informed, the right to participate in one's own care, the right to complain, the right to privacy and confidentiality, rights during transfers and discharges, the right to make independent choices, the right to dignity, respect, and freedom, and the right to have visitors.

An ombudsman is an advocate for residents of nursing homes, board and care homes, and assisted living facilities. Ombudsmen provide information about how to find a facility and what to do to get quality care. They are trained to resolve problems made by the facility on behalf of a resident. The ombudsman empowers residents to resolve concerns on their own; however, if requested, the ombudsman can assist the resident with complaints. Unless the resident gives the ombudsman permission to share his or her concerns, these matters are kept confidential. The ombudsman acts only upon the wishes of the resident.

Persons who have concerns or questions about long-term care facilities in Garrett County may contact the local ombudsman at Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 141, or Maryland Department of Aging at 1-800-243-3425.

Two Treated At Garrett Memorial Following Accident

It was discovered that Randolph William Ruffer, Baltimore, and passenger Donna Loiuse Gray, 43, Aurora, W.Va., were traveling on Zeddock Miller Road, when the vehicle slid off the roadway and struck an embankment. The vehicle was removed from the embankment and Ruffer drove it to GCMH, where he contacted police.

Both were treated and released. No charges were filed.

Arun Gandhi To Lecture At Frostburg State

Arun Gandhi, grandson of legendary peacemaker and spiritual leader Mahatma Gandhi, will present a program titled "Lessons from My Grandfather" on Monday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the Frostburg State University Performing Arts Center. The event is free and open to the public.

The internationally acclaimed speaker has spoken to hundreds of colleges, universities, and corporate and civic organizations around the world, according to an FSU spokesperson. With the assistance of his late wife Sunanda, Arun Gandhi founded the Center for Social Unity, a self-help program to assist India's poor, and the M.K. Gandhi Institute for Nonviolence.

Founded in 1991 at the Christian Brothers University of Memphis, Tenn., the M.K. Gandhi Institute for Nonviolence offers didactic programs of the theory and practice of nonviolence to young people and adults. The institute also sponsors two national conferences each year and provides seminars to churches and service organizations.

Arun Gandhi was reared in the first of the nonviolent communities established by his grandfather, Mahatma Gandhi. In 1946, his parents sent him to live with his grandfather for 18 months during the Indian campaign for independence from British rule. He is considered one of the leading advocates of nonviolence in the world, utilizing the memories of his grandfather to carry on his legacy, the spokesperson said.

"Mohandas K. Gandhi represented being a peacemaker, a great person who made a difference. Arun learned some valuable lessons from living with him that he's going to share with us," said the Rev Larry Neumark of United Campus Ministry. "This will be a great learning experience for our campus."

A question and answer period will follow the lecture.

The event is part of an ongoing spring celebration of the Rev. Martin Luther King's life by FSU and Allegany College of Maryland. It is sponsored by United Campus Ministry; University Programming Council; the Diversity Center; office of the provost; Catholic Campus Ministry; Student Government Association; Residence Hall Association; Amnesty International; office of the vice president for Student and Educational Services; the deans' offices of the College of Business, College of Education, and College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; and the president's office.

For more information, persons may contact Rev. Neumark at 301-687-7490.

GIRL SCOUT WEEK CELEBRATED – In honor of Girl Scouts of the USA's 96th birthday, Girl Scouts from Garrett County assisted in services at St. Paul's United Methodist Church on Sunday. The guest speaker was Gary Beale, director of House of the Carpenter, a non-profit urban mission project that helps those in need in West Virginia. One of the many outreach programs the House of the Carpenter provides each year is a week of camp for its young clients. More than 170 children are treated to the camp each summer. To help House of the Carpenter in its endeavor, Girl Scout Troop 5004, with the assistance of St Paul's United Methodist Youth Group, will put together and deliver toiletry bags to the Scouts when they visit in June. "Girl Scouts is all about empowering our girls to make a difference," said troop leader Elizabeth Huxford. "The theme for Girl Scout Week this year is 'Make the World A Better Place.' and that's exactly what we hope to do. By providing items these children need, we hope they can enjoy what we as Scouts take for granted." Those interested in helping with this service project or in learning more about Girl Scout opportunities in Garrett County may contact Huxford at ehuxford@gcnet.net. To learn more about House of the Carpenter, persons may visit the organization's web site at www.houseofthecarpenter.com. Girl Scouts of Garrett County is a County United Way agency. The Girls Scouts who assisted at the church service are pictured. In the front is Alanna Kinney, Troop 5004. In the middle row, from left, are Marley Merrick, Jian Travis, Brianna Evans, and Rachael Huxford, all of Troop 5004, and Lindsey Slaubaugh, Troop 5022. In the back is Emily Huxford, Troop 5004.

GRADUAL LOSS

If someone were to steal your money a penny at a time, you wouldn't be as likely to be aware that you'd been robbed as when someone takes all your money at once. The same may be said about hearing loss. The fact that hearing loss is gradual makes it difficult for many individuals to realize that it is happening. However, the truth is that gradual hearing loss affects individuals of all ages and has important implications for quality of life. Often, friends and family notice a hearing loss before the person with the loss recognizes it. Make it a point to have your hearing tested, and address any hearing loss before it has an adverse impact on your life.

If you've tried just about everything to deal with your hearing loss – lip reading, shouting, turning up the volume, cupping your ear, avoiding conversation, and withdrawing from social situations – now try a hearing specialist at AUDIBEL. Take the first painless step to better hearing – call us to schedule a hearing test.

P.S. If conversation seems muffled or your ears feel plugged, have your hearing tested.

Rights Protected By 1987 Nursing Home Reform Law

by Glenn Tolbert

Where do you go for help if you're concerned a nursing home is not guaranteeing the rights of residents?

The Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program is required by federal law to promote and protect the rights of residents in licensed long-term care facilities. Under the federal Older Americans Act, every state is required to have an ombudsman program that addresses complaints and advocates for improvements in the long-term care system.

The 1987 Nursing Home Reform Law requires each nursing home to care for its residents in a manner that promotes and enhances the quality of life of each resident, ensuring dignity, choice, and self-determineation.

The Nursing Home Reform Law guarantees nursing home residents have individual rights which include but are not limited to: the right to be fully informed, the right to participate in one's own care, the right to complain, the right to privacy and confidentiality, rights during transfers and discharges, the right to make independent choices, the right to dignity, respect, and freedom, and the right to have visitors.

AVAILABLE TO LEND A LISTENING EAR, answer questions, provide information and guidance about services, and investigate complaints and concerns, the long-term care ombudsmen are available to residents of long-term care facilities. Pictured above left is ombudsman Terry White visiting with Oakland Nursing and Rehab resident Iris Maroney. See story. Photo by Glenn Tolbert.

An ombudsman is an advocate for residents of nursing homes, board and care homes, and assisted living facilities. Ombudsmen provide information about how to find a facility and what to do to get quality care. They are trained to resolve problems made by the facility on behalf of a resident. The ombudsman empowers residents to resolve concerns on their own; however, if requested, the ombudsman can assist the resident with complaints. Unless the resident gives the ombudsman permission to share his or her concerns, these matters are kept confidential. The ombudsman acts only upon the wishes of the resident.

Persons who have concerns or questions about long-term care facilities in Garrett County may contact the local ombudsman at Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 141, or Maryland Department of Aging at 1-800-243-3425.

DESPITE THE RECENT RAINFALL, there is still much fun to be had at the Wisp Ski Area in McHenry, where tons of machine-made snow have withstood all that Mother Nature has unleashed this week. The "motley crew" pictured above is a team sponsored by Long and Foster Realty that competed in the Cardboard Derby race this past weekend, an event requiring that whatever "vessel" is utilized be made of cardboard. Skiing and tubing will continue at the Wisp this weekend and later, as long as there is adequate snow. Photo courtesy of Bennett Leaderman.

NEARLY 400 CHILDREN turned out Saturday at Broadford Park, despite chilly temperatures, to participate in the annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by WKHJ Radio. Children "competed" in various age divisions, from age 2 to 10, and the winners were awarded U.S. Savings Bonds. Photos of the winners can be found elsewhere in this section. Other egg hunts are scheduled at various locations in the county, including one at Friendsville Community Park this Saturday, March 22, beginning at 11 a.m., sponsored by Friendsville Community Watch. And undoubtedly there will be scores of other "private" hunts in the backyards of many residences, as Christians celebrate their faith and the resurrection of their founder, Jesus Christ.

House Committee Rejects Proposed Bear Legislation

House Bill 657: Black Bear Hunt – Prohibition, a bill sponsored by Del. Barbara Frush (D-Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties), received an unfavorable report from the House Environmental Matters Committee last Wednesday.

Frush's bill would classify black bear as a non-game animal, thus prohibiting the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) from reducing the black bear population.

Del. Wendell R. Beitzel's (R-Garrett and Allegany counties) "Share the Bear' plan also received an unfavorable report from the House Environmental Matters Committee on Wednesday.

"The primary reason for the Share the Bear bill was to counter the efforts of some who still do not believe the bear hunt is a necessary way to control the bear population," Beitzel said.

With both bills defeated for yet another year, the Department of Natural Resources will continue to regulate black bear hunting in Maryland.

"Even though it was defeated in committee, my bill had the desired result," Beitzel said.

According to a DNR report, 53 bears were taken during the 2007 bear hunt in Maryland. In addition to the bears taken during the hunt approximately 40 bears were reported to have been hit by vehicles on the highway in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Commissioners Approve Tax Credit For Senior Homeowners

More than 150 Garrett County senior citizens may be eligible to apply for a new supplement to the State Homeowners' Tax Credit Program. Following a public hearing on Tuesday, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners unanimously approved an ordinance that will provide this tax break to qualifying senior residents.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg said a board of commissioners began exploring ways to provide that credit about six or seven years ago. The new ordinance also includes a tax break for disabled veterans.

The county's tax credit is one that will be given on top of the State Homeowners' Tax Credit, which is based solely on income. Currently, households with gross income levels up to $60,000 may apply for the state credit.

The criteria for the additional local credit are as follows:

•The applicant must meet the income guidelines set by the state, and subsequently receive the State Homeowners' Tax Credit.

•The applicant must be at least 65 years old.

•The applicant must have lived in Garrett County for at least 10 years and the property on which the credit will be calculated be defined as his or her permanent residence.

"If all criteria are met, the county credit would be calculated at 25 percent of the state credit," said Director Wendy Yoder, Garrett County Department of Financial Services.

She noted that there are currently nine other counties in Maryland that have a local supplemental tax credit.

"Each of these counties may have a different set of criteria that a taxpayer would have to meet to be eligible for the tax credit," Yoder noted.

Before the new Garrett County ordinance was drafted, Financial Services looked at four different scenarios from those other counties and presented them to the State Department of Assessment and Taxation to determine the effect that a county tax credit would have on local tax payers under each scenario.

Yoder said the state used

Gypsy Moth Problem May Worsen; State Looking For New Remedies

by Laura Schwartzman
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – A bipartisan group of lawmakers is proposing a task force to study gypsy moth infestation and ways to control it before it gets any worse, but arborists and environmentalists want to be better represented.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture said gypsy moths are the most destructive forest pests in Maryland. The moths eat the leaves on hardwood trees in May and June and have affected more than 1 million acres since 1980.

"It literally looks like a war zone once they come through," said American Joe Miedusiewski, a lobbyist for the Maryland Arborist Association.

The moths were introduced to the United States in 1869 and arrived in Maryland in the early 1970s, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Egg masses hatch in late April or early May, yielding small black caterpillars that are carried from tree to tree by the wind, according to the Maryland Cooperative Extension.

Sen. David Brinkley, R-Frederick, introduced a bill to establish a task force representing the General Assembly, state agencies, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, the Maryland Association of Counties, and the Maryland Forests Association.

The state has had a cost-share program with the federal government to control the pests, but a new focus on slowing infestations to midwestern states has led to a halt in some federal funding for next year, according to a written statement from the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Community Action To Receive $209K For Local Projects

Gov. Martin O'Malley last week announced $7 million in Community Legacy awards for more than 70 projects across Maryland. Locally, Garrett County Community Action Committee will receive $209,000.

That funding will be used as follows: Streetscape projects, Oakland and Friendsville, $75,000; Fort Alice design, Oakland, $25,000; retail and commercial feasibility study, Oakland, $25,000; Mountain Lake feasibility study, Mtn. Lake Park, $25,000; Hershberger Avenue extension Streetscape, Grantsville, $25,000; and Springs Road acquisition, Grantsville, $20,000.

Community Action will also receive a $14,000 operating assistance grant.

"Even as we face a national economic downturn, we must do all that we can to protect our priorities and enhance our quality of life," said O'Malley at the funding announcement in Dun-

Garrett College Officials Remember, Honor The Late Charles "Bus" Bender

Garrett County civic leader Charles C. "Bus" Bender of Grantsville died on Sunday, Feb. 24, 2008, and leaders at Garrett College, where Mr. Bender served as a college board member, recently discussed his contributions to the institution and the county.

"Bus spent much of his life giving selflessly to the people of Garrett County," a college spokesperson said. "His dedication, wisdom, and guidance distinguished him from the rest, and he will greatly be missed."

Bender was on the Garrett College Board of Trustees from 1982 to 2005, serving as both chairman and vice chairman at various times. He received an award for outstanding contributions to Garrett College in 1998.

"We can be thankful to Bus for his contributions to what the college is today: an institution that all of Garrett County can be proud of," said Douglas Sites, Garrett College board member who served with Bender for more than 13 years.

"As the board chair, Bus was a strong force in guiding the college throughout the development of the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC), the first Internet service provider in Garrett County," Sites said. "He was influential in the development of most of the programs offered today, as well as the addition of campus housing, Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC), and the proposed Community Athletic Recreation Center. He made sure that Garrett College was at the forefront of technology and education."

Schools Slated To Be Closed Friday, Monday

Garrett County Public Schools will be closed for Easter break on Friday, March 21 through Monday, March 24. Schools will reopen on Tuesday, March 25, at the regular time.

A local radio station has released incorrect information regarding the school schedule. It was reported by them that students are to report to school on Monday; however, this information is incorrect, with students expected back on Tuesday.

Burglary At CVS Investigated; GBI Looking For Leads

Detectives with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation have investigated a burglary that occurred early Tuesday morning at CVS Pharmacy, Oakland.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the 2:20 a.m. alarm at the store and discovered that forced entry had been made through the drive-through window, which triggered the alarm system. Deputies arrived at the store less than 5 minutes after the alarm had been activated.

Detectives with GBI then responded to process the crime scene and handled the investigation with assistance from GCSO.

It was discovered that a quantity of controlled pre

GC Commissioners Hear Report From Small Business Consultant

Small business consultant Beverley Williams gave the Garrett County commissioners an overview on Tuesday of the work she does with the county's Department of Economic Development.

"One of the advantages of having somebody like Bev providing a business consulting service is to keep people from making a big mistake, to keep people from jumping into something that isn't going to work," said Director Jim Hinebaugh, Economic Development.

Williams has had a contract with the department to provide consulting services since 2005.

"I see about 15 people a month," she said.

Some consulting sessions may only be five-minute phone conservations. Other sessions are much longer. Some people are interested in starting a new business, while others are seasoned entrepreneurs. But whatever the circumstance, Williams always starts talking about the realities of owning a business, especially the need for everyone to have a plan.

She said some people think they only need a written plan if they want to borrow money.

"How are you going to get to where you want to go without a road map," Williams asks them. "That's what a business plan is."

She added that most new business owners are not aware that they have to "wear different hats." In addition to doing their regular jobs, they also have to be accountants, business and personnel managers, business marketers, and planners.

Williams said people take her advice seriously because she has been self-employed for more than 20 years and managed other people prior to that.

"I've been there, done that and got the T-shirt," she said.

Williams also knows about failure. She said her first business venture was not a success and wishes there had been a consulting service available to her 40 years ago.

Since signing the contract in 2005, Williams said

PROGRESS CONTINUES on the new firehouse for the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department, which is pictured above. A total of nearly $80,000 has been raised to date by the Grantsville Firehouse Committee, with fundraising efforts continuing. The next event is planned at Penn Alps Restaurant on Wednesday, April 16. See story on page A-2 for details.

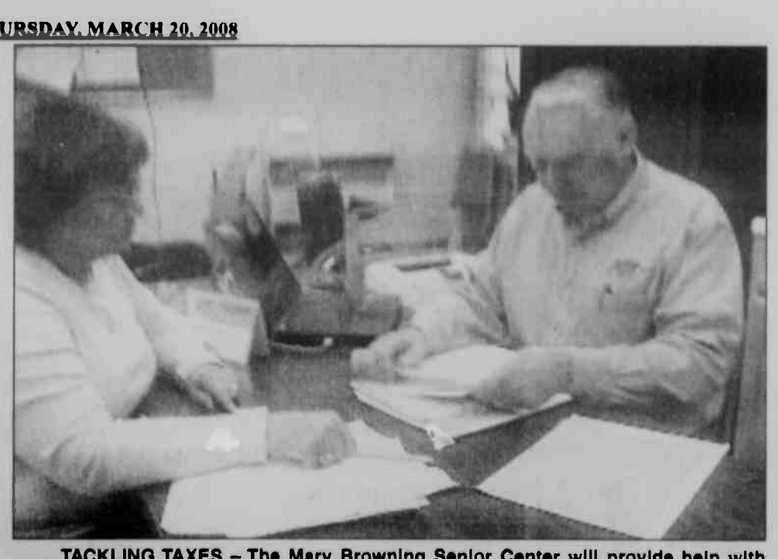
WQED PROGRAM TO FEATURE LEO BEACHY – The photography of the late Leo Beechy will be the subject of a WQED Public Television program on Thursday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. The Grantsville Museum is the current home of a Leo Beechy photography exhibit, and there is another display at the new Garrett College Library. The program will be aired publicly at the college library and the public is invited to attend. See story on page A-10 for details. Shown is one of Beachy's many photographs depicting earlier days of Garrett County and the surrounding areas.

Separate Traffic Stops Result In Several Arrests

A traffic stop was made by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy in the Wal-Mart parking lot that resulted in the arrest of an Oakland man for driving under the influence of alcohol.

The deputy observed a vehicle, driven by Brian Eugene Edwards, traveling northbound on Third Street, Oakland, with no lights illuminated on the rear of the vehicle. Through the course of investigation, it was determined that Edwards was operating the vehicle under the influence.

He was charged with DUI, driving while intoxicated, and failure to equip his vehicle with rear stop lights. Edwards was later released from the scene.



In a separate incident, deputies stopped a 1998 Dodge for a headlight violation on Third Street. As a result of the stop, driver Ashley Nicole Collins, 23, Oakland, was placed under arrest for driving on a suspended out-of-state license.

In an unrelated incident, deputies responded to the parking lot of Arrowhead Market for a reported domestic assault.

Through investigation it was discovered that the assault had taken place in a vehicle, and the suspect, Marshall Shearer, Elkins, W.Va., had fled the area in which the victim was located.

Deputies located Shearer in his vehicle a short time later. Upon completion of the investigation, Shearer was placed under arrest and charged with second degree assault.

He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

TACKLING TAXES – The Mary Browning Senior Center will provide help with filing taxes on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 12 to 4 p.m., Wednesdays from 4 to 7 p.m., and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. until April 15. Clients should bring Social Security cards for all dependents, a valid ID, and last year's tax return. Pictured above is Gerald Gank, district coordinator for the AARP Tax Aide Volunteers assisting Patty Croston with her taxes.

Area Resident Sentenced For Assault Charge

A Cumberland man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court recently for a second-degree assault charge. Michael Christopher Auvil, 26, was sentenced to six months in the Garrett County Jail.

All of that sentence was suspended, and Auvil was placed on supervised probation for two years.

The Maryland State Police arrested Auvil in June 2007, after responding to a call for a possible domestic assault at a McHenry area residence.

In other recent court proceedings, Blair Alan Baker, 43, Grantsville, was sentenced to six months in the Garrett County Jail for possession of marijuana and driving under the influence. All but 60 days of the sentence was suspended. He was also fined $500.

Upon his release from jail, Baker will be on supervised probation for one year.

He was arrested by the Maryland State Police in May 2007, following a traffic stop for an equipment violation along Rt. 40 near Lower New Germany Road.

In an unrelated case, Cathy M. Mitchell, 49, Oakland, received a probation before judgment ruling from Judge James Sherbin on a charge of theft of less than $500.

Mitchell was fined $100, placed on unsupervised probation for one year, and required to pay restitution.

She was charged in March 2007 following a complaint filed by her former employer, who alleged Mitchell tampered with business phone lines to filter personal unauthorized collect calls.

THE GIFT OF FRIENDSHIP

Friendship is a priceless gift that can't be bought or sold,
But its value is far greater than a mountain made of gold-
For gold is cold and lifeless, it can neither see nor hear,
And in the time of trouble
it is powerless to cheer.
It has no ears to listen,
no heart to understand,
It cannot bring you comfort or reach out a helping hand.
So when you ask God for a gift, be thankful if He sends
Not diamonds, pearls or riches,
But the love of real true friends.

In Memory of our Dear Friend,

Several Taken To GCMH Following Vehicle Accidents

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a single vehicle accident on Youghiogheny Blvd., where they found a 1997 Dodge truck located in a ditch along the road.

Elizabeth Neal Shields, 44, Accident, was checked by Southern Rescue Squad at the scene and then transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the squad.

The accident is still under investigation by GCSO The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to a reported two-vehicle accident with injuries on Garrett Highway, just north of Sand Flat Road.

Investigation found that Autumn Thomas, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, was traveling southbound, when her vehicle swerved across the center yellow line and struck an oncoming northbound vehicle, driven by Robert Snyder, 62, Terra Alta, W.Va.

Thomas was charged by sheriff's deputies for failure to drive right of center.

Northern Rescue Squad and Deep Creek Fire Company also responded to the scene.

Penn Alps Buffet To Benefit G'ville Firehouse Fund

Penn Alps Restaurant in Grantsville has announced a special Wednesday night buffet, with 25 percent of the proceeds being donated to the Grantsville Fire Department to help fund their new building. The buffet is planned for Wednesday, April 16, from 4 to 7 p.m.

The restaurant joins Spinning Wheel Antiques and Total Biz Fulfillment, which have donated money to the firehouse fund from their own fundraisers. Other businesses are encouraged to have fundraisers to help the fire department with it $2.6 million project.

Grantsville Firehouse Committee co-chairman Gerry Beachy noted that the committee has found a possible new funding source for the firehouse.

"Residents who depend on the fire department should enter their comments on www.myhome-townhelper.com," he said. "Since there are many worthy groups using this site, we are asking for unique comments that would convince the Hamburger Helper judges that this is the most worthy cause. Visit this site to see comments already made by Grantsville area residents."

Beachy noted that construction of the firehouse is well under way, but the winter conditions have slowed its progress.

The committee has raised nearly $80,000 for the project, with more fund-raisers being planned. Community businesses and individuals are urged to donate to this cause, since the community relies on the fire department for protection against disasters.

Donations can be sent to Grantsville Firehouse Fund, P.O. Box 189, Grantsville, 21536, with "new firehouse fund" designated in the memo section of the check.

Oakland Woman Flees Scene Of Vehicle Accident

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Bradley Lane near the golf course for a reported motor vehicle accident, and found that the driver, Heather Renee Nazelrod, 20, had left the fled the scene of the accident.

Upon arrival, the deputies observed a white passenger vehicle in the northbound ditch that had traveled off the roadway and rolled onto the passenger side. Upon inspection of the vehicle, it was apparent that Nazelrod and her passenger had left the scene prior to the deputies' arrival.

She was located in the Oakland area and charged with failure to remain at the scene of a property damage accident, failure to remain at the scene of a body damage accident, and failure to contact police after an accident.

Nazelrod was given citations and released.

It seems that the bottom lme in the ongomg wmd turbine controversy is that, smce Garrett County does not have countywide zoning, there are few legal recourses with any real teeth that are at the disposal of those who oppose the installation of these giants, either on state property or private property. The Department of Natural Resources is obviously taking its good old time before rendering a decision on whether or not to allow state forestland to be utilized for wmd farms, a proposal that raised the ire of hundreds (probably thousands) of Garrett County residents, property owners, and even regular visitors.

It's inconceivable that the DNR, Governor O'Malley, the Public Service Commission (PSC), and others in authority would sell us out in this manner, but the longer it goes before a decision is rendered, the more nervous those of us who oppose the proposal become.

If, indeed, permission is ultimately granted for a wind facility – on private or public lands – the very least that should be required of the wind developers is that they would be 100% responsible for the removal of turbines if for any reason they are abandoned or become non-functional. There have been a number of instances in this country, and probably in Europe as well, where turbines have gone belly-up, and the developers are under no obligation to bear the great expense of dismantling them and restoring the property. The PSC should demand such a binding stipulation in any permit or agreement with wind developers.

The Garrett County commissioners, who have to date elected not to pursue the "dreaded" zoning path, should most certainly write to the PSC with this unconditional demand, and certainly citizens should do likewise. The Maryland PSC web site can be found at www.psc.state.md.us/psc, and it is clear on the site as to how one can submit opinions, complaints, and suggestions.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In last week's Republican, Jerry Plauger stated his case for private property rights and applauded the Garrett County commissioners for standing up for them. I support Jerry as far as he goes, but he didn't go far enough. He neglected to discuss the fact that when the exercise of "private" property rights adversely impacts on neighbors or the community at large, it is no longer a "private" matter. It then requires the elected officials to step in and mediate a solution that protects the welfare of the community as a whole. Landfills, pig farms, factories, and 450-foot wind turbines are not "private" operations.

We are not quibbling about the right of a person "to make a little money on his ridge top if he chooses to." We have serious concerns that the installation of 450-foot wind turbines along the scenic ridges of Garrett County will disrupt our economy and ecology in an irreversible manner.

We need for our commissioners to take a stand and protect our county from the wind industry.

To the Editor:

I would like to extend my heart-felt thanks to all those who came out and supported me in the Oakland mayoral election. It was an amazing turnout, and goes to show that the people of Oakland are ready for change. I am glad to see for once in a long time we actually had an election and not a coronation.

A proponent of the incumbent recently insulted the voters, calling them "narrow minded," grouping them all together into a "special-interest group." What balderdash! Comments like this constitute a campaign of "smear and fear."

The one compliment paid by the mayor's supporter to the 1'74 voters who supported me is that they were "highly organized." I concur, and also add "responsible and concerned" to the list. The truth is that the extra turnout for this election demonstrates that the town is truly divided on issues.

I did not run to "take over the town." I ran to give the voters a choice. I again thank you for your support.

To the Editor:

As many already know, I hve with my mother, Ida Reckner, caring for her as best I know how, but often enlisting the help of others when necessary. I am an early riser, while she is not, so I try to be very quiet, allowing her to sleep as long as she likes.

One morning a few weeks ago, as we were planning for her 103rd birthday celebration, I heard her talking, and quickly went to her bedside. I could not believe what I was hearing, as she lay very still, eyes closed, and in her sleep, said, "I just want everyone to feel at ease and have a good time, a quiet, warm, and genuinely peaceful time where we would reminisce and talk about things we did; that no one would consider it a final good-bye, but a fun and joyful get-together."

We would all like to thank Pastor Randy Richardson and Bittinger Lutheran Church congregation for allowing us use of the social hall. Also special thanks to all who attended, sent cards, or presented her with cards or gifts; to Bill Brenneman and the group for musical selections, and to all who helped in any way to make Ida's 103rd birthday party such a pleasant celebration. Thanks, and may God bless you all!

To the Editor:

The People's Counsel was asked to protect Garrett County against the fast tracking of the wind turbine project with the PSC. As noted, the application was incomplete (by Clipper/Criterion Wind Power), but the PSC approved it anyway. The People's Counsel has turned down a request to protect us from their momentum.

It sounds like our commissioners are afraid of the governor. They won't even step up and support the mayor of Mtn. Lake Park, where the water, and also Loch Lynn's water, may be affected by the blasting near or over or in the aquifers (no impact studies have been required or done).

Even though a petition is out that we're asking land owners to sign, I am asking any Maryland resident or Maryland visitor to write to the governor to stop the fast tracking of this project. There is now documentation of "Wind-Turbine syndrome" in Meyersdale, Pa., where people living nearby are getting sick.

Our little community of interested and educated people cannot stand up to the big corporation, our state government, and the masses downstate who don't know, aren't impacted, and think it's better elsewhere (such as not off-shore).

Our perspective is described in the Sunday Sun paper's March 16 article (section A2 "Your Right To Know?") describing 44% of people who think the government (including our own in Annapolis) is secretive and not trustworthy, and makes decisions without people's input – exactly what has happened with the PSC and the wind turbine project.

A parallel can be drawn from the Feb '08 Bay Journal Forum, about negative changes in Maryland primarily from sprawl, where lobbyists, developers, and political decisions raise serious questions about treatment of our land and water. Everything that is disappearing is thoughtlessly being dismissed – that is my impression of our own commissioners' handling of our concerns about the wind projects in Appalachia.

Sincerely,
Theresa Hannibal

To the Editor:

This past Sunday the Cumberland Times-News had a story about retired Lt. Col. Larry West, who had recently been informed that his son had been killed in Iraq. His son, Staff Sgt. Laurent J. West, had chosen to follow in his father's footsteps and had made the Army his career. He was 32 years old when he died, and in the 14 years that he had served he had earned numerous medals, among them the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart.

Soon the number of U.S. troop casualties will reach the 4,000 mark. And no matter what candidate is elected in November, no one has the power to turn our enemies into allies. What can we do? We can do what our nation has done since before we fought for our independence. We can turn to God in prayer.

Next Thursday, March 27, at 7 p.m., a prayer service will be held at the Crellin United Brethren in Christ Church to lift up the men and women who serve in our armed forces. There will also be other concerns that are prayed for.

Prayer's power is unlimited because God's power is unlimited. I have been reading a book on prayer, and it says, "Prayer is a spiritual energy and it makes way for and brings into practical realization the promises of God." When we pray, God answers His promises, and one of His promises is "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."

I hope you will take one hour out of next week and join us in prayer. Our military have given so much, this is something that we can do for them.

Prayer moves the hand that moves the world.

Sincerely,
Susan Filsinger

To the Editor:

Woke up this morning to the shining sun and thinking about your editorial last Thursday and putting pieces of poems together. "Spring is the mischief in me," and I can't help thinking about e.e. cummings and how "heaped-up" my heart is. "i thank You God for most this amazing day: for the leaping greenly spirits of trees and a blue true dream of sky; and for everything which is natural which is infinite which is yes...(now the ears of my ears awake and now the eyes of my eyes are opened)."

I agree that there are times when one needs to edit life – to regain perspective. I had pneumonia a couple of weeks ago – it's going to take me quite a while to get back to my old self, but Our Town Theatre will continue to prevail. Our amazing board of directors is so dynamic that I can't imagine anything else. They are already establishing ways to carry on – Nickel and Dimed and Black Comedy will be placed on hold for a while, but other productions will follow through.

The remarkable people of this community have been so solicitous and giving and thoughtful; the gratitude that I need to express to so many is a bit daunting – how on earth can I thank everyone? Just know, all of you, that I count myself as one of the luckiest people I know, because of all of you.

"here is the deepest secret nobody knows (here is the root of the root and the bud of the bud and the sky of the sky of a tree called life; which grows higher than soul can hope or mind can hide) and this is the wonder that's keeping the stars apart. i carry your heart (i carry it in my heart)"

Also want to say that our community has a truly outstanding, state-of-the-art hospital. Best care – anywhere! Bar none! Great nurses, doctors, technicians, and support people...a total feeling of community and purpose. They are savvy; they are generous with their concern and love and energy; they are models of great care-givers. They also have to have degrees in rocket science to be able to put those hospital gowns together!

Enough rambling – y'all are going to think my brain has gone somewhere else for a visit. Yet, why not a little poetry in a letter to the editor?

Peace!

Jane Avery

To the Editor:

When discussing anything of import, there must be agreement on a "definition of terms." That is, we must agree on the specific meanings of the important words we use.

First on the list, when discussing the politics of Garrett County, and especially Oakland, are the words "true," "false," "fact," "opinion," "lie," and "misinformation."

A "fact" is a "fact." Sounds pretty simple, but some folks just don't get it, and they unwisely mix what are opinions with what are facts.

There is no such thing as a "false" fact. A fact is something that is repeatedly, provably true. That's what the word "fact" means. That "gravity exists" is a fact – it is repeatedly provable.

We can also agree that an opinion is not a fact. A fact would be "There is a color called 'blue.'" An opinion would be "The color blue is the prettiest color there is."

If someone makes a statement that is false, he may just be misinformed or he may be trying to misinform; that is, intentionally mislead. If misinformed, the situation is unfortunate. If misinforming (lying), the situation is inexcusable.

We hate to use the "L" word, but at times, there is no other way to say that people are intentionally misleading/misinforming us, that is, knowingly feeding us false information.

There is a special-interest group dedicated to disrupting the smooth and orderly administration of the town of Oakland. Some of the most vocal members don't even live in Oakland. This group has made it clear that its means justify its ends, that intentionally providing misinformation is perfectly OK, as long as such balderdash obtains the results it wants.

Shame on them!

In the process, this group has incorporated the governmental term "Smart Growth" in its name, a term coined in the Governor Glendening administration. But what it proposes is anything but "smart." A better name for its efforts would be CAGC (Citizens Against Garrett County).

The town of Oakland is being admirably administered. We can be proud of most of the members of the town council.

If an organization openly admits that it won't abide by the truth, how can we trust anything it says?

So, if a member of CAGC speaks or writes, to play it safe, run, do not walk, to the nearest exit.

To the Editor:

I am writing to alert the community and seek your involvement in preventing the elimination of funds for the University System of Maryland Hagerstown. The significance of this action to western Maryland cannot be underestimated.

The USMH was established in January 2005, thanks to significant political and financial support from the governor and Maryland General Assembly. Between 2003 and 2005, the state of Maryland invested $16 million to build this fine regional higher education center in Hagerstown and has supported it financially ever since.

In a misguided attempt to help other regional education centers, Del. John L. Bohanan Jr. cut $2 million from the USM budget that is used to support USMH. That cut was then approved by the House Appropriations Committee. It is anticipated – but not guaranteed – that the Maryland Higher Education Commission would then allocate $700,000 back to the center – to cover its entire administrative budget. This barely covers the cost of utilities.

This action would be a disproportionate blow to the western part of the state. Of the six other centers that would benefit from the funds being reallocated away from USMH, none serve any area west of Baltimore.

USMH is truly a collaboration of USM institutions, but the largest programs are still those offered by Frostburg State University. This past fall, 232 graduate and 99 undergraduate students enrolled at USMH as Frostburg State University students. To lose these programs would have an enormous negative impact on their lives, as the vast majority of USMH students live in either Washington or Frederick counties, many living 60 miles or more from a university with a comparable program. It would be extremely difficult for them to continue their education without USMH.

USMH serves its community by educating the region's critically needed future teachers, nurses, social workers, business people, entrepreneurs, and more. It is anticipating strong enrollment growth in the fall from students who entered community colleges in anticipation of continuing at USMH.

If the $2 million isn't restored in conference committee, it would be absolutely catastrophic and threaten the viability of a regional center that has finally begun to grow and meet the needs of the community. We cannot allow this to occur. USMH must be allowed to grow and prosper as part of the economic and workforce development of Washington and Frederick counties.

Approve Credit

applications that were filed for the State Homeowners' Tax Credit from taxpayers in Garret County for 2007 to determine the following:

•How many of those taxpayers that filed an application would have been eligible for the county credit.

•How many would have received the county credit.

•The total dollar amount of the county credit.

"The scenario that was chosen, and the one that will be enacted . . . is the scenario that would allow the greatest number of taxpayers to receive the county credit," Yoder said.

For example, she noted, there were 549 local applicants for the state tax credit program. Of those, 205 applicants would have been eligible for the county credit, and 180 would have actually received the county credit if it had been available.

'There is a difference of 25 taxpayers between these two numbers," Yoder noted. "The reason why these 25 taxpayers would not have received the county credit is because the state credit covered the taxpayers' entire tax bills; therefore, no county credit was needed."

Based on the 2007 numbers, the average county credit would have amounted to about $116 for those 180 taxpayers, according to Yoder.

The new ordinance takes effect on June 30 and will be applicable to all taxable years beginning after that date. The filing deadline for the 2008 State Homeowners' Property Tax Credit is Sept. 8.

"All you have to do is complete the application for the State Homeowners' Tax Credit," Yoder said about applying for the county tax credit. "The State Department of Assessments and Taxation will be administering the county tax credit program for us. They will determine your eligibility from the information that you supply on the state's application. The state will notify you by mail regardless of whether they determine you are eligible for and will receive the county credit or not."

The Garrett County commissioners are encouraging senior citizens to apply for the State Homeowners' Tax Credit. For more information or an application, persons may call the local office of the state Department of Assessments and Taxation office at 301-334-1950.

"Outside the Box" Health, Fitness Workshop Slated

A variety of activities and demonstrations will be presented at a health and fitness workshop, "Outside the Box," slated for Saturday, April 12, at Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center for the Mature Adult in Accident. The event will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is open to people of all ages, but reservations are required because space is limited, according to workshop coordinator Peggy Santamaria.

"We have a very diverse and qualified slate of presenters for this forum," she said. "I am honored to be hosting them at Flowery Vale."

Among the speakers for the event are Cathy Paine and Rosie Cupler.

Paine, an award-winning professional dancer/choreographer, has a master's degree in dance from the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA) and is certified by the Feldenkrais Guild of North America to practice the Feldenkrais Method®.

She has taught in England, Germany, Japan, and Hong Kong, and is on faculty at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County; Kenyon College; Towson University; the American University; UCLA; and the University of Montana.

Over 30 years as a movement educator helps Paine to shape lessons to the needs of her students, she explained. She has taught people with cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, and Lyme's disease to move more comfortably and easily. She has worked with musicians and dancers to improve performance and reduce pain and injury.

Her practice includes people recovering from injury or surgery, office workers, people with balance problems, chronic pain sufferers, athletes, and anyone interested in improving his or her own comfort.

Cupler, a certified herbalist and natural health professional, owns the Herb Barn in Grantsville, where a variety of wellness services are offered in addition to a full line of nutritional supplements.

"Our services include nutritional consultations, muscle response testing, ion foot spa treatments, ear candling, reflexology, massage (including hot stones), and numerous types of energy work," she said.

Cupler also offers a complete line of herbs, vitamins, minerals, and enzymes as well as essential oils, flower essences, homeopathics, and skin care products.

Other topics to be covered at the workshop are Reconnective Healing™, which will be discussed by certified practitioner Else Winter; Food Production Methods and Health will be the topic covered by Paige Dopson; certified massage therapist Shirley Maust will also be available for mini-massage sessions; and Santamaria will lead classes in yoga and Pilates.

There is a $5 charge to attend, and each person is asked to bring a covered-dish for luncheon.

"Unfortunately, our limited spaces are filling up quickly so people are encouraged to reserve a place soon by calling Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center at 301-746-8050 or stopping in to pick up a registration form," Santamaria said.

Price is retiring from Accident Elementary School; and counselor Joanny L. Martin will vacate her position at Northern High School. Cafeteria assistant Ida O'Brien also left Accident Elementary.

Southern Middle School will lose principal John A. Rickman, and teachers Linda M. Booth, Marcette K. Danner, and Shirley F. Spiker. Southern High School staff resigning are Richard D. Clever, William D. Freyman Jr., G. Wade Grove, and Mary Ann Shipe; and resigning case manager Ann U. Frantz. Cafeteria assistant Debbie Sanders resigned from Southern High as well.

The new hires to fill these positions have not yet been filled and/or announced.

"Bus" Bender

demic affairs, said Bender was "totally dedicated" to Garrett College and his role as trustee.

"He had a keen sense about the finances of the college and was able to scrutinize the monthly financial reports in a way that was unique to his expertise," Mitchell said. "Even when he resigned from the board of trustees because of health reasons, those of us on the board who had worked with Bus would say, 'If Bus were here...'"

Sites expressed similar sentiments about his former colleague.

"Bus brought a wealth of experience and knowledge in business, politics, community, and, most importantly, life to the board," Sites said. "Bus loved the college. He had a distinctive personality that was extraordinarily known and respected not only at Garrett College but throughout the Maryland Community College system."

While he played a crucial role on the Garrett College board, Bender led an overall life of giving, the spokesperson said. He served in the U.S. Air Force in World War II and remained active in veterans' organizations for more than 50 years. He served as adjutant, finance officer, and commander of the American Legion Post 214.

On the state level, he served as sergeant-at-arms, first, second, and third vice commander, and commander of the Department of Maryland, American Legion. He was also given an honorary life membership in Post 214.

Bender held the offices of president and secretary-treasurer for the Grantsville Rotary Club, belonged to the Woodmen of the World Lodge 41, and was a member of the Grantsville Town Council. He served as the mayor of Grantsville from 1965 to 1969. In 1973, he was named chairman of the Garrett County Planning Commission and held the position for many years.

Bender was a member of St. John's United Church of Christ, where he held the office of treasurer. He also served as a volunteer fireman with the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department for more than 40 years.

College leaders noted that Mr. Bender's sense of humor and storytelling ability were memorable qualities.

"He was always able to turn something into a great and humorous story," said Mitchell.

Dr. Steve Herman, Garrett College professor and former president, remembered Bender in a similar way.

"I first met Bus when I interviewed for the position of president of Garrett College in 1986," Herman said. "Immediately I knew he was a colorful personality. Later when he became chairman of the board of trustees, we traveled to Annapolis and all over the state with some frequency. I'd drive and Bus would regale me with stories from his life and with his favorite jokes."

To all who knew him, the college spokesperson said, Bender's many years of service will be remembered and appreciated.

"His philosophies of life, better known to us as 'Bus-isms,' will be cherished forever," Sites said. "His wisdom and steadfast integrity serve as models for me, as well as everyone at the college, and I am proud to have known him."

Dr. Mitchell agreed. "Bus will be greatly missed by Garrett College, but he will not be forgotten," she said.

"He was as sincere and generous a person as I have ever met," Dr. Herman said, "and he touched many people's lives, including mine. I will miss him."

Adorable Adoptables

A NICE ARRAY OF ADOPTABLE PETS is available again this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. They include a stray 1- to 2-year-old male collie mix, a 1- to 2-year-old female Lab mix that was left at the shelter after hours, a stray male tabby, and a stray 2- to 4-year-old female chow mix. "All of this week's adoptables are homeless – meaning though they are living at the shelter they don't have the benefit of living in a real home with a family who will play with them and love them," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "Last week's featured black Lab was adopted, as well as the buff-colored female tabby. Even so, dogs continue to come in, most without any ID tags, so dogs still have to be taken out to rescues by HART for Animals Inc. just to keep the dog kennels from overflowing. I can't stress enough: Think of how much time and money it takes to have a pet before you adopt one. And please, spay/neuter to prevent unwanted litters. Last week alone the Humane Society gave away over 150 spay/neuter discount vouchers, yet there are still animals having litter after litter that don't get adopted and are eventually disposed of or brought to the county shelter." For information about adopting these pets or others at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, persons may call 301-334-3553.

TALKING WATCH HELPS VISION IMPAIRED

For people with vision problems, simply looking at their watches can be a daily challenge. A talking watch that allows visually impaired people or those in low light to hear the time instead of struggling to see it can be a huge help. The user simply pushes a button on the side of the watch and a voice clearly announces the current time. With a bright white dial with large black numbers that are easy to see and extra thick hour minute, and second hands, the watch is designed for easy viewing when conditions are right. It's also simple to set. With an extension band to fit just about any wrist size, it's a gift that will be most appreciated.

A talking watch is a great boon to the visually impaired. At TENDER LOVING HOME CARE, INC., we can provide an elderly or infirm person at home with home care skills and services tailored to the needs of the individual. WEEKEND SERVICES

Good Friday, March 21, will be observed by the showing of the "Passion of the Christ" at the Maple Spring Church, from 1 until 3 p.m. This is another of the Union District planned events.

On Saturday evening there will be choices of attending an Easter vigil at 7 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, or a showing of "Left Behind" at Maple Spring, sponsored by the Bible Study group. It will begin with a covered dish meal at 6 p.m., and everyone is invited.

An Easter sunrise service is planned at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora at 6:30 a.m. Pastor John Foy will be bringing the message, the Sunrise Choir will present its special music, and everyone who wishes may stay to partake of breakfast following the services.

UNION SENIORS

Thirty Seven Union District senior citizens gathered for the March 13 covered dish luncheon and meeting. Opening devotions were by David Teets who read, "You can't take your money with you, but you can send it on ahead." He read two other poems, and closed with prayer.

Guests present were those seeking Preston County offices: Teri Funk, Lew Ault, and John "Skip" Ellis. Ms. Funk was asked to make a return trip in April to speak about tax changes initiated by this year's WV Legislature.

Nurse Galina gave out information about Senior Conferences, IRS fact sheet, Fire Sense, Food and Fitness, Digital TV Transition, and facts about the Homestead Exemption.

A shopping trip to Uniontown is planned for March 26. The March 20 Preston County Easter party is being hosted by Tunnelton Seniors. The bus is also available for that trip.

A decision will be made at the April meeting on which day of the month the Aurora Seniors will be traveling to Terra Alta for lunch. The group has asked president Janice Tackett to arrange for a "55 Alive" class to be provided at Aurora.

Persons interested in participating in the 100 miles in 100 days walking program may sign up or get more information from Deanna Arnold.

Eldean Harsh Poling read a "meaningful experience" of John McCain's, and Janice Tackett closed the meeting with a West Virginia reading, "Being Froze to the Ground."

MOUNTAINEER 4-H

"A Time to Laugh" was the theme for opening devotions of the March 10 meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club. Leader Linda Lewis made the devotional presentation.

Prior to Feb. 1, members submitted posters and photos for the county contest. Nathan Cussins' 4-H Promotional poster, Chad Vandevender's Health and Nutrition poster, and Jesse Schalker's Dairy poster all received blue ribbons and will be taken for state competition. Danielle Blamble's Dairy poster and Jonathan Blamble's Safety poster were both awarded red ribbons. Sydnee Vandevender received a blue ribbon for her Litter and Recycling poster, Trevor Spaid a red for his Litter and Recycling, and Wesley Spaid a blue on his poster on Safety. Fifteen photos were submitted from the club, resulting in three photos taken by Nathan Cussins, one taken by Wesley Spaid, and one submitted by Trevor Spaid, receiving blue ribbons and entered into state competition.

Jackie Blamble, Health Officer, presented this year's theme and materials about physical activities. Each member was given a journal to record the hours of physical activity he or she does each day.

It was decided to pick up trash along Eglon Road on April 12 beginning at 10 a.m. On April 14 the regular meeting will be held at the Farmers' Wildlife Park, Horse Shoe Run. The starting time for this is 6:30 p.m. in order to clean the grounds prior to having the business meeting.

Leader Linda Lewis presented information concerning County 4-H Day on April 26, and state camps Alpha I and II. She handed out back-ordered pig record books.

Project talks and demonstrations were completed. Jonathan Blamble demonstrated how to set a box (or cage) trap. Nathan Cussins talked about trees and leaf types for identification purposes. Trevor Spaid told of the history of the Pie Train hogs and showed how to erect a pup tent. Wesley Spaid demonstrated the different tools used in the raising of pigs. Chad Vandevender demonstrated how to use the equipment needed in showing cattle. Sydnee Vandevender showed us how she is making her 3-dimensional clover for her "This Is 4-H" exhibit.

The meeting concluded with Valentine search-a-word, and a word scramble led by the recreation committee.

SLED DOG ARTWORK ON DISPLAY – Several mixed-media watercolor and photographic portraits of Husky Power Dogsledding canines, created by local artist and business owner Linda Lee Herdering, are currently on display at the finish line of the 2008 Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race in Nome, Alaska. The portraits are similar to the works shown during Herdering's solo exhibit at the Gallery last November, which are pictured above. See story.

THE MOUNTAIN ANTHEMS MIXED CHORUS will present a concert at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland on Sunday, March 30, at 6:30 p.m. All are invited and there will be no admission charge; however, a free-will offering will be collected. The chorus, which is under the direction of Menno Beachy, consists of singers from the Allegheny Mountains of western Maryland and Pennsylvania. They are members of the Mountain View Mennonite Church of Salisbury, Pa., and have been ministering in song for about 45 years. Participants serve on a strictly volunteer basis.

Local Artist Shows Sled Dog Portraits In Nome, Alaska

Portraits of Husky Power Dogsledding's canines, created by local artist and business owner Linda Lee Herdering, are presently being displayed and sold at the finish line of the 2008 Iditarod, a 1,150-mile dogsledding race that ends in Nome, Alaska.

Herdering was asked by race officials and coordinators to join the international exhibit and sale of "sled dog art" by sending her matted and signed artwork. Her artwork will be displayed for the next several weeks as racers reach the finish hne of the grueling dogsled race.

"It is an incredible privilege and delight to be included in such a prestigious event," Herdering said.

Herdering shipped 25 large mixed-media photographic and watercolor portraits along with over 70 greeting card-size portraits of her sled dogs to Nome. Also included were DVDs of Husky Power Dogsledding tours in the Deep Creek Lake area, and local visitor-oriented publications.

"Our beautiful western Maryland area and its amazing array of sports and activities will receive much exposure in Nome," said Herdering. "Who knows, maybe someone will organize a dogsled race right here. In fact, we've helped three other dogsledding tour operators start their businesses in the mid-Atlantic region, including a nearby Pennsylvania resort that has just completed showcasing their second annual dogsled race."

Similar large mixed-media portraits of Herdering's were shown during her solo exhibit "Husky Power Unleashed" at the Gallery in Oakland last November. She will have another solo show of sled dog artwork in July at Arts at Canal Place in Cumberland. Her portraits have also been chosen to hang in the Saville Gallery in Cumberland, along with several other private shops.

Herdering's studio, located at the home kennels of Husky Power Dogsledding near Accident, will be participating in both Garrett and Allegany counties' "Artists' Studio Tours" open-house weekends during the summer and fall.

For more information about Herdering's portraits, persons may e-mail her at Linda@HuskyPowerDogsledding.com or visit the web site at www.HuskyPowerDogsledding.com, or call 301-746-7200.

GLAF To Kick Off Season With Internat'l Ballet Theater Production

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will kick off its 2008 season of performing arts with its April performance by the International Ballet Theater (IBT).

The international dancers will take the stage Friday, April 4, 7:30 p.m., at the Garrett College auditorium. Tickets are $17 for adults, $7 for students, and free for youth 5 years and younger (but tickets are required).

The IBT is a professional ballet company under the leadership of artistic director Alexander Boitsov. The company is deeply rooted in the Russian ballet tradition, adhering to the Vaganova method of training used by Nureyev and Baryshnikov, a spokesperson said.

"Dedicated to the preservation of ballet as an art form, IBT strives to keep the spirit of Russian Ballet alive by performing classical repertoire with the original choreography from famous ballets, such as Nutcracker, Sleeping Beauty, Giselle, and many others," the spokesperson said.

WQED Airing Leo Beachy Photography Segment; Public Viewing At GC Library

A story about Grantsville photographer Leo Beachy will be telecast on WQED public television, channel 13, on Thursday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. A pubic viewing of the program will take place at the new Garrett College Library.

The Grantsville Community Museum is currently the home of a Leo Beachy exhibit containing black and white photographs. His niece and Grantsville Museum board member Maxine Beachy Broadwater has saved many of Leo's glass negatives from destruction.

WQED's description of the broadcast on its website reads, "In the early 1900s, photographer Leo Beachy took captivating images of life in western Maryland, western Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, but most of his glass plate negatives were destroyed in 1927. In recent years, Beachy's niece, Maxine Broadwater, recovered 2,700 negatives and is working to bring her uncle's remarkable legacy back to life."

Broadwater was interviewed by WQED as part of the documentary, and she will be present at the public airing of the show at Garrett College. There will be a public display of the Beachy photographs and artifacts at the library, on loan from Broadwater and the Grantsville Public Library. Refreshments will be served, and all members of the public are invited to attend.

Dana Shimrock, the library director at Garrett, noted that any Garrett County resident has borrowing privileges at the new library. The public is encouraged, she said, to come in and use the facility for checking out materials, reading, conducting research, or using the computers. For more information, persons may call the Garrett College Learning Resource Center at 301-387-3009.

The Grantsville museum is a branch of the Garrett County Historical Society museum in Oakland and is open from May to October each year. Curator Earleena Tressler and assistant curator Bob Leece reported that they will open the museum on May 16. They noted new additions to the museum, including the stained glass window that was installed recently above the entrance door.

Private showings of the museum can be arranged by calling Tressler at 301-895-5314 or Broadwater at 301-895-5124.

Tax deductible donations can be sent to Grantsville Community Museum, P.O. Box 413, Grantsville, 21536.

Dear Uncle Buckie, I started thinking about you last night. I sung a song, but I cried even worst. I love and miss you so much, here's a song.

Uncle Buckie I miss you like crazy.
If you come back I'll be your little angel but when I hug you I might never let you go.
I miss you so much, Grandma does too.
We cry when we think about you.
Never let go of someone you love dearly.

34 of her clients are still operating businesses in the county. Most are in McHenry and Oakland. She noted that the businesses range from home-based operations to construction to major restaurants.

The consultant added that 11 established businesses have called her for advice on cash flow. Once she helps businesses straighten out their accounts, Williams has them draft a business plan.

One week last summer, she said, three different companies called her on a Monday or Tuesday saying they could not meet payroll on Friday. They asked Williams to help them quickly write business plans so they could go to the bank and get a line of credit.

"My answer was, 'No, it's too late,'" Williams said.

She added that she tries to do what she can to not leave a company "hanging."

"It's a tough-love-mother job, is what I call it," Williams said. "There are times when people need nurturing. They need the kind words. They need the encouragement. But they also need the harsh words, the hard realities of what it's like to run a business."

Williams is also an adjunct professor with Garrett College.

"We've developed a number of classes at a very affordable price for entrepreneurs to take," Williams said.

She describes one class as a "three-hour" reality check for people who think they want to start a business. If they complete the class and still want to go into business, the college has a six-week course called "Six Steps to a Successful Business."

"I sincerely believe they have a much better success rate when they have done this kind of program," Williams said about new business owners.

Entrepreneurs, she said, often feel they can do everything by themselves and do not seek out resources that are available to help them. She said that entrepreneurial spirit is good.

"[But] you really need someone to 'walk the path' with you,'" the consultant said.

With that in mind, Williams, on her own time, is starting a business-to-business peer mentoring program. Retired entrepreneurs will be partnered with new startups, who will then have a friend to guide them and lean on during their successes and failures.

Williams also wants to start a debt counseling service to help people manage their money. She said too many of her clients do not know their credit ratmg, and even if they do know it, it is not great.

Williams stressed that all client consultations are confidential. For more information about her services, persons may call Economic Development at 301-334-1921.

A free "How to Start a Small Business" seminar will be held May 29 from 6 until 9 p.m. at Garrett College. Each participant will receive a copy of "Starting Garrett County" resource and Operating a Business in guide.

Husky Baseball Team Loses Nine Players; Hopes To Defend Title

Looking to defend its second straight league title, the Northern High School varsity baseball team will need to band together all its best players to make up for the significant loss it experienced with the graduation of nine key seniors. The Huskies are coming off their best season in school history, with a 22-2 record and their first appearance in the state championship, and hope to take it as far as the West Regional and Area Championship contests.

Head coach Phil Carr, who is entering his 19th season at his alma mater, will return only six players from his 15-man roster of a year ago. Nine seniors were lost to graduation – players who were key to the success of the Huskies.

Lost were WMIL Player of the Year and All-Area Player of the Year Corey Carr (now playing at Garrett College), who helped lead the Huskies strong pitching staff and was the team's leading hitter. Others lost were Tyler Southerly, Scott Bass, Dom DiRienzo, Neil Kamp, Brock Glotfelty, Bryce Manges, Randy Wilhelm, and Nick Ferrell.

"Championships are hard to defend, and we know that," Carr noted. "We have talked about that and know we have to work extra hard because everyone will be out to beat us."

The Huskies will once again depend on the strength of their pitching staff, led by All-Area and WMIL first team pitcher senior left-hander Matt Sisler, who led the team with an 11-1 record on 104 strike-outs in 69.2 innings pitched.

Also returning to the mound will be junior Kyle Gillum, who, with a 4-0 record last season had an average of .91 earned runs.

Others seeing action on the mound will be junior transfer Trey Beasom, junior Brandon Beachy, senior Patrick Brady, senior Ryan Finzel, and junior Dan Warnick.

"I think our pitching will be strong, and hopefully we will be solid defensively," said Carr. "Offensively, we will need some guys to pick it up a little. We hope we can manufacture runs like we always do with bunting and speed."

Returning position players are Sisler in leftfield, Brady in right field, senior Jeff Smith at second base, and junior Dan Warnick in centerfield. Warnick saw some varsity playing action last year when he was called up from the junior varsity team during the playoffs.

Completing the starting line-up will be senior Ben Diehl as catcher, senior Justin Rosenberger at first base, Beasom at shortstop, and Gillum and Beachy at third base. Gillum will also be at short stop, depending on the pitching rotation.

Finzel and junior Thomas Holtschneider will see action at second and first bases while juniors Jared Rodeheaver, Tim Miller, and leftie Zach Lipscomb will be spending time in the outfield. Junior Matt Watson will be sharing some of the catching responsibilities.

The weather has given the Huskies an opportunity to get in a recent scrimmage at Boonsboro, as well as some outdoor practice time.

Carr hopes the squad can get off to a good start in the Huskies' season opener in the Easter Tourney at Hancock this Saturday.

"We'll be up against a good Smithsburg team that returns a lot of players from last year's team that we defeated in the Regional Championship," he said. "We don't have a lot of varsity experience, so we just have to do our best, limit the mistakes, and get better as we go along."

Northern will have to keep the other teams at a safe distance to defend its title.

"I feel the new league (Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference) will be up for grabs as everyone seems to be pretty even."

Carr thinks county rival Southern and Mountain Ridge pose the most threat this season, but despite the lack of varsity players, he has a few veterans to call upon.

"There are some good battles going on at different positions, which is going to give us good depth and hopefully a good bench to call on when needed."

Assistant coaches for the Huskies are Jamie Workman, Ed Carr, Jeff Carr, Jim Warnock and Kris Carr.

Northern's game at Hancock commences at 11 a.m. on Saturday.
